Chamber of commerce hires new office manager

Vi Dinwiddie

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce has hired Vi Dinwiddie as the new office manager.

Dinwiddie is a "veteran" in the hospitality business, having worked at The Lodge for Julius W. Gilbert from 1962, until Jack Uhrick became the owner. She was employed at The Lodge until 1984 when she worked at other various hospitality properties in the area, along with the late Harold Krutsch.

"I'm right at home when I'm trying to sell a hotel room or our beautiful area to anyone. I've met some very nice people and have become personal friends to many of them. I'm happy they have thought of me as a friend and I was always happy to 'go that extra mile' for anyone coming to our area in order to make them want to return with friends and family," Dinwiddie said.

She has two sons, five grandchildren and three great grandchildren, but most of them live in different states, so she spends a great deal of time with her friends and hobbies.

Wiebe recalls life at station after attacks

Carolyn Wiebe

Carolyn Wiebe started the day just like any other day before heading to United States Coast Guard Station Charlevoix where she volunteers.

She was performing household chores when her husband called and told her to turn on the television. He informed her that something significant was happening because two planes had crashed into the World Trade Center, in New York City, N.Y. and at least one was thought to have crashed into the Pentagon, in Washington D.C.

She turned on the TV and was horrified to see the smoke coming from the World Trade Center.

Her thoughts immediately went to the conversation she had with the Executive Petty Officer after she had successfully became the first United States Coast Guard Auxiliary female qualified as a Watchstander at Station Charlevoix.

He had told her that now that she was qualified, she would be placed on a recall list along with the other station personnel in the event they would need her. She decided to go to the station without waiting for the call.

With her children grown and out of the house, she was fulfilling her dream to repay service personnel for their dedication to their country. Throughout her life she had enthusiastically listened to veterans of World War II and current service personnel tell their stories of life and work in the armed forces.

The Coast Guard gave her the opportunity as a volunteer to be associated with the service personnel that she admired and the country she owed so much.

She arrived at Station Charlevoix a little after 11 a.m. and went directly to the Communications Room for which she was qualified. Even with all the training and practice watches she had gone through, she felt the difference. There was a distinct pressure, mostly self pressure, to do things exactly correct.

Even beyond her natural perfectionism, she recognized that mistakes under these circumstances were to be avoided. All information had to be received, reported to the proper individual, acted upon or transmitted as directed, without error. The seemingly never ending drills she had participated in during her qualification training came to her aid as she settled into the watchstander duties.

She had never dreamed that the United States would be attacked or that she would be part of the response to the attack.

For the next 12 hours she, as a volunteer, would participate in activation of military personnel for war. The recall list was brought out and phone calls made to recall all personnel.

The atmosphere was somber. Where in the past were smiles, jokes and a respectful, but relaxed atmosphere, there were young men and women very serious about what they had to do.

She thought of them as her "kids." After all, most of them were younger than her own kids. Their faces were somber as if all the spark in their eyes was no longer there.

Parents of the crew were calling the station to speak to their sons and daughters. Most of the time she could only take messages for them because they were busy and could not be distracted. She could not help but think of her own feelings if she couldn't talk to her children at a time like this.

She watched her "kids" strap on gun belts and batons. The Coast Guard cutter ACACIA moved from her moorings near the downtown area and moored up next to the station to improve the security of both.

She saw what the crew's parents could not see.

Parents would have been proud of their sons and daughters that day. All things asked of them were done and done well. They put their personal feelings and horror aside

Sheriff's Office looking for information on hit-and-run

An infant was injured in a hit-and-run accident around 2 p.m., Aug. 31 on the Boyne City/East Jordan Road, near Demaio Road, in Wilson Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Eric Scott Lawrason of Petoskey was driving his 1998 Pontiac west on the Boyne City/East Jordan Road when a vehicle traveling east sideswiped his car, causing damage to the driver's side of his car and an injury to the nose of his infant son.

The other vehicle fled the scene.

The second vehicle is believed to be a small-size pickup truck or a Jeep Wrangler style vehicle. This vehicle should have damage to its driver's side and a spare tire on the driver's side.

Anyone with information about this crash is asked to contact Deputy George Lasater or Deputy Wade of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

Writer asks if you are 'Heavenly minded'

By PASTOR DAN GILMORE
Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene

Beacons of Blessing

No doubt you have heard this statement, "He is too heavenly minded to be of any earthly good." This condition, of course, is an impossibility.

In reality, it is only the heavenly minded that are of any earthly good. But we are living in a materialistic age where so many, even in the church, seem to be too earthly minded to be of any heavenly good.

Hebrews 11 records a short list of the heroes of faith, ones who have passed on to succeeding generations the hope of everlasting life. Notable on that list is the patriarch Abraham. The Bible discloses of him, by faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise: "For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." (Hebrews 11:9-10)

This is a stunning report. Abraham never built a permanent dwelling in the promised land. Why? Because he was looking for a heavenly country and he would not allow any pleasure of earth to displace his hope in eternal realities. This was not a blind wish grasped by some desperate, unstable soul. It was a hope grounded in the sure and everlasting word of God; a hope, I might add, that seems particularly wanting in this pleasure seeking age.

A troubling situation confronts us today, there is a lack of desire to enjoy heaven and a lack of concern about avoiding hell. People are consumed with the here-and-now and are indifferent about the hereafter. This does mankind no earthly good and, eminently more important, no heavenly good.

Jesus told us long ago that He is the "Stone" of salvation, And whosoever shall fall on this stone shall be broken: "But on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder." (Matthew 21:44) There are only two alternatives for man's eternal destiny, heaven or hell. This single truth warrants our continual, wholehearted attention. Yet in this day of ease it earns but a passing thought. God help us! God have mercy!

Jesus Christ is the stone which was set at naught of you builders, which has become the head of the corner. Neither is there salvation in any other: "For there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4:11-12) Jesus said, "Enter ye in at the strait gate: For wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matthew 7:13-14)

Do you know that you are on the "narrow way" to heaven? If you are unsure, realize that this one issue is more important than anything else you or your loved ones will ever face. Jesus is the only Savior, trusting in Him is the only hope of salvation, repentance from sins and faith in His sacrifice for sins is the only way to enter into His glorious salvation. If you have not turned from sin and trusted in Christ Jesus, do not put it off any longer! Today is the day of salvation. The Bible plainly warns, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation..." (Hebrews 2:3)

Be assured that heavenly mindedness is the best gift you can give your loved one, friends, and all men. Living this life trusting in and honoring Christ is the surest way to find true joy now, and have eternal joy in the world to come. It is the surest way to be of the greatest earthly good.

Beacons of Blessings is submitted by area religious organizations.

and carried out their duties in a professional way. It brought a new meaning to the Coast Guard motto, "Semper Paratus — Always Ready." She saw the motto in action.

As night fell, Wiebe piped, "First call to colors," and the crew performed the previously almost routine ceremony as they brought "Old Glory" down and saluted it. She watched as the flag was folded that night, there was a sense of pride in the way they folded and held onto it. That night, the ceremony was no longer routine.

The flag took on a new and special meaning to many of the crew.

Being allowed to participate, as a volunteer in the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary at Station Charlevoix has allowed Wiebe to meet this challenge.

Following Sept. 11, 2001, Wiebe has become Coast Guard crew qualified for Station Charlevoix, including the 41-foot boat. To accomplish this, she had to meet Coast Guard physical fitness standards for her age group and successfully meet personnel qualification standards beyond those required for Coast Guard auxiliary crew members.

Her determination and admiration for the Coast Guard has propelled her beyond what she and others had thought possible. As Commander of Coast Guard Flotilla 16-02, she has set an example and standard for others to follow.

Wiebe encourages others to consider the United States Coast Guard as a vehicle to help the country.

City to get bids on Christmas light project

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The city of Charlevoix faced another manpower question since the closing of the state correctional facility Camp Pellston — Christmas decorating.

For the past five years Charlevoix's lighting has been done by Pellston prison crews, but the facility was shut down last winter, leaving city officials looking for an alternative way of getting the town decorated for Christmas.

At its meeting Sept. 3, Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously to bid the project out.

"We're doing this for the community," Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said.

Wiesner said he didn't know how much more it would cost to have a private group deck the central business district with lights and other festive trimmings, but the cost would be higher than using the prison crew's services.

Locally, the Charlevoix County Road Commission and the city of Charlevoix used prisoners from Camp Pellston to perform multiple tasks in and around Charlevoix. The prison laborers once cost the county and city only $5 a worker per day, $2.50 to the prisoner and $2.50 to the state for transportation.

Charlevoix water and wastewater treatment plant superintendent Sam Creswell also coordinates the local public works program. He said the prisoners were usually in Charlevoix five days a week and did a lot of projects around the city including: hanging Christmas lights, laying brick, working around the municipal golf course and the airport, trimming brush and trees and painting buildings.

But the low-cost outfit is no longer available and at the meeting, council agreed to pay up to $12,581.37 for the Christmas decorations. The amount the city dedicated was based on an estimate of the project's cost, calculated by Ed Whitley, superintendent of the city's electric department.

The city's electric department was historically in charge of hanging the lights, but according to Whitley, about five years ago their heavy workload made it a hard project to tackle.

"I don't see how we would have time to get these lights installed before the Dec. 1 date," Whitley stated in a memo he wrote to Wiesner.

Whitley estimated the electric department's cost of doing the project, including both equipment and labor, to be $9,081.37, plus $3,500 to purchase new lights.

In spite of the possibility of the city's cost going up for the Christmas decorations Wiesner said he feels this is an opportunity to advertise the benefits of public power and celebrate the season.

Two local organizations, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, echoed his support of the utility of continuing the local decorating tradition.

Mary Adams, chairperson of the beautification committee for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, said, "I think it's important for the people who actually live in Charlevoix to have the trees lit. It's for the local people who live and work in Charlevoix and shop downtown Charlevoix to enjoy the holiday season and make it festive."

Adams added that Keep Charlevoix Beautiful may request a contribution be made by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority to pay for faux wreaths and bows to be placed on every other light post in the central business district and for the purchase of additional lights for the right-of-way trees. This request would come in after the bids are returned.

The city will take over the job of decorating the community Christmas tree. (File photo)

Area returning to normal one year after attacks, but ready

SECURITY

Petrosky said he was especially proud that even as the information was coming in, Big Rock employees were focused on the task at hand.

The plant immediately elevated to a heightened state of security, where it still is today and probably won't ever change, Petrosky said.

Improvements and enhancements accompanied that heightened state of security.

"On Sept. 11, a number of temporary security precautions were immediately enacted and, since then, they have become permanent enhancements," Petrosky said.

He explained that following the attacks, Big Rock Point and the rest of the nuclear industry reviewed their safety procedures and plans extensively and evaluated many things that can't be disclosed publicly.

Among the enhancements Petrosky said he is permitted to share include a dramatic increase of the facility's security force, increased security patrols and extension of the plant's physical barriers that widened its security zone.

"Before Sept. 11, nuclear power plants were among the most secure industrial sites in the world. Now they're considered hardened sites, with well established safety and emergency plans and procedures in place," Petrosky said.

Another enhancement he shared was Big Rock's increased and continued communication with local, state and federal law enforcement agencies, a relationship Petrosky said will be used on the anniversary of the attacks.

"We will maintain extremely close contact with local, state, and federal law enforcement that day," he said.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said his police force will be keeping a close eye on Big Rock this Sept. 11.

City of Charlevoix Municipal Airport manager Karyn Brooks said this Sept. 11 it will be business as usual. But, just one year ago, during the afternoon of Sept. 11, 2001, planes at the airport were grounded and not permitted to fly through Sept. 12, 2001.

Even after Sept. 12, 2001 planes were restricted because of the airport's proximity to Big Rock. Private planes were prohibited from flying out for five days and Island Airways was instructed not to fly its planes within a five mile radius of the power plant.

While Charlevoix residents' concerns turned to the airport and Big Rock, many felt safer because of the presence of the United States Coast Guard Station Charlevoix.

John McLean, chief officer in charge of the station, said that day the station went to armed watch. The usual watch of one person was increased to two people, both wearing weapons. The station was locked down, the entrance to the site was barricaded and vehicles were prohibited from parking within 50 yards of the building.

The Coast Guard buoy tender the ACACIA was moved from its home dock bordering Bridge Park to the station where it sat for four months.

Since then, a security gate has been added at the site which can be closed and locked, but McLean said no direct orders for security at the site on the anniversary of the attacks have been handed down. But, he added the men and women at the station are ready if orders are given.

"For us it's more a day to remember what happened," he said.

While the Coast Guard stands ready for duty, in the city of Charlevoix trained officers are also ready.

Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson said he won't have extra manpower on for the anniversary of the attacks, as he doesn't feel Charlevoix is on "a critical list." But, he added that those on duty are aware of potential issues that may arise and are prepared to address any problems.

He said after the attacks the flow of information from the government to local law enforcement personnel has been heavy and there were changes at the state level that prompted procedural changes across the board.

"We've kept up with those recommendations on a wide variety of topics. We're ready to respond," he said.

Piece of World Trade Center on the island

found 40 feet in the ground and had been bent into the shape of a "J," Hoffman said.

The senator was given the two pieces of the World Trade Center by New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, only on the condition that memorials be built with them.

"They weren't releasing too many pieces," Hoffman said.

Island resident and owner of McDonough's Market, Bill McDonough, said the piece's current home is only temporary and a permanent memorial will be constructed in the future. The piece was also part of a memorial service this morning, Sept. 11, at the Beaver Island Catholic Church.

McDonough said reactions by residents of the island to the piece has been "interesting." He said some people weep when they find out where the section of steel beam came from and others think it should not be on the island.

"Some people think it is like having a piece of a wrecked car," he said.

But, Hoffman argues the piece, and the overall memorial that will be built with it, is important to the Beaver Island community and the country.

"You have to have memorials like this to remind people," he said.

Sheriff investigating boating accident Aug. 31

A 7-year-old boy was injured in a boating accident around 2:30 p.m., Aug. 31 on Lake Charlevoix, near Whiting Park in Eveline Township.

Tyler Dean was riding in the bow area of a powerboat when it struck another vessel's wake causing him to be thrown a short distance, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office. This caused Dean to strike his knee on a solid part of the vessel, inflicting a laceration that required medical attention.

Dean was transported by family members to Northern Michigan Hospital and treated for his injuries. The accident was investigated by Marine Deputy Steve Speigl and remains under investigation.

Cedar Ridge landfill enters its final days

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

After four decades in business, Waste Management's Cedar Ridge Landfill located off Saunders Road in Eveline Township is in the waning days of closure.

According to John Ozoga III, lead-worker environmental engineer with the waste management division of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, the site stopped accepting garbage about five months ago, but was still taking foundry sand from the East Jordan Iron Works until a few weeks ago.

The sand is being used as part of the plastic and clay cap that, once in place, will initiate final closure proceedings.

Grass will cover the cap and this grass must be seeded before the MDEQ will give its final certification. Ozoga said capping should be complete in about 40 days and MDEQ final approval is expected to come by Christmas.

He said the smooth capping and closing process was likely the outcome of a beautiful construction season.

"With the exception of a wet June the construction season has been great which is critical with the short construction season in northern Michigan. Zip it up with no problems and it will be a nice closure," he said.

Post closure duties that will be required of Waste Management will include site maintenance which will entail monitoring of fluid inside the fill to ensure it is properly pumped, monitoring odor issues, quarterly sampling of monitoring wells and erosion control.

Ozoga said that since the site opened in the 1960s, it has had no impact on groundwater.

"Geologically it's a superior place to have a landfill," he said.

In spite of its suitability to the area, Eveline Township residents and administrators are happy to see the end of its operation is near.

Township supervisor Dan Skrzeczkoski said he has received many calls about the landfill and odors during his 14 years on the township board and is looking forward to completion of the closure.

"Sometimes it just smells. One time I stepped out of my house and had tears in my eyes, I couldn't even breath it was so bad. I think residents in the area will be happy, it's been hard to enjoy outside living when it smells that bad," he said.

He said complaints have already lessened as people know capping and closing proceedings are taking place.

Ozoga said once the landfill is capped he feels the odor problem will be taken care of.

Skrzeczkoski said he hopes Ozoga is right.

"Hopefully when it's capped, it will take care of it. If not we'll go back and revisit it again," he said.

As of Sept. 1, Ozoga said the bulk of Charlevoix's garbage was being sent to Elk Run Landfill in Presque Isle, which is owned by Republic Services. Waste Management carriers are disposing of Charlevoix's refuse at its landfill in Waters, a town located in Crawford County.

Two injured in East Park over summer

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

City officials have requested East Park renovation designs that include a more manageable area for pedestrians to navigate after numerous people have been injured while walking the park's steep slopes.

This summer, two people suffered broken legs and Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson said the broken limbs were average accidents for the park.

"The current terrain in East Park has lead to a fair amount of injuries," he said.

Several of those injuries, including the two broken legs that occurred this summer, happened at the steep slope near the bandshell, which borders the intersection of Mason and Bridge streets.

Halverson said the park's hills are especially dangerous in the morning when the grass is dewy and slick.

"Parts of the park currently are not very user friendly, especially as it relates to the handicapped or elderly," he said.

When East Park renovation planning started, Halverson asked that access to the park for the handicapped and senior citizens be taken into account. Included in his request for access was the use of proper materials on walkways and bandshell viewing accommodations.

Peter Pollack, principal designer with the firm Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arbor, the park planners hired by the city, said these concerns have been included in the design of East Park.

Pollack said the safe access concern influenced the amphitheater design of the proposed performance venue. In the most recent park design, the amphitheater, which would replace the current bandshell, was slid down by Antrim Street, where the chamber of commerce and marina building currently are.

Pollack said the terraced amphitheater seating was depicted in an effort to allow concert goers a place to sit level with the sidewalk on the upper deck form, where they could both listen to and see performances.

He said the aim was to ensure handicapped access and to make sure the topography is easily negotiable by all pedestrians.

In the steepest portion of the park, by the intersection of Mason and Bridge streets, the plan shows "more gentle topography."

"We can't eliminate it, but our goal is to manage it," Pollack said.

To manage this steep part of the park, where the bandshell is currently located, and to ensure access is available to all, Pollack's firm suggests stairs be installed in the hill and a barrier free access at Clinton Street.

In "managing" the steep slopes, Pollack said the firm is also faced with the task of maintaining the character of the park's incomparable terraces.

"We will maintain the character of the terraces in such a way as to make them less difficult to negotiate than the land pitches that currently exist," he said.

So in planning the park, the city and park planners are working to manage terraces without losing the park's character while still offering a pedestrian friendly area for users.

East Park's steep slopes, like this, resulted in two broken legs this summer. A new design will temper the slopes. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Ferguson celebrates 25 years of business

This is the first story in a series called "Locals." Monthly articles for the series will cover long-time Charlevoix residents who live and work in the community.

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Locals

For many who spent August in Charlevoix, it was just another month in paradise, but for local resident John Ferguson, August marked a milestone.

Ferguson, 54, a well-known local surveyor with his company, Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates, Inc. celebrated 25 years in business last month.

In spite of his current reputation as a quality surveyor, he hasn't always been well-known. He got his feet wet in the business in 1967 when Mary Feindt, an established local surveyor and owner of Charlevoix Abstract, took him under her wing.

"Mary Feindt really gave me my start. I think the world of her," he said.

1967 was a big year for Ferguson, he found his career of choice, married his wife, Glenda, and the couple welcomed their first child, Sean, to the family.

After a 10 year mentorship with Feindt, Ferguson found it was time to branch off and open a surveying business of his own. In August of 1977 he opened J.E. Ferguson & Associates Inc., just after receiving his surveyor's license.

"I wanted to become the best surveyor I could. But I also did it (started a business) because I had to. I was fortunate and got a lot of great clients right off the bat," he said.

The business was based out of the basement in his Hayes Township residence and thrived on a few clients who knew him and trusted his work. At that time he worked with one other part-time employee.

The family which had added a daughter, Shelly, later moved to a house on Mercer Boulevard and Ferguson's office, along with his established clientele and work ethic, relocated to downtown Charlevoix. He said today the company still serves many of its original clients.

Ferguson said while his location changed on a few occasions over the past 25 years, his approach to business hasn't.

"We're really client oriented, you never get an answering machine. When you call here you'll talk to Sherm (Chamberlain) or I or someone. We provide good, fast, professional service here and I think that's what has got us where we are at," he said.

While the company's work ethic has stayed close to those values established in his Hayes Township basement, other changes have been undeniable. He said Charlevoix and the surrounding area has grown exponentially and his business has quadrupled.

In 1985, booming business prompted Ferguson to search out a partner to share his workload and he stumbled upon Chamberlain.

"Sherm (Chamberlain) was a great addition to the business. He has a lot of expertise I don't. We compliment each other," Ferguson said.

Then, three years ago, the surveying duo found their business had outgrown their office space which was then located in the Pine River Building along the Pine River Channel. They found their current site off West Upright Street, which they remodeled to suit the needs of the expanding business.

The business now boasts nine full-time staff including Ferguson and Chamberlain and two part-time employees. It serves clients from the Upper Peninsula to Kalkaska to Beaver Island.

"We're really fortunate to have such great employees, that's what really makes a business.

The crew of 11 that make up Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates Inc. specialize in all aspects of land survey work including: boundary surveys, topographical surveys, development planning and subdivision and site condominium planning.

After 25 years in the surveying business Ferguson said he doesn't regret one step.

"I got to live here and bring my kids up here, now they're back and it's really neat," he said.

A satisfied smile stretched further across his face as he talked about two special little people in his life, his grandchildren Hayden, 2, Sean's son and Vlady, 4, Shelly's son.

When Ferguson is not playing the role of content surveyor, husband, father or grandfather, he is actively involved in the community including participation with the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, with which he was a board member for eight years, and with the Charlevoix Snowmobile Club.

New Office Manager

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is happy to announce the addition of Vi Dinwiddie as the new office manager.

Vi is a "veteran" in the hospitality business, having worked at The Lodge for Julius W. Gilbert from 1962 until Jack Uhrick became the owner. Vi says, "Jack was the best boss she had ever had." She was employed at The Lodge until 1984 when she worked at other various hospitality properties in the area.

Says Vi, "I'm right at home when I'm trying to sell a hotel room or our beautiful area to anyone. I have met some very nice people and have become personal friends to many of them. I'm happy they thought of me as a friend and I was always happy to "go that extra mile" for anyone coming to our area in order to make them want to return with friends and family."

Vi has two sons, five grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren, but most of them live in different states so she spends a great deal of time with her friends and hobbies. We welcome Vi to the Chamber.

HEALTH

Treatments are available for uncurable dry eyes

Drs. Robert and Kimberly Molter

'Your health'

The natural tears that your eyes produce are composed of three layers: The outer oily layer, the middle watery layer and the inner mucous layer. Dry eye is the term used to describe eyes that do not produce enough tears or tears with the proper chemical composition in any of these layers.

Dry eye is most often a result of the eyes' natural aging process. Most peoples' eyes tend to become drier as they age, but the degree of dryness varies and some people have more problems than others.

In addition to age, dry eye can result from problems with normal blinking; certain medications like antihistamines, oral contraceptives and antidepressants; environmental factors like a dry climate and exposure to wind; general health problems, like arthritis or Sjogren's syndrome; or chemical or thermal burns to the eye.

Sometimes dry eye occurs because the oily layer of the tear film is out of balance. This may happen when the oil glands located at the base of the eyelashes become clogged, often with soughed-off dead skin cells, creating a dandruff-type condition of the lashes.

Dry eye symptoms are often different in different people, but the most common complaints are: Irritated, scratchy, dry or uncomfortable eyes; redness of the eyes; a burning sensation of the eyes; a feeling of a foreign body in the eye; blurred vision or excessive watering as the eyes try to comfort an overly dry eye. Yes, a watery eye can actually be due to an underlying dry eye problem as the brain gets a message to "send lots of water" to the eye.

If untreated, dry eye can damage eye tissue and possibly scar the cornea, the transparent front covering of the eye, impairing vision. Contact lens wear may be more difficult due to the possibility of increased irritation and a greater chance of eye infection.

If you are experiencing the symptoms of dry eye, your optometrist can perform "dry eye" tests using diagnostic instruments to give a highly magnified view and special dyes to evaluate the quality, amount and distribution of tears.

Dry eye cannot be cured, but your eye's sensitivity can be lessened and treatment prescribed so that your eyes remain healthy and your vision is not affected.

Possible treatments include: Frequent blinking to spread tears over the eye, especially when using a steady focus for an extended period (such as computer work, intensive reading or nearpoint work); changing environmental factors like avoiding wind and dust and increasing the level of humidity; using artificial tear solutions (especially important during "allergy seasons" to flush the eye of airborne pollens and other allergens); or using moisturizing ointment or gel at bedtime.

Other treatments for more severe dry eye may include inserting small plugs in the corner or the eyes to slow drainage and loss of tears or, in rare cases, surgery may be recommended.

Dry eye does not go away, but by working together, you and your doctor can keep your eyes healthy and protect your good vision.

Drs. Robert and Kimberly Molter can be contacted at Eye Health of Charlevoix, located at 103 West Hurlbut Street, by calling (231) 547-7800.

Low Vision Fair to be at library

On Sept. 28, the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will sponsor a Low Vision Fair.

The fair's purpose is to provide community members, with low vision, access to products and services that will assist and enhance their daily living. Library patrons with reduced vision may try out new technologies to read books, magazines and newspapers.

A highlight of the fair will be the unveiling of the library's newly purchased Telesensory Aladdin color video magnifying system. The system was purchased by a $3,300 grant from the Great Lakes Energy "People Fund."

The People Fund is sponsored by customers of Great Lakes Energy and is used to support community educational and nonprofit organizations.

Library patrons with low vision needs may use the color video magnifier to enlarge books, magazines and newspapers. Patrons can also use the system to write letters, balance checkbooks and perform other tasks requiring magnification.

The fair will also include the display of a talking computer, magnifiers, high intensity lamps and other adaptive aids.

The Low Vision Fair will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sept. 28 at the Charlevoix Public Library, located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

Long haul

This 205 foot long shipment from York, Penn., stretched completely across the bridge in Charlevoix last week. It contained a shipping container for the reactor vessel at Big Rock Point, which is being decommissioned. When the reactor is sent out of the plant, it will be placed in this container and taken to Barnwell, S.C. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Crooked Tree Arts Center to host ballet

The Crooked Tree Arts Center recently announced the premiere performance in the Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series for 2002/2003.

James Sewell Ballet will perform at 8 p.m. at the Petoskey Middle School, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 26 and 27. With performances in 40 Minnesota communities, 24 states, and Bermuda, Minnesota's James Sewell Ballet has earned international acclaim for innovation, musicality, technical expertise and engaging presentation.

The choreography of Sewell performances by the dancers, and the engagement of audiences, combine with the classical virtues of ballet, the freedom of modern dance, and the spirit of vaudeville.

At age 17, Sewell moved to New York and began dancing with ABT II. He studied at the School of American Ballet(SAB) and with David Howard for 15 years. He was a lead dancer with Feld Ballets/NY for six years.

Sewell began creating ballets in 1982 while studying at school. Since then, he has choreographed more than 45 ballets, including nine for which he composed the music. His early ballets were dramatically based and balletic, providing the foundation for his later incorporation of nonclassical movement.

His studies of the techniques of Martha Graham, Jos Limn and Lester Horton have influenced his work.

His ballets have been performed by more than a dozen companies in the United States and Taiwan. Special projects and commissions have included choreography for the School of Ballet Summer Workshop; a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts to create a work for the Feld Ballet; choreography for Aida, co-produced by the Minnesota Opera and 11 other North American opera companies; Amahl and the Night Visitors, produced annually with the Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra; a new work with composer Augusta Read Thomas for the SPCO; Musical Toys for the Minnesota Orchestra; Nirvana Dharma with the Plymouth Music Series of Minnesota; and Nutcracker: The Untold Story, for the Minnesota Orchestra's NotesAlive! video series.

The company's eight dancers perform annually in St. Paul, Rochester, St. Cloud and throughout the United States. The company has shared stages with the Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra, Minnesota Orchestra, Minnesota Opera, Plymouth Music Series, Children's Theatre Company and Dale Warland Singers.

James Sewell Ballet is a roster member of Young Audiences of Minnesota.

Additionally, nearly 10,000 Twin Cities students attend free performances each year.

For more information about the James Sewell Ballet, visit their website at www.jsballet.org.

Tickets prices are $50 Patron, $20 adult and $8 student for Crooked Tree Arts Center members. Nonmember prices are $50 Patron, $25 adult and $10 student.

Tickets are available by telephone, by calling (231) 347-4337, or on-line at www.crookedtree.org.

Two plans being considered by officials

MARINA

Coast Guard and the Beaver Island Boat Company, we still have a chance of maintaining the Coast Guard and I'm concerned with risking that chance," Wiesner told council and the DDA at the special meeting.

President of Beaver Island Boat Company Bill McDonough said with increased demand on the ferry service to Beaver Island it is in need of additional operating area and he is concerned that any use of that property would encroach on operations.

Not risking loss of the Coast Guard could mean a risk of Waterways money because of too few an increase in docks. The Barnes plan has 66 docks and United Design plan B has 63 docks. The marina current has 34 slips and can accommodate 55 to 60 boats.

Wiesner said council requested that both United Design and Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arbor develop the two plans to "hopefully" meet Waterways funding requirements.

"I see both of the plans potentially modified," Wiesner said.

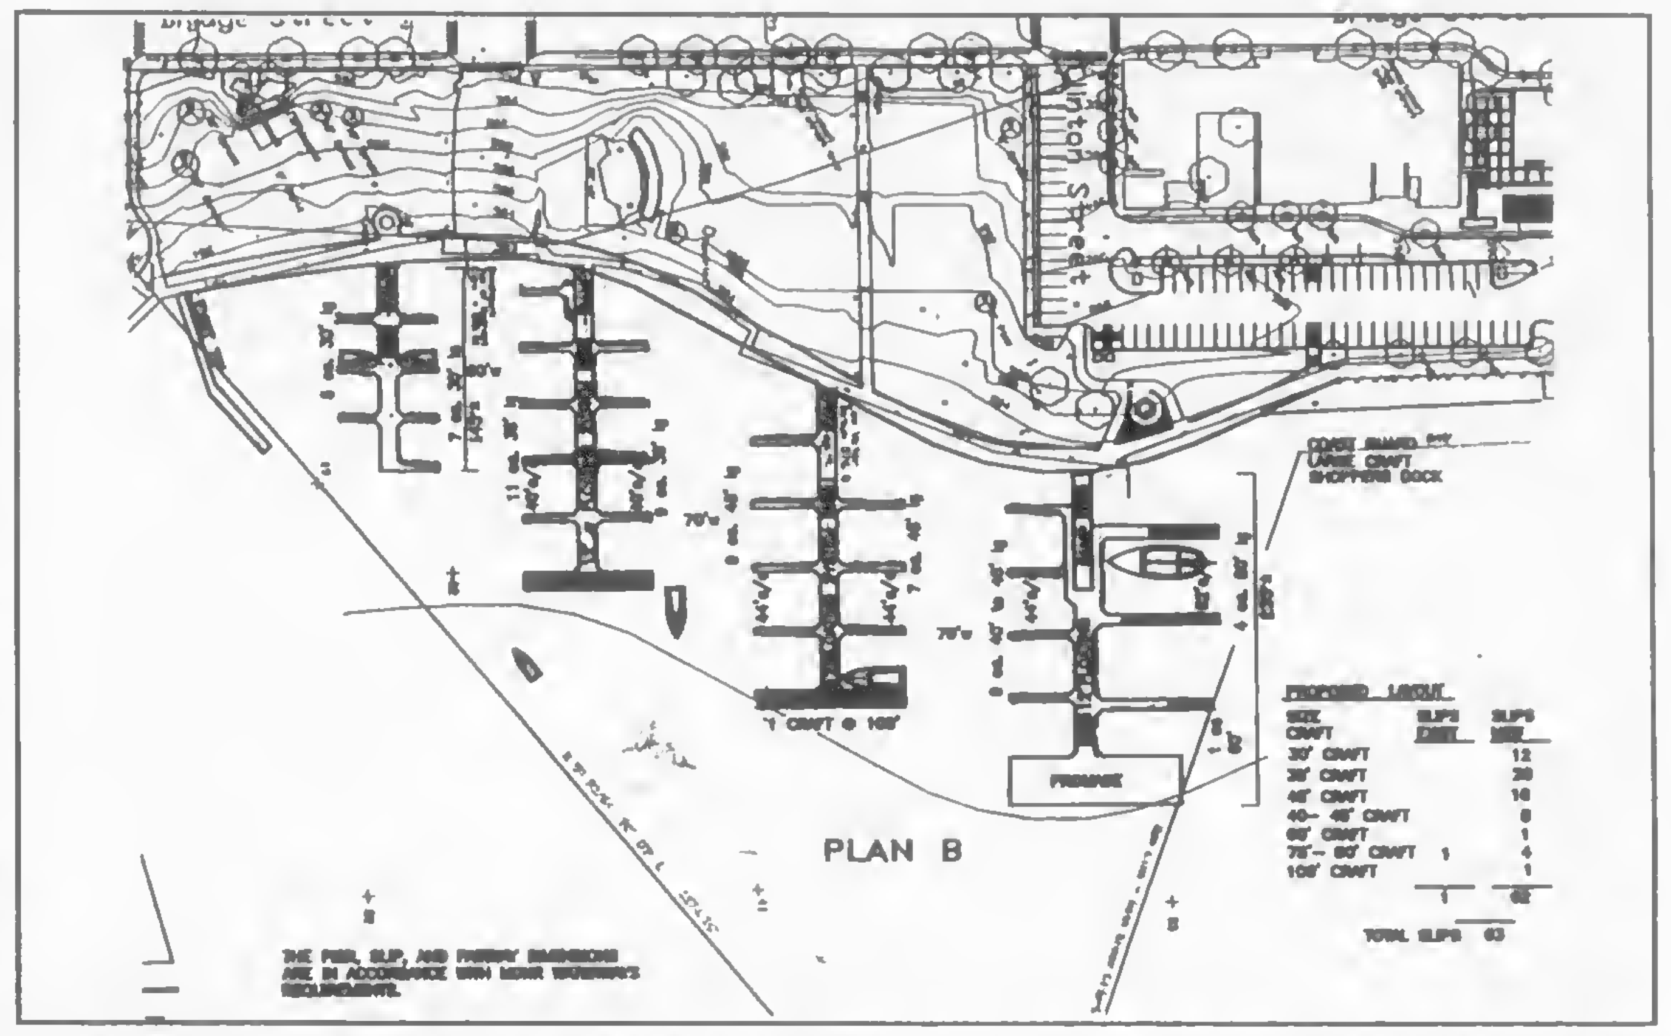
In drafting these plans both United Design and the Pollack group will network with Waterways to gauge its feeling on fundability of either project.

Winn said the commission should be able to offer its opinion of permit possibilities without discussing the plans with the Michigan Department Environmental Quality.

They will also calculate the added cost of cutting in and filling along the bulkhead associated with the Barnes plan and may offer total cost estimates of both plans.

This part of the planning phase will review how each plan affects East Park renovation proposals.

East Park renovations concepts and marina concepts will be combined for community review at a joint city council and DDA meeting to take place at 7 p.m., Sept. 25 in council chambers at city hall. Charlevoix City Hall is located at 210 State Street in Charlevoix.



This plan by the city's engineers is another one that is being considered for the marina in East Park. (Courtesy graphic)

American Red Cross to host blood drive Sept. 26

The American Red Cross will be in Charlevoix from 1 until 6:45 p.m. on Sept. 26.

The community bloodmobile will be at the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church on the corner of US-31 and Meech Street. Please call 347-5984 to make an appointment or just drop in.

Due to a high percentage of deferral at the Charlevoix blood drives, from low iron content in the blood of donors, the American Red Cross is asking local donors to drink extra water on the day they will be giving blood and eat foods containing protein or complex carbohydrates, such as bread, cereal, fruit or lean meat.

Avoid eating fatty foods, such as hamburgers and French fries, before donating.

The organization also asks that the community eat plenty of iron rich foods between donations. This includes red meat, fish, poultry, broccoli, beans, raisins and prunes.

Road work in area to cause traffic delays

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

As summer comes to a close Charlevoix residents are starting to see a slowdown in bridge and traffic delays, but upcoming road work may create some short-term backups.

In the city of Charlevoix the heavily traveled State, May and Bridge streets will all see improvements.

City Street Superintendent John Martin said his crew will resurface State Street from Park Avenue to Antrim Street and will resurface May Street from Carpenter Avenue to Stover Road.

Martin said these two street overlay resurfacing projects will likely start next week and will each be one day projects.

Martin will also be in charge of inspection and administration on a Bridge Street project, also scheduled to start next week.

Bridge Street is a state owned highway and the Michigan Department of Transportation has opted to make some improvements to it this year. Martin said construction will include milling of the northbound lane on the "Bridge Street hill" near 7-Eleven and road work at the intersection of M-66 and US-31.

Martin said both Bridge Street projects are state funded and are scheduled to start the week of Sept. 16 and should be completed that same week.

He said during this fall road repair period none of the three streets will be closed.

After these projects are complete there are no other road undertakings on the schedule.

"We don't have anything else starting this fall. We're winding down," Martin said.

Teams compete in Charlevoix Classic Saturday

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School boys' and girls' cross country teams got a little muddy Saturday at the Charlevoix Classic and ended up in the top ten of the schools that competed.

The Charlevoix Classic is a home meet through a course set up with many different obstacles, including mud pits, for runners to navigate.

In the meet, the Charlevoix girls' team took ninth out of 21 teams. The boys' team was tenth out of 20 teams.

Girls' Coach Mary Plude said she thought her team did very well in the meet.

"They actually came in at the same time they did at Benzie (Central), which is a flat course. Considering the hills and obstacles, that is great," Mary said.

Boys' Coach Ken Plude also said he thought his team ran well, especially considering his top two runners did not compete that day due to an injury and sickness.

"I was pretty pleased with (the team)," he said.

Overall finishes for the girls' team in the eleventh and twelfth grade group were: Liz Ulrich in fifth, with a time of 21 minutes; Natashia Klieber in twenty-fourth, with a time of 23 minutes, 39 seconds; Brenna Bergmann in twenty-ninth, with a time of 24 minutes, 5 seconds; Lauren Silberhorn in thirty-fourth, with a time of 24 minutes, 45 seconds; Michelle Rowe in thirty-fifth, with a time of 24 minutes, 47 seconds and Karen Larson in ninety-sixth, with a time of 32 minutes, 26 seconds.

Overall finishes for the boys' team in the eleventh and twelfth grade group were: Brian Christianson in fifty-first, with a time of 20 minutes, 32 seconds; Cody McCary in fifty-second, with a time of 20 minutes, 32 seconds; Mike Castiglione in fifty-seventh, with a time of 20 minutes, 51 seconds; John Wilkinson in sixty-fourth, with a time of 21 minutes, 20 seconds; Adam Richards in sixty-eighth, with a time of 21 minutes, 45 seconds; Eric Bourassa in seventy-third, with a time of 22 minutes, 5 seconds; Will Barrett in eighty-eighth, with a time of 23 minutes, 12 seconds and Michael Flowers in ninety-second, with a time of 24 minutes, 1 second.

Girls' basketball team has 1-3 record

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders girls' basketball team christened the new Charlevoix High School gym with a narrow 59-55 loss to Petoskey and split two other non-conference decisions, bowing to Gaylord St. Mary's 69-53 and defeating Mancelona, 68-37.

In the season opener in Gaylord, the Rayders outscored St. Mary's in three of the game's quarters, but couldn't overcome a 23-1 second quarter deficit.

Sophomore Grace Farrell led Charlevoix in all categories with 19 points, nine rebounds, three assists, three steals and three blocks. Rachel Wyniawskyj added 12 points, all on three-point baskets. Sarah Cross contributed five points and six rebounds.

The Rayders rebounded from the loss by routing Mancelona on the road. Farrell again paced Charlevoix with 17 points, four rebounds and two blocks. Wyniawskyj scored 13 and had six assists. Kari Way had nine points and four steals. Allyssia McDonough had a fine all-around effort with eight points, four rebounds and four steals.

Petoskey held Farrell to only six first-half points and used a 21-4 second quarter margin to lead 33-14 at the half. Instead of giving up, the Rayders came out and played an inspired second half.

"I'm proud of the way we fought back and stuck together," coach Jim Parrish said. "They didn't give up and didn't hang their heads."

Charlevoix chipped away at the Northmen lead, cutting it to 13 after three quarters. The Rayders weren't through, however, as Farrell took over from the inside, scoring 12 in the fourth period. Wyniawskyj hit two three-pointers in the stanza as well.

The Petoskey lead was cut to three with a minute-and-a-half left in the game and to two with 37 seconds, but Charlevoix couldn't get over the hump as Petoskey made key free throws down the stretch.

Farrell led all scorers with 20 points, pulled down seven rebounds and had four steals. Wyniawskyj had 12 points, largely on three of five three-point shooting. McDonough had seven points, five rebounds, four assists and three steals. Shayna Drost chipped in with six points and four rebounds.

The Rayders played Sept. 10 at Gaylord. Results were unavailable at press time. Charlevoix hosts Maple City Glen Lake on Thursday.

Rayder football team loses first two games

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity football squad opened its season with two non-conference losses, falling to St. Ignace, 51-0 and to Benzie Central, 32-14.

Big plays and big games by opponent's running backs were the downfall in both contests.

The Saints jumped out to a quick 35-0 halftime lead in the Rayders' opener, capitalizing on two first quarter fumbles and five for the game.

St. Ignace's Matt Stempki rushed for 204 yards on just 10 carries. Charlevoix yielded seven touchdowns of 22 yards or more. Nick Pizzurro led the Charlevoix offense with 99 yards rushing.

At Benzie, big plays again haunted the Rayders as the Huskies broke open a close game, scoring on 89 and 80 yard runs in the second half. Charlevoix trailed 7-0 at the half.

"The turning point in the game was a third and 19 for Benzie deep in their own territory with the score 7-0," Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger said. "They got an 89 yard touchdown run. If we hold there and force them to punt, we've got good field position for the first time in the game."

Benzie scored again on a 40 yard halfback pass late in the third quarter to lead 20-0 heading into the fourth quarter. The Rayders outscored Benzie 14-12 in the final period to gain some momentum heading into this week's conference opener against East Jordan.

"We had breakdowns basically on four plays that put the game out of reach," Klinger said. "I felt good that the kids didn't quit after the big plays. We established some things offensively after we were down."

Pizzurro ran for a touchdown, scored on an extra point and gained 103 yards on 18 attempts. Jeff Urban ran for another touchdown and had 64 yards on 15 carries. Defensively Donovan Swanson led with eight tackles. Pizzurro had seven and Todd Carey six. Taylor Fisher recovered a fumble and Nick Potter and Swanson each had a sack.

"The kids played better (against Benzie than St. Ignace)," Klinger noted. "The effort and intensity were much improved."

East Jordan will visit Charlevoix this Friday, Sept. 14, to open the Lake Michigan Conference schedule.

Klinger said of the 2-0 Red Devils, "They have a new coach and a different look than East Jordan usually has. They run a pro set and are throwing the ball more than they have previously. This is a big rivalry and I'm sure our kids will be up for the game."

SCRAPBOOK

Writer recalls the stories from 1965

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

I have been enjoying going through some old Charlevoix Couriers which I saved, reminiscing about events which took place in 1965.

It is interesting to see projects started then which are now a given thing in our lives. Thanks to many forward thinking people, we now have a town that is second to none in beauty preserved and changes for the better in our businesses and government buildings.

In January of 1965, the Rev. L.E. Tenhopen moved to Charlevoix from South Haven to fill the pulpit at the Congregational Church. He succeeded the late Rev. Robert A. Harrison who died unexpectedly in April of 1964.

Plans were announced for new boating facilities at Beaver Island, with slips for 16 more boats and showers for boaters. Carl Erber reported that business on the Beaver Islander was down about five percent from 1963. And in Charlevoix, the city council approved the Army Corps of Engineers plans to straighten and widen the Pine River Channel. Mayor Hawley asked the Corps of Engineers not to work on the channel during July and August which would tie up Bridge Street traffic.

Now this next item is most interesting. Down state promoters asked city permission to install a chair lift over Round Lake. A most interesting proposition, don't you think?

In business, the Census Bureau reported that retail business in Charlevoix County was climbing. Plans were announced for reopening the Holiday Beach Hotel. Tom Carey withdrew a petition for a gas station at the corner of Prospect and Petoskey Avenue. Remodeling of Neff's store on Bridge Street began. The Fairport Marina bought the Geike property. LexaLite announced plans to build in Hayes Township with the assistance of a federal loan. Dick and Jean Wood purchased the Moonlight Gardens and Jack Begrow moved his office to Charlevoix from Bellaire. Begrow and Brown unveiled "renaissance" designs for remodeling business places on Bridge Street.

Medusa asked permission to build a dock and conveyor system into Lake Michigan, off South Point. Frances Martin, chairman of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful said her group would fight the dock plan. Henry Hogan also vowed to help fight the Medusa Cement Company dock.

In March, 1,200 residents signed petitions favoring Medusa's plan to construct a cement plant at South Point. The State Administrative Board approved Medusa's plans to build the dock at South Point and Medusa's plans to begin construction in July.

Sheriff Glen Rose reported a one-third increase in crime. Rose said he was going to crack down on teenage drinkers and the people who supply them. And County Clerk Fenton Bulow reported a decrease on births, deaths and marriages in 1964, but said divorce was up 50 percent.

East Jordan offered to pay the cost of moving the driver's license bureau from Charlevoix. Rose went out of the driver's licensing business as East Jordan won the right to maintain the Charlevoix County office. Everyone had to drive to East Jordan for their license and it was great when the office was later returned to Charlevoix.

In February, Rear Admiral Willard J. Smith of Charlevoix took command of the Ninth Coast Guard District with office in Cleveland, Ohio. The Coast Guard said it would tear down the old Coast Guard building.

Mrs. Ray Wood resigned as County Juvenile Officer to open a child care center.

The state assumed responsibility for the operation of Retarded Children's Center.

The Kiwanis Club donated $10,000 to the new library.

Mrs. Charles Duerr announced that $13,116 was raised in the 1964 Community Chest Drive, $1,116 over the $12,000 goal.

Larry Wallca and Harold Totten ran for election as second ward supervisor Feb. 15. Totten was elected. Del Terrill was elected to city council. The city council formed the Regional Planning Commission. Deputy City Clerk Herbert A. Campbell died. And Ira Olney was nominated to run uncontested for Justice of the Peace.

The city gave the go ahead on a $104,000 water system expansion program. Much of the work was to be done on the north side.

The state announced plans to buy property for relocation of M-66.

The school board reviewed a budget calling for $437,390 to be spent in the 1965-66 school year. In May, Charlevoix teachers accepted pay increases ranging from $400 to $600 a year.

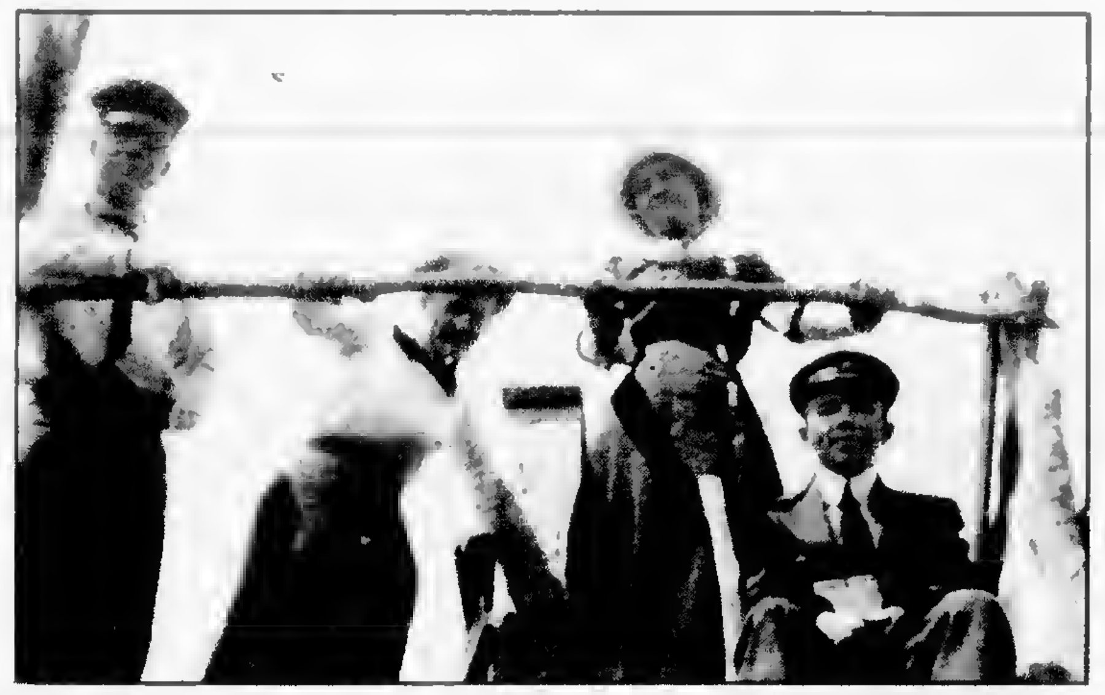
Charlevoix defeated Harbor Springs to win the Class C conference crown. $1,000 was donated to the trophy case at Charlevoix High School. Hayes Township turned down a plan to join the Charlevoix School District. Barbara Wood was named valedictorian and John Duerr, salutatorian of the 1965 graduating class, the largest (88 seniors) at that time. Clarence Odmark received one of two Michigan Band Director of the Year awards.

The Rev. George Majors was elected head of the Charlevoix PTA. Charles Robinson, superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, urged annexation of the Murray School District.

In April, the Girl Scouts protested the proposed sale of the scout campgrounds.

Lamprey poison was planted in Loeb Creek.

I enjoy reading about friends now gone and some of their accomplishments and am thankful that others are taking their places in giving time and effort to the many projects which make the town so unique.



Who are they?

Township keeping an eye on Cemex

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Township is getting serious about environmental issues at Cemex Inc., the local cement manufacturing company.

In November of 2001, some of Charlevoix Township's Boulder Park Association residents approached the township board with a laundry list of concerns including: air pollution, water pollution, solid waste disposal and the mining operation.

Residents' complaints prompted a response by the board.

"We're trying to do what the residents are asking, within our jurisdiction. The township wants to work with them. We're not trying to cover up anything, it's to the township's benefit to get this under control too," said Nancy Rajewski, chairman of the township planning commission and a board trustee.

The township has had a mining ordinance in effect since August of 1981, but as it looked into recent complaints it found ordinance requirements had not been enforced or documented for the past two years.

"That's where the problem lies. They (Cemex) have sidestepped the township recently," Rajewski explained.

However, the township has also accepted fault for not keeping its records up-to-date.

While both the company and the township have not followed the ordinance in the recent past, Rajewski said the township is ready to make sure that changes.

The oversight and concern prompted the board to hire Murray Gillis, a Houghton-based mining and mineral processing expert, to enforce the ordinance. The township is required by its ordinance to have a mining ordinance inspector on staff.

At an informational meeting Sept. 9 at the township hall Gillis said his first mission is to get the township's files up to par. This will include collecting annual plans, site plans, operational plans and reclamation

Township zoning ordinance to be decided by voters on Nov. 5

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

ELECTION 2002

Charlevoix Township's revised zoning ordinance will officially appear on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Charlevoix Township resident Charles Scherping and a group of three friends successfully collected 157 signatures in four days to bring the ordinance to a second referendum vote. The votes collected exceeded the 109 required to get the ordinance on the ballot.

"This new ordinance just makes life too complicated," Scherping said.

Now, voters must decide whether they feel the ordinance will adequately represent them. Those who vote no Nov. 5 will reject the new ordinance and those who vote yes are voting to instate it.

"Let the people in the township decide if they want to live under these rules," Scherping said.

If the majority of voters reject the new ordinance, the current ordinance, which was drafted in 1987, will remain in effect indefinitely.

Nancy Rajewski, planning commission chair and township board trustee, said this possibility is not favorable for residents.

"The current ordinance doesn't address windmills, sexually oriented businesses and density issues in the township," she said.

Rajewski said she doesn't anticipate the board and planning commission revising the ordinance for a third time.

"I don't think we'll go back to the drawing board. But the next time someone comes in with a request for R-4 zoning with 15 units per acre we'll have to approve it because the current ordinance allows for it," she said.

She explained that by rejecting the amended zoning ordinance residents are giving township officials the indication that what is allowed in the current, outdated zoning ordinance, is what they want.

The township has worked on the revised ordinance for two years and has spent over $20,000 in election costs and expert insight and drafting fees paid to its planner, Fred Hoisington of the Traverse City consulting firm, Gosling and Czubak, on it.

The first referendum of the revised ordinance started last summer, when just as it was ready to be instated, a group of residents, including Scherping, found out about the changes, reviewed the ordinance and concluded it was restrictive and violated their rights.

Scherping then gathered 109 signatures from township residents and generated the first referendum.

Residents went to the polls on Sept. 18, 2001 and rejected the ordinance by a vote of 223 to 114.

In order to make sure voters make an informed decision on Nov. 5, the board is in the process of sending literature comparing the existing ordinance to the revised ordinance and some homes will receive full copies of the 97 page ordinance.

One change Rajewski feels may have struck a nerve is the addition of the township supervisor as a person who could issue civil infractions for violations of the zoning ordinance.

However, Nancy stressed that there are limitations to this civil infraction process, including verbal and written communication prior to action being taken and a 60 day notice.

"I think the difference is this gives us a chance to enforce the ordinance," she said.

Other issues residents initially raised Rajewski said have been addressed.

"We didn't change anything without good reason. The parts that were objected to last time have been changed," she said.

But Scherping said he hopes the ordinance is "turned down cold."

"There haven't been enough

Committee to meet on site of new Charlevoix library

The Building Committee of the Charlevoix Public Library will be having brainstorming sessions on the future site of the Charlevoix Public Library.

Engberg Andersen Design Partnership, Inc. will be facilitating the sessions.

The sessions entail discussing two possible locations for the library as well as brief design issues.

The current site and a portion of the old middle school property are the two locations to be discussed.

The purpose of the session is to receive input from the community on the different locations.

This will enable the committee to make an informed site recommendation to the Library Board of Trustees.

The committee requests that participants choose at least two of the three sessions to create a more fluid progression. Dessert and coffee will be served during the evening sessions and a light lunch will be brought in for the noon session.

All sessions will be in the library basement.

If you are unable to attend the sessions, the sketches will be on display all day Thursday and the architects will be available for comments.

The dates of the sessions are:

- 7 - 8:30 p.m., Sept. 25.
- Noon - 1 p.m., Sept. 26.
- 7 - 8:30 p.m., Sept. 26.

Please call the library if you are attending so organizers can get an estimate of attendance beforehand at 547-2651.

Correction

On page 6, in the Aug. 28 edition of the Charlevoix Courier a photo caption should have stated that J. Arnold Painting did work this summer at both the Depot Museum and the Harsha House that was funded by the society's members and patrons. Due to inaccurate information given to the paper this was incorrectly reported.

The studies are wrong, lower the speed limit

EDITORIAL

Perhaps a study can be wrong.

Sure, it can happen. Perhaps the study misses a few key points of context when looking at a local issue. Perhaps the residents can tell you more accurate information than a study.

Take for example the speed limit on Marion Center Road.

On this road, we have a speed limit of 55 mph. We have several documented accidents throughout the years and many cases of people driving well above the posted limit.

Also, on this road, we have a new high school, bringing with it many more drivers. And some of those drivers are teenagers who are just getting used to being behind the wheel.

So, a person would think officials would want to at least lower the speed limit. Sure, people may drive over that limit, but at least a lower speed limit would be a start to safer conditions.

But, this is not the case. Regardless of the urgings to lower the limit by Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, the Charlevoix County Road Commission and the Michigan State Police have so far refused to do so. They claim studies on the road indicate that a lower speed limit is not needed.

Now, to be fair, the Michigan State Police may not really know what that road is like since they do not travel it daily or are not in that area a lot.

But, it is a shock that the county road commission doesn't understand that, regardless of the outcome of a study, this road needs a lower limit. You would think the road commission would know its roads.

Therefore, we encourage the road commission and the Michigan State Police to put down their studies and realize that it is time to lower the speed limit on Marion Center Road. And we congratulate the sheriff on his vigilance in trying to get this done.

Perhaps this will be the first step in preventing future traffic tragedies on Marion Center Road from appearing in the newspaper.

Writer discovers what luck is actually about

Julie Witthoeft

Staff writer

I've been a horoscope reader since I was a teen-ager and while all the authors tend to make broad based statements that could apply to just about anyone, I tend to take the words to heart.

So on Sept. 11 when my horoscope stated that afternoon and the next were "lucky," I started flip-flopping my options of buying a lottery ticket or a Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce car raffle ticket.

I opted for the chamber ticket after reviewing the facts and concluding my chances were better, plus the money stays in Charlevoix and I could tack on a tax deduction.

As a Capricorn, with a horoscope on my side, how could I lose? I was sure that Buick Rendezvous was as good as mine. Then, as I drove home that night after having dinner in Petoskey, I reflected on my day, the historical significance of that day and the meaning of luck.

I started the day at 7 a.m., walking a beautiful route through rolling country hills with my mom. We pointed out leaves that had started to change color, Michigan State Troopers that usually don't patrol there and discussed life.

Then it was off to work. Driving to Charlevoix, the usual comedic morning show on the radio was replaced by a somber recap of a broadcast from one year ago that morning, followed by an observance of the national moment of silence.

I pulled over and reflected on the devastation of a year ago.

As the radio personalities tuned back in my foot hit the accelerator and I was on my way to a Sept. 11 ceremony at Charlevoix Elementary School.

Pulling into the visitor's drive at the school, I watched as the sun twinkled off the shiny flag pole and danced in and out as the American flag, hanging at half mast, passed in front of it.

Students decked head to toe in red, white and blue filtered out of the school, formed a circle around the pole and gazed up at the flag.

I didn't know whether they truly understood the significance of the day or if anyone could really grasp it. That morning principal Dick Swenor explained bad men, called terrorists, had attacked America one year ago and stressed how lucky we are to be Americans.

Then the students' tiny hands spread out over their hearts and they recited the pledge followed by patriotic songs. The innocence in their eyes was something I've watched many Americans search for since the attacks.

Then it was off to the Charlevoix County Building where the color guard saluted and a red, white and blue balloon release took place.

As work wound down and I read the daily newspaper, I came across that "lucky" horoscope, called the chamber and secured my ticket.

Then I was off to dinner with girlfriends followed by a trip to my sister's for a snuggle session with my nephew. Even though my pre-bedtime reading of "Bob the Builder" and "Winnie the Pooh's Christmas" was not the animated rendition his mom delivers, he did bear with me and even requested a song which I belted out three times before his little eyes started to sag.

I returned home and watched television network ABC's Sept.11 coverage wrap-up. I thought of the children at the elementary school and my nephew, as images of 61 moms holding their 63 babies, alone after losing their husbands in the attacks, faded in and out. All the babies had the same innocent look the elementary school kids had.

Somehow, that day I found hope in those innocent faces and extreme sadness in knowing none of the 63 babies will ever look into the eyes of their fathers.

Even though it was 11:30 p.m. by the time I flipped off the television, I couldn't fall asleep. I kept thinking about those babies and all the wonderful things I saw and did that day and the word luck.

I suddenly felt silly for associating luck with a ticket. My luck started early that morning when extra state troopers patrolled and offered the community an increased sense of security. Then it was in participating in displays of patriotism. And as the night wound down, it was realizing how lucky I am to be alive and healthy and to have my family intact.

Sept. 11 taught me many lessons, one of which was luck isn't winning money and it certainly isn't a gamble. Luck is found in life's simplest treasures.

Letters to the editor

Put in more pictures of school

Editor:

We have been hoping to see a bigger picture spread on the new high school for those of us who can't get there to see it. So far we have only had tantalizing glimpses. Would it be possible to do a more detailed report on it? You have a lot of out-of-town subscribers to whom it would be interesting and there must be people right in Charlevoix who are going to be paying for it in their taxes but may not find it convenient to get way out in the country to see it.

Please try to do this!

Marina expansion needed

Editor:

In reference to the proposed marina expansion in Charlevoix's Round Lake: I have seen some of the letters to the editor that mention such ridiculous statements as to let's pave over Round Lake and the parks plus some comments indicating that people don't want an expansion and others stating that visiting boat owners don't spend much money in Charlevoix.

I am a Charlevoix native currently living in Tucson, Ariz. In my past I have served on the city council here and on the school board. I have owned two business operations here and all five of our children went to and through the local school system. I am very familiar with marinas all over the Great Lakes, the Erie Canal, the Hudson River, the Trent-Severn Canal in Canada (from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay), and the Intercoastal Waterway from New York to Florida. My wife and I have made the trip from Charlevoix to the Florida Keys and back twice, in 1975-76 and 1985-87, with our 44 foot cruiser, Red-Keg. In total, since 1969 we have cruised close to 40,000 miles and have docked in more than 200 marinas, so I believe I can really speak with an extensive nautical background.

From 1960 to date, Charlevoix has been the second most popular stop for yachtsmen in the Great Lakes, but many have to pass by because they cannot get a dock. Other area communities have seen the value of boat docks in recent years and have built new docks. Currently in northern Michigan, Elk Rapids, Northport, Frankfort, Ludington, Manistee, Petoskey, Harbor springs, Mackinaw City, Cheboygan, Rogers City, Alpena, Bay Harbor and Traverse City have more municipal owned docks than does Charlevoix. Traverse City is currently in the process of expanding theirs. Charlevoix should really move fast forward to install the new docks. The Josh Barnes plan looks best to me, although I would make it larger by using the space the Coast Guard Buoy Tender currently uses. Forget the possible Coast Guard ship coming to Charlevoix. I guarantee it will not happen.

I think the new docks should be of the floating style with some of them also having pilings alongside for the very large yachts. Seasonal use of docks at this new marina should not be allowed from mid-June to early September. The city should build an additional marina between the launching ramp on Lake Charlevoix and the bathing beach pier, or between that pier and the second Irish marina which is alongside of the condo marina. There is plenty of room for seasonal use and transient users. A look at the present condo docks will give an idea as to what can be done. The bathing beach will then use one side of the old pier for swimming which is plenty of area. The combination of the docks in Round Lake and in Lake Charlevoix will give Charlevoix a great overall harbor.

The visiting captains will come and they will spend a tremendous amount of money in Charlevoix. I know from my experience in all the harbors I have visited.

Correction to picture

Editor:

Thank you for publishing the picture of my uncle Ralph Ware in your Sept. 11 issue of the Courier, and suggesting that some of your readers might be able to identify those pictured with Mr. Ware. I can assure you there is no one alive who would know these friends of Uncle Ralph.

My purpose in leaving the picture with you was to see if some old timers might remember the wooden observation tower on which uncle Ralph Ware and his friends were standing and sitting. It was not on the water tower which had not been built at that time, 1902-1904.

Thank you, I'm sure your readers will point that out to you.

Hoffmann helps pay for auditorium

Thanks to a sizable contribution from Charlevoix resident Betty Hoffmann, on behalf of her late husband Dr. Walter Hoffmann, Charlevoix High School students and the community can enjoy a top-notch auditorium to watch plays, concerts, speakers and other events.

Hoffmann, working through the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation, gave a "sizable" amount of money to the school recently. The money is being used to pay for a rising orchestra pit and other amenities in the school's auditorium.

Upon seeing the new auditorium in the new school, Hoffmann said it looks "just beautiful."

Her donation joins the large donations given by the Charlevoix Rotary Club and residents Bill and Ellen Schuiling to the auditorium.

Hoffmann said after he husband had died in 1984, she was looking for a place to give money to in his honor. She found out in 1988 that the foundation was working on a school and community auditorium and thought that would be a perfect way to honor him.

When he was alive, Hoffmann's late husband enjoyed working with the local minstrels group, wrote and directed plays and was a radio actor, among many other activities.

Enrichment Foundation President Gayle Gennett said, "We appreciate the donation from (the late) Dr. Hoffmann and his wife to further enrich the community."

Gordon VanWieren, member of the enrichment foundation and the former Charlevoix Schools Superintendent that created the group in 1987, said Hoffmann's gift helped to build a beautiful auditorium.

"This is something that the community has deserved for a long time. It is a functional auditorium, something that will be used by the community and not just the school system," he said.

Connie Ford, performing arts director at the school, said the students are going to have a "blast" with the new auditorium.

"There is so much we can do now that we couldn't do before," she said. "A lot of hard work went into raising money that contributed to (the auditorium)."

Missing woman found

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a report of a missing person around 1:20 a.m., Sept. 12 in the area of Eagle Island Road, in Charlevoix County's Bay Township.

When the deputy arrived, he learned the woman who was missing had a mental disorder caused by an automobile crash from several years prior. Additional personnel were dispatched to the scene along with a search and rescue K-9 team led by Sue Remsberg.

Sheriff's deputies and search and rescue workers searched the area for several hours before she was located at approximately 8:00 a.m. She was located approximately one half mile from her home.

The woman was a little cold, but uninjured. She was examined at the scene by Boyne City Ambulance personnel and then released to her husband.

The sheriff's office was assisted at the scene by the Boyne City Ambulance and the search and rescue team led by Sue Remsberg.

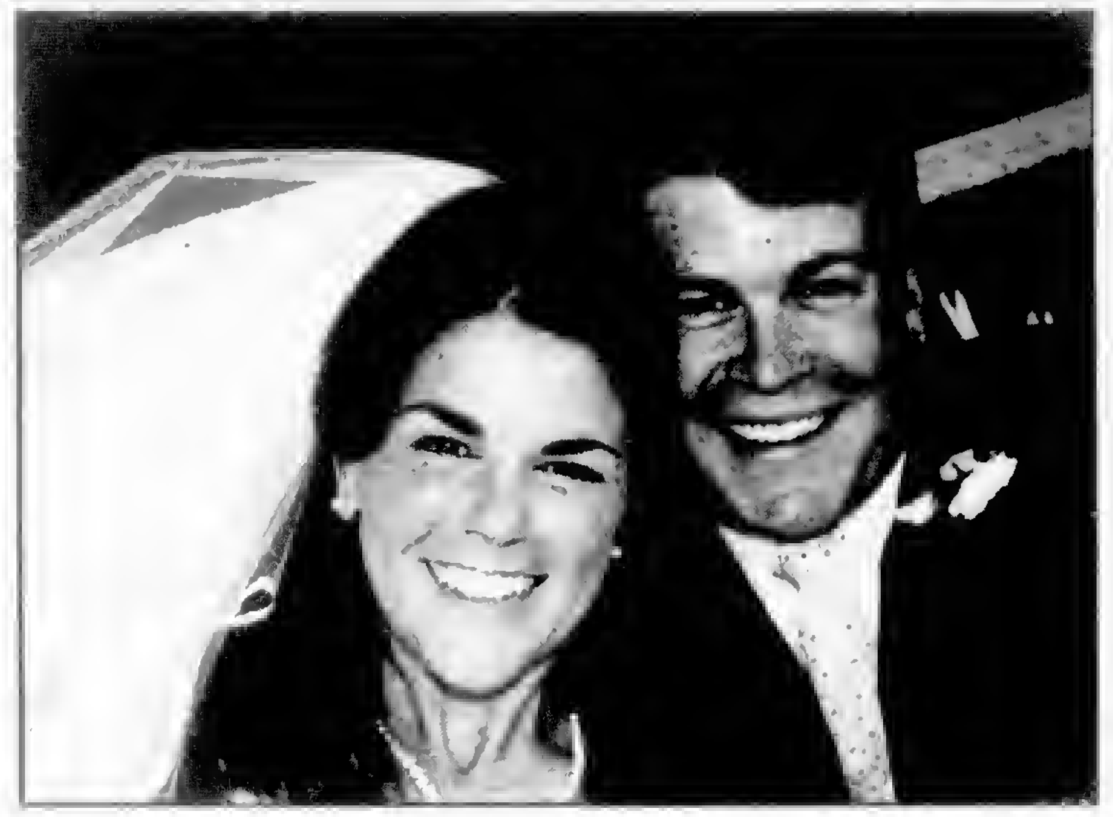
Weddings

Chardoul — Johnson



Susanne Chardoul and Ted Johnson, both of Edwards, Colo. were married July 6 in Edwards, Colo.

Susanne is the daughter of Eugene and Nan Ruth Chardoul, of Charlevoix. Ted is the son of Susan and Donald Johnson of Edwards, Colo.

Susanne's brother, Christian, performed the double ring rites in a ceremony written by the couple. Both the ceremony and the reception were in the groom's parent's garden, under ten tents with about 300 guests.

The bride wore an off-white silk dress and a short, fingertip veil, trimmed to match the dress, with a chapel train. Her bridesmaids wore short, iridescent blue taffeta dresses and carried blue and white wild flowers.

A trumpet quartet from the Colorado Symphony provided music. The groom had his own cake, which was decorated in a construction style with a toy power shovel.

The maid of honor was Marta Carvalho. There were six bridesmaids.

Riley and Cody, two dogs, wearing matching light blue ribbons and flower trim were used instead of flower girls.

The best man was Donald Johnson, the groom's father. There were six groomsmen, dressed in navy blue blazers, French blue shirts and ties with Labrador retrievers on them.

A rehearsal dinner was given in a horse barn during a blinding rain storm. It consisted of Colorado lamb cooked on site.

The couple will go on a wedding trip in February, probably on a ski trip to Montana. They are making Lake Creek, Colo. their home.

Hales — Chardoul

Marian P. Hales (Mandy) and Christian Chardoul, both of Seattle, Wash. and Charlevoix, were married Aug. 10, 2002 under a tent on the shore of Lake Charlevoix.

Marian is the daughter of Deborah and Daniel Hales, of Chicago, Ill. and Charlevoix. Christian is the son of Nan Ruth and Eugene Chardoul of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Larry Jones, from the bride's church, performed the double ring rites in front of about 400 people.

The bride wore a white satin dress with straps, pearl and bead appliqué on top, with a short train. Her veil was finger tip and untrimmed. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

A flute and electric piano ensemble provided the music before and during the ceremony and during dinner.

The seven bridesmaids wore strapless, navy blue floor length dresses and the junior bridesmaid and flower girls wore white with navy blue trimmed dresses.

The maid of honor was Gwen Lockwood. Grace Cerillo and Zoe Ash were the flower girls. Hannah Cerillo was the junior bridesmaid.

The best man was Bert Engle. There were eight groomsmen wearing navy blue blazers, French blue shirts and bowties with daisies on them.

A reception was also given on the beach, under an adjoining tent, and concluded with a beach fire and an escape by sailboat onto Lake Charlevoix. A rehearsal dinner was given in the Belvedere Casino.

The couple went to Hawaii for a wedding trip. They are making Seattle, Wash. their home.

Obituaries

Vivian Ann Collins: Jan. 16, 1927 - Sept. 4, 2002

Petoskey resident Vivian Ann (March) Collins, 75, died at Boulder Park Terrace on Sept. 4, 2002.

Vivian Ann Collins

Vivian courageously faced the deadly disease known as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, which is commonly referred to as ALS or Lou Gehrigs disease.

A funeral service was on Sept. 7, at the First Christian Church, 308 Monroe St. in Petoskey. The Rev D. Kibler Jr., officiated and burial was in Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey.

Vivian enjoyed music throughout her entire life. She was a member of the Second Liners and in 1988 she started strutting with the Epsilon Jass Band in her green dress with her green umbrella and continued until her illness prevented her from doing so.

Vivian was a member of the First Christian Church, Ladies Auxiliary Fraternal Order of Eagles and Ladies Auxiliary Fleet Reserve Association Branch No. 358.

Vivians husband preceded her in death in 1990.

She is survived by her daughter, Jacqueline Merta and her husband, Francis Gingras, of Charlevoix and Traverse City; her son, Patrick Timothy Collins, of Waconia, Minn.; former daughter-in-law, Denette Collins, of Waconia, Minn.; grandson, Thomas E. Tillers group brings old-fashioned farming

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Relic approaches to building and farming are being revived in Charlevoix.

Over the past 200 years, technology has progressed leaving timber framed homes with oak peg joints and fields tilled by oxen behind.

These outdated approaches have been replaced by manufactured homes and superseded by fuel powered tractors. But those same abandoned methods are just what you'll see at work in Marion Township.

A Kalamazoo based international, educational, non-profit group, called the Tillers, is establishing its first Northern Michigan chapter off Ferry Road, near Beatty Road.

Tillers International started in 1981 as a nature center with a historical farm in Kalamazoo.

"By creating more chapters, it enables more people to become involved at a local level," Kris Svenson, Tillers Farm Coordinator, said of the Charlevoix project.

Since its inception, the group has pursued a dual purpose of preserving historical skills and artifacts.

On Sept. 9, 15 volunteers and Tillers staff members started recreating a farmstead at the Marion Township site. With the help of five staff members trained in old approaches to construction and farming they hope to create a site that will educate northern Michigan.

"We're not farming for profit; we're farming for an educational experience. Our goal is to provide opportunities for people to learn about low cost rural technologies," Svenson explained.

Currently in Kalamazoo, through the help of volunteers, the group offers classes that teach techniques from the past, a similar role the Charlevoix site will one day play. These classes focus on the utility of animal powered farming using oxen and draft horses and also teach related support skills like wood working and those skills used by a black smith.

Dick Roosenberg, director and founder of Tillers Michigan, said, "Our driving force is to find low capital technology to be used internationally."

Svenson said the classes and education provided by the Tillers organization is particularly of use in developing countries. The group has provided its expertise in East and West Africa and in Central America.

"Those working in developing countries are still struggling to work the land by hand, by working with the people overseas and offering new ox training techniques we provide options," Svenson said.

To support this effort last week the crew got busy building a home for the land caretaker, a shed area for tools and a barn for animals. Most of the crops the group plans to grow, like hay and oats will support the animals.

The local chapter took root this spring, due to the generosity of Charlevoix resident Betty Hoffmann.

Hoffmann bought the land from Norm Lawton in 1986 and heard about the Tillers through her nephew, who found the group on the Internet and signed up for a class in Kalamazoo.

Hoffmann said she's a woman who likes to try everything and life as a Tiller is no exception. She went to Kalamazoo a year ago, drove the oxen and found her afternoon's work satisfying.

In June her belief in the aim of the Tillers prompted her to donate 146 acres of land to the group; 80 of which is being rented for private farming.

"She was excited about the community of skills and old fashioned community of spirit that develops when people work on a project like this," Roosenberg said.

While the group's home is based in Kalamazoo, its workforce spans the globe. The group of 15 Tillers at the Charlevoix site last week hail from Utah to Thailand.

Surawit Chobjit, of Thailand spent the morning hand sawing boards for the house. Chobjit is an exchange intern working in conjunction with the program Multinational Exchange for Sustainable Agriculture (MESA).

As drivers approach Ferry Road from Beatty Road, the Tillers' colorful tents come into view.

Kris Svenson's sister Karen said, "It's interesting. It's fun to learn the old way and work hard and be outside with a great group of people to work with."

Many volunteers mentioned that the educational experience is matched only by the spiritual experience. The group has no religious ties to this construction and agricultural approach.

"I'm always learning something here. There are so many jobs on a timber frame site. And I'm always learning new farming skills — growing crops well, working with livestock and how to work with people. That's what the Tillers are all about, people in a rural setting," Svenson said.

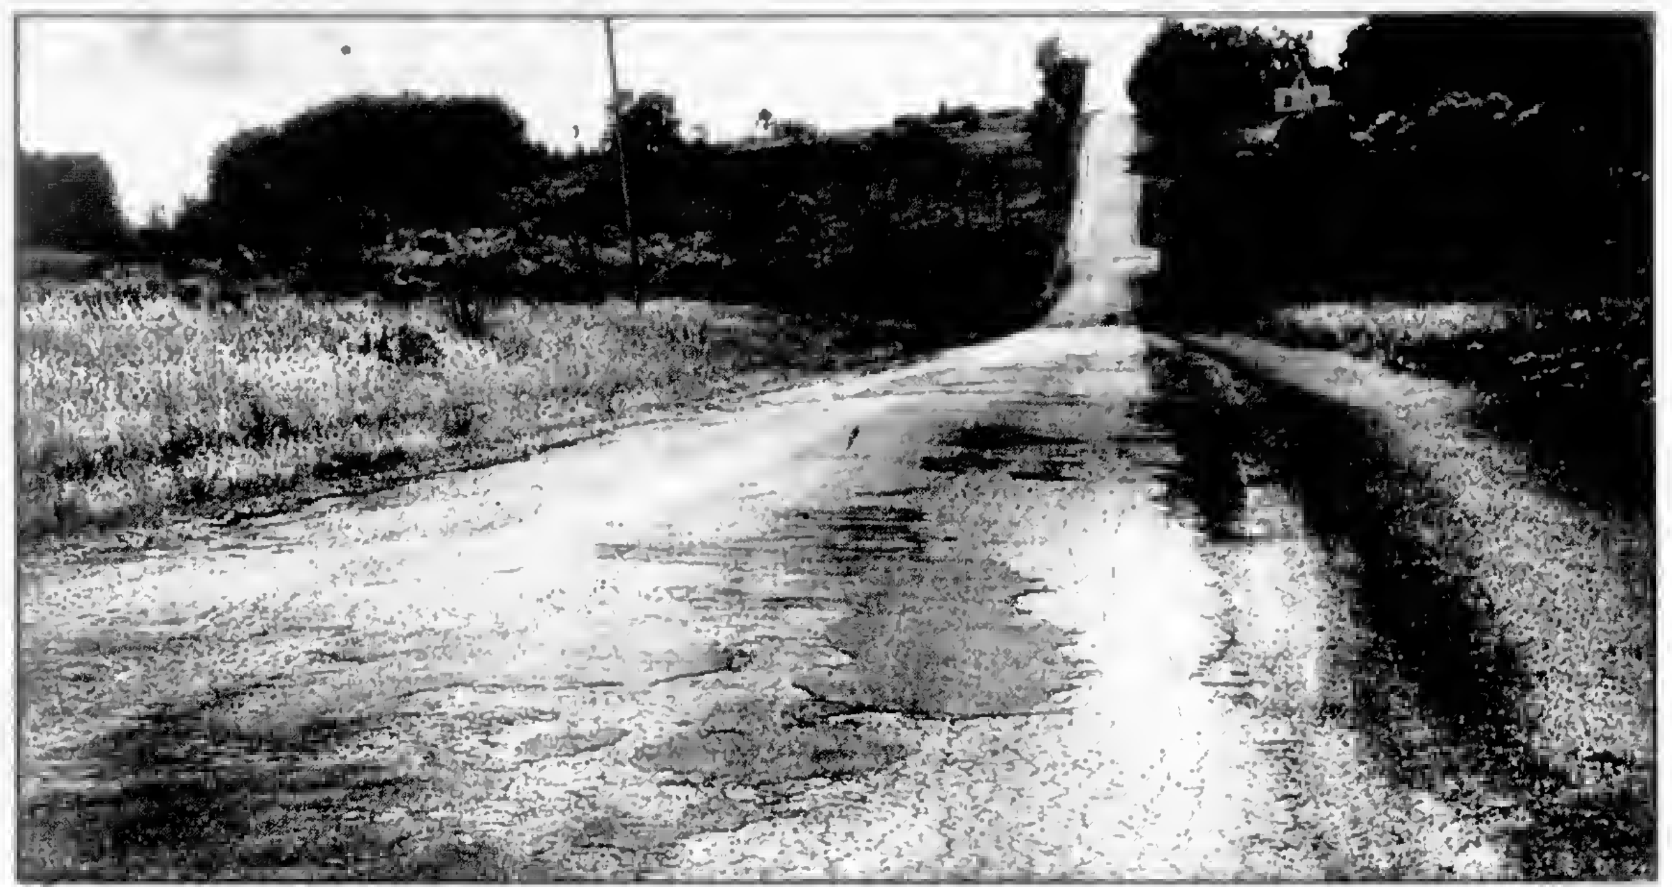
Township unhappy over Black Road work

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer



Marion Township residents are unhappy with the work that was recently done on Black Road, that left a portion of it incomplete. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

At a Sept. 9 Charlevoix County Road Commission meeting, some Marion Township residents told the commission they feel it has left them out in the cold.

The township used money raised from its road millage to fund a road resurfacing project on Black Road. It contracted with H & D of Bay Shore and the crew did a two inch asphalt overlay on top of the existing blacktop. The township's work started in late June and was complete in August.

However, 1,200 feet of Black Road is a county primary road and is the road commission's responsibility. But when it came time for its portion to be done, it didn't have the money.

The commission completed 55 projects this construction season and when it came time for Black Road, road commission manager Pat Harmon said, "The funds just weren't there."

Harmon estimated the Black Road project's cost at $65,000. The high amount is due to an undercut that is necessary for 920 feet of the 1,200 feet in the "primary" area, before it can be paved.

Regardless of cost, the township feels it held up its end of the bargain and the commission should now do the same.

According to Marion Township Clerk Bob Drebenstedt, when he and Harmon talked this spring, Harmon led the township to believe it would be resurfacing its portion of the project too.

But Harmon says no guarantees were made that the county would be able to pave its portion of the road.

"I told Bud Boss (township supervisor) if we had the money and could do it, we would do our part. But we didn't have the money to do it," Harmon said.

The Road Commission's budget is established in January and did not include Black Road repairs and resurfacing for the 2002-2003 budget period. Harmon said other projects it had committed to soaked up its funds.

He also explained that a big part of the problem is decreased revenue for the road commission as a result of Gov. John Engler's budget cuts that took $80,000 away from the commission and reduced income from the gas tax.

He said Engler's budget cut alone, "would have been more than enough to do Black Road."

While the money isn't there for the work, Harmon sympathizes with residents.

"With the new school out there, there are a lot of people who go that way," he said of the many people impacted.

In the meantime the commission plans to discuss its options in getting this part of the road paved. It has posted "rough road ahead" signs to warn drivers.

While this situation is a priority for the township and the commission that doesn't mean it will get done any time soon.

"It won't happen this year, it's too late in the season, next construction season hopefully we'll work it out and get it accomplished. But we have to be able to pay the bill," Harmon said.

Drebenstedt said the township may have to try and solve the problem by taking money out of its emergency fund just to resurface the area, not to do the undercut. Drebenstedt estimated the cost of this at $20,000 and said the township will expect the road commission to reimburse this expense.

Harmon said this plan has been suggested, but he's against it.

"Why spend that much money when you have to undercut it. So you spend $15,000-$20,000 this year only to tear it up next year. If you can't do it right there's no sense in wasting taxpayers' money," he said.

But Drebenstedt doesn't see meeting the immediate need as a wasted expense.

"Whether it's $20,000 or $50,000, what's the value of a life? Do we have to wait for an emergency or can we do preventative maintenance," he said.

Harmon disagrees that there is a definite safety risk because of the road. He said he recognizes it's rough but drivers have to accept responsibility too.

"If people drive at a safe, prudent speed I can't see a problem with it. If people are going to push their pedals we're bound to have accidents," he said.

New teacher starts year at St. Mary's School

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

> "I like interacting with the kids, seeing the light-bulb go off. That's really the interesting part of it."
> Joe Solomon,
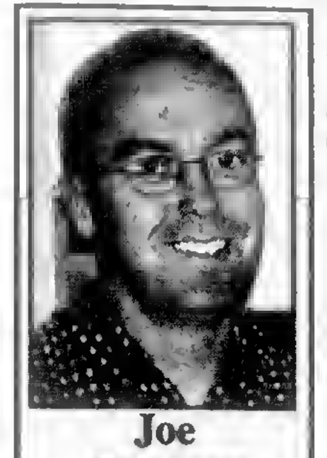
> St. Mary's School teacher

Joe Solomon, 32, was greeted the first day of school by 14 wide eyed first graders.



Joe Solomon

Solomon, the new first grade teacher at St. Mary's Catholic School in Charlevoix, is a rarity as a male elementary school teacher. But, he said the kids have taken to him and that elementary students are a natural fit for his personality and teaching style.

"I like interacting with the kids, seeing the light bulb go off. That's really the interesting part of it. Elementary school children are so eager to learn and that makes it very enjoyable as well," he said.

He explained his teaching approach as integrating hands-on learning. He said by using their senses, students get a better grasp on concepts and a better understanding of the world around them.

He has numerous "street signs" cut out from colored paper that tell the children whether it's time for recess, lunch or learning. And said the signs are an integral component in his approach to teaching literacy skills.

Other subject areas he focuses on in the classroom include math, writing, social studies and science.

Solomon and his wife, Ann, moved to Charlevoix in October of 2001 from Grand Rapids with their daughter Hannah, 17 months, to be closer to Ann's family in Rogers City. The Solomon's have since found that the move brought them closer to relatives and a place they love.

While living in Grand Rapids, Solomon taught at Dutton Elementary School in Caledonia.

After arriving in Charlevoix, he substitute taught at area schools, including St. Mary's, and then, toward the end of the 2001-2002 school year, he secured a long-term substitute teaching position at Harbor Springs Middle School, where he taught eighth grade social studies.

He said his final destination, St. Mary's, has been a great experience so far. And added he was impressed to see how well the students were prepared for school and has most enjoyed the familial atmosphere of the school system.

After graduating from high school in Grand Rapids, Solomon attended Northern Michigan University in Marquette, where he earned his bachelor's degree in international studies with a minor in Spanish.

He then went back to school and graduated from Grand Valley State University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education and a minor in social studies.

Ann is employed at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Marion Township to review Land Use Plan

Marion Township encourages residents and business owners to attend the second public hearing Sept. 23 to comment on the proposed, updated Marion Township Land Use Plan.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Marion Township Hall located off Marion Center Road. An initial public hearing for the land use plan took place July 29.

Based on the comments received at the initial public hearing, the planning commission has revised the plan and is now seeking comments on the revised plan.

The land use plan or master plan is a policy document developed to guide future growth and development in the township. Additionally, this document serves as the legal foundation for the zoning ordinance.

The focus of the Sept. 23 public hearing is to receive public comment on the proposed plan for the township. Public input is vital to the process, to ensure the land use plan accurately reflects a balance of the desires of township residents, property owners and businesses.

Marion Township is working with planner Mary Campbell, owner and principal planner for the firm MC Planning and Design of Boyne City. The company has been contracted to update both the township land use plan and the zoning ordinance.

Information gathered during the land use plan updating process will also be considered as the township zoning ordinance is updated.

The Marion Township Planning Commission regularly meets at 7 p.m., the fourth Monday of each month at the Marion Township Hall off Marion Center Road in Charlevoix. Copies of the proposed plan are available for review at the Charlevoix Public Library.

For additional information contact planning commission chair Tim Matchett at (231) 547-2154.

Belvedere Club awards scholarships

Hard work at the golf course has earned three Charlevoix High School graduates college scholarships.

Kyle Leese, Ryan Rafacz, and Julia Serrels — all summer employees of the Belvedere Golf Club — were awarded the scholarships, starting this fall.

Kyle Leese, who will major in history at Lake Superior State University in the fall, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship; Ryan Rafacz, entering Western Michigan University to study business management will receive a $3,000 scholarship; and Julia Serrels, who will also major in business at Western Michigan University, was awarded a $1,500 scholarship.

Other area students who are still receiving Belvedere Scholarships from their past employment at the club are Keith Grunch, Jeff Popenhagen, Jeremy Rafacz, Todd Shaperkotter, Lindsey Carland, Shannon Nystrom and Abby Shaperkotter. Under the scholarship fund guidelines, the students will continue to receive assistance with educational costs until they complete their undergraduate degrees, depending on the availability of funds.

This is the sixth year the Belvedere Club has awarded scholarships. Members of the club established a scholarship fund through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in 1995 to benefit employees and children of employees. Since its inception, the Belvedere Scholarship Fund has awarded $98,900 in scholarships — $32,300 this year alone.

The Belvedere Scholarship Fund is one of 136 separate funds managed by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. About one-fourth of the funds are designated for scholarships; others are earmarked to support certain areas of interest such as health improvement or the environment, certain non-profit organizations that serve the county, or specific towns within the county.

The Community Foundation was established in 1992 by a group of local citizens as a way to build a permanent reserve of charitable capital to meet this area's needs for years to come.

For more information about the Community Foundation or any of its funds and grant-making activities, please call the Foundation office, (231) 536-2440.

Sister church to visit area

On Sept. 21 and 22, members from New Hope Missionary Baptist Church in Wayne will make the journey from their Detroit homes to Charlevoix to worship and celebrate with the congregation of Community Reformed Church.

The two church families have been exchanging visits and worship services for seven years. These visits began when Community Reformed Church member Garry Miller saw a short piece in a newspaper about an African-American church in the Wayne area that had been vandalized by white supremacists. Miller wrote to Virgil Humes, senior pastor at New Hope, expressing the concern, love and support of the Charlevoix congregation.

Later, a small group from Community Reformed, traveled to New Hope Church for a worship service. The perpetrators of the violence against New Hope were caught, but out of that act and Miller's response, has blossomed friendship and fellowship. Both congregations feel that what was meant for evil has resulted in many good relationships.

After celebrating with the New Hope contingent Sept. 21 at Ferry Beach, the church family at Community reformed will have the representatives join them in their weekend worship services. Reverend Humes will bring the message at 9 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. Sunday, assisted by worship and music leaders from both churches.

Members of the New Hope music team will also help lead worship at the Saturday 6:57 service. New Hope's mass choir promises to bring contemporary gospel energy to Northern Michigan. The community is welcome to worship with the "sister" churches.

Three Men and a Tenor coming to Charlevoix

Three Men and a Tenor, a nationally recognized comedy and music group will headline the grand opening concert at Charlevoix High School's new state-of-the-art auditorium.

The grand opening concert will be at 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 5. Approximately $250,000 in upgrades and improvements, including professional-quality lighting and sound and a hydraulic stage, has been made to the auditorium thanks to the financial support of the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation and the "Reach for the Stars" fundraising effort led by the Rotary Club of Charlevoix.

Recognition of key contributors and performances by the Charlevoix High School band and performing arts group, along with appearances by local luminaries, are all scheduled for the evening.

"The grand opening promises to be a night to remember with community members enjoying a nationally known group and our own local talent in a professional grade venue," said Dan Barron, Reach for the Stars co-chair.

A limited number of tickets remain for the concert and are available at The Bridge Street Book Shop. Tickets are $20.

Three Men and a Tenor perform music spanning the 1930s through the 1990s, all without instrumental accompaniment. Included in the show is a comedy routine filled with positive messages.

The group has performed all around the United States, in Scotland, and with major performers such as The Beach Boys, Bob Newhart, Peter Cetera and Pat Boone. They have recorded five albums, which are available at www.threemenandatenor.com.

HEALTH

Health department offers dental service in area

James Delaney, D.D.S
'Your health'

Improvements in dental health services all across Northern Michigan began right here in Charlevoix.

Dental Clinics North, a partnership of local health departments across 21 counties, started over 10 years ago with a review of statistics. Back then, in the early 1990s, less than 10 percent of the population on Medicaid was receiving dental services of any kind in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula of the State. Pediatric services were sent to Ann Arbor or Detroit as well as other specialty services, such as oral surgery.

That is when two staff members from the Charlevoix office of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (the health department) first conceptualized a dental delivery system for people receiving Medicaid.

Linda Yaroch, a nurse with a master's degree in public health policy, and Patti Ulrich, a dental hygienist, both live and work in Charlevoix. They started talking about the needs of people with little or no insurance for dental care. People on Medicaid experienced excessively high rates of dental disease with little to no access to care. Children from 2-4 years of age in Michigan missed over two million hours of school do to EEC (early childhood tooth decay).

They decided to do something about this problem.

First, they pulled together a group of local dentists to assist in the planning of the first dental clinic in Charlevoix County in 1991. That first year, with Dr. Harry Suckert on board, the East Jordan Clinic treated over 1,500 patients. Replicating the Charlevoix County success, two new clinics were launched within the health department's service area. The Otsego County clinic, in Gaylord opened in spring of 1994 and an Antrim County clinic, in Mancelona, opened in the fall of 1994.

Next, Dental Clinics North, a consortium of six local health departments was organized in 1999 to offer dental services for people receiving Medicaid benefits across northern Michigan.

Approximately 500,000, or 5 percent, of the population of the State of Michigan live in this 21-county region. Of this population, about 65,000 clients are receiving Medicaid benefits and another 6,000 children are eligible for MIChild health care benefits through the state.

Over the last 18 months Dental Clinics North successfully opened seven new sites throughout the 21-county region. The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency's Administrative Office in Charlevoix provides administrative support for the entire region, including supervision, financial services such as payroll, accounting and data management support.

More recently access to specialty services in oral surgery, pediatric dentistry and hospital dentistry has been created. Private specialty practitioners stepped up throughout the region and became part of the program, both in our clinics and at local hospitals. Dr. Bill Cheslin, Dr. Jeffery Link, Dr. William Jerome and Dr. James Osetek provide oral surgery services. Dr. Jamie Van Wingen specializes in pediatric and Dr. Ralph Kooistra sees pediatric patients in the hospital. Dr. Brian Sladics and Dr. Harry Suckert see patients in the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Now they are fine-tuning the Dental Clinics North organization, focusing on community education and prevention. Recently Dental Clinics North was awarded a grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to develop education of allied health care professionals, WIC staff and school screening programs in coordination with private practice dentists. Dental Clinics North will receive a $200,000 award over a four-year period.

Today, over 25 full and part-time dentists and over 80 dental support staff coordinate and deliver services to patients. We saw 12,000 clients in the first six months of this year. By the end of this year, we expect to serve 20,000.

This means booking over 50,000 appointments and all that goes with that, including phone calls, registration, payroll. The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency and its experienced staff have supplied Dental Clinics North with tremendous support.

As Dental Director of Dental Clinics North, I'd like to say "thank you" to everyone involved, including the legislators who supported the oral health program that funded facility development, all the superb Dental Clinic North professional and support staff, and especially Yaroch and Ulrich.

We are most fortunate to have two such committed health care professionals in Charlevoix. Their commitment and passion has had, and will continue to have, a tremendous impact on the oral health of many, many Northern Michigan residents.

The Dental Clinics North project will be recognized this month with a "Community Partner" award by the Emmet and Charlevoix counties Human Service Coordinating Body. In addition, the American Public Health Association has selected them to share the success of Dental Clinics North at its annual meeting. They will be presenting "Dental Clinics North" at this important annual meeting in November in Philadelphia.

In closing, stay well, brush well, and smile when you see Yaroch and Ulrich around Charlevoix. They helped put many of the smiles on faces out in our community.

James Delaney, D.D.S., is dental director of Dental Clinics North. He can be contacted by calling 547-6523.

Annual area CROP Walk to be Sept. 28

Helping stop hunger step-by-step is the purpose of the 19th Annual Charlevoix County CROP Walk scheduled to take place Sept. 28.

Coordinators of the three cities are challenging the participants with a goal of 190 walkers raising $22,000 to fight hunger locally and around the world.

To sign up for the walk and get a sponsor envelope, check with your local church or in Charlevoix, call Kay Smith at (231) 547-2920; in Boyne City call Diana Walls at (231) 582-6485; and in East Jordan call Marge Teske at (231) 536-3128.

CROP Walks are interfaith, community events, part of the outreach of Church World Service; the disaster relief, development and refugee resettlement ministry of Church World Service. Walkers are urged to ask family, friends and co-workers to sponsor them for this event.

Walkers from Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan will walk approximately six miles, by different routes, all ending their hike at the Ironton Congregational Church. There they will have a snack of hot dogs and cold drinks provided by the East Jordan Rotary Club, before being transported back to their starting points.

Last year 176 county walkers raised $20,925. One-quarter of CROP funds are returned to the local communities. Charlevoix and East Jordan pantries each received $1,743.04. The Boyne City Community Service Center received $874.66 and the Boyne City Food Pantry received $866.30.

Local businessman wants the city to let him bid

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix resident Dave Smith wants to know why his local business, Michigan Officeways, was left out of the bidding process to sell new office furniture to the city government of Charlevoix.

The city is working on renovations to City Hall and took bids on new furniture early last summer. It received bids from four companies, all located outside of the Charlevoix area. The deal was eventually awarded to Pinnacle Design in July.

However, the Charlevoix office furniture supplier Michigan Officways — also called Design Installation Services Inc. — was not asked to bid. Michigan Officeways is located on Ance Road, near Martin Road.

In fact, Smith, vice president of the company, only found out about a month ago that the project went out for bids. Smith said all he wants is a chance to bid on the project.

"If I can't save the city money, then I will shut up and go away. But, if I can, I expect to be heard," he said.

Smith added his company can supply top of the line office furniture that could meet the city's needs and is experienced in handling large projects. Plus, Michigan Officeways is a certified "minority company," meaning the city could get government benefits by dealing with them.

However, the city says the process is too far along to allow Smith's company to bid.

Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young said at the Sept. 16 council meeting that the bids have been accepted and the prices have been made public, therefore the process is too far along to reopen bidding.

Plus, the architect handling the project for the city said he did not ask Smith to bid because he thought his company could not provide the city what it needed.

Jim Nichols, of the Harbor Springs architectural firm Fuller-Nichols, which is working on the city hall project, said he suggested the city get bids on four major office furniture brands: Knoll, Haworth, Herman Miller and Steelcase.

Of those four, Nichols said he did not think Smith's company could supply them, therefore he did not ask Michigan Officeways to bid.

Nichols said the manufacturers of Haworth and Knoll told him which companies have the proprietary dealership contract in the area. Plus, Nichols said he knew Commercial Office Interiors could supply him with the Herman Miller brand and Northern Office Suppliers was the dealership for Steelcase in the area.

But, Smith said his company will soon be a Herman Miller dealer and, if anyone had bothered to ask him, he could have provided furniture that is as good as, if not better than, those four brands.

Smith added the city of Charlevoix should start looking closer to home when it is seeking bids on government projects.

"We are losing business here left and right and I am the next one," he said.

Smith said he has lost four local government contracts to outside companies recently and if he doesn't turn this around, Michigan Officeways will close its doors in Charlevoix.

But Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said the city stresses using local businesses in its projects. But, in this case, it was his understanding that the local business could not provide what the architect — Fuller-Nichols — recommended.

Golf team improving as season progresses

The Charlevoix high school varsity golf team has been impressive during recent meets on the local courses.

In the Sept. 13 meet at the Petoskey Northmen Invitational at Walloon Lake Country Club, the team was second with a score of 324 in Division III and IV. It was beaten by Harbor Springs with a score of 317.

"We just keep improving. I feel real good about the team and their progress," coach Jim Glynn said.

In the meet, David Shearer shot a 74 to earn a top 10 medal and fourth place out of more than 100 golfers.

Jordan Nystrom's score of an 80 includes an eagle on hole 17. Also, good play was given by York Smith with an 84 and Ryan DeYoung with an 86.

Chris Golski has worked his way back onto the starting line-up of the varsity team and shot his best round of golf this year at the invitational with a score of 88.

On Sept. 10, the team was at a nonleague match between Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix at the Petoskey Country Club. Petoskey won the meet by two strokes with 164, while Charlevoix and Harbor Springs tied with 166.

Due to the tie, the score of the fifth man was used, giving Harbor Springs the win.

Glynn said this course is short and tough, but the team did very well with its shooting.

"This is nice to see as we come into the heart of our season," he said.

Shearer was a medalist with a one under par with a 35.

Glynn added Nystrom is playing very well lately and Smith and DeYoung are working hard to improve their scores. Nystrom shot a 41, as well as Smith, while DeYoung shot a 49. Kreg Wager was the fifth man with a score of 54.

In the junior varsity meet on the same day, Charlevoix lost to Harbor Springs and Petoskey with a score of 216 to 202 and 181, respectively.

Individual results were: Golski with a 55, Nathan Cole with a 57, Adam Wager with a 54, Jake Burns with a 52 and Gene Foley with a 55.

Rayders lose to Red Devils 42-12

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

East Jordan avenged last year's 42-13 loss to Charlevoix by turning the score around with a 42-12 win over the Rayders last Friday at Kipke Field.

The Red Devils dominated play, holding Charlevoix to negative four yards of total offense and preventing the Rayders from getting a first down.

Charlevoix Coach Todd Klinger pointed to the level of physical play of the teams as the difference.

"We didn't play physical at all. They did and we didn't," Klinger summarized.

East Jordan scored on its opening drive of the game and on the last drive of the second half for a 13-0 lead at the half.

Another Red Devil stop to begin the second half gave them great field position at the Charlevoix 27. East Jordan didn't waste any time, punching in a touchdown three plays later for a 19-0 lead.

One of the few bright spots in the game followed for the Rayders as Taylor Fisher ran the ensuing kickoff back 80 yards for a Charlevoix touchdown. The two-point conversion failed, so the East Jordan lead stood at 19-6 with 9 minutes left in the third quarter.

The Red Devils stopped any Rayder momentum with a 6 minute, 65-yard scoring drive leading to a 12-yard touchdown run. The two-point extra point was converted, upping the lead to 27-6.

Fisher struck again for the Rayders, this time with an 82-yard kick return for a touchdown, cutting the lead to 27-12.

Charlevoix's defense then forced an East Jordan punt and it appeared that if the Rayders could put together some offense, they might have a chance to still pull out the game. The Red Devil defense responded again, forcing a safety to bump the lead to 29-12 and regain possession of the football.

East Jordan added two more touchdowns in the first four minutes of the fourth quarter to close out the game.

"We had a lot of trouble picking up their blitzing linebackers," Klinger said. "We didn't pick them up all night."

Matt Kochanny and Hal Foster led the Rayder defensive attack with 14 and 13 tackles respectively. Foster also had a fumble recovery.

"I thought he played real hard for us on defense," Klinger said of Foster.

Charlevoix (0-3 overall, 0-1 conference) hosts Harbor Springs (1-0, 1-2) on Sept. 20.

"We're going to keep working on getting more physical in practice," Klinger said. "We're doing things in practice that will force them to be more aggressive and more physical. We had probably our best practice yet (Monday)."

Girls' basketball splits non-conference week

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders girls basketball team split non-conference games last week, defeating Gaylord, 67-58 and falling to Maple City Glen Lake, 67-62.

The Rayders jumped out to an early lead against Gaylord and never relinquished it, leading 38-30 at the half en route to the victory.

Sophomore Grace Farrell paced Charlevoix scorers with 16 points. Farrell also pulled down 11 rebounds and blocked five shots. Rachel Wyniawskyj added 16 points while Shayna Drost dished out five assists.

Against Glen Lake, the Rayders suffered from a formula similar to earlier losses to Petoskey and Gaylord St. Mary's, falling behind in the middle periods, rallying in the fourth quarter and coming up just short.

"The girls played really hard," Charlevoix coach Jim Parrish said. "We had another nice comeback in the fourth quarter, but it was one of those games."

The Rayders trailed 22-19 at the half and 44-37 after three quarters.

Farrell again led the way with 30 points for Charlevoix. Wyniawskyj added nine and Alyssia McDonough and Sarah Cross each had eight.

The Rayders hosted Cheboygan on Sept. 17, but results were unavailable at press time.

Charlevoix opens Lake Michigan Conference play at home on Sept. 19 against Boyne City.

Soccer team beats McBain improving record to 5-2

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School varsity soccer team beat Northern Michigan Christian McBain Sept. 12, 3-0, improving its record to 5-2.

"We did a very good job of controlling the ball. This team has excellent passing skills. This team moves the ball around the field well," coach Josh Block said.

Goals were scored by Spencer Bryan, Scott Friske and John DiMartino. Travis Smith and Mike DuPuis has assists. Jake Pace had his third shutout of the season in goal.

While the team won, Block said he was unhappy with its shooting.

"We had a lot of wide and high shots in the game, but we got a lot of shots off," he said. Charlevoix had over 20 shots on goal.

Part of the reason for the wide and high shooting is because the team is working on shooting the ball as soon as it is touched, Block said.

"When we are playing more aggressive teams, those shots have to get to be immediate," he said. "I think we could have bigger wins, but we are trying to play at a pace where we are going to have that time to make those two or three touches."

Block said all three Charlevoix goals were made when the player shot as soon as he touched the ball.

"If we can do that consistently in a game, we are going to be a contender with anyone," he said.

Cemex mining issues discussed at meeting

CEMEX

plans for this year and for the past two years.

"We're getting the communication going between the township and Cemex. With all this (ownership) change we've lost that," Rajewski said.

After the township's Cemex files are updated a mining ordinance change will likely follow. Preliminary vibration studies Gillis conducted at the site show actual vibrations were well below ordinance limitations.

He said this will likely result in an ordinance change lowering allowable vibrations.

While Gillis is qualified to study mining operations at the site and the ordinance addresses noise and vibration concerns, the township doesn't have an ordinance or an expert to address air and water quality issues, two major concerns of residents.

Rajewski said state agencies like the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) and the Department of Natural Resources keep tabs on those issues.

She added that the township could make stricter restrictions in relation to air and water quality issues but she doesn't know what good it would do.

Gillis plans to work with these state agencies to address air and water quality issues but this process hasn't been fully established.

He explained, "The plan is to get a program going so we have someone looking into each area of concern. Then, open the process to further investigation to see what can be done to see that that area is more thoroughly addressed so the public can feel assured each issue is monitored on an ongoing basis."

Gillis will be in Charlevoix based on demand and will take impromptu readings.

Residents' concerns will again be addressed at length at the township board's regular meeting scheduled to take place at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 at the township hall, 12491 Waller Road in Charlevoix. Representatives of the MDEQ will be at the meeting to answer questions.

Those who would like to read a copy of the mining ordinance can do so at the township hall. To contact a township official call (231) 547-4611.

How to get your news in the paper

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

The Lady Light Keeper

Mrs. Dan Williams, Harbor Point Light Keeper, Retires

After serving 44 years as the keeper of lights on Lake Michigan, Mrs. Daniel Williams will retire after November 1, and with her husband, will settle at Charlevoix.

There never was a lighthouse like the one on Harbor Point, Little Traverse Bay, where Mrs. Williams has been stationed the last 29 years. The place is an ideal home comfortably furnished and clean. Mr. and Mrs. Williams pride themselves on their lighthouse home, where they are daily visited by interested summer resorters who have of the "Lady Light Keeper" — the only one on the great lakes.

Mrs. Williams has a romantic past, which she deals in her book "The Child of the Sea," telling of her life among the Mormons who were ruled by King James Jesse Strang on Beaver Island about 50 years ago.

All her life Mrs. Williams has been associated with life on the lakes. She was born on Mackinac Island, her father being Walter Whitney, a ship's carpenter. Elizabeth was the only girl in a family of four children and all the others were sailors.

The Whitney family moved to Beaver Island when Elizabeth was a mere child. At that time King Strang's Reign was at the height of its glory. Her adventures were many and exciting, and the Mormons finally went so far as to drive the Whitneys from the Beavers. They thereupon went to Charlevoix and later to Traverse City, Elizabeth being educated in the public schools of the latter place. And 27 years after leaving the Beavers they once more established a home there, King Strang and his tribe having been forced to vacate.

Miss Whitney was married in 1864 to Clement Van Riper a teacher in the schools of Garden Island. For several years they resided on the Island, Mrs. Van Riper aiding her husband in his duties. In 1869 they retired and Mr. Van Riper was appointed keeper of the Beaver Island lighthouse, of which he remained in charge of till his death by drowning in 1872, when his wife was appointed keeper. Three years later she became Mrs. Daniel Williams, marrying a friend of her childhood days on Mackinac Island. They looked after the Beaver Island light till 1884 when they took up their abode in the new lighthouse created at Harbor Point.

During the season of navigation Mrs. Williams has kept the Harbor Point light burning, assisted by her husband, since the station was built and they leave it with no little sorrow. However they feel they have done their share toward saving the storm-tossed craft of Lake Michigan, and will hereafter occupy a home at Charlevoix, where they have spent the last few winters.

Although, after these 44 years of service, Mrs. Williams has "surrendered," she cannot get away from the water any more than can her husband and their future residence will be located on the shore of Lake Michigan, where they can salute the passing ships the same as they have done on Harbor Point.

So next season strange hands will fill and trim the Harbor Point light, and Lake Michigan will no longer boast of its "Lady Light Keeper."

Old school's fate in doubt

> "Our preference is to sell the whole thing so we're not left holding a portion of the property. And the board's first choice is to keep the property within the community for use in some way."

> Charlevoix Schools superintendent

As potential developers and community entities express interest in the old Charlevoix Middle School property off Grant Street the future of the historic building begins to look bleak.

"This is a 1929 structure. I question that (appraisal amount, $830,000) and totally question from what people are telling me, the reuse of that building," City Manager Mike Wiesner said at a special Charlevoix City Council and Downtown Development Authority (DDA) meeting Sept. 23.

So far, three different bodies have come forward with serious interest in the land and no use for the school itself. This reality has lead the board to have demolition costs appraised.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock said the cost of demolition would then be included in the sale price.

At the city meeting, Wiesner suggested that council and the DDA vote to request right of first refusal from the district, so if any offer comes in it would have the opportunity to counter. And both voted unanimously in favor of making the request.

The Charlevoix Public Library also requested the right of first refusal and while the school board has discussed this request, it hasn't guaranteed the library or the city this right. The board did agree to inform the library if an offer is made and to discuss it with the building committee.

In the meantime, the city is exploring its parking possibilities and the library its expansion possibilities. So far, both have found they would like a chunk of this middle school property and neither want

According to Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Mary Beth Kur, Lasater was issuing a court order that stemmed from Shulick's divorce.

The affidavit of probable cause attached to the complaint and warrant, authored by Kur, states Lasater entered the residence with the permission of Shulick's ex-wife and made contact with John Shulick at the top of the stairway

Four running for Charlevoix city offices

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Election races in the city of Charlevoix are heating up as the countdown to the Nov. 5 general election begins.

Alvin Russell

Gabe Campbell

D. J. Way

Karen Campbell

Four city seats will be decided in November, only two of which will be fought for, that of the mayor and an open second ward slot. First and third ward seats up for re-election are currently unopposed.

The race to become mayor of the city of Charlevoix is a faceoff of two friends, current mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell and current second ward councilman Gabe Campbell.

Campbell, 69, decided to take himself out of the running for his second ward seat, which he has held since November of 1994. In April he opted instead to try for the mayor's chair.

"I like Butch, it's not personal; I just think it's time for a change," he said.

He wants to see city council start making better finanical decisions.

"As much as I can, I would like to bring to council's attention the overspending and try and push the administration into doing more what the citizens want because they seem to be left out," Campbell said.

Russell disagrees with Campbell's take on city spending.

"I feel we have very competent staff doing an excellent job. You have to spend money to have nice things, I think we are in good financial shape," he said.

Russell, 58, is a Charlevoix native currently in his third term as mayor. He said he is running to keep his seat because he enjoys the job and feels he runs orderly meetings.

This will be the first time Russell will run opposed. He was a city councilman for 11 years prior to first being elected mayor in 1998.

Russell owns Charlevoix Towing and is married to his wife of 39 years, Betty, and has two children, who also live in town.

Campbell is in his eighth year as a councilman and is a member of the Credit Union Board and the Knights of Columbus. He lives in the second ward with his wife, Karen. The couple raised four children in town and are retired. Campbell formerly

Three running for county district one seat

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With three candidates running for the Charlevoix County Commission's open district one seat, voters have some tough choices to make in the Nov. 5 general election.

District one includes the city of Charlevoix (north of the bridge), Charlevoix Township (north of the bridge) Hayes Township and Bay Township. Candidates for this office are Republican Valerie Snyder, Democrat Paul Richards and the Green Party's William Henne.

Snyder, a resident of Charlevoix Township and life-long resident of Charlevoix, is married and has a 7-month-old child. She is also a lawyer working part-time at the Charlevoix law offices of Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof and Snyder, where she is also a partner.

Snyder is a former member of the Charlevoix City Council and has also served on the Charlevoix City Planning Commission, is on the board of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, served on the board of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful for four years and was a Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Ambassador.

She said she is running for the commission seat because she enjoys local government.

"I enjoyed being on the city council and have experience in local government. I think I did a good job as a council member," she said.

She said she believes the big issue facing the county right now is a county administrator. This person would oversee county business on a daily basis. Charlevoix County does not have an administrator currently.

"I am leaning heavily toward favoring a county administrator," she said. "It seems to make sense to me. There are a whole bunch of committees currently in the county and a lot of the times the committee as a whole (county commission) doesn't know what the committees are doing. It may also give us the opportunity to generate grants if we have someone in charge like that."

Snyder said she will also be working on eliminating the health benefits the commissioners currently get. She said that was part of her

Was it the full moon or just bad luck?

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

White and round it sits silently in the night sky, while casting shadows through the trees and inspiring fear in the hearts of many.

The full moon has been the center of many horror stories and movies throughout the ages. Who can't think of Dracula's figure illuminated by the light of the moon through the castle window? The fearsome headless horseman riding down a moonlit road, searching for a victim? Or the howls of a werewolf piercing the night sky and turning your hair on end?

I have always been fascinated by the moon. As a young boy, I loved to play hide-and-seek in the moonlight, stared at the sky wishing I were an astronaut and could taste "moon cheese" and relished telling others that the moon belonged to my family. Here is a little side note: When astronaut Alan Bean went to the moon, the Clan McBain (also spelled MacBean) gave him a flag made out of its Scottish tartan (a sort of plaid style piece of cloth signifying a family). Bean left the flag on the moon, therefore giving the Clan McBain's tartan the nickname "moon tartan."

In addition to this, when I was younger I used to fear the moon because I worried I was a werewolf. Hey, mix a young mind full of imagination, too many scary tales by the campfire and a dad that is superhairy....it is not too hard to understand when you are a kid.

And there are some real life fears of the moon, as it has been reported that strange things happen during a full moon. For example, police say that crimes tend to rise on the night of a full moon.

In fact, every full moon I find that "strange things" happen around me. Plus, these strange incidents tend to last several days, if not weeks, after the full moon. And, if something odd doesn't happen, my theory is the oddness scale goes up, thus making whatever will happen very odd.

Have I lost you yet? Here, take for example this latest full moon, which was Saturday. Nothing really odd happened to me on Saturday or Sunday. Therefore, I knew I was in for it within the next few days. It was building up.

But, when Monday morning started with a loud ringing in my ears, I knew the full moon had caught up with me.

Monday is the deadline day for the Charlevoix Courier. This is the day when all of the stories have to be typed and edited and I have to start putting them into the paper. This is an extremely busy day.

This one started with a phone ringing, right next to my bed, waking me from a peaceful slumber. When I picked it up, a frantic friend of mine in Traverse City informed me of a breaking news story in Charlevoix.

So, I leapt out of bed, rushed around the house trying to get ready and hurried into the Courier office. With my adrenaline pumping, I entered the office, sat down at my desk and turned on my computer.

But, then I noticed my computer wasn't turning on. The rush of a breaking story was gone. It was replaced by confusion.

I clicked the computer's buttons several times, but no life came to its screen. I played with the plugs in the back of it. Still no life. I unplugged it and tried again. Still blank. I massaged its keys. Nothing. Swore at it. Nothing. Promised it fame and money. Nothing. Begged it. Nothing. Tried to surprise it by looking in another direction while I pressed the on key. Nothing.

The full moon strangeness struck, big time. Here I was on deadline day, while my computer refused to give me access to all of this week's stories and other information I needed.

After spending all Monday morning with a computer technician, only to learn that there was a "big problem" with my computer and it was not coming back on, I realized I still had a newspaper to put out this week. Luckily, we were able to get most of the information I needed for this week's newspaper off its hard drive.

So, the staff and I increased our caffeine intake, put our noses to the grindstone and were able to save the paper.

Due to this computer error, we may have lost some information sent in by organizations last week through e-mail. If your organization was one of these and you notice your event or news missing from this week's edition, please contact me.

Hopefully the next full moon is a little less "hairy" for the Courier staff. At least I didn't turn into a werewolf.

Baseball, political campaigns

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

A few weeks ago I wrote briefly about the relationship between team payroll and the winning percentages of the major league baseball teams, suggesting that more money meant more wins.

There was a positive statistical correlation between the total team payrolls and the winning percentages for each team. Now as the regular season winds down we can complete that analysis and suggest how it might be related to other, non-sport human activities.

Is winning in baseball related to the money spent for players? The more complete answer is, "Yes and no." The overall correlation between winning percentages and team payroll has stayed about the same for the season; that is, about 0.5 on a scale of 0 to 1. But a look at the two leagues separately is revealing. The correlation of winning to payroll for the American League is surprisingly low: about .33. The same calculation for the National League reveals a very close relationship of .65. Statistically that means that almost half of the variation in winning percentage is due solely to the team payroll.

The only meaningful difference in financing for the two leagues is that the National League has a salary cap. It's hard to tell whether that or some other unknown factor is important. What is clear is that the relationship of payroll to winning is very different in the two leagues.

The average per team payroll is greater in the American League; about $69,400,000, compared to a mere $65,700,000 for the National. Nine teams in the National League have a payroll below that average, and only one of those nine is winning more than half its games. Five of the seven teams with above average payrolls are playing over .500.

Does more money make for a winner in baseball? On average it certainly does. Does the principle of money making a winner apply more broadly? Most likely.

It is much more difficult to determine just how much money is spent on winning a political campaign, but

Memory of Klooster

Editor:

I was truly sorry to read of the death of Bob Klooster, a legend in his own time and a real class act. I had the privilege of playing fast pitch softball when Bob was in his prime.

We had a summer league and our team was the City Merchants. I was labeled a pretty good glove, but no stick, kind of player. It was the summer of 1959 or 1960, I am not sure which, and the City Merchants were

Higher pay equals wins in baseball, politics

KNUTSON

we all know who the winners are; they are the people who govern our country and our state. We now track candidates by how much money they have been able to raise and pay less attention to their political views. Generally incumbents get more money for campaigns than do their challengers and we all know that incumbents win the vast majority of campaigns. I can't provide you with a number suggesting what the correlation of money spent to winning is, but I am willing to bet the statistical correlation is better than the one in the National League.

Correcting the situation in baseball is an interesting, but almost trivial problem compared to the political one. How could our politicians' dependence on money be reduced? How could campaigns be made more dependent on the views and voting of political leaders and less on how much money they have? The easy answer is giving them all exactly the same amount of money and let the best campaigner win.

In sport, that's called a level playing field, and we pretty much insist on it at least physically. I don't expect we will have a level political playing field any time soon, but I am a perpetual optimist.

playing Bob Klooster's team.

OK, the stage is set so here is my Bob Klooster story.

Bob was a very imposing figure standing out there on the mound which seemed so very close to home plate. On most of his pitches, I really couldn't see the ball, I just listened for the sound of the ball hitting the catcher's mitt. When I heard the sound three times, that usually meant it was time for me to sit down. One night, I was standing at home plate looking out at the mound where Big Bob stood, over on first, equally as imposing and seeming broader at the shoulders was his brother, Hank.

Hank was not helping matters any, because he was tapping his glove and saying, "In er Bob. In er babe." Well, Bob wound-up and I heard the ball hit the catcher's mitt, strike one. He wound up again and again that oh so familiar sound of the ball hitting the catchers mitt, strike two. Well, for some unknown reason on the next pitch, and to this day I am not sure if was a change-up (you never throw a poor hitter a change-up) or he just felt sorry for me, but I could actually see the ball coming toward home plate.

I swung with everything I had, all 155 pounds, the ball jumped off of the bat and was soaring toward left field. By the time I rounded first I actually thought the ball was going to clear the left field fence.

So I slowed down to savor the moment. Well between second and third, I realized that the ball had dropped between the left fielder and the base of the fence, he probably should have caught the ball. While I didn't have much power back then, I could run and if I hadn't broken into the trot I could have made it all the way home, but anyway, I made it to third.

When the dust settled, I was standing on the bag and I looked over at big Bob. He looked at me and kind of gave me an ever so slight smile. Not being one to let an opportunity like this pass, which I was sure was a once in a life time thing, I looked back, smiled and simply said, "In er Bob. In er babe." That is my memory of "Big Bob Klooster," quite a ball player and quite a guy.

Editor:

Thank you to Julie Witthoeft for her recent story regarding Cemex and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ).

I sincerely hope that the Michigan DEQ will hold Cemex accountable for the repeated violations of exceeding limits for discharging chemicals into the air.

Too many times in the past, under the Engler administration, the DEQ has sent mixed messages in situations such as the one with Cemex.

My family has lived in the Charlevoix area for almost 40 years, and we have seen the increase in the amount of noise and violations for discharges into the air and into Lake Michigan from the Cemex plant.

The leaders at Cemex should realize that being a good corporate citizen requires more than donating money or displaying a float in the Venetian Festival Street Parade. A true "good neighbor" would eliminate any violations of polluting the air and water which make Charlevoix such a unique place to live. They would also limit the amount of excessive noise from their operation.

Keeping a business profitable and being able to continue to provide jobs for the area workers, along with protecting the environment at the same time can be done!

I hope that other area residents who are concerned about this issue, will speak up!

Editor:

A couple years back I was diagnosed with the virus Chronic Fatigue also known as Epstein-Barr Virus. I looked everywhere to find a doctor who would help and had no luck, untill one day when I was at the hospital I ran into Dr. Richard Mansfield. There I told him my syndrome and he said he would love to help. I could call him anytime whether it was on his cell, home phone or at his office, he was always willing to lend a hand. Dr. Mansfield took his own time to serve his patients.

Thanks to Dr. Mansfield my rare virus was finally at a normal rate. He really made a difference in my life that words can never describe. I thank God for him. If he would have never helped I still wonder today what would have happened to me. All of his patients, friends and family owe him a lot. We will all miss you very much Dr. Mansfield. So if you knew this wonderful doctor or he has helped you please say a prayer for him, cause he has touched so many lives.

Preparations being made for annual CROP Walk

Rain or shine Charlevoix CROP Walkers will meet Sept. 28 at the Charlevoix Middle School lawn to participate in the nineteenth annual Charlevoix County CROP Walk to raise funds to fight hunger at home, in Michigan, nationally and around the world.

Special award pins will be earned by walkers who raise $150 or more. One quarter of the funds raised by the Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan walkers will be returned to the food pantries in each city.

While the walk will begin at 9 a.m. walkers are urged to come earlier to register at 8:30 a.m., turn in the top sheet of their sponsor envelopes and get an orange vest, required safety item for all walkers.

A prayer circle at 8:50 a.m. will remind participants of safety rules and that a CROP-marked car will accompany them to pick up anyone who feels they cannot complete the walk. The distance is approximately 6 miles for each of the cities.

From the school, walkers will follow the sidewalk to Stover road, jog right to M-66 and follow the sidewalk to its end near Wolohans. From that point on they will walk on the road shoulder. CROP Walk signs will mark the way along M66 and indicate the turn at Washington Street in Ironton to the Congregational Church. There the East Jordan Rotary Club will have refreshments ready.

After fellowship with walkers from East Jordan and Boyne City, transportation will be provided back to the starting point at the Middle School.

As the name indicates, this is a walk, so bicycles, skateboards and inline skates are not allowed. Children may be pushed in strollers or pulled in wagons. Wheelchairs are allowed.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office has been alerted to the walk and will monitor the routes from Boyne City and East Jordan as well as Charlevoix.

Reach for the Stars campaign comes to a close

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Rotary Club is nearing the end of its successful Reach for the Stars fundraising effort to benefit the new auditorium at Charlevoix High School.

The club, operating in conjunction with the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation, exceeded its goal of raising $225,000 by over $25,000.

Rotary teamed up with the foundation early on and through a $150,000 foundation donation made it well over half way to its goal.

According to Reach for the Stars chairpersons Dennis Halverson and Dan Barron, the $150,000 contribution was used primarily to fund a hydraulic stage and the remaining $90,000 the Rotary Club gathered was used to pay for lighting, related lighting hardware and the sound system.

"Our goal is to provide the students with the highest quality performance venue we can. The facility will also be able to bring in national, professional caliber entertainment for the kids and the community at large," Barron said.

Halverson added, "Plus, it gives the students interested in arts from a technical standpoint an opportunity to work with equipment they may see if they pursue a career in that area."

Barron explained the new facility opened up curriculum possibilities in the field of performing arts and music technical production.

High school principal Gary Grundman said those curriculum possibilities have already been implemented this year.

"The new auditorium opens the door for a whole bunch of things curriculum wise we've never had. Our kids will learn hands on stage craft and sound and light engineering," he said.

Students will now be seated at the big control boards programming shows and crafting sets.

The community can get its first look at the state-of-the-art auditorium, hailed as the future of entertainment in Charlevoix, Oct. 5. At the inaugural celebration, Rotary Club representatives including Halverson and fellow club member Tim Petrosky will present the stealthy check to the school district.

And then, Three Men and A Tenor will test out the audio system with their trademark music and comedy routine. The Rayder Jazz Band and the high school performing arts group will also perform.

"It will be a celebration of the facility and will provide a glimpse into its enormous potential," Barron said. "The facility offers the opportunity for the community to enjoy a wide array of fine arts entertainment."

The inaugural performance will take place homecoming weekend to include as many Charlevoix residents and alumni as possible.

The auditorium seats 600 guests and as of Sept. 18, 100 pre-sale tickets had been mailed to Reach for the Stars contributors who will continue to be offered pre-sale options as was promised when donations were accepted.

Others who wish to purchase tickets can do so at the Bridge Street Book Shop located at 405 Bridge Street in Charlevoix. Tickets are $20 for general admission seating. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Rotary Club and the Charlevoix Venetian Festival Productions.

For those unable to buy tickets through the book store, tickets can be purchased by calling Barron at Venetian Productions at (231) 547-9950.

Reach for the Stars donations will be accepted up until the day of the event. To contribute, contact Barron at the number listed above.

Freda's other interests dealt with her great love of reading and spending time in the great outdoors traveling, hunting and camping.

Freda was preceded in death by her parents Amos and Elinor, her loving daughter, Gleneen, in 1951, and her husband of 57 years, Glenn, in 1990.

Survivors include her sister, Edith (Kenneth) Balch, nephews, Ken Balch, Jr. (Kaye), Ronald (Deanne) and Garry (Teresa) and seven great-nieces and nephews: Randy, Jeff, Michelle, Bambi, Stephanie, Kendall and Kevin. Her gentle kindness will make her absence deeply felt in the lives of her family and dear friends.

Memorial services and committal services were on Sept. 24 at the Winchester Funeral Home. Interment was at Brookside Cemetery. The Rev. Neil Turner officiated.

Those planning an expression of sympathy are asked to consider Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Fire chief Carver announces retirement

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

After over 40 years of dedicated public safety service Charlevoix City Fire Chief Doug Carver will retire, a change of command that could bring more to the area than a new face.

Carver, 62, is planning to officially retire in late January of 2003 and the city is grappling with the idea of initiating a major transformation for its fire and ambulance departments that will impact the township's they serve.

Carver moved to Petoskey in 1975 from California where he worked with Sunnyvale Public Safety Department as both a policeman and as a fireman.

He was born and raised in down-river Detroit and spent vacations at his parents cottage in Rogers City, so he was familiar with northern Michigan. Plus, Petoskey's North Central Michigan College offered his wife, Tootie, a chance to finish her nursing studies.

Carver immediately signed on with the Emmet County Prosecutor's Office as a paralegal and as the training officer for the Resort-Bear Creek Fire Department. His position as training officer quickly turned into fire chief and he maintained his paralegal status.

Then in 1992 he read an advertisement stating the city of Charlevoix was looking to hire a new fire chief. He was hired on in May of that year, replacing former chief and current Department of Public Works Director, John Martin.

He said now, a decade later, the department has realized major changes.

Since he signed on Carver said the city fire and ambulance departments have added new equipment and several services.

"Calls for the fire department have doubled and there are one-third more calls for the EMS," he said of the growth over the last decade.

This growth, coupled with the reality of Carver's encroaching retirement prompted the city and the townships served by the city's fire and ambulance services including: Norwood, Marion and part of Eveline Township, to review possibilities for the future.

One likely outcome is the establishment of a fire and ambulance authority.

"The city is bringing this up now so if the townships are interested, they can have a voice in picking the new chief," Carver said.

The city of Charlevoix currently contracts those townships to provide fire and ambulance protection. Carver said the townships currently have no say in the protection and at the end of the year they have basically "rented" the service and own nothing.

"They (the townships) are growing enough to support it and cost savings make it even more advantageous," Carver said.

Carver explained the authority would locate individual stations in each township and said the set-up is a more cost-effective option for the township. The cost savings comes as the townships now own the fire station and fire equipment they provide and also realize insurance breaks.

Currently, homes more than five miles from a station are considered without fire protection by insurance companies, who charge high rates for coverage. But, under the authority, the insurance rating would be better.

From a safety standpoint, Carver said township's may also see advantages as having a station in the middle of the township would allow emergency personnel the chance to respond faster.

Overseeing the city fire and ambulance units and the township's individual units would be one fire chief, as Carver currently is.

The Marion Township Board met Sept. 17 and decided the authority is a concept the township is interested in exploring with the city. Representatives from Eveline and Norwood townships did not return calls by press time.

While the new authority may run the show in the near future, after January Carver plans to turn in his lights and start to "play flexible."

"It's a very good fire department; I'm going to confidently take the red lights off my truck," he said.

The Carver's plan to continue to live in Charlevoix and visit relatives in sunny climates this winter, after the chief's retirement is official.

Health department to have town meetings

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (the health department) will sponsor a series of town meetings throughout its four-county service area, seeking community input for changes to the local sanitary codes.

These codes regulate on-site septic systems and water supplies and provide criteria for certification or development.

The health department processes approximately 2,000 permits annually in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

"The Board of Health and the Environmental Health staff of the health department believe it's time to review the sanitary codes in the counties we serve," Gerry Chase, health officer, said. "We're most concerned about off-site and pump-back sewage disposal systems for properties which would otherwise not be suitable for building development."

Much of the property most suitable for on-site sewage disposal has already been developed. Now some owners of lakeshore property and other highly desirable sites are using pump back and off-site sewage disposal systems. "These systems are an excellent alternative in unsuitable building sites," said Dean Mikulski, director of environmental health for the health department. "Our primary concern with these systems is to assure the community that they will be properly maintained."

According to the Public Health Code, the process of revising local public health regulations, including sanitary codes, consists of formal public hearings, followed by adoption by the Board of Health and approval from County Boards of Commissioners. Prior to beginning this formal process, the health department is sponsoring a town meeting in each of the counties it serves.

"We hope everyone with concerns and questions about their sanitary code in general and off-site and pump-back sewage systems in particular will attend their local town meeting," Chase said.

Upcoming town meetings will be at 7 p.m. at local offices of the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency (health department): On Oct. 2 at the Charlevoix County Office in Charlevoix; on Oct. 9 at the Antrim County Office in Bellaire; and Oct. 16 at the Emmet County Branch Office on M-119 between Petoskey and Harbor Springs.

All interested are welcome to attend. For more information, contact Dean Mikulski at the health department at (231)547-6523.

DDA and city council to discuss park, marina plans

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority and Charlevoix City Council will host a joint meeting at 7 p.m., Sept. 25 in council chambers at city hall. The purpose of the meeting is to review plan alternatives for the downtown combined park and marina projects.

Sisters offer tanning, salon

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Using one sister's experience with cosmetology and the other's experience in business and tanning, J. Marie Salon and Beyond want to help the people of Charlevoix live up to the title of "the beautiful."

J. Marie Salon and Beyond is owned by sisters Josie and Jenny Wardin. It is located at 1516 Bridge Street, in the Port Air Plaza, in Charlevoix.

Josie said the sisters opened the salon because they did not see any other tanning and body care businesses like it in the area, especially with high-quality stand-up Hex tanners.

"I was going to another tanner and I didn't like it. So I just got an investor and made it happen," Josie said.

To give customers more than just a good tan, Josie asked her sister, Jenny, to join her. Jenny recently received her cosmetology license from a cosmetology school in Bay City and had salon experience in Saginaw.

But, because she just received her license, Jenny cannot give hair cuts or do styling until January. Due to a large number of current requests for such services, the sisters said they are looking for a hair stylist to add to their staff.

Until then, J. Marie Salon and Beyond offers customers a choice of three stand up tanning units — Hex brands — and two regular tanning beds, as well as waxing, ear piercing and paraffin hand treatments.

"We have tanners that a lot of people have never experienced before. Every unit has brand new hot bulbs that give a great tan. We also offer great customer service with a fun and friendly atmosphere," Josie said.

The salon also sells a variety of hair care and tanning products, such as Bed Head brands and Australian Gold.

Restaurant joins rising number of smokeless areas

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The surgeon general's warning on a pack of cigarettes plainly spells out the risks smokers take each time they light up, but in the last few years a new group has been shown to also be at risk, those who inhale second hand smoke.

Health risks and other issues associated with second hand smoke have prompted many establishments across the nation, including bars and restaurants, to ban smoking indoors and the trend has caught on locally.

As of Saturday, Oct. 5 the local diner Judy's Restaurant will officially change its 14 year status from smoking to smoke free.

Judy's co-owner, Ed Johnson, a non-smoker, said the change came after non-smoking patrons approached him and his wife, Judy, also a non-smoker, and requested the change.

"They said trying to eat and have smoke in their face with the restaurant being so small is a little overwhelming at times," Judy said.

"Other times no one is smoking," Ed added.

He said the facility is 880 square feet including the kitchen area. It currently hosts 36 patrons and eight of those total available seats are in a non-smoking section that directly abuts the smoking tables and counter seating area where smoking is also permitted.

The decision to transform the restaurant from eight to 36 non-smoking seats wasn't based solely on the restaurant's non-smoking clientele. In fact some of the complaints came from smokers who don't want to be in a smoky environment while eating.

Complaints from smokers and non-smokers started about three years ago and the couple has been milling over their options ever since. A recent influx in complaints prompted them to conduct a survey of its regular clients and the results came out 2:1 in favor of a change to non-smoking.

In spite of the landslide outcome of the survey and the subsequent switch to non-smoking, Judy stressed that smoking customers are welcome.

"We respect our smoking customers as just as valuable as those who don't. We hope they stay because they like the food," she said.

Ed added that many smoking patrons have come forward since they announced the pending transition and said the quality of the food far outweighs the smoke friendly environment.

While neither Ed or Judy smoke, both understand the fight many smokers have in trying to quit.

"We totally understand how difficult it is for people who smoke to stop smoking," Judy said.

"A lot try and just can't," Ed added.

Other Charlevoix eateries where patrons can dine in a smoke free environment include fast food restaurants: McDonald's, Burger King, Subway and Taco Bell Express. And full service restaurants with a smoke free environment including: the Acorn Cafe, Juilleret's, New World Cafe, Great Lakes Whitefish and Chips, Pizza Hut and The Argonne Supper Club.

Ed and Judy Johnson, owners of Judy's Restaurant on Antrim Street, have recently made their business smoke-free. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Parents will learn proven skills, such as how to set limits while maintaining goodwill, cope with their child's negative feelings, express anger without hurting, engage their child's willing cooperation and help their child become caring and responsible. Parents will also learn how to resolve conflicts peacefully and create a family atmosphere of love and respect.

The four-session workshop is sponsored by the Women's Resource Center and will be led by Joann F. Townsend, ACSW. The cost of the workshop is $75 per person or $80 per couple, materials are included. Funding sources are available. Please contact Kitty McNamara at Beaver Island Schools or the Women's Resource Center for an application.

The sessions will take place from 9:30 to 11 a.m., Sept. 26, Oct. 3 and from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and again from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Oct. 10 and Oct. 17. Certificates of completion will be awarded at the conclusion of the program.

Advance registration and payment is requested. Space is limited.

"Parents are on the firing line seven days a week. Yet few of them have had any training for this demanding job. No wonder even the most well-intentioned parents often find themselves feeling frustrated, bewildered, guilty or alone," said Adele Faber and Elaine Mazlish, award wining authors of the book and program.

The "How to Talk So Kids Will Listen" workshop gives parents a chance to learn practical new skills and exchange ideas and experiences with each other," Townsend added.

Hundreds of thousands of parents and professionals have benefited from the workshop. In studies in Wisconsin, Colorado and North Dakota, researchers found that attending parents developed skills that significantly and lastingly improved the quality of their family life. They also found these new-found skills worked equally well with children of all ages.

Ways request zoning for 1,200 unit development

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Eveline Township Planning Commission is faced with a tough rezoning request that could bring a 1,200 unit modern manufactured home community to a parcel currently zoned farm and forest.

"This request for an R-4 could put us in a big catch. We could be approving something we can't control," Chris Carson, a member of the planning commission said.

The commission hosted the first public hearing about the rezone request Sept. 18 and made no decision. It is planning a second public hearing at a date that has not been decided.

At last week's hearing, a presentation was made by Michael Boss, a professional engineer with Boss Engineering of Howell, reflecting a project property owners Dawson and Mark "Barney" Way want to pursue if their zoning change to R-4, is granted.

The Ways requested 155 acres of land they own be rezoned R-4, mobile home residential, to be used for a manufactured housing community that could accommodate 200-1,200 homes.

Carson's comment was a reaction to the possibility of 1,200 homes popping up on the parcel, the maximum amount allowed by the ordinance which stipulates eight homes per acre in the R-4 zone.

The township's zoning ordinance and master plan consultant, Brad Keyer, of the planning firm Gourdie Fraser of Traverse City, cautioned the commission. He said in making its decision it can't place conditions on the rezoning by limiting the number of homes allowed.

But, Boss said this 1,200 home maximum may be allowed, but it simply isn't feasible.

"What we physically can do on this property is much less than what the ordinance allows," he said.

Boss explained the land includes rolling hills and a ravine that runs from the southeast corner of the property to the northwest corner and the "intense" development would not include mass grading or development on hillsides.

Another possible project inhibitor Boss discussed is the sewage disposal system. He said options for waste removal include an on-site treatment plant or hooking into the Marion Township sewer line that feeds to the city of Charlevoix. He added that 90 percent of the developments he has worked on have on-site treatment systems and the remaining 10 percent are run through municipalities.

The on-site treatment plant is expensive and he estimated it would take at least 200 home sites to reimburse the cost. The financial return would be a gamble for the Ways who would pay the up front cost of installing the treatment system and would then have to wait and see as the development grows in phases if it would pay off.

"This is a business; we want to get a return on the property and make it useful," Boss said.

However, talk of an on-site system is just that. Boss said three things have to happen first, finding a suitable location, getting the discharge permit from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and conducting hydra-geological testing.

While the topography limits the size of the development and the treatment plant is an investment gamble, Boss said this land is still one of the prime areas in the township for an R-4 use and pinpointed several reasons the commission should recommend the township board approve the change.

Residents disagree with this.

At the public hearing many questioned why the commission was hearing a request the township's master plan doesn't support.

Planning commission chairman Eric Beishlag said the commission has to hear all applications that are submitted.

In an interview, he said the master plan highlights R-4 developments as being preferred in the Advance and Ironton areas and that the north end of the Way property, which borders M-66, medium density is encouraged.

Boss described the possible development as intense and said it is well suited to the Way land for many reasons supported by the township's zoning ordinance.

He said access to the site is one key factor. The land has access off M-66 and one-half mile of frontage on Broek

Ways want zoning for modular homes

Road. Boss explained this is necessary because R-4 communities often generate traffic and the highway can best handle it. He added that Brock Road offers secondary access ideal for safety.

Proximity to Charlevoix and other services was also listed as a desirable trait of the property, including: close shopping, schools and churches.

The property is within range to be serviced by underground electrical and cable TV and possibly by gas with a short extension.

During the presentation he also mentioned there is a great need for affordable housing in Charlevoix County and in Eveline Township specifically. He noted this would be an ideal destination for young couples starting out and for seniors and described the development as a community and a neighborhood.

In spite of the many positives according to Boss, township residents came up with a few reasons why it isn't.

Nancy Ferguson said there are several mobile home parks in Charlevoix that aren't currently at capacity and there isn't a need. Others asked why the property can't be developed under its current zoning which would allow one home per five acres of land. And others were concerned with crime rates, the aesthetic impact of the project and its potential impact on property values.

Dawson declined to comment on these inquiries.

The planning commission did not review the findings of fact and will do so at a later public hearing. If the commission votes to recommend approval to the township board the Charlevoix County Planning Commission will also review the request with the township board making the final decision.

Boating accident Sept. 14

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office investigated a water accident on Lake Charlevoix near Two-mile Point, within Marion Township, at approximately 10 p.m. on Sept. 14. A 25-foot vessel, operated by Todd Essenberg of Ellsworth, ran aground, coming to rest approximately 30 feet beyond the shoreline. Accident factors included low visibility, rough waters and heavy rain. The vessel sustained extensive damage, yet there were no reported injuries. The accident was investigated by Marine Deputy Steve Speigl, and remains under investigation. (Courtesy photo)

Man arrested in area break-ins

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office has arrested a 22-year old Boyne Valley Township man for his involvement in a string of Home Invasions/Breaking and Enterings throughout the eastern half of Charlevoix County over the last several weeks.

The suspect is also believed to be involved in similar crimes in Emmet and Antrim counties.

The sheriff's office obtained a home invasion arrest warrant charging him with breaking down a door on a seasonal residence in Boyne Valley Township in early September.

The suspect fled the area and entered Canada on Saturday. Sheriff's Detectives were in contact with Sault Ste. Marie Ontario Constables on Sunday morning to gather additional evidence, when the suspect was involved in a minor traffic crash near Newberry. He had apparently re-entered the country without being detained.

The suspect was arrested by a Michigan State Police Trooper from the Newberry Post on the Charlevoix County warrant. The suspect was expected to be back in Charlevoix County late Sunday night.

The investigation is continuing by the Charlevoix and Antrim county Sheriff's Office and the Michigan State Police-Petoskey Post.

Lansing man injured in automobile accident

A 30-year-old Lansing man was injured in a one vehicle accident around 6 a.m., Sept. 21 on US-31, near Ance Road.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, a 1998 GMC Yukon SUV driven by Kenneth John Lightford was traveling south on US-31. Evidence showed that Lightford apparently fell asleep and the vehicle ran off the road striking several driveway culverts and driveway markers before crashing head-on into an oak tree.

The vehicle was totaled.

Lightford was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix Ambulance before being transferred to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. Lightford suffered numerous injuries including a fractured femur.

Alcohol consumption was a factor and he was not wearing a seat belt.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix Police Department. The crash remains under investigation.

Girls win conference game

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders took their first step toward defending their Lake Michigan Conference title by defeating Boyne City, 67-41 in their conference opener.

"We went through the conference last year without a lot of talk about winning it and we ended up going through undefeated," Charlevoix coach Jim Parrish said. "This year we're working toward defending it, but it'll be difficult to go undefeated. There could be four teams tied for first this year."

The Rayders jumped out earlier to a 14-9 first quarter lead keyed by Grace Farrell's eight points. In the second quarter, Alyssia McDonough tallied eight points as Charlevoix upped the advantage to 36-19 at the half.

"Alyssia kept hitting open shots. She did a real nice job keeping us going," Parrish said.

The lead bulged to 56-30 at the end of the third stanza before both teams emptied the benches for the final period.

Farrell, the only returning starter from last season's conference champions, paced the Rayders with 18 points, eight rebounds and six blocks. She was nine-for-ten from the field with the only missing coming on a three-point attempt.

McDonough finished with ten points and eight rebounds. She was perfect from the floor, hitting on all five of her shooting attempts. The Rayders shot 62 percent from the field for the game.

Shayna Drost had eight points and six assists. Kari Way contributed with eight points and four rebounds. Becca Kanine dished out seven assists.

Earlier in the week, the Rayders lost to Cheboygan, the fifth ranked team in Class B according to the Associated Press, 62-50.

The loss marked the second for Charlevoix against ranked opponents. Gaylord St. Mary's, ranked number four in Class D, defeated the Rayders earlier this season. Later in the year, Charlevoix will play St. Ignace and Benzie Central, also ranked in Class C's top ten.

Parrish believes the tough non-conference schedule will help the Rayders in their drive for the conference.

"You've got to play better teams if you want to get better," he said.

Rachel Wyniawskyj scored 17 points off the bench to keep Charlevoix in the game. She was five for 11 on three-point attempts. Farrell scored ten points and pulled down eight boards. Drost had seven points, four rebounds and three assists.

The Rayders returned to action with two road games this week. On Sept. 24 they traveled to Elk Rapids and on Sept. 26 they play at St. Ignace. Game results for both contests will appear in next week's Courier.

Rayders get first win of season

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

If the lesson out of last week's loss to East Jordan was that the Charlevoix Rayders need to control the line of scrimmage in order to win ball games, the lesson appeared learned just two plays into last Friday night's game against Harbor Springs.

Nick Pizzurro burst through a gap in the Rams' defensive line and ran 61 yards to set up a Jeff Urban five-yard touchdown run moments later. The Rayders never looked back en route to a 26-13 win.

"This offensive line seems to play better when they have a lot of physical contact during the week," coach Todd Klinger said. "We put them through very physical practices this week. The risk in doing that is that the chance for injury increases, but we need to walk that line."

Charlevoix continued to dominate play, driving to the Harbor Springs 30-yard line on their next drive before losing a fumble. Following an exchange of punts, the Rams put together a drive into Rayder territory but were rebuffed on a fourth and 13 at the Charlevoix 24.

Urban broke loose for a 55-yard touch-down run at the 8:43 mark of the second half to make the score, 12-0.

Harbor Springs was again stopped and the Rayders put together a sustained march down the field in response. A key play on the drive was an eight-yard pickup by Pizzurro on a third and the school itself.

Library, city want part of property

SCHOOL

The library and city have yet to make the district an offer.

The total property, including the area where the building currently sits, is 14 lots.

The library is interested in buying six open lots where it would build a new library, equipped with designated parking. The six lots includes the current school administrative office off Clinton Street which the library may swap for its current facility where the administrative offices would relocate, just down Clinton Street two blocks.

The administrative office building has been appraised at $140,000.

The city is interested in four lots on the property to convert to a parking lot and park area.

Wiesner explained the city will likely lose 18 Mason Street parking places when East Park is renovated and parking will need to be replaced and possibly more required by the Waterways Commission, the marina funding agency, to accommodate boaters.

The DDA, which would fund the city's property purchase, also voted to expand its coverage to include the area of the school. While all its members voted in favor of the expansion, one, Jeannine Wallace, wasn't pleased with the possible use.

"I'm concerned with putting a parking lot in the middle of one of the oldest residential areas in the city; other DDA lots have been placed behind buildings," she said.

Wiesner responded that a vegetative buffer would likely be constructed and the lots chosen would be those on the east side of the property by the Charlevoix County Building's parking area off Mason Street.

First ward councilman Norm Carlson said, "On the flip side, if a private entity gets a hold of the property, it can do more damage than a parking lot with a berm."

Wiesner added that if a private developer acquires the property the city's future growth options will be limited.

But, the city may ultimately lose the property if it is outbid.

Wiesner said he feels the appraisal, $830,000 for the building and land, is too high and the school district's approach of pricing the property as reuse of the building being the best use of the land as opposed to demolishing the building is off base.

Regardless of how anyone feels about the price, if the library and city don't act fast, a private owner could step in. While these two are hashing out their options the property is on the market and interest in the private sector is starting to surface.

The private developer that approached the district last week and expressed interest would not maintain the building.

Sturock said the board would like to sell the entire piece of property and its first choice would be to sell it for community use.

"Our preference is to sell the whole thing so we're not left holding a portion of the property. And the board's first choice is to keep the property within the community for use in some way," Sturock said.

But if a private entity makes a high offer, the district will likely take it.

He said the district's number one priority is its students and with state funding cuts in education slated for next year, the highest offer will be the most seriously considered.

"The first choice is to help the community in any way we can, but the bottom line comes down to dollars and cents and our obligation to the kids," he said.

The district is moving forward with marketing the property in an attempt to minimize the facility's drain on its general fund which will pay to maintain it until it's sold.

"We don't want something like this to bleed our budget," Sturock said.

Candidates for office discuss city issues

CITY

worked at Medusa Cement Company for 20 years.

Campbell's decision to abandon his second ward seat spurred what is sure to be a heated battle between his wife, Karen, and D.J. Way.

Way, 40, lost to current second ward councilman Bill Bellows in the November 2001 election, but didn't give up his hope of representing the second ward.

"I believe there are a lot of issues in the city that are yet undecided, the expansion of city hall and the marina and park project. I believe I have some valuable input into these projects and the day to day operations of the city," Way said.

He added that he brings to council extensive business experience garnered through his work as co-owner of the local trucking company, Way Transportation, and a genuine concern for the way the city operates.

He has some former board experience as both a member of the Charlevoix County Snowmobile Council and treasurer of the local homeless shelter, the Ezra House.

Way lives off Beacon Street with his wife, Kris, and children, Stephanie, Jon and Ben. Their daughter Kelly is attending college.

Way's opposition, Karen Campbell, 59, is a Beaver Island native. She said she has no past political experience and was incited to run when she found no one was vying for her husband's vacant seat.

While she said she doesn't feel there are any issues to deal with specific to the second ward, she too feels the city overspends. She added that while she and Gabe share some ideas, including the overspending opinion, they don't share every outlook.

"We don't always agree on stuff. Myself, I'll do the best I can. I'm not a political person. I will bring up complaints at meetings and see if we can resolve it. And who knows, I might get in hot and heavy and find I like it well," she said.

Running unopposed are current first ward councilman Bill Haggard and third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain.

Chamberlain, 52, said if re-elected to his seat, it may be for the last time.

Chamberlain, a land surveyor with Ferguson and Chamberlain Associates, Inc., has lived in Charlevoix since 1973 when he moved here from the Upper Peninsula, after receiving his degree from Michigan Tech in Houghton.

He started his political career in Marion Township, where he was a member of the township's planning and zoning board. He said from that board he gained planning experience and experience dealing with people.

"I learned to listen in Marion Township," he said.

Since being on council he has also been on the Airport Committee.

The following is a list of phone numbers at which city officials currently registered to run in the Nov. 5 election can be reached:

Mayoral candidates
Mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell (231) 547-9654
Second ward councilman Gabe Campbell (231) 547-9739
First ward candidate
Bill Haggard (231) 547-1095
Second ward candidates
Karen Campbell (231) 547-9739
DJ Way (231) 547-9699
Third ward candidate
Sherm Chamberlain (231) 547-7046

He said major issues he has faced in the third ward include public improvement projects including the Belvedere Avenue infrastructure project that was completed this spring and improvements at Ferry Beach.

He is looking forward to being involved in several upcoming projects including: marina and city hall renovations, May Street improvements and addressing drainage issues in the ward.

If no other pressing issues come up before the next election, Chamberlain said after 25 years raising his three kids that are now all out of the house, it may be time to hang up his political career.

Haggard, 66, is a Charlevoix native who is also running unopposed. He has been on council since being appointed in 2000 and this is the first time he will face an election since then. He was on council for six years and then took six years off, before agreeing to join again. He is married to Lori and has one daughter and two grandchildren that live in Oregon.

He is co-owner of Haggard's Plumbing and Heating, a business he shares with his brother, John, and is a member of the Michigan Master Plumbers.

Haggard said he feels his 30 years in business have helped him in his council position and offers the city benefits.

He added that in the upcoming term, decisions related to city marina renovations will be the biggest issue council faces.

The candidates listed above are those whose names will be listed on the Nov. 5 ballot, but are not necessarily the only people in the running.

Write-in candidates can register by filling out a declaration of intent. Those interested must do so before 4 p.m., Nov. 1 at city hall located at 210 State Street in Charlevoix.

To vote for a write-in candidate voters are required to mark write-in and fill in the candidate's correctly spelled name and the office for which they are running.

As of Sept. 13 no one had filed a declaration of intent for seats in first, second and third wards or for mayor.

Household waste day a success

The Charlevoix County Recycling Committee's Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day was a huge success. Committee Chair Shirley Roloff said the event that took place from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Sept. 14 at the Charlevoix County Road Commission garage in Boyne City resulted in the collection of 10,999 pounds of hazardous substances from across the county. Drug and Lab Disposal Company, Inc. of Plainwell, collected the material which included: gasoline, oils, paints, aerosol substances, pesticides, drain cleaners, batteries and more. The company was on site to both safely collect and dispose of the materials. The collection day went so well, Roloff said the committee is planning another for early Spring 2003 that may also include electronics. (Courtesy photo) leading to the second floor of the home.

Shulick was wearing a bandolier containing a large amount of ammunition and was also carrying a shotgun that he pointed at Lasater.

According to the affidavit, Lasater told Shulick he was only there to give him some paperwork and Shulick responded by striking Lasater in the face with the barrel of the shotgun. Lasater was then knocked down the stairway.

Lasater suffered several broken teeth and required stitches in his upper lip. He was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

At 3 p.m., Sept. 23 Kur said Lasater had been released from the hospital and that he was "banged up" but in "good spirits."

"His main concern is for everyone else still out there," she said.

A multi-county Emergency Response Team (ERT) was assembled to take Shulick into custody and surrounded his home. As of press time, the standoff had not ended.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was assisted at the scene early this morning by the Boyne City Fire and Ambulance, the East Jordan Police Department, the Antrim County Sheriff's Department, Boyne Valley Fire Department and Charlevoix Ambulance.

Kur knew of no other criminal history of Shulick's but said he was charged with disturbing the peace in Charlevoix County in March of 2002 and the case ended in a hung jury.

The meetings will take place in the library's lower level. The library is located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

Rayders seem to have learned from mistakes three at the Ram 18. Urban scooted in with his third touch down of the night and also added the two-point conversion with 2:40 left in the half for a 20-0 Charlevoix advantage.

The Rams opened the second half scoring with a 70-yard touchdown pass and extra point kick to trim the lead to 20-7 with 11:05 to go in the third quarter.

It appeared that the momentum might have shifted when, following an exchange of punts, the Rayders turned the ball over to Harbor on a fumble at the Ram 35. However, Matt Kilkenny intercepted a Harbor Springs pass on the very next play at the Charlevoix 38 to take the Rayders out of danger.

Charlevoix capitalized on the turnover, driving down the field. Pizzurro appeared to score a touchdown with 5:25 left in the game, but the play was called back for holding. Urban answered by scoring on a 14-yard run with 4:50 left in the game to push the lead to 26-7.

Harbor Springs scored on a 76-yard reverse with just 30 ticks on the clock to close out the scoring.

Urban rushed for four touchdowns and 223 yards on the ground in his 32 carries. Pizzurro ran for 172 yards on 18 attempts.

"The key to the whole thing offensively was the play of the offensive line," Klinger said. "They played a physical football game and opened up a lot of holes. Urban and Pizzurro took advantage."

Defensively, Donovan Swanson led the Rayders with 10 tackles while Hal Foster added eight. Jon Reid recovered a Ram fumble.

"Our linebacker play was very good. We were moving forward and making plays at the line of scrimmage instead of waiting," Klinger observed. "Swanson and Foster played great games for us."

This week, the Rayders face a tough test, traveling to Traverse City St. Francis to face the top-ranked team in Class C.

Section 5. Amendment of Subsection 5.188(1).

Subsection 5.188(1) of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read in its entirety as follows:

(1) No building shall be erected or structurally altered, nor shall any grading take place in any zone district, except R-1 and R-2, nor shall any change in use as defined by use regulation which requires an increase in parking spaces within the various zone districts be permitted in any portion of the premises, until such a time as a Development Plan has been approved by the City Council after review and recommendation by the City Planning Commission. "Change of use" shall also include a re-institution of any use discontinued for a period of three (3) years or more.

Such approval shall terminate within twelve (12) months of the granting thereof, unless a building permit is obtained for the development plan project, provided, the Planning Commission may grant a six (6) month approval extension upon the submission of a letter by the applicant providing reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time, and provided further, that an additional six (6) month approval extension may be granted by the Planning Commission upon the personal presentation by the applicant of reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time.

If a building permit has been obtained as provided, the development plan approval shall be deemed expired if, at any time prior to completion of the project, work on the project cease for twelve (12) months or any twelve (12) month period otherwise elapses when substantial progress is not made toward completing the project.

The City Council may make such amendments as a part of its routine business at any regular or special meeting.

(b) Major amendments. Major amendments are those not qualifying as a minor amendment. County candidates discuss their platforms platform during the primary and she will work to make that happen.

COUNTY

She added she will also be looking at ways to address the issue of sprawl in Charlevoix County. This can be done by getting the townships involved with creating a master plan for the county.

Snyder said voters should elect her to office because she "will be a hardworking and ethical representative for the county."

Richards is a Hayes Township resident. He was a teacher and school principal in the Detroit area and summered in the Harbor Springs area since 1968, before moving there year-round.

Valerie Snyder

He has since moved to Hayes Township.

Richards is married and has two daughters. He was formerly the mayor of Harbor Springs in the early 1990s and has been involved with the democratic party in Emmet and Charlevoix counties and was on the planning commission and zoning appeals board in Hayes Township. He is also a member of the Charlevoix Area Natural Resources Preservation Association, which opposed the building of the new Charlevoix High School on Marion Center and has been involved in several lawsuits with the school district over this issue.

He said he is running for the district one seat because it is time for some new ideas on the county commission and the citizens need a good government.

Paul Richards

Richards said he would like to see more done in the county on protecting the environment.

"I think we have to pay attention to sprawl through good county planning. Sprawl is here and it can be pretty invasive, look at Traverse City and Gaylord," he said.

He also said he would like to see more work done on the county taxes and make sure the county is fiscally responsible.

"When I was mayor in Harbor Springs, we reduced taxes. It is the little things that add up," he said. "I know there is always waste in the budget and it can be tightened up."

As for a county administrator, Richards said he thinks it would be a "wise thing."

He said voters should elect him to the commission because he has "an interest in doing what is right and seeing things done properly without wasting a lot of taxpayer money."

William Henne

Henne, a resident of Hayes Township, is married and has three sons. He has been a resident of Charlevoix County for 33 years and has lived in district one for 27 years. He is also an organic farmer, was an environmental inspector for the health department for 30 years, spent 12 years on the Hayes Township Planning Commission, is on the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council Board of Directors and is currently the president of Water and Air Team for Charlevoix (WATCH).

He is also a member of the Little Traverse Conservancy, Mackinaw Forest Council, Sierra Club, Greenpeace, National Resource Defense Council and Farm Bureau.

Henne said he is running for district one for three reasons: First, is the way commissioners "gutted" the stormwater ordinance. Second, he said the sanitary board of appeals overturns too many health department decisions. Third, he does not think the commission supports environmental positions in government, such as the county drain commissioner and the county planner.

The environment in Charlevoix County is the big issue for Henne.

"Our strength is in land use, so I am going to be supportive of good land use," he said. "One of the most important functions of a county to have good land use is to prevent sprawl."

Henne added the biggest industry in Charlevoix is tourism and that depends on the area "staying beautiful."

"We have to protect the tourism industry," he said.

This can be done be encouraging clean industry to come to Charlevoix, creating industrial parks that protect greenspace and a county wide survey to the citizens asking them what future they envision for the area.

"My message to district one voters is to help the environment is to vote for me," Henne said.

Miles' new book printed

The six members of the Charlevoix Historical Society's book committee met recently to celebrate the arrival of the long-awaited Bob Miles' Charlevoix II. The several drafts, photo selection and editing were done by these six members, who collectively volunteered thousands of hours to the preparation of this book. This history of Charlevoix is available at the Harsha House, located at 103 State Street, and the Shop of the Gulls, located at 205 Bridge Street. Call 547-0373 for more information. Marina plan picked

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

After an intense summer of review, Charlevoix's City Council and Downtown Development Authority (DDA) reached a consensus for renovation plans at Charlevoix's Municipal Marina and East Park.

Peter Pollack principal designer with Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arhor, presented two comhined park and marina plans at a meeting Sept. 25.

Plan A incorporated a rectangular marina design drafted by Charlevoix resident, engineer and former mayor Josh Barnes and Plan B, that was unanimously chosen, follows a curvilinear layout engineered hy United Design Associates of Cheboygan.

"A and B are very close to each other at this point and time," Pollack said.

Plan A would have accommodated 65 boats and Plan B will host 66 hoats.

Members of both the DDA and council said their choice became more obvious after the groups toured Bay Harbor's marina and floating dock system Sept. 24. Several comments were made at the outing that Bay Harbor's "finger piers," like those in Plan B, with fairways in between, offered better viewing from shore,

To help them decide what marina plan to choose, the Charlevoix City Council and Downtown Development Authority toured several marinas in northern Michigan recently. Library wants Middle School

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Public Library's future building project could spark the creation of a community arts center at the former Charlevoix Middle School.

Last week members of the community and the Charlevoix Public Library building committee decided to focus library expansion efforts on all of the old Charlevoix Middle School site off Grant Street, including the 50,000 square foot building built in the mid-1920s.

Community and building committee meetings took place Sept. 25 and 26 in the lihrary's basement and were facilitated by three architects from Engberg Andersen Design Partnership, Inc. of Milwaukee, Wis. Crowds who participated discussed the positives and negatives of two possible sites where the expansion could take place.

The goal was to narrow the possible sites, which included the lihrary's current site off Clinton Street and the former middle school off Grant Street, to one.

The number one priority set at the meeting was that the library stay downtown, a criterion met by both sites. But as the group got into further discussion it was evident that the current site has its limitations including space.

"The middle school site makes more sense for current and future planning," Steve Voci, a Charlevoix husiness owner, said.

The current site has 22,000 square feet of surface area of which the building takes up 3,500 square feet. At the current site, a renovation and expansion would require most of the lot, leaving no space for parking or growth beyond 20 years.

The new facility the library is shooting to build will be a single level facility at least 20,000 square feet and is projected to meet the community's needs 20 years into the future.

Charlevoix resident Leah Green said, "Creating a modern lihrary huilding and doing what we're contemplating the lihrary will do, would require more than a rework of this space."

Marvin Molaski, also a Charlevoix resident, added, "We're anticipating growth and the parking problem will get a lot worse if we grow."

Plans for the upcoming expansion are to bring more community programs into the lihrary and more programs mean more people who will re-

High school homecoming Friday

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Public Schools 2003 homecoming celebration is filled with week-long events.

This year's theme is food groups and the parade and pep rally will demonstrate the students' nutritional side. Seniors are the vegetables, juniors the sweets, sophomores the fruits and freshman dairy.

The week kicked off Sept. 30 with the first day of spirit week when students dressed up like their favorite celebrities. Tuesday was just as wild at the high school for the ever popular clash and crazy hair day.

Today, Wednesday, students showed their modern musical know how dressed in hip-hop wear and tomorrow they'll dream of warmer climates when hula skirts and flower printed shirts come out for Hawaiian day.

Leading up to game time Oct. 4 will be maroon and white day, a chance for high school Rayders to show their school spirit. Then at 1 p.m. the new high school gym will be broken in as it experiences its first homecoming pep rally.

The pep rally will feature several events including "Flip-a-Chick" involving rubber chickens, seesaws, rubber mallets and empty children's pools, "Grape Stompin,'" a balloon competition and an old fashioned Tug-of-war.

Carjacking report may have been false

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A Charlevoix township woman may face charges of filing a false police report after telling officers she was abducted at gunpoint Sept. 27, near the city of Charlevoix.

"Things just didn't add up," Don Schneider, Charlevoix County Undersheriff said. Currently, the sheriff's office is not investigating it by request of the woman.

According to the sheriff's office, a 29-year-old Charlevoix Township woman said a man entered her car with a handgun around 3 p.m., Sept. 27, while she was stopped at the intersection of Ferry Avenue and M-66. She told the sheriff's department he forced her to drive to a remote two-track road, where she finally escaped and walked to a nearby residence around 4:30 p.m.

Her vehicle was later found in the area.

But, according to the sheriff's office, during a follow-up interview on Sept. 28, the woman asked deputies to stop the investigation. She said she had been under a lot of stress lately and that she may have had a mental breakdown.

The sheriff's office was assisted in the initial investigation by the Charlevoix City Police and a K-9 Unit from the Michigan State Police post in Alpena.

The matter has been referred to the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office.

Correction

A headline on page 19 of last week's edition of the Courier should have said the Ways requested a rezoning that could have the potential of a 1,200 unit development.

Plan that saves school building the best one

EDITORIAL

History is an important part of any community. It tells the story of where we have been, as well as where we are going.

To hear the stories history has to tell us, you don't have to just visit the local historical society or talk to the town elders, you can also see it in the architecture of the buildings that make the town.

Take Europe, for example. In every country that makes up this continent, one can see the beautiful past in the many buildings that have been standing for hundreds, and sometimes, thousands of years.

The same can be said for many cities on the east coast of the United States.

But, in Charlevoix, we have problems keeping this part of history alive. Sure, progress can be a good thing, but too often our view of progress includes tearing down what we have already to build something new.

The middle school building is a great source of history for the community and is still usable. While it may need a new roof, it is still a sturdy structure.

But, indications are that it could be bought and torn down by the city or a private developer. The city thinks the location would be good for a parking lot, which would help it get a needed grant for a new marina by supplying more parking for boaters.

What a shame. Our city officials may want to tear down the historic building to solve a parking problem that only occurs in the summer.

But, we may have a wonderful twist to this bleak story. It seems the Charlevoix Public Library also wants the land and the building. Instead of tearing down the old school, they want to make it into a community center and build a new library on the property.

This is a great idea. The only problem is to do this would require a lot of money.

We support the library's plan to help preserve Charlevoix's past and use what we have, which will benefit the residents more than a parking lot would. We also wish you the best in your push to find funding for this project.

Perhaps we can save the old school yet.

Letters to the editor

Wants debates

Editor:

Debates have become an established tradition in political campaigns and a fixture on the American landscape. They date themselves back long before the famed "Lincoln-Douglas" oratory battles and have grown to become an integral component of the election cycle. For those as old as I, no one will ever forget when Nixon and Kennedy faced each other before the American populous or more recently when Dukakis openly challenged Bush.

As the Democrat nominee for the State Senate from the 37th District, I challenged my opponent to a series of three debates the day after the August primary. The Estes for State Senate campaign outlined potential debate dates, times, locations and sponsors. These tentative details were established to move the debate format process along. Because the district spans eight counties from Chippewa southward to Grand Traverse, we suggested that the debates be located in various parts of the district. Since our initial challenge, we have repeated our challenge twice. To date, our opponent has remained mute except for some brief comments he shared with Bill O'Brien, a reporter for the Traverse City Record Eagle.

The real question is, do the voters really want debates or do they at least expect candidates to be willing to debate? From my thirty plus years of active political commitment, I firmly believe that voters do indeed expect candidates to meet and openly discuss their positions, accomplishments and visions and to do so in a format that allows their opponent to challenge their accomplishments and visions and to do so in a format that allows their opponent to challenge their claims. Debates force candidates to think on their feet while answering unexpected questions. In debates, candidates must withstand the scrutiny of their opposition and address an ever vigil audience comprised of media and concerned citizens. Without debates, candidates can simply hide behind high priced PAC money advertising campaigns that glamorize candidates with unchallenged messages. In the worst case, candidates will use negative advertising to smear their opponent until they find the most grossly fabricated mud that sticks.

When I chose to seek elected office, I did so knowing that my message should and would be met by challenges and that explanations for my platform would be demanded. I did so knowing that I would sometimes err and at times would simply have to respond, that "I don't know." I chose to run for public office because I truly believed that my core values and beliefs were a reflection of my community and that I was willing to carry those values and beliefs to Lansing no matter how difficult the travels.

Debating an opponent here in northern Michigan should be viewed as a first step in representing the voters of the 37th State Senatorial district and as such, a preliminary requirement for this prestigious office. Yes, I truly believe that candidates have an obligation and a responsibility to debate and yes, I truly believe that the voters expect candidates to be willing to debate. Handshakes, yard signs and media buys should never replace the person to person comparisons that all voters deserve.

If in some way the message of my debate challenge has been misinterpreted by my opponent, then I would expect that this open letter, written for all to see, would stand as my challenge to debate three times at various locations within the district before the Nov. 5 election. The Estes for State Senate campaign is very willing to work with any of the debate logistics as long as the format is open and meaningful to the voting public.

Michael Estes
Traverse City

(Editor's note: Estes' opponent, Jason Allen, responded to this letter by stating he has debated Estes at various forums given throughout the area, such as a recent one given by the Industrial Association. He said he will also be debating Estes during the Candidates Night Forum 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 3, in North Central Michigan College's conference center cafeteria.)

Respect the land

Editor:

There are so few pieces of land in my neighborhood that have not seen the bulldozer's claw, the road crew's saw or heard the pump's whine, as it drains a wetland. The push of people did not affect the land overnight, but years of living like children — taking and taking — has cost Mother earth dearly. Now that childhood is over, we need to give back something to the natural systems which have given us so much. What can we do now to work out some accommodation with the increasing number of people coming to every corner of undeveloped land?

I've walked the woods and the banks of Stover Creek between Ferry Avenue and M-66, Mildred Wither's land, many times. Each time I am reminded of the results of years of human intrusion. The severe erosion of the stream banks, the roots of a stately hemlock — many of which are exposed like naked fingers — and soil that crumbles to the touch because it has been devoid of vegetation for so many years. I look at the stream and note the accumulation of sand, where once there was a gravel bed. A feeling of sadness and depression comes over me. Why? I sense the urgency needed to bring some positive changes here, to act and make this place whole again for future generations. But I must first ask, what is it that I really want?

I want this place to remain a spot where I and others can find some peace and solitude. A place for reflection and connection with things not human, so that I can regain some perspective on what my relationship is to the wider world.

This is a small natural area, about 11 acres, which does not command as much attention as a large tract, but it is a priceless oasis in a sea of human activity. I have inspected the oaks and the popples, contemplated the lacy needles of a grove of hemlocks, and watched a ray of sun filter through the leaves and dance on a ripple of water. I've heard the chickadees chatter and the nuthatches call, but in the water there is no sign of wildlife.

To this end I will try to reach as many people to tell them that they need to give something back to the natural systems that have given so much to us. It's past time that we gave fragile places like this woods and creek some TLC, if we are to preserve this area as a natural sanctuary.

Question war

Editor:

There is no question that Iraq's Saddam Hussein is a despicable dictator, but there are other questions that must be asked before we declare a unilateral war:

- Should the United States unilaterally declare war on any other sovereign country that has not attacked us or our allies?
- Should the U.S. attack all countries that have weapons of mass destruction and whose leaders we do not like? If yes, why did we never attack the USSR but instead chose containment, and why not attack North Korea now while we're at it?
- Is toppling Saddam Hussein worth the thousands of innocent Iraqi lives that would surely be lost in a U.S. bombing campaign? Would we actually win the hearts and minds of the Iraqi people?
- Is toppling Saddam Hussein worth the loss of young American sons and daughters?
- Is Saddam Hussein's government posing such a clear and imminent danger that we should abandon the advice of our European and Middle Eastern allies and risk creating deeper anti-US anger among the people of the Middle East?
- Is Saddam Hussein about to attack either us or neighbors with weapons of mass destruction? Have we seen real proof?
- Would toppling Saddam Hussein bring more or less stability to an already dangerously chaotic Middle East?
- Would an attack on Iraq really create a more secure situation for Israel?
- Would attacking Iraq make us safer from the deep anger that drives suicide bombers?
- Is there any proof to allegations of connections between Saddam Hussein and bin Laden? Remember Saddam Hussein has fought vigorously against Muslem fundamentalists and bin Laden long ago declared that Saddam Hussein was an enemy of Islam.

We need to ask why is the United States suddenly determined to a go-it-alone warpath when all diplomatic efforts to get the inspectors back into Iraq and to disarm Iraq have not been exhausted.

If we question this rush to war we must call and write the White House and Congress. We need to let our representatives know we support a search for diplomatic solutions.

Turn school into school

Editor:

Mr. Dawson Way requested zoning for 200-1,200 modular homes in Eveline Township on 155 acres. The growth potential in Charlevoix School District is mind boggling.

Whether Mr. Way is serious or not, new development will bring young people. The healthiest schools have enrollments around 400 children. Our high school has 450, the middle school 441 and the elementary 476 (K-4) students. (There are five second grades!) In a few years we could have 750 K-5 elementary students! A new south-side elementary makes sense. There is no room on the new high school 75 acre site.

Our school board is in a rush to sell our "in-town" Mason Street school. They contend they cannot find a use for it. Some say the building is in bad repair. If records are checked, however, the windows have been replaced, the asbestos removed, the furnace has been converted to hot water, the structure is sound, most of the hardwood floors are in good shape. There is a wonderful old gymnasium. The custom features — hardwood built-in storage cabinets and shelves, terrazzo floors, oak doors, art tiles, a fireplace in the Kindergarten room — are in great shape. The library, computer lab and all classrooms have been upgraded for current computer technology.

There has been no study since the 1985 Michigan School Business Official Report (MSBO). In June, the school passed the General Insurance Inspection. The furnace was fired up Thursday. The school could accommodate students tomorrow. An elevator would be necessary.

What if we converted the school to a school! Demolishing the school would cost $250,000. What if the $250,000 were used to replace the roof (estimate 1997 at $145,000) and we began remodeling? Our schools are full. What is the school thinking? The high school cost $15 million. We have an opportunity to plan for growth, to use a lovely, solid, historic building and to create an in-town, south side elementary. A downtown library, school, park, it just makes too much sense.

Hospital gearing up for another Holly Daze

A Pep Rally kicked off planning for the tenth annual Holly Daze fundraiser for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Activities, to be in November, promise to be anything but conventional and include: A Preview Night of the live and silent auction items (Nov. 17), the Celebration Dinner and Live/Silent Auction (Nov. 21), and a week of festivities at the hospital, (Nov. 25-30).

Proceeding on the assumption that you can enjoy yourself while working hard, new co-chairpersons, Patti Aikin and Sharon Blossom, led cheers at Wednesday's meeting to fire up the Holly Daze Planning Committee.

Chanting their mantra, "We Want To Wow Them," kudos were handed out for innovative thinking in tracking down unique and irresistible auction donations.

With their artistic flair these two women intend to transform the Holly Daze fundraiser and capture the magic and talent that abounds in the north.

Aikin and Blossom are determined to ensure that both the live and silent auctions and other activities are fresh and fun and appeal to all ages and both sexes.

Committee members are on the lookout for unique creations, classical designs, holiday pleasures and tempting treasures according to the co-chairs. This year, in addition to the Christmas trees and vignettes designed by area artists/designers, the live and silent auctions will showcase: "Favorite Finds," "Prestige Packages" and "Sought After Keepsakes."

The week of activities at the hospital, "Ho Ho Holly Daze - It's A Festival," Nov. 25-30, features: a men's shopping night, bake sale, workshops, and kid's day.

A wide assortment of creations awaits the community who are encouraged to come and explore. Bidding on silent auction items will be open all week. The Angel Shoppe will sell gifts and the drawing for the vintage sports car will be at 4 p.m., Nov. 30, in the hospital solarium.

The funds raised at Holly Daze this year will furnish and equip two new birthing rooms including: birthing beds and lights, infant radiant warmers, bassinets and fetal monitor.

The commitment of Holly Daze is to raise $71,000. All proceeds from the sale of raffle tickets for the vintage sports car are being contributed to meet their financial goal.

New director named for area housing coalition

The Board of Directors for the Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition has announced the appointment of George Booth as the new Executive Director for the coalition.

"George brings extensive financial background to the coalition along with the maturity and experience we believe necessary for this position," said board chair Kathy Johnson.

The nonprofit organization is celebrating its tenth year of operation and works to provide, develop and advocate adequate and affordable housing for low and moderate income households.

Booth, who has been with the coalition since the fall of 2000 as financial manager, spent more than 30 years with General Motors where he worked in various financial positions. In addition to his position with the organization, Booth serves on the board of the Cheboygan County Housing and Homeless Coalition.

The Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition owns and manages transitional housing units in Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties and provides Links to Home Ownership education classes in those counties and Antrim County.

In addition to Johnson, the Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition board consists of vice chair, Bonnie Worden with the Family Independence Agency; Jeffrey Peters, secretary, Mortgage Officer with The Bank of Northern Michigan; Don Hayden, treasurer, retired; Leland Barta, substitute teacher for Char-Em; Jennifer Schmit, Arbor Associates, Inc.; and John Murphy with the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Congregational Church to host musician for workshop

Hal Hopson

Hal Hopson, well-known composer, arranger and clinician, will be conducting a workshop for church musicians on Oct. 11 and 12 at the First Congregational Church UCC of Charlevoix.

The West Michigan Chapter of the United Methodists in Music and Worship Arts is sponsoring the workshop.

Hopson has over 1,200 published works which comprise almost every musical form in church music. With a special interest in congregational song, he continues to make a significant contribution to the new repertoire of hymn-tunes and responsorial psalm settings which have been included in newly published hymnal and psalm collections.

The cantata "God With Us," written by Hopson, was one of the few compositions selected by the Washington DC Kennedy Center panel to be placed in a capsule during the 1976 Bicentennial, to be opened in 2076 at the Tricentennial and will be heard again as a representative piece of American composition of the twentieth century.

At 8:15 p.m., Oct. 11 at the church, the public is invited to a hymn festival led by Hopson, including his arrangements of beloved favorites accompanied by brass ensemble, hand bells, piano and organ.

Man charged in alleged attack on sheriff caught

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater recovers at home, the man allegedly responsible for injuring him has been arrested following a standoff that lasted almost two days.

According to Undersheriff Don Schneider, Lasater is still "very sore." The sheriff was allegedly struck in the face by the barrel of a shotgun around 7 a.m. on Sept. 23 at a residence near the corner of Korthase and Rogers roads, in Boyne Valley Township. The sheriff was trying to serve an eviction notice to John Shulick, stemming from Shulick's recent divorce.

The alleged assault broke several of Lasater's teeth, broke his jaw, caused a major cut to his upper lip and knocked him out.

Following the incident, law enforcement officers surrounded the house until the morning of Sept. 24, when officers entered the home and discovered Shulick was not there.

Around 6 p.m., Sept. 24, Shulick turned himself in to police at a nearby residence. He was charged with one count of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less then murder, resisting and obstructing a police officer causing injury and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony. He was arraigned Sept. 27.

Schneider said he would not have done anything different during the incident.

"When you look at the end result, after the assault, everybody, including (Shulick) walked away unharmed," he said.

Schneider, who was with the sheriff when he was injured, said he believes Shulick slipped out of the house in a "small window of time" after the sheriff was injured and officers were trying to get him to safety.

Soon after the sheriff fell and Schneider realized he was injured, he said his first concern was to get Lasater to safety.

Schneider said the home was surrounded by officers and was completely "lit up" by lights after that alleged attack. Officers also attempted to contact Shulick, to no avail.

"There was no way he could have made it out of that building," Schneider said.

During the night, officers from the Emergency Response Team fired tear gas canisters into the house, but no one came out.

Schneider said they waited until darkness because Shulick's wife reportedly saw a long gun with a scope. It later turned out to be a paintball gun, he said.

Even though no one exited the home, Schneider said they kept it surrounded. If a person were to find a small room in the home and sealed it off with towels, it is possible to stay inside after tear gas canisters are used, he added.

Adding to the questions of whether Shulick was inside or not was a mysterious busy signal officers received when they called the Shulick home sometime after 11 p.m., Sept. 23. The telephone company informed police the call came from the Grand Traverse County Building.

Schneider said he believes the call was just an "error" on the telephone company's part, because it came late at night when the building was closed.

"We probably never will know why that busy signal showed up," Schneider said.

Officers finally went into the home the next morning and found it empty. Thermal imaging cameras were used to confirm Shulick was not hiding in the home.

While Lasater is recuperating, he informed the sheriff's office that he would like to "express his gratitude to the local residents who were inconvenienced while having to leave their homes due to the use of a weapon and the necessity to maintain a safe perimeter."

Furthermore, he thanked the Northern Michigan Aid Team, Michigan State Police, Antrim County Sheriff's Office, Emmet County Sheriff's Office and the Boyne Valley, Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan fire departments, EMS and first responders.

Plant a tree at Cemex

Cemex Inc. hosted a tree planting project Sept. 27 and 28. The company's relocation and capping of cement kiln dust piles are coming to a close and restoration efforts are now underway. Eleven acres where one of the piles was has had 200 trees planted on it. The site will also get grass seed. All of the company's employees have a chance to plant a tree. Here, on Sept. 27, Dennis Dominic (center) and his children, Chris and Jessica, helped plant a tree. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Three candidates line up for district six seat

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The environment, getting the public involved in local government and getting a county manager top the list of issues being discussed by the three candidates for the Charlevoix County Commission District Six.

Shirley Roloff

Joseph King

Berta Meyerson Molasky

District Six includes the city of Charlevoix (south of the bridge), Charlevoix Township (south of the bridge) Norwood Township and all of Beaver Island. Those running for this seat are Republican incumbent Shirley Roloff, Green Party candidate Joseph King and write-in democratic candidate Berta Meyerson Molasky.

Roloff has been a resident of Charlevoix County for 28 years. Roloff started her service to the county as with the Department of Social Services as a volunteer and was a member of the Commission on Aging and the Parent Teacher Administration. During this time, she was instrumental in helping lower senior housing rents in Charlevoix.

She was also on the Charlevoix City Council for 12 years and spent six of those years as mayor pro tem. After a brief period away from politics, she decided to run for Charlevoix County Commission, of which she has been a commissioner for four years.

According to Roloff, the big issue facing the county right now is that of a county manager.

"It is about time we really seriously took a look at it," she said. "There is too much to be done for six people who don't get to see each other very much."

A county manager, or county administrator, would manage the day-to-day county operations and centralize the county government.

Roloff added there are many other projects that she has started in the county that she would like to see completed, such as recycling. As a commissioner, Roloff helped create a county-wide recycling program, which recently had a household hazardous waste pick-up day.

Roloff said voters should pick her because she is "very well qualified."

"I have the experience, I am dedicated, I have the knowledge to help the new people on the commission and I would certainly make sure we toe the line and have all of our meetings posted and make the minutes available," she said.

King, originally of Saginaw, has been a resident of the Charlevoix area for six years. He is a lab technician at East Jordan Iron Works in East Jordan, is married and has a 10-year-old daughter.

King said he decided to run for county commission because he "got tired of yelling at the television and newspaper." He said the biggest issues that got him involved were the alleged Open Meetings Act violations by three members of the commission — they were later cleared — and the "stripping" of the county stormwater ordinance.

The issue he said the commission must deal with now is getting the public involved.

"Everything seems so tightly closed up and so secret," he said. "If people don't know what they are doing in the first place, how are they going to comment and affect change?"

King's plans for getting more public comment and opening up the county government is to start publishing meeting notices a week in advance along with a full agenda. He also wants to get the county meetings televised on public access and eventually webcast with interactive features allowing viewers to ask questions or make comments in real time.

As for the stormwater ordinance, King said the county committee in charge of that "stripped out" all environmental protections. He added Roloff was the chair of that committee.

Voters to decide district six seat on Nov. 5

COMMISSION

In response, Roloff said the language King is referring to created a building setback from the water. She said she wanted to leave that language in, but, she said she was told by attorneys that it could not be included because that was an issue that needed to be addressed by a soil erosion ordinance, not a stormwater ordinance.

King also said something needed to be done about the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner. He said the office currently is only allocated $1 a year for a budget, plus the drain commissioner had to fight to even get an office in the county building.

According to King, the drain commissioner's job is to protect the lakes and streams of Charlevoix County. He said if these are not clean, tourists will not come to Charlevoix and spent their money.

"Funding the drain commission office would be an important step toward helping our environment and protecting our tourism industry," King said. "The (commission) feels protecting our environment is only worth $1 a year."

When asked why voters should pick him, King said, "Because I will represent fresh new ideas and an open, responsive government and I am willing to listen to what they have to say, rather than hide and do things in secret."

Molasky has been a resident of Charlevoix since about 1993, but she has been a summer resident for about 50 years. She brings to the commission a strong teaching background, having been a teacher in Detroit for many years, as well as in Oak Park, at Wayne County Community College and at Wayne State University.

As a teacher, Molasky is known for having set up many reading programs. She retired in 1992.

While she has not been a very political person since the 1950s, she said she decided to run for district six because she noticed no one was running as a Democrat.

"I think the people need a choice, if you want democracy to continue," she said. "I realize I am running as a Democrat in a heavily Republican area, but I think I can do it."

Molasky said the big issue she will address is the accountability of the county commissioners and the health benefits they receive.

"I don't think it is responsible for county commissioners to have full time health benefits for part time jobs, especially when there are many employees in our own county that are not getting health benefits," she said.

Roloff currently receives health benefits offered to county commissioners and said she will do so in the future. She said she works hard enough to support those benefits.

Molasky said if commissioners do continue to get health benefits in the future, the commissioners should pay for part of it.

Like King, Molasky also said she was unhappy with the way commissioners treated the drain commissioner. She said it is the county commission's responsibility to make sure that department has a proper budget and office.

Molasky added the county also needs county wide zoning.

"I think it is wrong for each of these little cities to stand apart from the county with their own planning department," she said.

For example, Molasky said township zoning in Charlevoix Township has created a sprawl concern, especially on the south side of the bridge.

"It's a mess," she said.

When asked why voters should choose her, Molasky said, "I am knowledgeable and I have the energy to do a good job for the county and I think I can do a good job because of those two reasons."

Since Molasky is running as a write-in candidate, voters who pick her must write her full name on the proper line located on the ballot and punch the corresponding hole.

The general election is Nov. 5.

City council candidates discuss marina

ELECTION 2002

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Candidates running for Charlevoix City Council agree that the marina and East Park renovation layout selected by council and the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Sept. 25 is a good one, but each has different design elements they are keeping their eye on.

Alvin Russell

Gabe Campbell

Karen Campbell

D.J. Way

Current Mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell, who will run for his third term Nov. 5, said council chose the right plan.

"It was a long drawn out process but that was what we were there for (council and the DDA). The community and council ended up agreeing on the new layout," he said.

Russell said while the marina layout was decided, East Park design plans are still open for discussion and he plans to offer comments on the design of the marina/harbormaster facility and the performance venue.

Russell's opposition, current second ward councilman and Mayoral candidate Gabe Campbell said he too was happy to see a decision reached and the process "on track."

"No matter what happens we have to fix the docks and the bulkhead, they are liability problems," he said.

But, Gabe is concerned about city spending with the marina project and feels if the city's cost runs over $400,000 voters should decide just how much money will be allocated.

"The people picking up the tab should have a say," he said.

Aside from the amount of funds spent, Gabe will also have his eye on how the money is spent. He feels the current bandshell is in good shape and because it was built recently it should stay. The approved layout shows the performance venue at the corner of Antrim and Bridge streets.

Campbell said the city should concentrate its finances on fixing the marina and if there is money left over, put it toward the park.

Gabe's wife, Karen, is running for his open second ward seat and has similar feelings about the future of East Park.

"I think the city should leave the bandshell alone, until it gets the other (marina) project paid for. They need a new spending system, get one thing paid for first and then start in. Take things one project at a time," she said.

Karen suggested that the renovation planning process slow down and the city consider one project at a time.

But her opposition, DJ Way, feels like it's time to get things moving. Way was pleased with the final East Park and marina layout council approved.

"It was nice to see the DDA, council and the community pull together and see what can be accomplished when everyone works together," Way said.

He was most impressed with the marina support building and harbormaster's office in the United Design Associates plan council ultimately selected and will encourage the final design be underground with an overhead viewing platform.

Way believes the process, thus far, has been fair and in the end similar public discussions will produce marina and park projects that reflect the community's vision of both.

Start preparing your vehicle for winter

AAA Michigan logged nearly 900,000 emergency road service calls last year, many of them in the dead of winter. With a little preventative maintenance, many of those calls could have been avoided.

Now is the time to act to detect potential problems before the cold weather arrives.

"When conditions can be less than ideal and colder temperatures demand more of your vehicle, it makes sense to take preventative measures to make sure your vehicle is safe and roadworthy," AAA Michigan Automotive Services Director Robert Kaczor said.

AAA recommends that the following vehicle components be inspected by a qualified technician: battery load and terminals, lights, air filter, antifreeze, oil, power steering, brake and transmission fluids, belts, hoses, tires and wiper blades.

Despite the convenience maintenance-free batteries provide, average battery life has become shorter as energy requirements have increased. Cell phones, CD players, VCRs, laptop computers and other mobile electronic devices place greater demands on today's batteries.

As the temperature drops, so does the battery's cranking power. To increase a battery's efficiency, make sure the battery cables are on tight and remove any corrosion around the connections using a stiff wire brush and a solution of baking soda and water. Remember to always wear safety apparel that provides eye and hand protection when performing vehicle maintenance.

An annual winter car care checkup is also essential for good health for both you and your vehicle. Regular car maintenance can save money, improve safety and reduce pollution.

As part of its Winter Car Care program and in conjunction with National Car Care Month, October, AAA Michigan encourages motorists to increase gas mileage and reduce pollution by following a few simple steps: Replace air filter when necessary. Refill and replace oil and oil filter as needed. Avoid excess idling which gets 0 miles per gallon. Avoid aggressive driving. Observe the speed limit. Each 5 miles per hour you drive over 60 mph is like paying an additional $.10 per gallon for gas.

Driving sensible and paying attention to a vehicle's maintenance can save lives, extend the life of the car, improve air quality and reduce negative health impacts.

Words of Wisdom for Weekend Warriors

Alan Budnick, PT

I know, I know, you don't have time to warm up or stretch, you're in a hurry because your partners are waiting for you on the first tee. Or maybe you're thinking to yourself, "It's 95 degrees, I can't possibly get any warmer. I already bent over to tie my shoes and I have to bend over again to put my ball on the tee.

"Isn't that enough stretching?" Unfortunately not.

A proper warm-up followed by stretching is crucial in preventing injuries and improving your performance.

In general, a proper warm-up consists of exercises or movements to increase one's circulation and heart rate. Some commonly used warm-up exercises include range of motion exercises followed by light calisthenics, brisk walking, jogging or marching in place.

Stretching is the process by which we elongate muscles and connective tissue. You need to stretch gradually, slowly, and with proper technique to avoid injuring yourself while stretching.

For more information about the importance of proper stretching, contact the professional physical therapy staff at Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center in Petoskey 231-347-9300 or Harbor Springs 231-348-7002.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center in collaboration with Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians will present the Annual Anishnaabe Festival 2002.

Festival events, which are all open to the public, include a visual arts exhibition, artist reception, family plaque workshop and ghost supper. The festival opened Monday and runs through Nov. 1.

This year's visual arts exhibition is titled "Celebrating Contemporary Tribal Artists of the Little Traverse Bay Band."

The Anishnaabe Festival 2002 will exhibit the "best of the band's" artists. The aim of this show is to highlight the artistry and imaginative expressions representative of the culture that was in existence when the Europeans arrived.

Some of the artists in this year's show include Manii Baldon, Sara Evans, Yvonne M. Walker Keshick, Andrea Pierce and Levi Walker. Paintings, beadwork, arrowheads, corn husk dolls, quillwork will be displayed at the exhibition.

The opening reception is from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 5. Many Odawa artists will be attending the opening and discussing their particular form of native artwork.

On Thursday, Oct. 3, Zoey Wood-Salomon and Garry Enosse will open a two person show in the Art Tree Gallery. Zoey Wood-Salomon, is an Odawa painter of stories, legends and everyday life. Garry Enosse works with birchbark, willow and sinew (pyrography) woodburning.

Their show runs through Nov. 1. Their work will compliment the annual Anishnaabe exhibition.

This exhibition is part of the on-going "Back of The Gallery" exhibits in the Crooked Tree Art Center's Art Tree Sales Gallery. Join the artists from 5 to 8 p.m. to learn more about their distinctive style of artwork.

Families are encouraged to attend a plaque workshop from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Oct. 26. Yvonne M. Walker Keshick will provide instruction for creating a traditional family plaque.

The workshop materials fee is $10 per plaque. Reservations for the workshop are encouraged, as space is limited.

The festival will conclude with the annual Ghost Supper from 5 to 8 p.m. on Nov. 1. A buffet of native foods, frybread and family recipes will be served. Drumming, a ceremonial fire, and storytelling are all part of the evening's traditional events.

A family plaque workshop will be given during the supper, with a $10 material fee per plaque. A jiimaan (canoe) will be on display as part of the art exhibition.

The supper will take place in the Crooked Tree Arts Center's temporary art exhibition hall at 445 E. Mitchell Street. There is no charge for the supper and the public is encouraged to attend.

The exhibit is open to the public, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. School groups are invited to call Jesse Hickman, visual arts education director, to schedule visits to the exhibit.

Writer gives tips on living with migraines

Melodie Brown, M.D.

'Your health'

If you are a migraine sufferer, you may have experienced the following symptoms: Throbbing pain usually on one side of the head or around the eyes that occur with nausea, light and noise sensitivity, temporary vision changes (flashing lights or blind spots), speech changes, weakness or numbness.

Some migraine sufferers will have a "warning aura," (a pattern of lines or shadows in front of their eyes) as the headache is beginning. Physical activity may make the pain worse. They tend to be recurrent and unpredictable.

Migraines should be differentiated from another very common type of headache - the tension headache. Tension headaches cause feelings of tightness or band-like pressure on the forehead or the sides or the head. The pain may move into the neck and shoulders. They are not aggravated by activity and usually do not cause nausea or vomiting.

Migraines may be severely painful, but they are not life-threatening. There are, however, other uncommon problems that cause headaches that can be life threatening. These include brain infections, tumors, inflammatory conditions, and bleeds. Signs of dangerous headaches are: Severe sudden headaches, "worst-ever" headaches or headaches that gradually get worse instead of getting better. Other concerning symptoms include memory loss or trouble concentrating, personality changes, double vision, speech changes, loss of strength, numbness in a certain part of the body, balance difficulties, fever or stiff neck. Seek medical attention if you have a headache after a head injury that lasts more than one week.

Although the exact cause of migraines is unknown, they are thought to occur by a shifting of the flow of blood in the brain. Because of these changes the blood vessels in the brain tighten and relax causing migraine pain. It can last two hours and up to three days, sometimes longer. Migraines run in families and some doctors think they may be caused by an abnormal gene.

Migraines have many triggers, such as: stress, fumes, smoke, light glare, weather changes, menstrual cycles, disrupted sleep, hunger, or excessive activity. Certain foods can be responsible such as cheese, alcohol, caffeine, dairy products, pickled foods, citrus fruits, processed meats, bananas, monosodium glutamate, saccharin, nuts or yeast.

Some medicines can also cause migraines. These medicines might include: Tagamet, nifedipine, theophylline, birth control pills, estrogen replacement or Indocin. Ironically, overuse or withdrawal from pain medicines can also be the culprit.

There are several things you can do to avoid headaches. First of all, avoid stress. Do not sleep too late on weekends. This can cause a let-down headache. Do not get over tired. Eat at regular intervals and don't skip meals. Avoid food triggers. Limit caffeine. Practice good posture. Keep your muscles relaxed and try not to frown or tighten your jaw. Restrict activity in hot weather. Avoid bright flickering lights, loud noise and strong smells.

If these methods fail and you develop a migraine, lie down in a quiet dark room, perform gentle scalp massage and hold an ice pack to your forehead or temples and rest. Keeping a "migraine diary" may help you and your doctor determine your specific triggers. Write down the day and time the headache started, any warning signs that happened, any known triggers, how long it lasted, and what helped relieve the pain.

There are multiple medications on the market to treat migraines.

One category works directly on pain. These medicines include ibuprofen, acetaminophen, Imitrex, Zomig and others.

Another category is used to treat the nausea (Compazine) and a third group is used to prevent the headache from occurring in the first place.

You and your doctor can discuss which alternatives are best for you. Migraines are a disease, just like diabetes and high blood pressure and though there is no cure, regular medical attention can help you better manage these headaches.

Dr. Melodie Brown can be contacted at Pine River Medical by calling 547-6554.

Challenge Mountain store in need of volunteer help

If you like to help others, have fun in a relaxed atmosphere, and meet a lot of interesting people, the Challenge Mountain Resale Store would like you to consider volunteering.

The resale store is currently looking for volunteers who would like to spend as much or as little of their time helping the cause of Challenge Mountain. The store is the main support of all that the organization does to aid the mentally impaired, physically disabled and at risk youth in our communities. Without the work that the volunteers provide to the resale store, none of the activities would be possible. All proceeds go directly to aiding those who need our help.

Sue Moody, the organization's executive director, said, "The resale store is so very important to all we do at Challenge Mountain. We depend on the dedicated volunteers both at the mountain and the store for all the hard work they do. It is often not recognized that the resale store volunteers are such an asset and we couldn't do what we do without them. We are seeking volunteers for all shifts with excellent hours, evening hours if that is preferred and Saturdays. If you can spare any amount of time, it would help so much. Most shifts run shorthanded at this time, so additional volunteers will be such a benefit to all those involved."

Positions needed are for cashiers, sorters, stockers and more. A visual merchandise person is needed to do store windows on a twice monthly basis. Evening shifts are available as well as daytime shifts.

A volunteer training date will be given on Oct. 12 at the resale store located on Boyne Avenue between the BP and Riverside Tire. The time will be 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will cover all aspects of volunteer work with Challenge Mountain, different jobs and numerous other subjects.

Crooked Tree announces performing arts series

Crooked Tree Arts Center's Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series 2002/2003 will bring world-class entertainers to northern Michigan beginning this fall and running through early summer of 2003.

Tickets are on sale now for the entire season and updated information is always available by calling the Crooked Tree Arts Center at (231) 347-4337 or by visiting www.crookedtree.org.

In November, Detroit's internationally recognized jazz trumpet great, Marcus Belgrave will bring to life Louis Armstrong's trumpet innovations and "swing and scat" singing style.

Belgrave presents an evening of traditional jazz that keeps your toes tapping. Accompanying Belgrave will be some of Michigan's favorite musicians including: Paul Keller, bass; Pete Siers, drums; Charles Gabriel, clarinet and tenor sax; Robert Parker, trumpet; Chris Smith, trombone; Dave Flanigan, alto sax and clarinet; Bill Meyer, keyboards and vocals; Hugh Leal, vocals and trumpet Marcus Belgrave. "Sweet Georgia Brown," "Hello Dolly," "What a Wonderful World" and authentic Dixieland/New Orleans jazz tunes will fill the air.

Belgrave has entertained the world performing with the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra to the Tonight Show with Jay Leno. Belgrave's "Tribute to Louis Armstrong" will be at the new Boyne City High School Auditorium on Nov. 8 and 9.

A holiday program will be presented by Street Sounds on Dec. 13 and 14. This cappella quintet performs music alive with celebration, sweet blues, driving rhythms and soul. Five voices, three females and two males, will uplift the audience with a holiday program honoring various cultural groups.

Their sound is a tapestry of blues, jazz, African chants, rap, rhythm and blues and doo-wop. They have performed from Hawaii to Maine with Manhattan Transfer, Wynton Marsalis and Chick Corea.

Street Sounds will perform in the Ross Stoakes Theatre at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

When the Jeff Haas Trio hits Petoskey, jazz enthusiasts go wild. On Jan. 10 and 11, 2003, the group will once again dazzle his audience with his own special brand of jazz.

These concerts have been a sell-out for the past three years.

The Ahn Trio, a chamber ensemble of three sisters, bring glamour and high-level playing to their performances.

Pianist Lucia, cellist Maria (twins) and violinist Angella tour the world with their extraordinary power of communication and exquisite blend of sound. Combine Julliard training with appearances in Vogue, The New York Times and GQ; you have a unique presentation of classical music.

The Ahn Trio will perform March 7 and 8, 2003. The location is yet to be announced. Visit their web site at www.ahntrio.com.

The final performance in the 2002/2003 series is the chamber music ensemble, I Musici de Montreal.

On June 14, 2003, I Musici de Montreal will perform on the stage of John Hall Auditorium in Bay View Association.

Founded by violin-cellist, orchestra leader and Moscow-born Yuri Turovsky in 1983, the I Musici musical troupe has established itself as one of the most renowned chamber music ensembles in all of North America. Under the artistic direction of Turovsky, the 15 member I Musici ensemble specializes in music from the Baroque and contemporary eras.

Having toured extensively throughout the Island of Montreal, as well as across Canada, the United States, Europe and Asia, I Musici has played to the delight of classical music enthusiasts around the globe.

Its program includes Borodin's Chamber Symphony; Stravinsky's Concerto in D for Strings; Prokofiev's Visions fugitives; and Tchaikovsky's Chamber Symphony Op. 11 (the Tchaikovsky Serenade).

Tickets prices are $50 Patron, $20 adult and $8 student for Crooked Tree Arts Center members. Non-member prices are $50 Patron, $25 adult, and $10 student.

Tickets are available by telephone at (231) 347-4337 or on-line www.crookedtree.org.

Photographer offers tips for fall pictures

Award-winning AAA Michigan photographer Robert Brodbeck said with a little planning, photographing great fall color could be as easy as going out your back door or heading to your favorite scenic Michigan overlook.

Brodbeck, whose work has appeared worldwide, claims that making great fall color photos can be enhanced by properly composing your photo and using some basic accessories. Then you'll be ready to make memories during the coming color season at your favorite spots, which also might be some of the spots Brodbeck details below as some of his favorite places in Michigan to take colorful fall photos.

For best results use 100-200 speed film for better color, or try setting your digital camera to 100 ISO and use "fine" mode, Brodbeck suggests. Shoot in mornings and late afternoons, but other conditions also make great shots, including dark clouds against bright leaves. Experiment with your flash to reduce shadows in strong sunlight and in overcast conditions.

Use contrasting subjects.

"Don't use a road as the main photo subject, but you can use it as a composition point. Place it in the picture on the left and position it winding off to the right under the color for a stronger photograph," Brodbeck said.

If photographing a color-shrouded waterfall, use a tripod and slow your shutter speed to one-half or one-second.

"Use a polarizing filter. A long exposure will streak the water and give the illusion of movement," he said.

Don't ignore the trees for the forest, he added.

"An individual tree or group of trees against a backdrop of blue sky or evergreen forest often makes a better photo than an entire woods," he said. "Try zooming in on just a few branches with blue sky behind them and experiment with both front or back lighting — meaning the sun directly on or behind the subject.

"Look for individual leaves against dark rocks or floating in water, which can make very dramatic subjects. Zoom in on one or two leaves with frost on them to create mood or evoke feeling. Cloudy days and bright trees also can produce very dramatic results."

A few of Brodbeck's favorite spots to photograph fall color include Michigan lakes and rivers. Early morning light or early evening with still waters reflecting golden birches or red maples is an excellent subject, he said.

In the Upper Peninsula from mid-September to early October, he prefers Sturgeon River Gorge along US-41 between Alberta and L'Anse, the escarpment at Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park at the end of M-107 west of Silver City, US-41 between Delaware and Copper Harbor and Tahquamenon Falls State Park near Newberry.

In Northwest Lower Michigan from early to mid-October you may find him at Deadman's Hill off US-131 at the end of Deadman's Hill Road five miles north of Alba overlooking the Jordan River Valley.

In northeast lower Michigan you may find him from late September to late October on the River Road Scenic Byway checking out views of the Au Sable River.

From mid-October to late October in southwest lower Michigan, cider mills and farm markets are picture shooting destinations. And during that time in southeast lower Michigan metroparks ringing Detroit are destinations for photographers.

Brodbeck reminds leaf-peepers to never take photographs while driving. Taking photos from a moving vehicle will produce only blurred pictures with most "point and shoot" cameras and inattention could result in a crash.

Pull well off the road to let faster moving traffic pass and park in a safe place. The results will be a safe trip and great memories.

The spirited pep assembly will be followed by the annual homecoming parade which is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. This year's 27 entries will travel east down Mason Street from the site of the former Charlevoix Middle School, wind south down State Street and then across to the football field off Garfield Avenue where they'll fire up the varsity Rayder football team for its homecoming battle.

The mighty Rayders will face off against Kalkaska at 7:30 p.m. at Kipke Field.

At half-time, two of 10 members who make up the class of 2003 homecoming court will be crowned Rayder royalty.

This year's candidates for queen include; Erin Burns, Claire Herndon, Jake Mailloux, Liz Ulrich and Kelly Ward. Hopefuls to take the arm of the queen as the 2003 homecoming king are; Dustin Pero, Peter Gorkiewicz, Nick Pizzurro, David Shearer and Nate Teuscher.

Burns is the daughter of Jack and Doreen Burns. She has been involved in volleyball and softball and is a four-year Spanish student. She plans on attending Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant this fall.

Ward is the daughter of Sonny and Sandy Ward. She is a member of the French Club and has participated in softball and basketball. She is involved in Big Brothers and Big Sisters and attends pottery classes in the winter. She plans on attending Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo next fall.

Pero is the son of Don and Lisa Pero. He enjoys playing the drums, guitar and ethnic instruments with his band "Downshift" whose CD will be out within the year. After graduation he may further his musical career by attending Berkley College of Music in Boston.

Gorkiewicz is the son of Bob and Diane Gorkiewicz and Jeanne and Denny Phelps. He is president of the National Honor Society and has been a member of the Rayder cross-country team and participates in track. He plans to attend Michigan State University in East Lansing or Northern Michigan University in Marquette to study secondary education.

Pizzurro is the son of Don and Lynda Pizzurro. He is a four-year member of the Rayder football team and has also participated in tennis. Academically, he is a member of the Spanish Club and plans on attending Western Michigan University next fall.

Shearer is the son of Brad and Vivian Shearer. He is an accomplished four-year member of the golf team and is in his second year as team captain. As a high school golfer, he has earned three years of all-conference, all-region and all-state awards. He also participated in basketball for two seasons. He plans to attend college on the west coast where he would like to study golf.

Teuscher is the son of Mike and Beth Teuscher. He is a four-year veteran of the Rayder basketball, football and baseball teams and was elected captain of all of them, earning all-conference, all-region and all-state honorable mention awards. He's been involved in student council and plans on playing sports next fall at college.

After the crowning and the game, at around 9:45 p.m., the student council's homecoming bonfire and pizza party for the community will kick off. A slice of pizza and a pop is $1.

The homecoming dance, Oct. 5, will mark the official end to festivities. The dance, sponsored by the junior class, is scheduled to take place from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Library plan keeps old middle school standing

LIBRARY

quire more parking. At the current site parking is limited and the architects said an expansion could exacerbate the problem.

The consensus after three meetings was clear, the middle school site better suits the community's needs of the library into the future. And on Sept. 26 those in attendance took a vote and concluded everyone liked the middle school property better.

Then, on Sept. 27 the library building committee met and voted to recommend the library board try and swap with the school district for the entire 14 lots, including the 50,000 square foot school. This was a major change from initial rumblings that the library only wanted six open lots spanning about 1.5 acres, almost three times the size of the library's current location.

Library director Valerie Meyerson said the swap would trade the library's current site for the school's lots and building. She said the additional cost of the trade has to be negotiated.

As to whether or not a trade of this size is feasible with the library's budget constraints, Meyerson said she doesn't know yet.

"Their (the building committee's) reasoning is they really feel the property should stay in the community's hands, it shouldn't be a parking lot and it shouldn't be turned over to a developer. They're looking toward the future and looking out for the community," she said.

The school district is currently asking just under $1 million for the property and is anxious to get it off its hands as it strains the district's operating budget.

But the library currently has $364,000 in its savings and as Meyerson put it, "that's not going to get us very far."

However, she has plans to do grant writing and to launch a fund-raising campaign to generate money for the project. She expects the new library in and of itself to cost in the ballpark of $4 million. She said any money beyond what fund-raising is able to generate through grants and donations could be put as a bond request to the public.

But this fund-raising effort won't start until after the new library has been designed, which Meyerson doesn't anticipate starting for another three to four months.

The building committee said it is interested in keeping the building, but it would be for community use. So before the library jumps in, it has to figure out where renovation dollars are going to come from. Meyerson said renovating the old school is another huge project.

She said taking on a building renovation and the construction of a new facility at once could prove overwhelming and the prospect of this moving forward will be for the library board to decide.

"It will be a big decision for them," she said.

This decision will be discussed by the board at a special meeting scheduled to take place at 4 p.m., today, Oct. 2.

If the board votes in favor of entering negotiations with the school, another meeting between the library board and the school board will be scheduled.

All of this could take quite some time and the school district wants to act as soon as possible as upkeep of the building drains dollars.

Meyerson was scheduled to meet with superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock this week to discuss the possibility of this major swap. Some of the issues on the agenda for the meeting will include whether or not the district can wait for funding to come in.

In the meantime, the city of Charlevoix has also expressed interest in four of the lots to build a parking lot for marina users and a developer has approached the district, interested in purchasing the site.

Use of the site has become a concern of neighbors in the residential area who have secured an attorney. Gayle Gennett, a member of the group spoke at the library meeting Sept. 25. She said the neighbors support locating a library here and would like to have input on how traffic is handled.

However, Sturock said in a previous interview that the school board would like to sell the whole piece of property for community use, as the library is proposing.

BUSINESS

Business uses art to relax, heal, teach

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix residents Audrey Shapiro and Tonya Mann are using art to help customers express themselves and ease their tensions.

Shapiro and Mann, both trained artists, have combined their skills to start the business Creative Exploration. Creative Exploration allows customers the chance to use the artistic process to relax, work through any grief they have, work out their problems and have fun.

"It might be as simple as painting to music or making masks. We don't really want you to think about it, you just do it," Mann said. "You are expressing yourself through art. You don't have to be artistic and you don't have to have skills."

Shapiro added, "We both like to teach through the process and not really concern ourselves with the product."

According to Mann, the idea for Creative Explorations came about when the two women were discussing art classes in Charlevoix. They both did not think there were many options in Charlevoix, other than Crooked Tree Art Center in Petoskey.

After realizing they both had the credentials to teach such classes, the two women decided to start up their own. Shapiro has a master's degree in elementary education and administration and was a former art teacher. Mann has a master's degree in art therapy and an undergraduate degree in psychology and human development.

"We wanted to so something a little different to help people learn about themselves and grow in an artistic fashion," Mann said.

Golf team in three-way tie for first

The Charlevoix High School varsity golf team is tied for first place in the Lake Michigan Conference following a win Sept. 24 at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Harbor Springs and Elk Rapids are tied with Charlevoix for the top of the conference. The championship match will be played today, Wednesday, at Kalkaska.

"This is the best we've played as a whole team. It is nice to see, this time of the year," coach Jim Glynn said. "Our team is playing great, we should do real well."

The best shooter of the match was David Shearer with a 72. He was closely followed by Jordan Nystrom with a 79.

Glynn said York Smith and Ryan DeYoung shot their lowest scores of the year with 81 and 84, respectively. He added Kreg Wager is gaining some confidence on the course and shot an 88.

They were all followed by Chris Golski, who shot a 101.

Charlevoix followed this win with a nine hole meet against Suttons Bay, Manton and Benzie Central at the Leelanau Club. Charlevoix took second place in this meet, behind Sutton's Bay.

"The scores are still very good. We are still looking for that fourth score. The players are working hard, it will come," Glynn said.

Individual scores for this meet were: Shearer with a 34, Nystrom with a 39, Smith with a 41, DeYoung with a 53, Golski with a 50 and Wager with a 46.

The junior varsity golf team is also playing well this year, according to coach Evelyn Wood.

"We have a solid young team that should do real well in the future," she said.

The junior varsity team also won on Sept. 24 in a meet at the Charlevoix Municipal Course.

Individual scores were: Adam Wager with a 49, Kyle DeYoung with a 43, Chris Wyniowski with a 47, Gene Foley with a 45, Stephan Parker with a 45 and Alex Heffling with a 49.

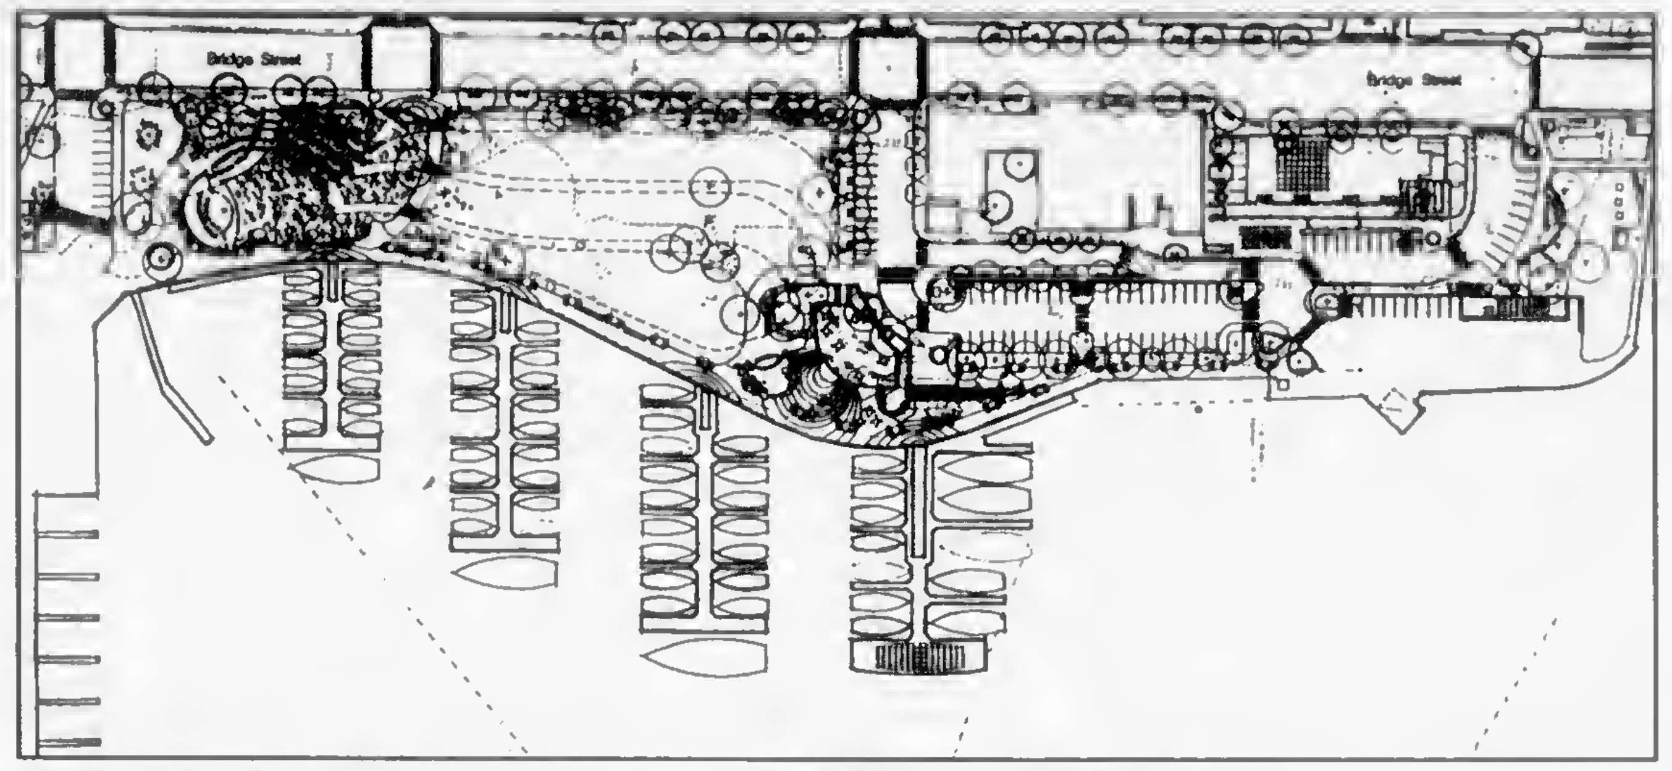
East Park layout gets nod from officials



This marina plan is favored by city officials. (Courtesy graphic)

MARINA

Open water fairways in the approved Plan B from north to south will be 90 feet wide, 70 feet wide and 60 feet wide.

Third ward city councilman Sherm Chamberlain said the chosen layout caters to what the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan pinpointed through surveys as the most common use of Round Lake, viewing, and also addresses some of the community's concern about view obstruction.

Intrusion into the lake and obstructed view concerns surfaced in June of 2000 after the first plans drafted by United Design Associates were released. United Design's initial blueprints showed docks extending over 400 feet into Round Lake, a huge expansion from the 17 current docks that extend 75 feet into the lake.

At the first marina meeting that took place July 29, it was clear those initial layouts would not be accepted by the community. Several meetings followed with layout changes being made and a final consensus was reached two months later.

Paul Weston, a Charlevoix resident, said, "(Plan) B has come a long way in keeping the facility pulled back and in control. And it's not so geometric, it's more curvilinear, which is familiar to all of us, that's what we have today."

Piers in the United Design plan council ultimately approved extend 220 feet at the furthest point. The northernmost pier extends 186 feet with a viewing pier running perpendicular to it. The pier below that extends 195 feet from shore, the pier south of it 220 feet and the southernmost pier 175 feet.

Chamberlain credits Barnes and his continual "tweaking" of his marina layout for helping reel in United Design's docks.

"The key was Josh standing firm with his distance out into the lake. That was my concern. I didn't want to see a marina sticking out like a sore thumb, it just wouldn't be Round Lake," he said.

Bill Henne, president of local environmental group Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) who has kept a close eye on the dock extension into Round Lake, said the plan his group came up with is quite similar to the approved Plan B.

While viewing and intrusion were hot topics in the community's quest to maintain Round Lake's character as the marina is renovated, the future of East Park and the location of buildings in the park has also been a subject of contention.

Some note the city purchased and tore down the Wharfside building at the corner of Bridge and Mason streets this spring and question why the city would construct more buildings.

The approved park layout does not set in stone architectural design, but does provide general layout parameters.

The new marina support facility and harbormaster's office from where boaters can shower, do laundry, use bathrooms and check the weather and from where the harbormaster can watch marina activity and coordinate boat movement was approved as an underground building with glass walls located at the foot of Clinton Street. A walkout seating area and fish pond will be at this marina support facility and dock level.

A short series of stairs will walk up from Clinton to a viewing deck on the roof of the building.

At the south end of the property where Antrim and Bridge streets meet is the approved location for the new performance venue. Mayoral candidate and second ward councilman Gabe Campbell is opposed to the new location and feels removing the current bandshell is a waste of money.

But Pollack said, "There is something to be said about history, but there is also something to be said about moving ahead with an opportunity."

He explained that the approved location will open up the park for festival and fair events while simultaneously providing concert space.

A Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce 300 square foot kiosk is also included in the plans and will be in the area of the performance venue, near its current location.

The specifics of East Park renovation plans will not be immediately explored. Right now Pollack, the park and marina designer and United Design Associates, the marina engineering firm, will work on permit applications. After the application process gets rolling both will focus on generating more detailed designs and establish cost estimates.

The city is trying to have permits and cost estimates ready by April of 2003 for review by the state funding agency, the Waterways Commission, to be included in its 2005 funding cycle. Waterways may fund between 50 and 75 percent of the marina project and marina related land facilities.

Chamberlain estimated that if the funding is approved, construction on the marina bulkhead will start in the spring of 2005.

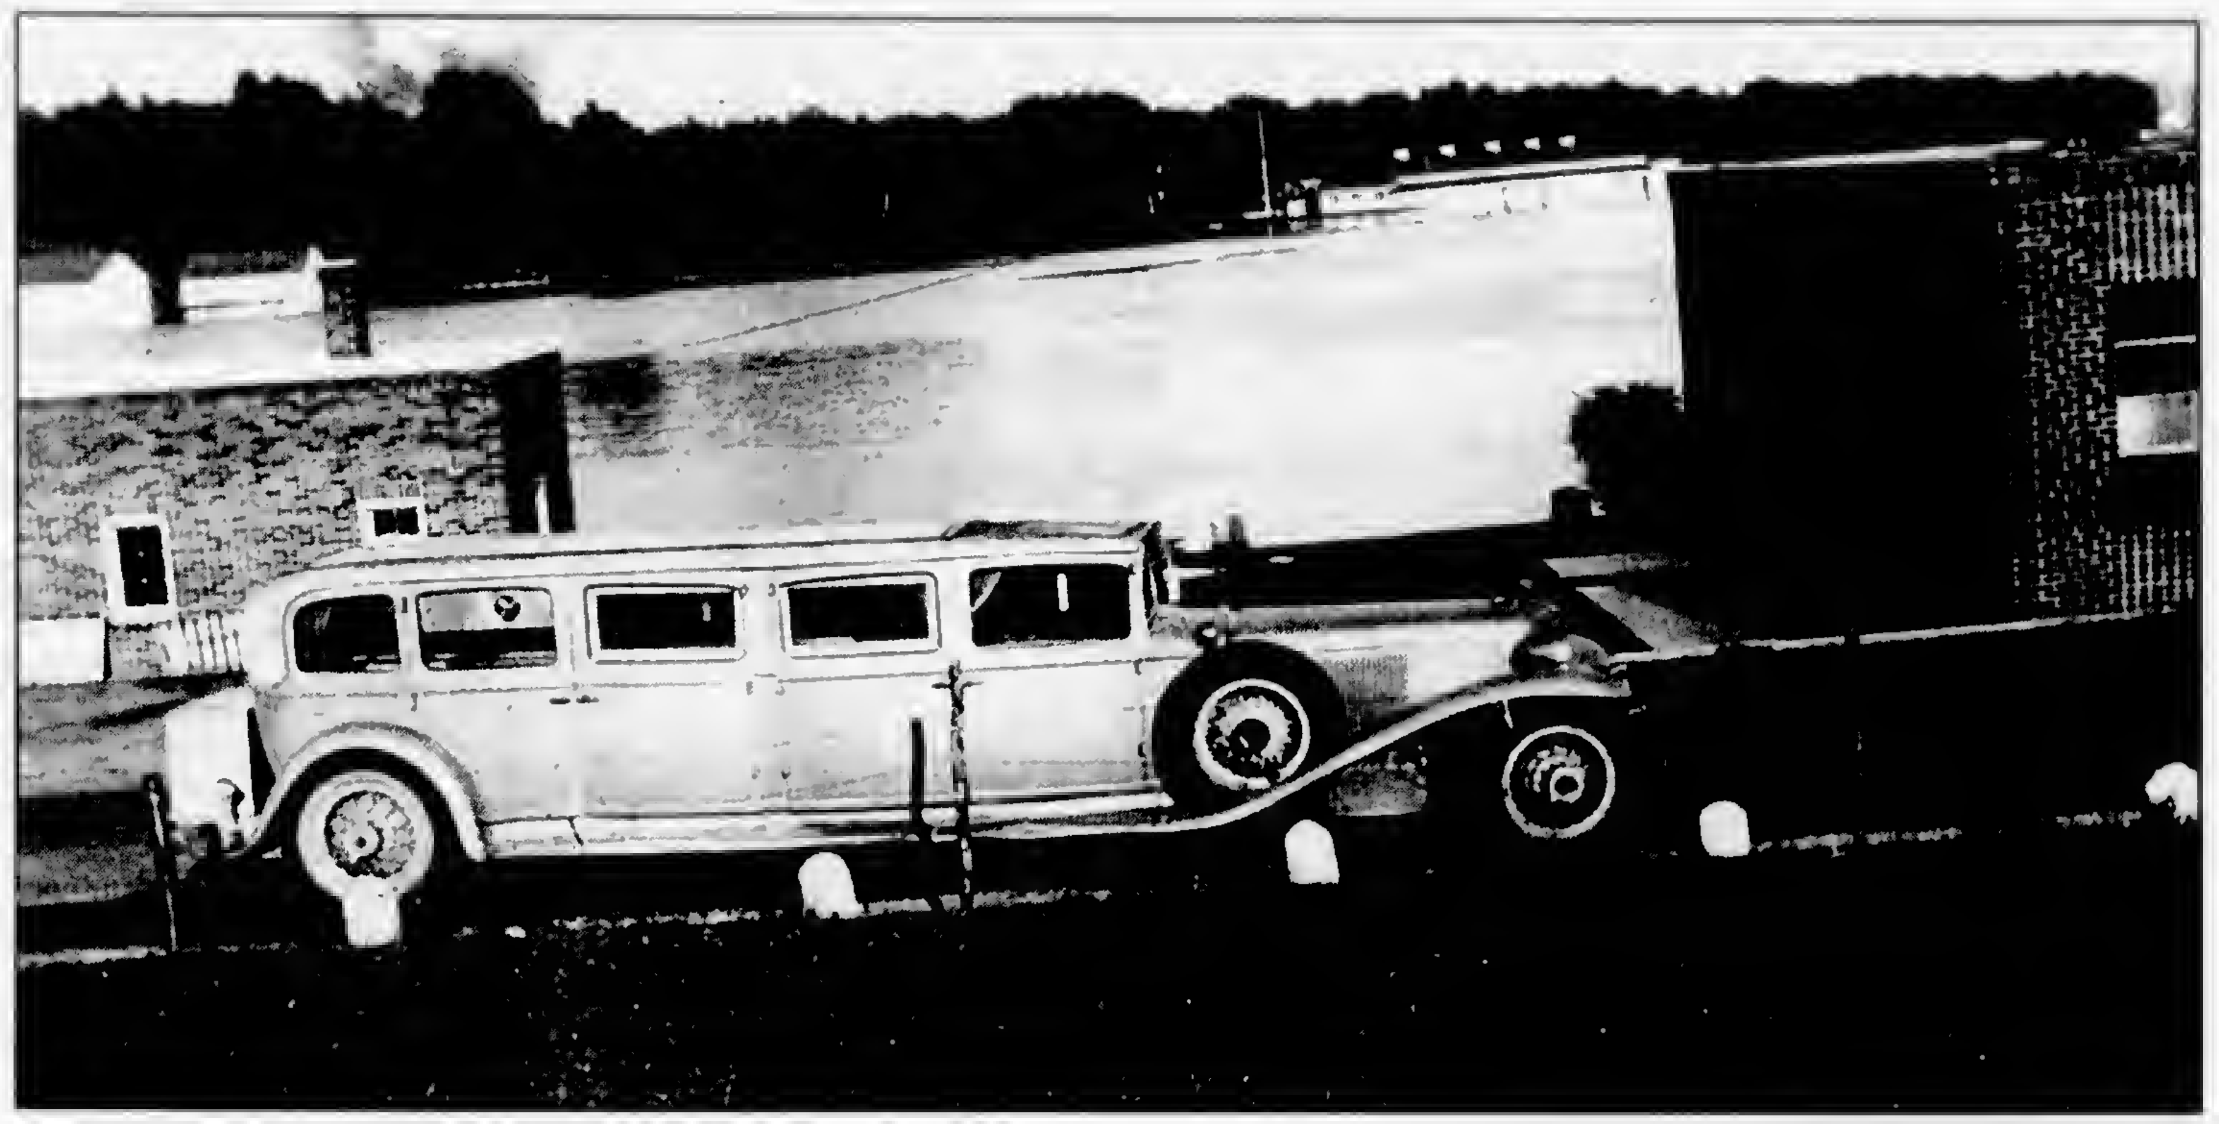
Area history in style



David Miles, of the Charlevoix Historical Society, found this photograph in the belongings of his late aunt Helen L. Goldstick. He said it was probably taken in the 1940s. Rayders beat Elk Rapids to keep conference lead

RAYDERS

The Rayder defense was especially tough in the fourth quarter, as Elk Rapids failed to score a basket from the field.

Alyssia McDonough led all scorers with 12 points. McDonough also pulled down four rebounds and keyed the defense with five steals. Brooke Blanchard had ten points and six rebounds.

Kari Way had eight points, four rebounds, three steals and two blocks. Sarah Cross had eight points, eight rebounds and three assists. Grace Farrell added eight points as well.

At St. Ignace, the Saints jumped out to a 21-6 first quarter lead and never looked back. The Rayders never got into their game, trailing 44-14 at the half.

Farrell led Charlevoix with 12 points and 13 rebounds. Rebecca Kanine had 10 points and four rebounds. Way had seven points and four rebounds. Jaime Pettis added six points and three steals.

After hosting Harbor Springs on Tuesday, the Rayders travel to East Jordan on Thursday. The results of Tuesday's game were unavailable.

Hospital ER officially opens

Construction has ended, the paint has dried, final touches have been made, and all the equipment is in place at Charlevoix Area Hospital's new Emergency Department and Urgent Care Center.

Now, with a successful inspection by the Michigan Department of Public Health, the facility is officially open for business.

Hospital officials had a formal dedication last month, so summer residents and vacationers could preview the new wing, and the existing emergency room continued to be used while a few minor details were tied up. With completion of those, the hospital received approval to transfer services.

Utilization of the hospital's emergency area has increased 400 percent since it was last expanded more than 20 years ago, and the new emergency department more than doubles the space for triage and treatment. Ten separate patient rooms are arranged around a central monitoring station, new imaging (x-ray) equipment has been added, and a rooftop helicopter landing pad will expedite transportation of those who require highly specialized care.

Jackson said the expansion gives Charlevoix Area Hospital the capabilities to efficiently handle any type of emergency.

A new Urgent Care Center - part of the facility - is also open for business. The center is designed to treat walk-in patients for non-emergency conditions when doctor's offices are closed. It is open from 4 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday and weekends and holidays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Library wants to swap land

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Public Library Board has decided it will ask Charlevoix Public Schools for a clean swap of its Clinton Street property for the district's former middle school property off Grant Street.

The library board met with its building committee Oct. 2 to review the committee's recommendation that the board acquire the entire 14 lot piece of property, including the 50,000 square foot building and the school's administrative office off Clinton Street.

The property would be used to construct a new 20,000 square foot Charlevoix Public Library, an open park area, designated parking and a community center.

"The community owns both properties. Why don't we just exchange them. The school district wouldn't lose money, it would gain a space appraised at $597,000. I feel comfortable about doing a swap," library building committee member Connie Saltonstall said.

Based on the appraised value of the properties, the exchange of the library's current site for the former middle school site and the school's

Studies find few solutions despite costs

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce dedicated six months and $36,000 for two studies that looked at two of Charlevoix's biggest problems, traffic and the off-season economy, and each found there is little to nothing that can be done.

The city, the chamber and the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, pursued a pedestrian traffic study and a convention center feasibility study.

After making traffic study observations in July and August the group conducting the study returned to tell city officials, pedestrians aren't the major contributor to traffic congestion. But instead pointed the finger at the drawbridge and Bridge Street, a two-lane, two-way traffic road and suggested solutions to the traffic nemesis limited to "tinkering with the margins."

The convention center study concluded 75 groups would come to Charlevoix in the summer, when plenty of people are already here, and about 25 groups may use the center in the slower months from November to April.

The total cost of the convention center study, conducted by Hospitality Advisors Consulting Group of Ann Arbor, was $27,500. Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) authorized $15,000 in funds to be allocated to the study and the remaining $14,500 was funded by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The pedestrian study conducted by the consulting firm Richard Lyles and Associates of Williamston, was also a joint venture of the DDA and the chamber of commerce that cost the city $8,700.

Girl becomes youngest marching Rayder

Kimber Wager performs during the halftime of the Charlevoix High School varsity football game Friday along with the high school marching band. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Most middle school students participate in high school football games from the sidelines, but Kimber Wager, a sixth grader at Charlevoix Middle School, has the honor of encouraging the team from her nearby seat with the Rayder marching band.

During the summer of 1999, Kimber was 7 years old and preparing to go into third grade. Her brothers, Krag and Adam Wager, were off to Rayder Band Camp and her mom, Lynette Grams, was an instructor at the camp.

So naturally, Kimber, who wasn't allowed to stay home alone, had perfect band camp attendance.

After sweating it out with the family and learning all the Rayder moves, former marching band director Raphe Rittenhouse offered her the chance of a lifetime — the opportunity to march with the band.

Kimber, a Charlevoix native and long-time admirer of the band, jumped at the occasion to march in the big leagues.

Grams quickly got to work and stitched Kimber a Rayder marching costume that fit her tiny frame and matched the other 47 band members' uniforms.

Since then, Grams said Kimber has taken on the role of band mascot and the other students have "adopted" her.

"I've made a lot of big sisters," Kimber said.

This year after two full years diligently attending camps, practices and games she was wondering if the new director, Jayne Bennett would allow her to continue.

Bennett said after contemplating the option, she talked with other members of the band who said they enjoyed her presence in the group. And after watching her work at camp found, "she does a fine job."

"She realized how well I can march," Kimber said.

However, Bennett does not intend to offer other non-high school students a spot in the band.

But Grams said Kimber's fellow sixth graders understand their friend's role and cheer her on from the stands.

While her position in the marching band is currently limited to marching, her goal over the next three years is to master the flute and play with the band her freshman year.

In the meantime, she is working hard with Bennett's middle school music group to learn Rayder tunes. She said in practicing with the middle school band she has noticed there are a lot more squeaks than she hears with the high school marching band.

But, she and her fellow middle school musicians have plenty of time to work those out before it's time to take the field at varsity Rayder football games.

Studies were a good use of money overall

EDITORIAL

There were no easy solutions to the traffic situation in downtown Charlevoix during the summer and there is no real need for a convention center in town, according to two studies funded by the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority.

The traffic study stated Charlevoix's traffic is snarled due to the bridge and too much traffic for the roads to handle. And, it seems as though the chamber's idea for a "traffic ambassador" will not work.

Perhaps the only way to alleviate traffic in downtown Charlevoix — which is only a "problem" during three or four months out of the year — is to weld the bridge shut and widen the roads. Since these are not viable options, there is no solution.

The convention center study showed that a center will only bring in more people during the summer months, thus impacting our traffic and parking situation further. Charlevoix is already a very popular summer destination and we really don't need new ways to bring in people during the summer.

While taxpayers could chastise these groups for spending $36,000 on two studies that resulted in no solutions, they shouldn't. Spending $36,000 is much better than having the city spend a lot more money on its own solution to traffic in town, which is based on a hunch, and spending money to build a convention center that fails.

Plus, now the community has solid information to use if these issues ever come up again in the future.

The city's actions in having them done before throwing money into "quick fix" solutions, should serve as a model to other communities in northern Michigan. Too often politicians are too eager to spend taxpayer money on big projects without any real understanding of the issue.

Therefore the public officials of our community should be commended for these studies as a good use of public money.

Libraries are heaven on earth for Knutson

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

I've been thinking about libraries a lot lately, and as is often the case, by a certain age, thinking results in reminiscence.

I grew up in a household that had little time for reading. My father was forced to leave school in the fifth grade when it became necessary for him to run a farm and help raise five younger brothers and sisters. My mother had completed the eighth grade in a rural school. The Great Depression held sway until the early 1940s in the Midwest farm belt and the family was rightly more concerned with immediate needs, like food and shelter.

In addition to the Bible, there were three books in the house: Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" and a large history by someone named Josephus. I have no idea where they came from, they had always been there. Our only serious connection to the outside world was a battery powered radio and a once a year visit to relatives in Minneapolis, an unimaginably large city.

When I entered school and learned to read, I was thrilled at the number of books stored in a glass-fronted cabinet at the back of the room. I wanted to read them all. It was a one room school with nearly 30 students in eight grades and a teacher with six months of normal school training.

By the time I was in fifth grade, that amazing number of books held few surprises. There were only about 50 of them and I had read everything except Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," which I could not understand.

The literary future looked pretty bleak for at least the next three years, but something changed all that.

One Saturday in the early 1940s I had ridden into our small town — 1,000 people — with my father to buy necessities. He became engaged in conversation with some other farmers. I wandered off down one of the side streets and came upon a small, square, brick building with "LIBRARY" engraved in stone over the door.

I knew what a library was, but I had not seen one before. After almost 60 years I can still call up the image of my first look into that building. I walked up the half dozen stone steps and through the heavy wooden door. It was quiet, with shiny wood floors that smelled of sweeping compound. There was a lady sitting behind a desk. All the walls were covered with filled bookshelves, and there were rows of shelves occupying most of the rest of the single, large room. I must have looked lost.

She said "What are you interested in?" I could have said "everything," and been close to the truth. I was surrounded by more books than I had ever seen or dreamed of. It was the first time I had encountered more books than I could possibly read. When I learned that I could take books home with me, I knew that I had stumbled into heaven. My life was forever changed.

It was a Carnegie Library, much like the one that used to be in Charlevoix on the Charlevoix State Bank corner. Whatever little affection I have for untrammeled capitalism dates from the recognition of Carnegie's contribution to the education of so many young people, who like myself hardly knew what a library was.

A library is to this day a place of some wonder to me, even though I have spent most of my professional life surrounded by the immense libraries of colleges and universities.

Surely a library still holds enormous possibilities for those young people who are just finding and exploring it. They should certainly have the best chance for such exploration. There is probably no more important institution in a community than its public library. There certainly has been no more important institution in my life.

Reasons for swap

Editor:

In June 2002 we were asked to become members of the Charlevoix Library Building Committee. Our charge was to find the best site for a new library for the district. We started with the premise that the community would like to keep the library downtown and reviewed all possible sites.

Two sites quickly became the focus of our discussions: the site of the current library (109 Clinton Street) and the site of the former elementary and middle school (204 Grant Street). Working from a needs analysis commissioned by the Library Board, we determined that the library site would require a building of 20,000 square feet — approximately three times the current library space.

The two sites were the topic of discussion at the public meetings given Sept. 25, 26 and 27. Architects from Engberg Andersen Design Partnership and AAI of Traverse City led the forum participants through 16 proposed designs for the two sites. The overwhelming choice of sites was the old middle school property. The architects drew eight plans as to how the building could be sited on that parcel. A proposed new library building would require a minimum of six of the 14 lots of the old middle school property.

The public input was loud and clear:

1) Keep the old middle school property in public ownership.

2) Build a library on the old middle school property.

3) Maintain a park setting around the Library with adequate parking.

4) Consider public use of the current old middle school building for community activities.

5) Keep at the least the gym of the old middle school open for a one year period.

We are indebted to the citizens who attended the hearings and made their vision clear to us. Our committee recommended and the library board has unanimously (with one abstention) approved that recommendation which will go to the school board for approval at their Oct. 14, 2002 meeting.

The library board's resolution reverberates the community's concern by recommending that the school district and the library district exchange properties so that this vision can become reality.

Specifically: the current library site would be exchanged for the old middle school site; the old middle school site would house the new library in a park setting sensitive to environmental concerns and with adequate parking; the current library site would become the school administration building; the old middle school building would be maintained for 12 months to allow the community to come together with a plan for the future of that building; community agencies, individuals and foundations will work together during that 12-month period to determine the best public uses for the old middle school building itself; the library district and the school district will work with community leaders to ensure that the current functions of the library and school district are maintained while the community determines the fate of the old middle school; the new library construction will start at the earliest possible time.

We are grateful for the citizen input into this process. Your insight has developed into a vision of a Community Place, which will be assessible to all future generations. Our work has only begun. Everyone in the community owes it to future generations to help make this vision a reality.

Support swap

Editor:

The Charlevoix Public Library Board is asking the Charlevoix School Board to exchange the old middle school property for the library property. The next step is for the Charlevoix School Board to approve the exchange.

Currently, the Charlevoix school's athletic department does not need the old middle school gym. However, when boys' and girls' basketball is played during the same season, the school will not have enough gym space for all the programs. It is poor financial planning for the school to sell a gymnasium when they will not have enough space in the near future. The county building department has stated that they will consider it "a continuing use" if the middle school gym is in use before the end of this year. Also, the roof on the gym does not need to be repaired. We can use this gym immediately for community recreation programs and Ike Boss has offered to handle the scheduling.

Unfortunately, the school board has announced they want to sell this property. The taxpayers for the school district and the library district are one and the same. Why should we (the taxpayers) have to buy what already belongs to us?

There is an argument that the school board would not be upholding their fiduciary responsibility to the school district if they do not get developers' cash. If the school board approves the exchange, they will receive a $597,000 property, they will have a building for administrative offices and they will preserve a gym that will be needed. One estimate to build just a gym without seating or showers is $300,000. The old middle school gym has seating and showers and is immediately usable. This exchange is worth $1 million to the school board and it is priceless to the community.

Please talk with the school board representatives and come to the Charlevoix School Board meeting at 7 p.m., Monday, Oct. 14 in the media center of the new high school. We need to convince them that they are serving the educational needs of the community by approving the swap with the library, rather than selling the property.

Religion is allowed in schools

Editor:

In this world we have 10,000 distinct religious groups; we also have 33,830 Christian denominations. Many of the educated pastors in this group have committed the sin of silence by not sharing a most basic bit of knowledge their parishioners should know. I am talking about the role of religion in public schools.

Much misinformation has been spread and accepted as gospel. I would like to set some long established illusions straight.

Did you know:

- Public schools may teach about religion, including its role in U.S. and world history from an objective standpoint. Many schools do.
- Students in secondary schools may form Bible clubs and other religious clubs that meet before or after school. Students run these clubs and attendance is completely voluntary.
- Students may talk about religion with their friends and distribute religious literature in a non-disruptive fashion. Other groups, however, may not proselytize in public schools.
- The Supreme Court has never ruled that kids can't pray in school! Rather, the court ruled that schools may not sponsor religious worship and compel youngsters to participate. Individual students may pray and read religious literature on their own time.

There is a place for religion in public schools — but it must be voluntary, not coerced. And that's the way it ought to be!

United Way honors local man, company

Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project and a top manager received three awards from CharEm United Way.

During the annual campaign kickoff, Greg Withrow, Big Rock Point engineering, operations and licensing manager, and the site were presented with the first individual and corporate John Newton Memorial Awards. The former nuclear power plant also was among the companies recognized for outstanding contributions to the 2001-2002 campaign.

The John Newton Memorial Award was established in memory of John Newton, the former CharEm board president who died unexpectedly last year.

"We wanted to do something special in John's memory," Brynne Klawuhn, CharEm United Way executive director, said. "He helped build the foundation that is helping us succeed today."

After Newton's death, Withrow stepped forward to serve as board president. Klawuhn said that Withrow and Big Rock Point are perfect first recipients of the award, which was established to recognize individuals and corporations for long standing commitments to United Way. Withrow has served on the United Way board for more than a decade.

Big Rock Point employees and Consumers Energy have contributed more than $227,000 to United Way over the past 10 years.

"United Way is not about us or me," Withrow told the audience upon receiving the award Sept. 18. "It's about the people who donate the money and the people who use the money to help people in our community."

Big Rock Point also received a special recognition award for contributions to last year's campaign. Plant employees donated $19,000 and the Consumers Energy Foundation added a corporate gift of $10,700.

A goal of $230,000 has been set for the 2002-2003 CharEm United Way campaign.

Two Newton awards will be presented annually to a corporation and individual for long-standing commitment to United Way.

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility providing natural gas and electricity to more than six million of the state's nine million residents in all 68 lower Peninsula counties.

College announces new area scholarship

The North Central Michigan College Foundation recently received a charitable contribution of stock in the amount of $55,000 that will be used to establish a scholarship fund to benefit recent high school graduates from the Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Petoskey areas.

The Dorothy Harris Scholarship Fund has been created by donors Jack and Dorothy Harris to help full-time students who are seeking a degree at North Central Michigan College.

"We are very grateful to the Harris' for their generosity and support," said NCMC Foundation Executive Director Sean Pollion. "This gift will benefit many future students and make the possibility of obtaining a college education a reality for many of the recipients."

The Dorothy Harris Scholarship was established as a result of the Harris' donating appreciated stock, a process Pollion said can have very attractive benefits to a donor.

"Sometimes donors encounter a situation where they have highly appreciated stock with a low cost basis and there can be real advantages for a donor to use that stock to make a charitable contribution," he said.

The Dorothy Harris Scholarship will be one of more than 35 scholarships currently managed by the foundation.

"We feel very honored that Jack and Dorothy would choose NCMC to be the recipient of their charitable giving," NCMC President Cameron Brunet-Koch said. "This scholarship is going to have a big impact on students."

City candidates discuss spending

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Candidates for Charlevoix City Council offered their impressions of some projects pursued by the city that have been chastised as poor uses of tax dollars and what projects they'll support if elected Nov. 5.

"Sometimes we get pretty free with spending taxpayer's dollars and all of a sudden we are in high gear on spending," mayoral candidate and current second ward councilman Gabe Campbell said.

Gabe Campbell

Campbell steadily criticizes city spending and recently took issue with the cost of purchasing and demolishing the Wharfside building that sat at the corner of Mason and Bridge streets.

His opposition, current mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell said in spite of the cost, he feels the Wharfside project was a good choice on the city's part as it opened options for East Park renovations.

While the two don't agree on Wharfside spending, they both support convention center and pedestrian traffic studies that found no solutions.

"I think sometimes when people get upset the only thing you can do is a study," Campbell said.

Alvin Russell

Russell said it is better that the city spend a nominal amount on a study as compared to building a convention center and finding the idea was a flop.

Both Russell and Campbell are looking forward to upcoming projects, including: the renovation of city hall, marina and East Park renovations and continued infrastructure improvements.

But, Campbell vows to oppose any demolition of the current East Park bandshell, while Russell said he will follow the community's general consensus in making a decision about the performance venue.

Gabe's wife Karen, who is running for his open second ward seat, and her opposition, D.J. Way, came out with opposite opinions on almost all city spending issues.

Karen Campbell

Karen said she agreed with study spending, but Way disagrees.

Way feels the studies recently returned to the city without concrete solutions were a waste of money because he felt the outcome was obvious. But, he supported the city for pursuing them and putting the issues to rest.

"It's nice to know for sure," he said.

Karen said costs associated with the Wharfside project were over the top and Way was initially against the purchase and demolition of the building but said, now that it's down, he supports the city's decision.

D. J. Way

Another place Karen feels city dollars flow too easily is in petunia weeding and maintenance.

"If you want petunias in front of your home or business, you take care of them. That's a waste of money when people are starving in the world," she said.

Both Way and Karen support renovations to the marina and city hall and were impressed with recent projects at Michigan Beach.

"The city sharpened its pencil when the costs were too high (with the Michigan Beach project) and I applauded them for that," Way said. "Some people say the city overspends and I think that is a small issue but the expansion and renovation of city hall is overdue."

But while Way is applauding the city for cutting costs at Michigan Beach Karen is calling for more.

"They've been talking about renovating city hall for 15 years, put some petunia money into city hall," she said.

Special meeting to address Cemex issues

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Township will host a special public meeting to address cement kiln dust piles and water quality at and near the site of local cement manufacturer, Cemex, Inc.

The meeting which will take place at 7 p.m. Oct. 15 at the township hall located at 12491 Waller Road is the second in a series of meetings that followed a barrage of complaints from nearby Boulder Park residents.

Concerns residents have brought to light include vibrations from blasts in the quarry and the industrial operation's impact on local air and water quality.

The township's mining inspector, Murray Gillis, addressed vibration concerns at the Sept. 9 meeting.

He said at the upcoming meeting area residents will have the opportunity to look at issues associated with cement kiln dust disposal and water quality. There will be time for concerns to be voiced and for expert responses to those concerns by state officials that currently monitor the site.

John Ozoga, senior environmental engineer with the Waste Management Division of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) will address cement kiln dust disposal.

Ozoga will likely be joined by a water quality specialist with the MDEQ, but as of Oct. 7, a final confirmation that this individual will attend had not been received.

The board and those in attendance will also review the reclamation plan Cemex has established for its site. This plan is a review of what steps would have to be taken to return the site to a "natural" state.

Gillis said the township has decided to break residents' concerns down into individual meetings to better focus discussion. Air quality issues will be the subject of a later meeting that has not yet been scheduled.

Rash of thefts reported Oct. 1

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix county and city law enforcement officials are investigating a rash of breaking and enterings during the late evening and early morning on Oct. 1 around the city of Charlevoix.

While each of the incidents involved unlocked homes or vehicles, police still classify the crimes as a breaking and entering. Police say five homes and vehicles off Elm and Prospect streets in the city and off McSauba and Beechwood roads in Charlevoix Township were entered and items were stolen.

According to Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson, one of the victims was Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education president Allen Telgenhof. Telgenhof and his family were asleep in their Charlevoix Township home when a burglar slipped in through an unlocked door and took items from inside.

Halverson said the burglar or burglars took purses, cash and three laptop computers in one night.

While Halverson does not have any suspects in the crimes, he believes there is more than one person involved due to the high number of items taken.

"Three laptops are a handful for one person," he said.

Halverson suggested residents take precautions against this kind of theft from their homes or vehicles by keeping their doors locked at night.

"Locking your door at night before you go to bed should be as automatic as putting on your seatbelt in a car," he said.

The city police and the sheriff's department are working on a cooperative investigation into the thefts.

Charlevoix Courier staff writer Julie Witthoeft contributed to this report.

Char-Em ISD awarded grant for area AmeriCorps program

The Michigan Community Service Commission (MCSC) recently announced it has awarded a $247,987 grant to Char-Em ISD to host a Michigan's AmeriCorps program in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

This organization is one of only 24 nonprofit organizations throughout the state to receive this funding. The grant took effect in September.

"We are excited to award this grant to Char-Em ISD because they have shown that they understand the youth violence challenges Charlevoix and Emmet counties face, and they have a solid plan to address those issues," Kyle Caldwell, executive director of the commission, said.

"By engaging people from within the community as AmeriCorps members, they have the power to get things done."

The Char-Em ISD AmeriCorps program engages 20 full-time members in integrating on-site violence prevention programs throughout 17 school buildings. The primary goal of the program is to decrease the incidence of aggression, assault and violence within the school environment.

Often described as a domestic Peace Corps, AmeriCorps brings to action thousands of Americans throughout the country to address our communities' toughest challenges. AmeriCorps members work to meet education, public safety, environmental and human needs.

In our community, 20 AmeriCorps members will be serving for a year with the Char-Em ISD AmeriCorps Program. For their year of service, AmeriCorps members receive a living stipend and an education award.

Michigan's AmeriCorps is a National Service program funded by the Corporation for National and Community Service.

For information about the Char-Em ISD AmeriCorps Program, contact Terri Parsons at (231) 547-9947 or parsont@pace.k12.mi.us. For more information about Michigan's AmeriCorps, contact Paula Kaiser at the Michigan Community Service Commission at (517) 373-1376 or kaiserp@michigan.gov.

This weekend in Charlevoix, Apple Festival will morph East Park into a harvest farm market and craft fair.

Thousands of area residents and visitors will filter into town to capture the flavor and character of autumn in northern Michigan, as they sip golden apple cider and bite into 30 varieties of crunchy apples.

"People mark the festival on their calendar and make sure they are here," Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Director Jacqueline Merta said.

Calendars for this year's event should be marked for this weekend. The festival will take place from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Oct. 11 and 12 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Oct. 13 in downtown Charlevoix's East Park, overlooking Round Lake.

This year will mark the Charlevoix Apple Festival's twenty-third anniversary. The first festival took place in 1979 and was hosted by current sponsors, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

Merta said the festival's aim was then and remains an effort to familiarize residents and visitors with the many commodities provided by thriving area orchards and farms.

Northern Michigan is known for its crop production and two area orchards, King's Orchard and Friske Orchards, will be showing off this year's crunchy products in bright reds, yellows and greens.

In spite of the late spring frost this year, co-owner of Friske Orchards, Richard Friske Jr., promises to have plenty of perfect apples in 15 varieties.

He said the frost reduced the overall crop, but characterized the results across the board as variable. And added that certain sites at the orchard were hit harder than others as was the case with certain apple varieties.

But overall he said, "The frost didn't affect the apples too badly. We have plenty of nice apples at our farm market and we'll have plenty for Charlevoix's Apple Festival."

Friske sells an estimated 200 bushels of apples every year at the festival.

"It's the single biggest weekend of our year," he said.

Aside from the many varieties of fresh apples that will be on site, other commodities will also be for sale, including: apple cake and pie, cider, honey and jams, fresh donuts, plants and bulbs, hydroponic tomatoes, squash, pumpkins, gourds, Indian corn and more.

In all, 16 food vendors will be ready to tantalize customers with delectable harvest treats.

After shopping for fresh produce and baked goods, festival participants can travel through the craft courtyard filled with 130 vendors showcasing multiple handmade goods.

While apples and crafts may appear to be adult fun, there is plenty that will be in the park this weekend to keep the kids busy including: pony and carriage rides, a petting farm and a huge apple play land.

While families keep busy having fun in the park, merchants are also expecting an influx of shoppers. Merta said Apple Festival's popularity plays an important economic role in the community as it brings in high volumes of shoppers to Charlevoix's downtown businesses.

She added that aside from its economic utility it has also become a rallying event for area families and former residents who think of it as a homecoming opportunity.

Creeks to be treated for sea lamprey

Horton and Porter creeks in Charlevoix County will be the site of Sea Lamprey Control operations during Oct. 8-17.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologists and technicians from the Ludington Biological Station will arrive and begin preparations to apply the lampricide TFM to sections of the stream to kill larval sea lampreys living in bottom sediments. Lampricide applications are conducted under Michigan State permits and meet Michigan water quality criteria, according to a press release sent out by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Application of TFM is tentatively scheduled to begin with Porter Creek for Oct. 12 followed by Horton Creek on Oct. 13. Each treatment should be complete within 24 hours. Changes to this schedule may be necessary based on local weather or stream conditions near the time of treatment.

Sea lamprey larvae that live in the Great Lakes tributaries are vulnerable to chemical control measures.

The larvae hatch from eggs laid by adult lamprey in gravel nests and drift into silty bottom areas where they burrow and live for several years. In this life stage the lampreys can be killed with lampricide. Failure to eliminate larvae in streams allows the lampreys to transform into parasitic adults and then migrate into the Great Lakes to kill fish.

According to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, tributaries must be treated every three to five years to eliminate the sea lamprey populations.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stated TFM is not harmful to humans, birds or animals when diluted in stream water to the concentrations needed to kill sea lampreys, however, the public is asked to avoid unnecessary exposure. Swimming in the stream is discouraged during treatment.

Anglers should not eat fish caught from treated waters for 24 hours following treatment. Individuals using the stream as a source of drinking water are asked to find an alternate source of water during treatment. Agricultural irrigation must be suspended for 24 hours during and following treatment because TFM may damage certain crops. Farmers that permit livestock to water in the streams also must suspend this practice for 24 hours during and following treatment.

Persons confining bait fish or other organisms in stream water also are asked to use an alternate water source because the lampricide may cause mortality among aquatic organisms stressed by overcrowding and handling.

TFM is selectively toxic to sea lampreys, but a few fish and insect species are sensitive and occasionally die during treatment, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Sensitive fish include: the stonecat, logperch, burbot and bullhead. Fish stressed by disease, spawning or poor water quality also may be susceptible to TFM.

Extensive preparations are required for a safe and effective stream treatment. For several days before treatment, service personnel collect data on stream water chemistry and discharge. In addition, they conduct on-site toxicity tests with TFM, and stream flow studies with harmless dyes. The dye may cause the stream water to appear red or green depending on the type and amount of dye used.

During treatment, lampricide is carefully metered into the mainstream and selected tributaries. Stream flow then carries the TFM downstream through areas of infested seas lampreys. The stream water is continually analyzed at predetermined sites to assure that proper concentrations of TFM are maintained.

Sea lampreys entered Lake Ontario in the early 1800s and moved into Lake Erie through the Welland Canal around 1921. Within a few decades, lampreys spread throughout the upper Great Lakes and nearly eliminated the remnants of overfished lake trout stocks.

The Great Lakes Fishery Commission began chemical control of sea lampreys in U.S. and Canadian tributaries of commercial fisheries that exist in the Great Lakes.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stated without continued control efforts these fisheries again would be in jeopardy. Treatment of Horton and Porter creeks will destroy newly hatched sea lamprey larvae and prevent them from drifting out of the streams and into Lake Charlevoix where they could further develop and not be subject to control measures.

The commission has implemented a research program to develop alternative control techniques. The agents are currently evaluating the release of sterile male sea lampreys as a control measure to reduce lamprey production in Lake Superior and the St. Mary's River.

The commission also is developing a strategy to increase the number of barriers on lamprey producing streams and is conducting research into improved barrier design. Research is continuing into other methods such as traps, attractants and repellents, biological controls and genetic engineering.

• Please flatten all cardboard. The bins can fill up fast if boxes are put in without flattening. The only glass that is recyclable is clear (white) glass. No brown or green glass can be recycled at this time.

• If one bin is full, please check the other bin. There are two doors for each recyclable item and sometimes one door is full but the other still has room. If all bins are full please don't leave your items outside the bins. Please come back in a day or two since the bins are emptied frequently.

• Pick up a brochure at the recycling center that explains items that can be recycled. We observed many items that should not have been there. For example, a gas can in with the aluminum, paper bags in with the cardboard (these go in with newspapers), a foam cooler in plastic, colored glass, plastic grocery bags in with plastic, glossy cardboard (such as 12 pack containers of coke and assorted paper in with newspapers (only newspapers and magazines are recyclable).

If we all take the time to educate ourselves we will help to assure that our local recyclable center is run efficiently and we do not have contaminants in our recyclables. These contaminants have to be hand sorted out and add cost to the program.

Thank you

Editor:

The Charlevoix Community American Red Cross blood drive given Sept. 26 attained great results through the efforts of many committed volunteers and donors. Their commitment is to save lives and help the sick and injured.

The Red Cross staff collected 104 pints of blood, which translates into possibly affecting the lives of 400 people.

I want to thank Charlevoix businesses for helping to promote the bloodmobile with posters and donating products used at the blood drive. Thank you to the Charlevoix Lions Club for their faithful work and the Reformed Church for being our host.

Thank you to my volunteers who are the heart of the blood drive. The group who made phone calls at Vacation Properties Network, the men and women who baked and those who helped at the blood drive. They are priceless.

On another note, I would like to echo the thunderous applause given the amazing entertainers at the Charlevoix Center for the Performing Arts in the new high school on Saturday evening, Oct. 5. The auditorium is state-of-the-art, beautiful and comfortable. The Charlevoix High School Jazz.Band and the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Group are very impressive. We can be very proud of our young students! The near capacity crowd was also delighted by the talents of "Three Men and a Tenor," a singing/comedy quartet from Lansing. Wow! Charlevoix can look forward to many years of interesting, enjoyable, engaging, amusing and inspiring programs at our very own Center for the Performing Arts. I can hardly wait for more!

Golf event

Editor:

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the Flight Deck and Town House Muni Open was given at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Forty-eight golfers participated in a breakfast, nine-hole scramble and luncheon. The purpose of the event was to determine a holder of bragging rights of golfers playing for each establishment. We must inform you that the Town House Bar was declared the winner by five strokes.

A check was sent to Hospice of Northwest Michigan to continue their generous work here in our area.

Thank you to all of you that made this a wonderful event, (you should all know who you are) and look out next year Town House.

Traffic, convention center studies finished and a member of the convention center feasibility study committee, attended a Sept. 20 committee meeting to review the study's findings.

STUDIES

At the meeting, Mason said the committee decided from the study's findings to put the convention center idea on the back burner.

"We felt the report came back and didn't tell us anything we didn't already know. The group felt this probably is not going to happen. The space isn't big enough and the bulk of conventions would be interested in July and August and we don't need additional people here in July and August," he said.

In fact, Hospitality Advisors explored this demand and a convention center's possible creation of excess demand.

"The events being held during the area's peak season would create issues with unaccommodated demand in the hotels, traffic and parking. In addition, demand will not increase drastically during the shoulder and off-season with the proposed subject facility," the report's authors state.

In order to stimulate off-season demand the study suggests the community develop more off-season events to stimulate interest and create activity for meeting/event attendees.

Jacqueline Merta, director of the chamber of commerce, said a meeting of the DDA, the chamber and the visitors' bureau will be scheduled to further discuss the study.

"It all comes down to return on investment, the cost of the project compared to the return," Merta said.

The convention center study found a center would be most used at the Bridge Street Inn bed and breakfast off Bridge Street as opposed to at the old Charlevoix Middle School site off Grant Street.

It further noted that the average event facility will cost between $150 and $300 per square foot not including land or parking.

A survey of events planners in Michigan found the majority of events they organize last from two to three days, have 51 to 100 attendees and would utilize 1,000 to more than 10,000 square feet of exhibit space with exhibition rooms, banquet facilities, parking and conference space ranked as high priorities.

While the bed and breakfast was found to be the better location it also has major limitations including little space for parking. The study suggests at least 150 parking spaces be provided.

"If the facility is serving 200-300 persons for an event, parking will be a major issue," the study's authors state.

The study to solve Charlevoix's summer traffic debacle also came back without a solution.

"There is no overarching solution to the problems associated with pedestrian-vehicle interactions in the downtown area," Lyles states in his firm's findings. "Even without any left turns or pedestrians, Bridge Street traffic would still be heavy — the two-lane, two-way street is simply inadequate to carry the traffic and the bridge operation really backs things up."

He did offer approaches to mitigating the problems, none of which he said will solve congestion or reduce travel time through Charlevoix in any significant way.

These include: increasing enforcement, use of cross walk attendants, changes to the traffic signal, changes in pedestrian flow patterns and improving the marking at crosswalks using signs.

"The general recommendation is to develop more clearly defined (through marking and signs) pedestrian routes along the Bridge Street corridor and supplement these with additional signs regarding prohibitions on blocking the Clinton/Bridge streets intersection," Lyles suggests.

These permanent signs for motorists would read in florescent yellow-green, "yield to pedestrian in crosswalk," and during events there would be additional mobile signs with the same warning.

While Lyles said the results of implementing extra signs at various intersections along Bridge Street are promising, no significant positive effects are guaranteed.

But, Lyles said any fix that could make traffic move faster may be undesirable as low vehicle speeds make a safer pedestrian environment and encourage walking communities.

Any changes to Bridge Street pedestrian and vehicular traffic controls would have to be cleared by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), owner of Bridge Street.

According to City Police Chief Dennis Halverson, a member of the pedestrian and pedestrian traffic committee said the city plans to mail a copy of the study to MDOT to see how Lyles' suggestions relate to MDOT's guidelines for signs and pavement markings.

Girls have first conference loss

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders suffered their first conference loss in two seasons, falling to Harbor Springs, 65-61, but rebounded to defeat East Jordan, 77-51.

Sophomore Grace Farrell's eight first quarter points sparked the Rayders to an 18-9 advantage after one period against the Rams. Harbor clawed back to trim the Rayder halftime lead to 29-24.

In the pivotal third quarter, the Rams outscored Charlevoix, 21-13 to take a 45-42 margin into the final stanza. The Rayders stayed close but could never overcome Harbor's advantage. With the win, the Rams stayed unbeaten in the conference and took a one-game lead over Charlevoix.

Farrell led all scorers with 23 points and pulled down 10 rebounds and dished out five assists. Brooke Blanchard scored ten points and grabbed five boards. Jaime Pettis and Rachel Wyniawskyj each scored seven.

The Rayder-Red Devil matchup featured Charlevoix coach Jim Parrish coaching against daughter Lisa Parrish of East Jordan. On the court, the game was dominated by a showdown between two of the area's best players, Charlevoix's Farrell and East Jordan's Courtney Hammond.

In the first half, the underdog Red Devils were paced by Hammond's 11 points and clung to a 25-23 lead. Farrell tallied 13 in the first half.

Charlevoix switched to a pressing defense for the second half and East Jordan turnovers allowed the Rayders to take control of the game with a 25-9 third quarter scoring spread. Hammond scored seven of the Red Devils' nine points for the quarter.

In the final stanza, Charlevoix put an exclamation point on the victory, outscoring East Jordan, 29-17 to win going away. Hammond scored 14 of her team's 17 points in the fourth quarter while Farrell tallied ten.

Hammond finished with 32 points on the night.

Farrell scored 31 points, grabbed six rebounds, handed out three assists and swiped four steals in a brilliant all-around performance.

The Rayders were much more than a one-woman show as Rachel Wyniawskyj had 23 points, including four three-pointers. Alyssia McDonough had one of her best games of the year, scoring 10 points, grabbing 14 rebounds and having seven assists.

Charlevoix returns to action on Thursday, Oct. 10, against Kalkaska.

Rayders lose in rain-soaked homecoming

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Driving rain and eleven fumbles combined to spoil Charlevoix's homecoming as the Rayders lost to visiting Kalkaska, 35-0.

"The turnovers were really the determining factor," Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger said. "The fumbles just killed us."

The night started off on an ominous note as the Rayders fumbled on the second play of the game setting up a quick Kalkaska touchdown and extra point conversion, making the score 8-0 before many of the Charlevoix faithful had settled into their seats.

The Rayders responded with a drive all the way to the Blazers' 22, but another Charlevoix fumble was recovered by Kalkaska. The Blazers responded quickly with a 22-yard pass play on their first play following the turnover. A 38-yard run was followed by a 15-yard touchdown run to make the score 14-0 with 3:52 left in the first period.

Charlevoix again responded with a drive into Kalkaska territory on a 12-yard run by Jeff Urban on fourth and two. The Rayders faced a fourth and four on the Kalkaska 43 and were lined up to go for it but an illegal procedure call turned the situation into a fourth and nine and the Rayders punted on the first play on the second quarter.

It was Kalkaska's turn to gamble on fourth down as faced with a fourth and 11 on the Charlevoix 39, the Blazers sprung for a 26-yard run to the Rayder 13. Minutes later a six-yard touchdown run and extra point put Kalkaska up 22-0 with 6:28 left in the half. Neither team was able to move the ball as the half came to an end.

The Rayder defense came up with a stand to start the second half, stopping Kalkaska on downs on the Charlevoix 41. With the rain really picking up, the Rayders mounted a long drive, recovering three of their own fumbles and taking the ball inside the Kalkaska 10. The fourth Charlevoix fumble on the drive was recovered by Kalkaska at their own 7, turning away the Rayders' best scoring chance.

The Blazers were unable to move the ball and punted, giving Charlevoix good field position at the 50 with 52 seconds left in the third quarter. On the last play of the third quarter, however, the Rayders lost yet another fumble.

Kalkaska took advantage driving for another score with 10:36 remaining to make the score 29-0. The Blazers tacked on another touchdown late, after gaining possession of Charlevoix's sixth lost fumble.

Urban rushed for 108 yards on 19 carries. Sophomore Jake Teuscher, making his first start at quarterback, was three for six passing for nine yards. Todd Carey led the defense with 11 tackles as Hal Foster added 10.

Charlevoix (1-3 conference, 1-5 overall) travels to winless Elk Rapids on Friday, Oct. 11, in Lake Michigan Conference action.

Rayders in second place of conference

Charlevoix High School's varsity golf team lost the conference championship to Harbor Springs Oct. 2 at Kalkaska by just two strokes.

Going into the match, Charlevoix was in a three way tie for first. The team ended in second place to Harbor Springs, 333-335.

"We had the opportunity to win the championship, but came up short," Coach Jim Glynn said. "Harbor deserves congratulations and I hope they win their regionals at Thunder Bay. Our kids have worked hard and I am proud of them."

While Charlevoix may have lost to Harbor, three Rayders made the all conference team. They were David Shearer, Jordan Nystrom and York Smith. Shearer is the number one player in the conference, while Nystrom is at fifth and Smith is at tenth.

Individual scores for the meet were: Shearer with a 75, Nystrom with an 84, Smith with an 87, Chris Golski with a 101 and Kreg Wager with an89.

Charlevoix will be playing at the regional tournament Oct. 10 at Grayling.

According to Glynn, Suttons Bay — last year's state champion — is favored to win, but three teams advance out of the northern regional to qualify for the state finals in East Lansing.

"We should advance to the state. I like our chances at the regional, but we need to all play well," Glynn said.

As a tune-up for regionals, the Rayders took part in the Traverse City Invitational Oct. 4 at Traverse City Country Club. Charlevoix took third in this meet.

Individual scores were: Shearer with a 75, Nystrom with an 83, Smith with an 81, DeYoung with a 90 and Wager with a 102.

Ulrich takes first in Mancelona meet

After running a smart and even-paced race, Liz Ulrich took the first place spot Oct. 3 at the Mancelona Invitational high school cross country meet.

The Charlevoix High School girls' cross country team took second overall in the meet with 72 points. Harbor Springs won the meet with 43 points.

Individual results were: Ulrich in first with a time of 19 minutes, 15 seconds; Brenna Bergmann in tenth with a time of 21 minutes, 16 seconds; Theresa Martin in fifteenth with a time of 21 minutes, 56 seconds; Elizabeth Madison in nineteenth with a time of 22 minutes, 15 seconds; Michelle Rowe in twenty-seventh with a time of 22 minutes, 59 seconds; Lisa Kuebler in thirty-second with a time of 23 minutes, 46 seconds; and Anna Taylor in thirty-fourth with a time of 24 minutes, 2 seconds.

According to coach Mary Plude, Bergmann, Martin and Madison dropped their times and ran aggressive races in Mancelona.

"They were faster than their best times this season," she said.

Plude added Rowe made a nice return in this meet after being out with an injury for two weeks.

Pint-sized players participate in Pop Warner

Charlevoix's three teams in Pop Warner Football League, for ages 8-10 and 10-12, had their second set of home games Oct. 5 at Kipke Field. In addition to playing in Charlevoix, the teams also travel to other cities to take part in competition. Pop Warner teams play a six game season. The final games are this weekend in East Jordan, followed by a playoff "jamboree" Oct. 19 in Traverse City. (Photos by Julie Witthoeft)

Swap deal's fate now up to the school board administrative office off Clinton Street is not an even financial trade.

LIBRARY

The middle school and administrative properties combined were appraised just under $1 million. This leaves the school short $373,000. And while this difference in price exists, the library board motioned not to pay the difference.

Those who attended the October meeting said the difference in price wasn't the focus.

Library Director Valerie Meyerson explained, "The committee decided, 'Why transfer money from this pot and put it into that pot when it's all the same?'"

She said taxpayers for the school district and the library are the same group and a library and community center at the old middle school would service this group.

Building committee member Traver Wood said, "What will people remember years from now — that the school board sold a building and property for as much as it could or that the library board bought and preserved a great building and piece of property for community use?"

Roger Posthumus, who is also a member of the building committee, said by overlooking the price difference the school district, which faced controversy in choosing its new high school site in Marion Township, the deal could heal wounds in the community.

Library Board President Rick Brandi suggested that if money proved to be a problem for the school district, the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) could possibly help make up the difference.

The DDA and city council met at a special meeting Sept. 23 and discussed future parking constraints the city will face with renovations to East Park consuming 18 Mason Street spaces.

The DDA currently has just over $300,000 in its coffers and decided it would need around four of the 14 middle school lots for parking.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said he sees the possibility of a joint venture between the library and the DDA.

At the library board meeting, Meyerson said the library parking lot could possibly be built larger than needed to accommodate some city parking.

The financial loss to the district is one possible barrier the library plan faces, but its request is also up against time. The library is asking the district to continue to maintain the building until Oct. 2, 2003.

"The idea is to give the community a year to come up with a plan and money and if nothing happens at that point, the library and school would share in the demolition," Meyerson said.

The library plans to set up a committee to raise the money to renovate the building and decide who would be in charge of the building. Saltonstall said city recreation director Ike Boss has agreed to schedule gymnasium time and Meyerson said she foresees the city being in charge of the proposed park area.

But the school district put the property on the market over a month ago and wants to get it off its hands. Every day the building is not in use costs the district money to maintain the site.

If October of 2003 rolls around and the money has not been raised and a plan isn't in place for the building's use, the library said it would share in the cost of demolition of the building with the school district. At the September DDA and city council meeting, it was estimated that demolition would cost between $150,000 and $250,000.

The library's request will likely be a topic of discussion at the school board's meeting scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Oct. 14 at the new high school off Marion Center Road.

In Memory of Eileen Sutherland
10/8/15 to 7/24/02
Safely Home

I am home in Heaven, dear ones; Oh, so happy and so bright!
There is perfect Joy and Beauty in this everlasting light.
All the pain and grief is over, Every restless tossing past;
I am now at peace forever, Safely Home in Heaven at last.
Did you wonder I so calmly, Trod the valley of the shade?
Oh! but Jesus' love illuminated, Every dark and fearful glade.
And He came Himself to meet me, In that way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on, Could I have one doubt or dread?
When your work there is completed, He will gently call you Home;
Oh, the rapture of that meeting, Oh, the joy to see you come!
We miss you so much mom.
Love, Tom, Barb & Jack & Families

Happy 3rd Birthday

DANCIN' CAM!

We love you!

SCRAPBOOK

Writer recalls many events of 1965 in Charlevoix

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

1965 was an exciting year in Charlevoix.

In June, H. A. Dahlquist bought the W.W. Mac store.

The chamber of commerce was hunting for a new manager. Archie Dayton was hired as chamber of commerce secretary-manager. Glenn Kenney and Clarence Koteskey were elected to the Charlevoix School Board. The Rev. Leona M. Winegarden was named pastor at the Methodist Church, succeeding Rev. R.J. McBratnie. Charlevoix Township enacted an air pollution ordinance. Mrs. Jane Anders joined Strout Realty Co. Farmers Meat Company of Charlevoix was bought by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bolin of Batesville, Ark. The city police asked citizens to help in cracking down on hot rodders. The Corps of Engineers scaled down a request for property along Pine River Channel. The Courier editor, Glen Sheppard, was hired by Congressman Raymond Clevenger as communications specialist. Glen was very controversial in his position as editor, and sometime I clashed with his viewpoints, but the paper was interesting and exciting during his tenure. People used to wait for it to come out to see what new things were happening in town. He really knew how to dig out stories. I respected him for daring to come out with controversial subjects.

Then, the Ironton Postmaster Roy Meyers announced his retirement. Dan Geneit was named city postmaster.

The health department admitted pollution of Round Lake. The court ordered litterers to clean up the beach. The Community Chest approved a $12,090 budget. County treasurer Lillis Flanders announced her retirement. Anah Potter was the new county treasurer. Mrs. Ida Heise was appointed deputy city clerk and Mrs. Sonja Martin was appointed deputy city treasurer.

LexaLite awaited US approval of a small business administration loan. The loan was later approved and construction got underway. The federal government claimed land on Hog Island for forest purposes. Bob Clock joined the Courier as editor. He was a great editor and was very good at composing his fictional stories of Neverville, which was located off US-2 in the Upper Peninsula. Henry Hogan announced plans to build a nine story hotel on West Dixon.

Lieutenant Commander Dale Foster assumed command of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew. Harlan Speer, En. E., assumed command of Charlevoix Coast Guard Station. Doctors saved the sight of Ronald Crandall following an accident with a fishing spear. In October, Ottis McKeithen succeeded Harlan Speer as commanding office of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Lifeboat Station.

D.E. Walker recommended chlorinators to treat sewage from pleasure boats.

The chamber of commerce weighed having a longer Venetian Festival.

In August, banker Robert Bridge died and stores closed for his funeral. This was a given thing in town at the time.

Plans for a new library on the channel were announced and the school board asked for an option on the Pine River Channel site for the library.

Medusa announced it will dig a slip rather than build a dock. This was accomplished by the late Jake White who was a lifetime commercial fisherman in Charlevoix. He convinced them that it would look better and would serve a breakwater, who proved to be true. The Bultema Dock and Dredge Co. of Manistee was awarded the major dredging contract by Medusa Portland Cement Co. Robert Fort was elected Medusa president.

Baptists announced plans for a futuristic church.

Attorney Bob Hoffman opened an office. E.D. Hawley was elected president of Charlevoix County State Bank. Larry Kaynor opened the Clark station.

Michigan Avenue property owned by George Houston was sold to Ocean Lake, Inc. for development as a motel or apartment hotel. The old Charlevoix Hospital will be remodeled into an apartment building by George Banta and Tom Darnton of Lansing.

In September, Richard Meyer disappeared during an outing on Lake Michigan. The first pontoon is sunk in Medusa harbor.

The state said it is scrapping plans to re-locate M-66 because the city was slow in signing over the cemetery property needed for the relocation.

In October, a Lansing firm proposed cable TV for Charlevoix.

Russell Curtis died unexpectedly. A fire destroyed a cottage at the Chicago Club.

Mrs. Virginia Olsen spearheaded a drive to prevent threatened zoning infractions on Dixon Avenue. The Rev. Jack Harrie was elected president of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association. The American Legion offered to swap post site for the library.

In November, former school superintendent Oscar North died in Newaygo. Medusa prepared to start blasting. Al Smith, Don Kowbel and Chuck Carey were elected to the chamber of commerce board of directors. Castle Van Haver was awarded an $85,000 loan by the Small Business Administration. Stores closed for Harry E. Gebeau's funeral. The Corps of Engineers told of plans to straighten and widen the channel. Ron Peterson was elected president of the chamber of commerce. Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall offered to give his Clinton Street property to the school district as future library site.

State library official Clarence Walters gave approval to the Clinton Street library site.

In December, the city council ordered city attorney John Michael to write a contract for cable TV with Great Lakes Community Television Company. Seventeen young men from Charlevoix County were ordered into the armed forces in January. Henry Hogan opened "Hare's Lair" cocktail lounge in the basement of the Holiday Beach Hotel. Lee Moerland was appointed Third Ward Supervisor. Louis Edwards was named postal chief at Ironton. The Woodshed opened on Petoskey Road. Mayor E.D. Hawley said he will not run for re-election in 1966. The season's deer kill was reported down. The Flying Club donated a wind gauge to the airport.

This now concludes a run down on the year 1965, a most productive and interesting year for Charlevoix.

Apple Festival successful

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Last weekend, people packed East Park clutching bags and baskets of their favorite apple varieties as they milled through rows of harvest vendors, crafters and artists at Charlevoix's twenty-third annual Apple Festival.

The event kicked off Oct. 11 and crowds of people were in town to mark opening day of the celebration. Then, on Oct. 12 Charlevoix's seams really stretched when the rare, warm, autumn sun blanketed the festival and droves of people shopped and snacked.

"I think overall it was a great weekend. I don't think it could have been any better," Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Director Jacqueline Merta said.

Longtime vendors, crafters and local merchants ended the weekend smiling.

Judy Friske Kehr, director of retail for Friske Orchards, a longtime supplier at the Apple Festival, said this year was one for the record books.

"The weather was on our side. There were more people and our sales showed it," she said.

She said as of Saturday evening when Friske shuts down for the weekend, it had sold out of popular apple varieties including: galas and red delicious.

Library, board working on plan

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix School Board has agreed to work with the Charlevoix Public Library, the city of Charlevoix and its Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to make the former middle school site suit everybody's needs.

But at the Oct. 14 school board meeting it was evident that before any deal is struck, major details still need to be ironed out, including the hot topic of fiscal responsibility.

"Our first priority is to keep the building for public use. But we need to weigh that with our fiscal responsibility to the school district. The taxpayers own the building, but that overlooks the fact that the schools operate on a fixed budget," School Board President Allen Telgenhof said.

"We would like to work with the public bodies but also achieve the fair market value for the district and make it so the building is not a drain on our budget."

The offer the library made to swap its current property for the entire 14 parcel middle school site and the current administrative office off Clinton Street does not meet the property's fair market value and would continue to drain the district's budget for another year.

The middle school and administrative properties combined were appraised just under $1 million. This leaves the school short $373,000.

Connie Saltonstall, a member of the library's nine-person building committee, sweetened the deal for the district at the meeting when she came forward and offered to

St. Mary School to benefit from Northern Lights

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Diamonds, a hot tub, game tables and more will be sold to the highest bidder this weekend at the Seventh Annual Northern Lights Dinner, Dance and Auction at St. Mary School.

According to school principal Janet Troppman all proceeds go to pay for the school's operational expenses. She said one-third of the school's expenses are paid for by tuition, one-third by the church parish and one-third by fundraising.

"The money raised at the event helps provide art supplies and school supplies and pays teachers wages. It's really for the kids," she said.

Last year the event brought $38,000 to the school and this year event coordinators are gunning for $40,000.

Coordinator Laura Stebe and event chair Charles Rehmann said big ticket auction items they hope will assist in reaching the school's goal include: a six person hot tub, men's and women's corner packages, a piece of rare shipwreck furniture and an entertainment package.

The winner of the men's corner will take home a Rayder basketball court logo, and Foosball and air hockey tables. The lucky lady to take home women's corner loot will enjoy an all expense paid trip to Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Each package is valued around $1,500.

Tickets for the two packages are on sale at the school for $10 and are available to everyone, even those who don't attend the dinner, dance and auction. There are 300 tickets for each package being sold.

Items that haven't been offered at previous Northern Lights events include a weekend trip to Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel.

The celebration which will take place from 6 p.m. to midnight, Oct. 19, will include dinner catered by Grey Gables, a silent auction, a live auction lead by auctioneer Jenn Donnelly and music selections provided by Class Act Productions.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. with the live auction kicking off at 8:30 p.m.

Those who don't want to miss the opportunity to bid on all of the 26 live auction items will have to attend the evening event. Participants have the option of enjoying dinner before the auction begins or just coming for the auction and dancing.

Tickets for the dinner and auction are $55 and have to be bought in advance at the school. Tickets for those not having dinner are $30 and are available in advance at the school or at the door the night of the auction.

If you just can't wait until Saturday to see the Garden of Eden theme decorations and auction items, a preview night is being offered Oct. 18. At the preview kids and adults will have the opportunity to look over and bid on silent auction items. Children are asked to attend the admission-free preview from 5 to 6 p.m. and adults from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

To secure tickets call the school at (231) 547-9441 or stop by, it is located at 1005 Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

There is a lot to do in Charlevoix

EDITORIAL

Many people like to say Charlevoix's Apple Festival is the last "hurrah" of the season and there is nothing more to do.

They like to think the town basically closes up for the winter. Since all the summer people are gone, what could the community possibly do or have for fun?

Well, the season is not over....it has just begun.

While Apple Festival traditionally closes out the travel season for Charlevoix, the activities and fund-raisers Charlevoix residents are known for continue on. Simply put, there is a lot to do in Charlevoix during the fall and winter.

Take the next couple of months for example.

This weekend the St. Mary School will be hosting its annual Northern Lights fund-raising auction and dance. This event has become a grand affair that brings out many in the community to enjoy each other's company, bid on nice gifts and dance the night away.

Northern Lights starts at 6 p.m., Oct. 19 at St. Mary's Family Center in Charlevoix. For more information call, 547-9441.

For some spooky fun, the United States Coast Guard Ship ACACIA will be bringing back its famed "Ghost Ship" this year. Children of all ages turn out for this annual event for a little fright and a lot of fun.

The Ghost Ship will be from 7 to 10 p.m., Oct. 30. Admission is one non-perishable food item that will be donated to charity.

And in November, the fun continues with Charlevoix Area Hospital's annual Holly Daze.

Holly Daze is a fund-raiser for the hospital that includes a live and silent auction, dinner and a week of festivities at the hospital. The event starts Nov. 17 with a preview night and continues on to Nov. 30.

And these are just three of the many events taking place in Charlevoix out of many more that are planned.

Keep an eye on your Charlevoix Courier for information on more events you can take part in.

There simply is something going on here every weekend of the year.

Trip to historical society answers many questions

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

It happened recently on the night of the book signing at the historical society.

One of the visitors, Eugene Marshall Ackert, has just purchased his copy of the "Bob Miles' Charlevoix II" book and is standing in line for an autograph. Three of the contributing writers are seated at a table busily signing their names — Kay Halverson Heise, Sharon Knutson and Mary Ann Chew.

Ackert muses to his wife, Suzanne, that they will have to come back to the historical society to gather some more Charlevoix information. He wonders out loud if they could locate Kay Halverson Heise? Kay looks up smiling and introduces herself.

Ackert says, "My father, was Marshall Ackert. He was a friend of your father, Martin Halverson. They both grew up in Charlevoix!"

Small coincidence, sure, but there's more!

Ackert asks Kay how he could get in touch with Bobbie Mayne, whose parents were good friends of his parents? Again, no problem. Sharon Knutson overhears the question and says, "I have Bobbie Mayne's phone number. Just call me at home tomorrow and I'll give it to you."

Finally, Ackert tells the group that he has just purchased a house in Charlevoix last month on 102 East Upright. It's an old, beautiful, red brick Victorian that needs a great deal of restoration to bring it back to its original glory. If only he could find one of the previous owners!

"102 East Upright," said Mary Ann Chew. "My grandparents, the Struthers, lived there in 1952! I remember it well."

Ackert explains that his great-great grandmother, Eliza Stockman Mason, once owned the property at the turn of the century, long before a house was built there. It seems that Seth Mason and Morris Stockman were original Charlevoix Pioneers.

According to the Bob Miles Charlevoix II book, "The lives of Seth Mason and Morris J. Stockman were intertwined." Mason was involved in the Stockman family fishing business located on Lake Huron. He married Morris's sister Eliza in 1848 and both men decided to relocate across the state in 1857. They arrived in what was then called Pine River and fixed up a small abandoned Mormon log cabin, which was the first and only house on the north shore of what we presently call Round Lake.

A former editor of the Charlevoix Sentinel, Willard Smith, wrote these prophetic words in 1892 quoted in the Miles book, "One by one, the veterans are departing and a new generation is coming upon the stage of action. It does no harm to quicken our memories of these old landmarks; their day forms a contrast with the present, which furnishes cause for satisfaction and imparts livelier hopes for the future."

Right on! We have high hopes for the future when the old landmark on 102 East Upright sees action as soon as Gene and Suzanne Ackert start their renovations!

Letters to the editor

Library swap a good idea

Editor:

I worry that we are on the fast track to pave or build on every square inch of land that is not state owned and I wonder why more existing facilities are not used in lieu of putting up a new structure. Case in point - the library.

The letter suggesting the swap is right on target! The city could have its parking. Is there a reason that the library could not be in the old middle school? There is plenty of room for them and for a community arts center — dance, music, art classes. I know it would be expensive to renovate this old building, but really and truly "they don't build 'em like that any more." The playground is large enough for parking, and finally it's accessible! Please, please people let's stop and think before we destroy that beautiful old building.

Vote for ordinance

Editor:

When we go to the polls on Nov. 5 you (Charlevoix Township voters) will be asked to vote on the updated Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance. As a member of the township planning commission, I am asking for your support of the new ordinance with a yes vote.

The current ordinance was written in 1987 and is outdated. The township planning commission spent one full year with a professional planner creating the best ordinance possible.

Please vote yes on Nov. 5 for the new Charlevoix Township Ordinance.

Great job

Editor:

The City of Charlevoix and John Martin, Street Superintendent, working with Performance Engineers, Inc. deserve congratulations for the spectacular look of Depot Beach. Article response

Editor:

The environmental protection removed from the county storm water ordinance go beyond the setback language. Although the setback was an important part of the original draft, there were other things removed, including a provision concerning toxic chemicals and floor drains.

To respond to Mrs. Shirley Roloff (Charlevoix County Commission candidate for District Six on page 10, Charlevoix Courier, Oct. 2 edition) it is my understanding that the draft language, which included the setback, was drawn from existing storm water ordinances in force in other northern Michigan counties. Based on her statement, I believe she was misled by the attorneys she consulted.

Because storm water runoff is a contributing factor in soil erosion at the shoreline, a storm water ordinance and an erosion ordinance should work hand in hand to protect our environment. By insisting that they be separate, an erosion ordinance could be written allowing a builder to pave to the shoreline, thus preventing erosion by storm water runoff. By placing a setback requirement in the storm water ordinance, we can prevent the erosion of the shoreline and allow the storm water to return to the lake naturally. To allow storm water to go into the lake without filtering through the ground can only add to pollution in the lake.

Our clean lakes and streams are a great part of the charm which brings tourists and their dollars to our economy every year. Protecting them every way we can is the most responsible and effective way to keep our health and wealth.

Change Halloween

Editor:

Halloween should be celebrated the last Saturday in October for the following reasons.

Daylight savings time is still in effect so it will be light later in the evening than on the 31. Much safer for the children.

There will be an extra hour to sleep off the excitement and sugar from trick or treating.

The school children don't have to go to school the next day and disrupt school classes.

The school parties would be Friday afternoon, much better for the teachers and less stressful.

Parents who work the afternoon shifts would be able to be home to take their children trick or treating or to greet children at their door.

If there were any problems with devils night or Halloween night at the schools there would be time to clean up before Monday classes.

Gilbert honored with art gallery in her name

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix resident and art lover Edith Gilbert was honored Oct. 4 with a party and a presentation of a plan to name an art gallery after her.

Gilbert, a longtime supporter of the arts and one of the founders of the Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey, was informed at a surprise gathering at the Charlevoix home of Joan and Chuck MacGillivray that her friends took up a collection to have a new art gallery at the Crooked Tree Arts Center named after her when it opens in September 2003. The group gathered over $200,000 for the effort, with money still coming into the center.

"I was stunned, absolutely stunned," Gilbert said.

Gilbert said she was asked to attend the party under the guise that it was a birthday party for a member of the MacGillivray family. She said when she walked into the home, everyone turned and started clapping. There were 57 people in attendance.

"I almost fainted. Everybody had so much fun putting something over on me," Gilbert said.

A collection for the money was started in the summer, with a letter sent out to Gilbert's friends from Julie and Peter Cummings and Ranny and John Riecker.

According to the letter by the two couples, "No volunteer has contributed more to the mission of the (Crooked Tree) Arts Center than has Edith Gilbert. Edith's mission since she was a founding member of the Crooked Tree Arts Center in 1971 is to sponsor and encourage activities in the arts for residents of Charlevoix and Emmet counties."

The arts center is currently undergoing a $4 million renovation and restoration.

The writers of the letter further state, "Our mission is to raise $300,000 to name the new North Gallery of the restored and expanded arts center in honor of our good friend Edith Gilbert who has meant so much to northern Michigan and to all of us over the years."

Edith Gilbert

"This has been going on all summer and no one spilled the beans," Gilbert said.

Voters have two choices for District Five

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

ELECTION 2002

Voters in Charlevoix County Commission District Five — covering Marion, Eveline and parts of Wilson townships — have two new faces to pick from this year for their new county commission district that was created by reapportionment.

Arness Cox

Dennis Jason

Democrat Arness Cox and Republican Dennis Jason are vying for the new seat.

Cox has been married for 34 years and has two adult children. He retired from General Motors in 1998 and has been a resident of the East Jordan area for four years, after moving from Wayne County.

He is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School and has an associate degree from Wayne County Community College, as well as degrees from various trade schools.

He is currently a transit bus driver for the county.

As for his political experience, Cox was in on the Sumnter Township board in Wayne County for 10 years.

Cox said he is running for District Five because of his experience on the township board.

"Charlevoix County is very similar to the thoughts of a small township in southeastern Michigan. They have the same concerns and growing problems. They are dealing with everything from the environment to housing," he said.

According to Cox, there are many big issues facing the county.

"Everything that people touch is a big issue," he said.

One of those issues is sprawl. Cox said it is pretty hard to stop sprawl, but it can be managed and planned for if all of the communities that make up the county work together.

Cox suggested county wide planning "with the idea that everyone will have their input."

Another issue is road repairs, he said. While Cox said the county has done a pretty good job with its roads, considering what it has to work with, he believes Charlevoix needs to look at better ways to address the issue.

As a county commissioner, Cox said he will work to be very accessible to residents in his district.

"I would be very open at all times to the residents of Charlevoix County and will always make sure they know my point of view and that I can talk about opposing view points and will make informed choices," he said.

When making decisions about issues, Cox said if the plan does not help at least 75 percent of the county, he will probably be against it.

He added, voters should pick him because he is a "straight shooter, honest and (he's) never gone out of (his) way to scam anybody."

Jason, of East Jordan, is married and has four children. He has been a resident of Charlevoix County for 30 years.

Jason is currently the director of public works for Boyne City, a position he has had for 12 years, and was previously in construction for 20 years.

Politically, he has been a member of the planning commission for East Jordan and has been on the Charlevoix County Planning Commission for 25 years, which he is currently the president of. Jason is also one of the original members of the East Jordan Economic Development Corporation and has served on the Charlevoix County Transit Committee and the Northwest Regional Development Planning Commission as well as the East Jordan Charter Commission.

Jason said he is running for District Five based on his experience in the county.

"I thought because of my background I could help solve some problems the county will have in the future. I thought it is time to serve in that capacity," he said.

Jason said currently the big issue facing the county is making the employees at Grandvue Medical Care Facility equal to the rest of the county employees.

He added the issue of a county administrator is very big and will need to be addressed.

"I think as times change, maybe the county will need to look at that," he said.

Jason also addressed the economy in the county, saying we need to keep jobs in the area for students and adults who want to live here.

He said the county can help with this by supporting the creation of industrial parks and by granting tax exemptions for businesses in those parks. Plus, all of this can be done while protecting the environment of Charlevoix County.

"If we keep a balance with the environment we can encourage manufacturing and industry to resettle here or expand here due to the environment and good work ethic," he said.

When asked why voters should pick him, Jason said, "I have experience from my previous work in public service, both as an employee and volunteer and with my work ethic and intensity, I think I can be an effective representative for voters in my district."

Voters can make their choice on Nov. 5 during the general election at any of the township halls in District Five.

Army jazz band to have free show in Petoskey

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The United States Army's premier touring jazz orchestra is planning a northern Michigan performance to include much more than traditional military music.

The Jazz Ambassadors, a 19 member professional big band from Washington D.C. is planning a free afternoon show to take place at 2 p.m., Oct. 27 at Petoskey's Central School gymnasium located at 410 State Street.

The ambassadors are the official touring jazz ensemble of the Department of the Army and the band's high energy performance showcases a wide range of music from swing to tunes from the 1930s to current popular hits. Adding to the afternoon's broad scope will be original compositions.

The jazz band is lead by Chief Warrant Officer Kevin Laird who earned his position as director of the Jazz Ambassadors in August of 2000 after 22 years with the Army.

The sound will be rounded out by vocalist, Sergeant First Class Marva J. Lewis, a three-year member of the ambassadors.

The group was formed in 1969 when Major Hal Gibson, Commander of the Field Band, saw demand for stage band performances and big band music was increasing. From that observation Gibson formed "The Studio Band" to tour as the Army's official jazz ensemble.

The band has since incurred name changes, but its purpose, to bring the Army to the American public, has endured.

In over 30 years the band has performed public concerts in locations that span the globe and has also been seen on TV and heard over the radio.

Notable public performances have included: participation in the eighth Annual International Trade Fair in New Delhi, India, shows at countless European jazz festivals and in Japan, Canada and Mexico.

The band has also been featured in unique joint concerts with major orchestras including the Detroit, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and National symphonies.

They decided to make a trip to Petoskey after contacting Petoskey News-Review editor and publisher Ken Winter, who is also the publisher of the Charlevoix Courier, and requesting the paper sponsor its trip to Petoskey as part of a Midwest tour. Winter jumped at the chance and opted to also involve other publications printed by Northern Michigan Review and the local arts center.

"We feel this is a really wonderful opportunity for people to see first-class music. And with all the other things going on in the world we thought it would be a nice thing to do for the community," Winter said.

Osteoporosis, everyone at risk.

Ethel Larson
Physical Therapist

Osteoporosis is a serious health problem of epidemic proportions. The bones — primarily the hip, spine, and wrist — become fragile and more susceptible to fracture. EVERYONE is at risk for osteoporosis, although the condition is most commonly seen in thin-boned, post-menopausal Caucasian women.

EXERCISE is essential in the prevention and treatment of osteoporosis. The right exercises can reverse spinal deformity, increase bone density, and make you look and feel better.

Ethel Larson, PT has been trained by Sara Meeks PT, MS, GCS, in the Meeks Method — a comprehensive treatment strategy for osteoporosis. With a referral from your physician, she can work with you to develop a safe and effective exercise program customized to meet your personal needs.

Political party opens office in Charlevoix

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Republican candidates for local and state offices were in Charlevoix Oct. 10 for the opening of a party office located on Antrim Street in the Oleson's Market plaza.

The office will serve as a communication center for voters looking for information on the various candidates. It is also the headquarters for the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

Jason Allen, republican candidate for State Senate District 37, said this office gives the party a physical presence in the area and allows them to "get out the vote."

He added he invites all citizens to stop by the office and pick up information on all of the Republican candidates and share their concerns with party volunteers and officials.

Allen greeted a crowd at the opening with fellow Republican Ken Bradstreet, who is also running for a state senate seat, and Chuck Yob, the republican national committee man for Michigan.

Yob is currently campaigning in northern Michigan for Terry Lynn Land, a Republican candidate for secretary of state and has just returned from a tour of the Upper Peninsula (UP).

Of Land's opponent, democrat Gary Peters, Yob said, "She (Land) is running against a man (Peters) who is a black attorney from Detroit. As you all know, people in the UP don't like attorneys and they really don't like Detroiters."

In explaining his comment, Yob said what he meant was people who live in the Upper Peninsula "support the Green Bay Packers. They are not Lions fans." He added Upper Peninsula people associate themselves more with Wisconsin than Detroit.

The office will be open from 4 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Women's Resource Center gets accreditation

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Inc. has once again been awarded a three-year accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities for its Integrated Alcohol and other Drugs/Addictions and Mental Health Programs.

The latest accreditation is the third consecutive three-year accreditation outcome that the international accrediting commission has awarded the center.

This accreditation outcome represents the highest level accreditation that can be awarded to an organization and shows the organization's substantial conformance to the standards established by the commission. An organization receiving a Three-year Accreditation Outcome has put itself through a rigorous peer review process and as demonstrated to a team of surveyors during a three-day on-site visit that its programs and services are of the highest quality, measurable and accountable.

"The amount of time and additional work that goes into an accreditation review is monumental and I credit all of our staff for the positive outcome of this process," said Jan Mancinelli, executive director of the Women's Resource Center.

The Women's Resource Center is a non-profit organization that has administrative offices in Petoskey and outreach offices in Cheboygan, Gaylord and Mancelona. The center is currently celebrating its twenty-fifth year of providing services throughout the five county service\ area which includes: Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

For additional information on the accreditation and /or services provided by the center contact Deb Smith at (231) 347-0067.

Resident wants Halloween's date changed

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Some feel Halloween's traditional date, Oct. 31, should be as flexible as costume trends.

Over the past two years Charlevoix residents Bob and Alice Timms have pushed city of Charlevoix administrators to change Halloween in the city to the last Saturday in October.

"There is no reason to have Halloween on the thirty-first of October, other than tradition, for what it's worth. They change everything else except Christmas and the fourth of July. What is the meaning of October thirty-first anyway," Bob said. "This is just more practical."

Bob and Alice feel the change would be useful as daylight savings time is still in effect and the trick or treaters would have an extra hour of daylight to cruise neighborhoods in search of candy and an extra hour to sleep the next day.

"And they won't be in school the next day, full of sugar," Bob said.

Alice is a retired school teacher who used to work for the Petoskey Public School District.

She said, "Halloween in school is very disruptive."

This year, Bob and Alice's argument gained some ground when first ward city councilman Bill Haggard brought the idea up at the Oct. 7 city council meeting.

"It's a good idea, kids wouldn't have school the next day," he said. "Charlevoix has always been a trend setter and I think other communities would follow."

City manager Mike Wiesner referred the idea to police chief Dennis Halverson for further review.

Halverson issued a memo late last week opposed to the change.

He said while Halloween may disrupt the classroom, from a safety standpoint, having the holiday fall on a school night is a good thing.

"School nights tend to bring people in earlier which we think is a positive. When Halloween falls on a Friday or Saturday it makes trick or treating and other activities go later in the evening which typically isn't productive behavior," he said. "A Saturday afternoon from a safety standpoint would be great but I don't think the community would buy into it. We would still have kids out on Halloween."

Halverson said Petoskey tried to change Halloween trick or treating hours to a Saturday afternoon and the idea didn't go over well with the public. And he anticipates some confusion if the city made the change and other cities and townships surrounding Charlevoix didn't get involved.

> "There is no reason to have Halloween on the thirty-first, other than tradition, for what it's worth."
> Bob Timms,
> Charlevoix resident

But Bob feels regardless of what other communities decide, Charlevoix should set the standard.

"There is no reason council can't designate a day for Halloween," he said.

If council takes Halverson's advice Halloween in Charlevoix will keep its traditional date.

Keep signs off right-of-way

The Charlevoix City Police Department reminds residents that it is against the city sign ordinance to have any sign in the city's right-of-way.

The city right-of-way is defined as the area between the sidewalk and the curb.

City police chief Dennis Halverson said officers with his department will enforce the ordinance with possible removal of signs..

HEALTH

Diabetes can cause blindness, other eye problems

Dr. Steven Voci
'Your health'

One might think it unusual for an Optometrist to be writing about diabetes. Optometrists or eye doctors as many call us, are the doctor you see when you need glasses, contacts, have an eye infection or an eye injury. It is my hope that you will come to understand that your optometrist does much more. An Optometrist diagnoses and monitors patients with diabetes as well as providing treatment for other diseases, including glaucoma, macular degeneration and cataracts.

Diabetes is a leading cause of blindness for American adults. Loss of vision is usually caused by diabetic retinopathy, which affects half of all Americans diagnosed with diabetes.

Diabetic retinopathy often has no early warning signs. Diabetic retinopathy develops as the tiny blood vessels that run in and over the retina begin to leak fluid into and under the macula. The retina is the light-sensitive lining of the back of the eye which converts light into nerve signals which travel into the brain and gives us sight. The macula is an area on the retina responsible for our central vision or straight-ahead detailed vision. Patients with diabetic retinopathy have developed macular edema (swelling) caused by the leaking blood vessels leading to blurred vision.

As the disease progresses it may advance into a "proliferate" stage. In the proliferative stage, new, fragile blood vessels grow along the retina and in the vitreous, the gel that fills the rear portion of the eye. These fragile blood vessels leak and bleed, clouding the vision. The blood may clear in a few days or may take weeks or months to clear. This initial occurrence may not be noticeable, but over time as the bleeding becomes more severe, the loss of vision will become more significant.

Anyone who has been diagnosed with diabetes is at risk for developing diabetic retinopathy, whether the patient has Type 1 (juvenile onset) or Type 2 (adult onset) diabetes. Pregnancy can speed up the development of diabetic retinopathy in women.

An Optometrist can detect diabetic retinopathy during a yearly, comprehensive dilated eye exam. A patient's vision will be checked with an eye chart. Eye drops are placed in the eyes to widen or enlarge the pupil. This allows your Optometrist to see more of the retina and the signs of diabetes retinopathy. Ophthalmoscopy is the procedure used by optometrists to look into the eye after the pupil has dilated. Either a microscope and a magnifying lens or a head mounted light and a magnifying lens will be used to look for signs of diabetic retinopathy.

The signs of diabetic retinopathy your Optometrist will be looking for are leaking blood vessels, retinal/macular edema (swelling), pale fatty deposits on the retina indicating leaking blood vessels, damaged nerve tissue and any abnormalities in the blood vessels. When there is damage noted, the patient will be referred to an Ophthalmologist for treatment.

Diabetic retinopathy can be treated very effectively when diagnosed early. Currently the most

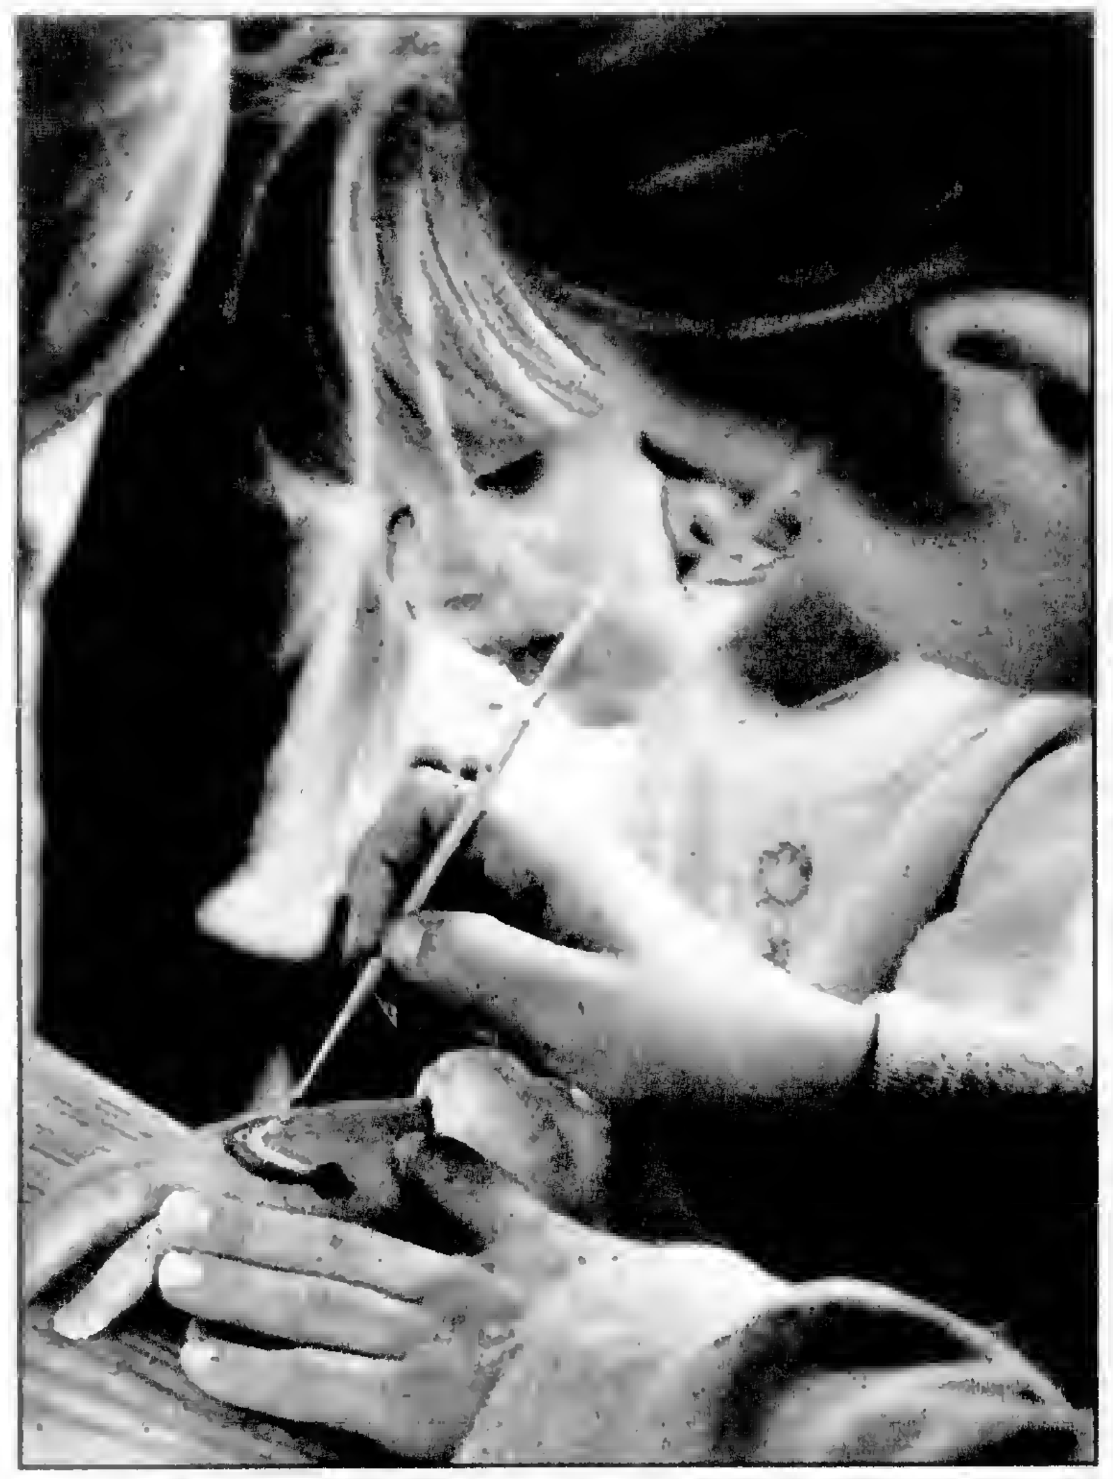
A sweet time for all at Apple Festival



Large crowds gathered at this year's Apple Festival last weekend in East Park to take part in all of the fun. Large crowds come to town for Apple Festival

APPLE

Other popular sales at the Friske booth included fresh doughnuts, an apple variety bag with 12-15 different kinds of apples and pint and quart containers of Friske's famous cider.

Kehr said the variety bag was brought on because every year they are asked what apple makes the best pie and she replies, a mix. Making the plenty pack was labor intensive, but she said all in all it was fun to do.

She said honey crisp apples which were all the talk around town sold well too. If there such was a thing as "trendy" in apples, right now honey crisp is all the rage.

"Macs are still America's number one favorite but the honey crisp apples are really catching on. The more people find out about it, the more they want. Demand far exceeded the supply. They are wonderful keepers," she said.

Excess demand was also realized by area lodging facilities. Merta said she spoke with Charlevoix motel and hotel owners who said they were booked solid.

"That says to me if you have a full town there are people shopping and eating in town," Merta said.

Her assumption proved to be true. Merchants reported that while apples were being gobbled up by the bushel thousands of consumers also made their way to downtown retailers.

Jacqueline Mabee, owner of The Clothing Company, said, "They were definitely shopping. It was a good weekend. Apple Festival is our best non-sale weekend of the year. This year was incredible."

Final designs for city hall to be finished

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Final design drawings for renovations to Charlevoix's city hall are expected to be complete in the next two weeks.

According to city hall renovation project liaison Jim Shull, in about two weeks city administrators will review final drawings and if the design is accepted, bid specifications will be developed.

"Hopefully, optimistically, by Jan. 1 the RFP (request for fee proposal) will be let out and in 10 days bids will be submitted and by Feb. 1 we'll award the contract," he said.

After contracts are awarded renovations to the old post office off Mason Street will start, so city employees can temporarily relocate there while city hall, which was built in 1939, gets spruced up.

The $2.3 million project will expand and upgrade Charlevoix City Police and Fire departments including the addition of shower facilities, a fire department training room and a work out room.

To allow for the expansion, the renovation will include a 30 by 36 foot addition adjacent to the police department. Plans for this expansion include retaining the building's sandstone structure with limestone trim.

The three space parking area that sits on the Mason Street side of the building will be where the addition is constructed.

New council chambers equipped with additional seating and state-of-the-art technology including audio visual components is also part of the addition. The current main level council chambers will be the office of the building department, the electric department and the city clerk.

Elevators will be added to the building on the main floor.

The committee which approved the final city hall design includes: Mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell, second ward councilman Gabe Campbell, first ward councilman Bill Haggard, Shull, city manager Mike Wiesner, city treasurer Rick Brandi, city manger's administrative assistant Linda Weller, deputy city clerk Bea Parton and city police chief Dennis Halverson.

An initial programmatic schedule issued in November of 2001 by the architectural firm, Fuller Nichols Architects' of Harbor Springs, showed the project was expected to be at its current stage, preparing to take bids, in mid-January of 2002. But Wiesner said detailed planning has slowed things down.

"We don't want to rush the project and sacrifice quality. We're trying to do the best job," he said.

This means the committee has and will continue to closely review every detail of the project from carpeting selections and office layout to general design.

The initial programmatic schedule estimated it taking just over a year for the project to be completed once bids are awarded. Wiesner said at this point, the city has no concrete construction schedule but will have a better idea once bids have heen awarded.

Costs are also somewhat undecided. The project was initially estimated to cost $2,318,000.

"Hopefully we're still close to that," Wiesner said.

He added that the architects have indicated the market for a project of this nature is good and bids should come in on the low end.

The city has set aside $1.64 million for the project and plan to horrow $678,000 from the city electric fund to make up the difference. The plan is to pay this loan hack with 4 percent interest at $240,000 annually over four years.

Christmas Project has its first meeting

The opening meeting of the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project took place at 10 a.m. Oct. 14 at the Community Reformed Church.

Presiding over the meeting was Bev Boss, new chairperson of the project this year and from the Community Reformed Church.

Various chairs and co-chairs of the many committees within the project were present, many of them also new to the project. Mary Helen Riggle, founder of the Christmas Project many years ago, will act as co-chair after several years absence. She is from the Congregational Church.

Plans for organization were discussed and a calendar for the various steps necessary in the project was set.

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project is an ecumenical effort by various churches in Charlevoix and sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, to help seniors, children and others who need a little extra hand to have a Merry Christmas.

Planning got off to a good start and it is hoped to find representatives from more churches to join the group in this truly ecumenical effort. Organizers would like to have all Charlevoix churches represented. If you are interested in working on this Christmas project call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515.

Much money is needed to fund this project, all from donations, so if your organization, business, club or group wishes to donate to a good cause, please send your check, made out to the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project to Carolyn Batdorff, 4903 Marion Center Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Christmas should be a joyous time of year and there is no better way to make your own Christmas happy than to see that every Charlevoix child we can reach has a truly Merry Christmas. That is the goal of the Community Christmas Project and we hope many in the community will step forth to help us reach that goal.

The chairs and co-chairs in attendance and the churches they represent were: Carolyn Batdorff, Community Reformed Church, new treasurer this year; Rosemary Horton, St. Mary's, publicity chair this year and with co-chair, Janis Dietrich, also of St. Mary's, in charge of the calling committee; Kay Smith, United Methodist Church, chair of the food committee; Monnie Dziedzic, St. Mary's, chair of the perishables committee; Alida Klooster, St. Mary's, chair of the giving tree; Lorene Goss and Maggie Hosler, co-chairs of the senior gift committee, from the Church of God.

Also on the Christmas Project this year, but unable to attend this meeting are: Debbie Gelderblom, Christ Episcopal Church, information coordinator; Marilyn Miller of the Congregational Church and Velma Smith of Freedom House, co-chairs of the mitten, socks and hats committee; Cynthia Garland, Congregational Church, labeling bags committee; Becky Wimmer, St. Mary's, co-chair of the giving tree; Lois Lewis and Maxine Bergmann, co-chairs of the delivery committee, Congregational Church.

Get your vehicle ready for winter

AAA Michigan logged nearly 900,000 emergency road service calls last year, many of them in the dead of winter.

With a little preventative maintenance, many of those calls could have been avoided. Now is the time to act to detect potential problems before the cold weather arrives.

"When conditions can be less than ideal and colder temperatures demand more of your vehicle, it makes sense to take preventative measures to make sure your vehicle is safe and roadworthy," said AAA Michigan Automotive Services Director Robert Kaczor.

AAA recommends that the following vehicle components be inspected by a qualified technician: Battery load and terminals, lights, air filter, antifreeze, oil, power steering, brake and transmission fluids, belts, hoses, tires and wiper blades.

Despite the convenience maintenance-free batteries provide, average battery life has become shorter as energy requirements have increased. Cell phones, CD players, VCRs, laptop computers and other mobile electronic devices place greater demands on today's batteries.

As the temperature drops, so does the battery's cranking power. To increase a battery's efficiency, make sure the battery cables are on tight and remove any corrosion around the connections using a stiff wire brush and a solution of baking soda and water. (Always wear safety apparel that provides eye and hand protection when performing vehicle maintenance).

Car Care and Clean Air

An annual Winter Car Care checkup is essential for good health — yours and your vehicle's. Regular car maintenance can save money, improve safety and reduce pollution. As part of its Winter Car Care program and in conjunction with National Car Care Month during October, AAA Michigan encourages motorists to increase gas mileage and reduce pollution by following a few simple steps:

- Replace air filter when necessary.
- Refill and/or replace oil and oil filter as needed.
- Avoid aggressive driving (speeding, rapid acceleration and braking).
- Observe the speed limit. Each 5 mph you drive over 60 mph is like paying an additional 10 cents per gallon for gas.
- For more fuel economy tips and information on vehicle safety, visit: www.fueleconomy.gov.

Driving sensibly and paying attention to a vehicle's maintenance can save lives, extend the life of the car, improve air quality, and reduce negative health impacts. What better time than National Car Care Month to help Mother Nature stay at her best while preparing for her worst.

Diabetic patients need yearly eye exams effective treatments are laser surgery and virectomy. With either type of treatment, the results are much better when performed early in the disease progress.

Laser surgery is performed in an Opthalmologist's office. The pupils will again be dilated and the eye numbed. A special lens is held against the patient's eye which focuses the laser's light onto the retina where the Ophthalmologist determined you need the treatment. Focal laser treatment seals the leaking blood vessels and prevents further leakage in the macula/central areas of the retinal. Focal laser treatment generally is used to stabilize the vision, not necessarily improve it. Scatter laser treatment shrinks the abnormal blood vessels away from the center of the retina. Some side vision is lost with this procedure, but the loss is necessary to save the rest of your vision.

A vitroectomy is performed, if there is a lot of blood (from bleeding blood vessels) in the vitreous gel. This procedure will likely be done in the hospital. The cloudy/blood filled vitreous is removed and replaced with a salt solution that is similar to the patient's natural vitreous.

Every diabetic patient needs to have a yearly, dilated eye exam to check for diabetic retinopathy. This exam needs to take place regardless of when the diabetes was diagnosed, regardless of the patient's age, how the patient is feeling or seeing and regardless of a dilated eye exam being done in the past.

Diabetic retinopathy may not be entirely preventable, but there are ways to delay the onset and slow the progression of the disease. Monitoring and controlling your blood sugar levels and following your doctor's advise concerning your diet and exercise are the best ways to delay and slow diabetic retinopathy. Yearly dilated eye exams by an optometrist will allow for the early detection, monitoring and treatment of diabetic retinopathy.

"It feels real good to get back on the winning track," coach Todd Klinger said. "It's good for the kids to get a victory. They've been working hard."

Matt Kilkenny ran 15 times for 74 yards and a touchdown. Sophomore quarterback Jake Teuscher was six for 12 passing for 97 yards. Todd Carey was the top pass catcher hauling in two for 56 yards.

Golf team heading to state finals

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School golf team is heading to the state finals following its second place finish in regional play Oct. 11 in Grayling.

In the regional, Charlevoix scored 330 points. They were beaten by Sutton's Bay with 315.

Individual scores for the team were: David Shearer with a 70, Jordan Nystrom with an 82; Ryan DeYoung with an 88, Kreg Wager with a 96 and York Smith with a 90.

Shearer was a medalist in the regional with a first place finish. He is a three time all regional medal winner and leading medalist.

"(Shearer) is focused and knows what to do. I am proud of him; he's an outstanding player and leader," coach Jim Glynn said.

Shearer will join Nystrom, DeYoung, Wager and Smith at the state finals Oct. 18 and 19.

According to Glynn, Nystrom has played well all year and should do well in the state final. He was an all region player last year and has experience in the finals.

"(Nystrom's) experience and quiet leadership has helped the team tremendously," Glynn said.

DeYoung has also played well all year, Glynn said, and he has become a key player for the team.

"He has helped us at conference and regional play," he said.

Wager brings to the mix a player that has had fours years of experience on the golf team, Glynn said.

"(Wager) has matured into a good player. He has the capabilities to score well and I'm looking to him doing just that at (state finals,)" Glynn said.

Smith rounds out the team.

Glynn said he is "a fine athlete who has improved a lot in these final weeks of the season."

The state finals will be played at Forest Ackers Golf Course in East Lansing. Charlevoix is ranked in the top 24 of Division III.

After the first day of play, 12 of the 24 teams will be eliminated. On the second day of the finals, the state champion will be determined.

"We are a strong team and should make it to the second day," Glynn said. " If the team shoots what they can and all have good rounds, we could surprise a lot of teams. I am very confident that this team is ready. This team has done well; they need to realize how good they really can be."

Soccer team beats Forest Area 1-0

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School soccer team beat Forest Area schools Oct. 12, 1-0, in a tough match-up.

According to coach Josh Block, it was Forest Area's homecoming and the Charlevoix opponents were fired up. Plus, Block had a young, inexperienced player in the goal.

"It was a very well played game by both teams," he said.

The winning goal was scored by John DiMartino.

According to Block, DiMartino was initially stopped in his run for the goal, but he took the rebound and drilled it into the back of the net for the score.

Craig Stockman achieved a shut-out in goal. Before this game, Stockman had only played about half a game in goal.

"He did very well," Block said.

This win comes on the heals of a tough overtime loss to Northern Michigan Christian Burt Lake, 3-2, on Oct. 4.

Block said the winning goal was decided by a penalty kick in overtime. Block also had two of his players injured during the game who had to be taken to the hospital.

One of the injuries, Scott Friske, was caused by a "flagrant foul" by the Northern Michigan Christian goalie.

"It was probably the most flagrant foul I have ever witnessed," Block said.

As for scores, Matthew Nitchman and Travis Smith, each had one.

Block also complimented the efforts of Charlevoix goalie Jake Pace.

"I don't think Burt Lake had a single shot on him in the first half," he said.

But on Oct. 2, Charlevoix beat Bellaire, 5-0.

Pace was also in goal for this game, where he had his fifth shut-out of the year — a school record.

"We are doing awesome in all of the games really," Block said. "We are really playing well. Not only did our kids score five goals, but we scored five very good goals. These were great goals that probably would have scored on any team."

Scoring were: Friske with two, Spencer Bryan with one and Trevor Kline with two.

Assists were given by, Bryan with two, Pace with one and Nitchman with one.

> "It was a very well played game by both teams."

Rayders after Harbor Springs for conference

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders stayed on the heels of Lake Michigan Conference leader Harbor Springs with two more conference wins last week.

The Rayders defeated Traverse City St. Francis, 52-47 and Kalkaska, 78-76.

Charlevoix (5-1 in the conference, 7-5 overall) came from behind in both contests.

"The girls never gave up and played hard to the end," Rayder coach Jim Parrish said.

Kalkaska, previously tied with Charlevoix for second place in the conference, jumped out to a 23-9 first quarter lead. The Rayders, however, led by Rachel Wyniawskyj's six points in the second stanza, clawed back to trail only 32-29 at the half.

Wyniawskyj scored eight more in the third and Grace Farrell added six but Charlevoix still trailed 57-53 headed in the final period.

Sophomore sensation Farrell took over in the fourth quarter as the Blazers fouled her repeatedly and she sunk seven of 11 free throws in the final period to key the Rayder comeback.

On the game, Farrell scored 21 points, pulled down 15 rebounds, blocked six shots and dished out four assists. Wyniawskyj scored 17, including four three-point shots. Jaime Pettis added 12 points, Alyssia McDonough had 10 and Kari Way scored seven.

Against St. Francis, the game was nip and tuck throughout but an 18-12 fourth quarter scoring advantage, pulled out the win for Charlevoix.

Farrell again led the way with 20 points and eight rebounds. McDonough added 11 points and nine rebounds. Wyniawskyj scored nine on three-of-ten three-point shooting.

Sarah Cross scored six points and pulled down eight boards.

Charlevoix hosted Benzie Central on Oct. 15 in non-conference action. Results were unavailable at press time. They return to Lake Michigan Conference play on Oct. 22, hosting Elk Rapids.

Lewis Armstrong tribute

The Crooked Tree Arts Center will bring Marcus Belgrave and his Tribute to Louis Armstrong to the stage at Boyne City High School Performing Arts Center, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 8 and 9.

This is the second presentation in the Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series 2002/2003. The concerts begin at 8 p.m. and tickets are on sale now.

A true musical Renaissance man, trumpeter, composer, arranger, educator, recording artist and producer Marcus Belgrave has done it all. He is the co-founder of the Jazz Studies Program at the Detroit Metro Arts Complex and the Jazz Development Workshop in Detroit.

His career as a player has intersected with an unparalleled variety of musicians across musical generations including Ray Charles (extensively in collaboration), Ella Fitzgerald, Sammy Davis, Jr., Charles Mingus, McCoy Tyner, Dizzy Gillespie, Eric Dolphy, Tony Bennett, Aretha Franklin and Wynton Marsalis.

The collective impact of Belgrave's mind, music and vision is felt across the spectrum of identities for which he has become rightfully recognized both within and without the jazz community.

Northern Michigan jazz musician Jeff Haas recently attended Belgrave's Tribute to Louis Armstrong.

"Marcus' Louis Armstrong Tribute is a real gas. Everyone from 8 to 80 will absolutely love it! Dynamite musicians who really connect with their audience. It's entertainment at its best, great musicians having fun making great music and connecting with their audience. It's one legendary ambassador of America's music — jazz — paying tribute to another legendary ambassador of America's music. Marcus is the perfect guy to pay tribute to Armstrong; he's got the voice, the right attitude and he nails Louis' trumpet style. And, like Armstrong, Marcus has performed on virtually every continent in the world," Haas said.

Belgrave was born in Chester, Penn. in 1936 and came to Detroit in 1963 as a Motown Records staff musician. He is heard on many of the Motown hit recordings including "Dancing in the Street," "The Way You Do The Things You Do" and "My Girl."

Belgrave's early inspiration, and tutor, was Clifford Brown and he earned his initial reputation through membership in the Ray Charles Orchestra of the late 1950s. His solo on "Alexander's Ragtime Band" from the Ray Charles album "The Genius of Ray Charles" put him on the map.

In the early 1960s Belgrave was based in New York City and was a preferred trumpet man for the performances and recordings made by such greats of modern jazz as Max Roach, Eric Dolphy and Charles Mingus.

Belgrave has spent the balance of his career based in Detroit — out of the New York City and major label limelight — but in reality he is among the top handful and today's jazz trumpet players.

His approach to the horn has a lot in common with the older players, Marcus concentrates more on having. an individual style and sound.

Belgrave has been awarded Arts Midwest's Jazz Master Award (1991), Michigan Governors Arts Award (1994), Loius Armstrong Award (1995). He has over 30 recordings including his recent Louis Armstrong tribute, recorded in Windsor.

Mark Stryker of the Detroit Free Press reviewed the Louis Armstrong tribute and said, "Belgrave walks a fine line, approximating Armstrong's gravelly vocal style and referencing classic original trumpet solos with enough sincerity and surprising phrase turns that the music comes off fresh."

Today, Belgrave continues to perform around the world at jazz festivals, premier jazz clubs and concert halls with expertise in both big bands and small ensembles. He also continues to tour with the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra each year as an original member since 1988.

Tickets are on sale now and available at the Crooked Tree Arts Center, at the temporary location of 445 E. Mitchell Street in Petoskey. The telephone number is 347-4337. Tickets can be purchased on-line at www.crookedtree.org.

Tickets are also available in Boyne City at Boyne Country Books and the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce; and in Charlevoix at the Chamber of Commerce. Tickets are $50 for reserved Patrons; Crooked Tree Arts Center members $20 adults and $8 students; and $25 adults and $10 for non-members.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is supported in part by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Trick-or-treating safety tips

The cool autumn breezes are a gentle reminder that Halloween is just around the corner.

To better ensure safety for your little "pumpkins," Consumers Energy offers some helpful reminders for parents on this ghoulish evening.

A well-lit and clear path to your door is important if you are passing out treats. Leaving your porch light on will let children know they're welcome. A typical 100-watt light bulb will cost less than four cents to operate for a four hour period.

In addition:

- Make sure your children trick-or-treat with an adult.
- Inspect all treats before your children eat them. Wash and cut fruit and discard anything that is unwrapped.
- Check candy wrappers for signs of tampering and call the police if you're suspicious of any treats.
- Make sure costumes fit well and that your child can see and be seen after dark.
- Instruct your children to trick-or-treat in your neighborhood and along well-lighted streets.
- Carry a flashlight or use portable marking lights available at local hardware stores.
- Stay on sidewalks. If sidewalks aren't available, children should walk facing traffic.
- Know which friends your children will be with and which route they plan to take.
- Drivers are encouraged to use caution in residential areas and to turn on their headlights. Trick-or-treaters can often become distracted and sometimes fail to look both ways before crossing the street.

"These safety tips should serve as reminders to moms and dads everywhere," said Timothy J. Pietryga, senior public information director for the utility. "Halloween is a great time for treats, but unwanted tricks can be avoided by putting safety first."

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility providing natural gas and electricity to more than six million of the state's nearly 10 million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

lift the property's deed restriction. Her parents donated the property to the library and restricted it for educational purposes only.

While this would work for the school's administrative office, if the district ever wanted to sell the property its value would be bound by the restriction. Saltonstall agreed to lift the restriction if the board agreed to the swap.

The library's offer also asked that the school maintain the site until Oct. 2, 2003 while the community mounts a fundraising effort to save the middle school and to create a community organization that would be in charge of the building.

"We have people interested in working to save the building," Saltonstall said.

Under the library's current proposal, if in October of 2003 this effort has proved futile the school district would then share in the cost of tearing the building down. At the school board meeting it was estimated that the cost of helping tear the building down and paying for maintenance for another year would be around $100,000.

In spite of the fact that many are calling the library's proposal to create a community center and library at the site, "a once in a lifetime opportunity" others feel those financial issues are a bad move for taxpayers.

"I supported the board and the bond issue and this beautiful new building you have. As a taxpayer I would like to see the property sold as is to the highest bidder and funds from that applied to the debt from the bond issue. There shouldn't be partisanship, favoritism or nostalgia attached to the sale of the property," Charlevoix resident Charlie Butcher said.

Butcher believes if the property were to be purchased by private developers taxpayers would see the greatest benefit.

"The city has taken several properties off the tax rolls. I would like to see what belongs to the taxpayers back on the tax rolls," he said.

A private developer who would build single family dwellings at the site has entered an offer on the property. At the meeting, the board decided to tell the developer it is discussing options with the city and library and won't be accepting or declining that offer in the near future.

The city requested right of first refusal for the property and the board opted not to vote on that request. The city would like four to six of the middle school lots to build a parking lot to accommodate marina users. The library's preliminary design displayed at the meeting showed 40 parking spaces.

The board said the library had also requested this right and instead of giving it to one or the other it agreed to keep lines of communication open.

A special meeting between representatives of the school board, city, DDA and library board will be scheduled in the near future to further discuss the future of the middle school property.

Cemex addressed at meeting

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

In spite of assurances from representatives with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) that Cemex, Inc., the local cement manufacturer, complies with cement kiln dust disposal and water quality regulations, some residents are still dissatisfied with their neighbor.

Residents near the site claim shaking from blasts in the quarry, the dust from work around the site and its impact on Lake Michigan should prompt the state and the township to set higher standards.

These complaints prompted a series of Charlevoix Township informational meetings concerning practices at Cemex. Thus far, two meetings into the process, Murray Gillis, the township's mining inspector has said Cemex is in compliance with the township's mining ordinance established in 1985, and officials with the Gaylord Post of the MDEQ said regulations for water discharge and cement kiln dust disposal are being met.

At the Oct. 15 meeting MDEQ representatives, John Ozoga, Bob Wagner and Richard Shoemaker made presentations that showed past water quality and cement kiln dust disposal were harmful to the environment, but at present the company is in compliance with state regulations.

Wagner monitors the cleanup of historic piles, Ozoga ensures current cement kiln dust is properly managed and Shoemaker monitors any water that is discharged from the plant.

Wagner has been working at the Cemex site for 17 years. When he started cement kiln dust, a fine, white/gray material that is a byproduct in the cement making

MacMillan steps down from school board seat

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

An unexpected resignation has left the seven person Charlevoix School Board scrambling to fill an open seat for the remainder of the 2002-2003 term.

On Oct. 13 school board president Allen Telgenhof received a letter from board trustee Michael MacMillan indicating that due to increased travel associated with work he felt it necessary to resign his position of four years.

"It's something I'll miss. All the board members are good people. Their hearts are in the right place, they're looking out for the kids and I'm proud to have been part of it. But it was just the right thing to do," MacMillan said.

The board did not act on the resignation at its meeting Oct. 14 to give members time to brainstorm the best way to go about filling the position.

By law the board has 20 days after receiving notification of a resignation to fill the vacancy.

The board decided to move forward with appointing a registered voter living in the Charlevoix School District. The chosen candidate will be appointed to the open seat until the June 2003 election.

Those interested in being the seventh board member can apply by submitting a letter detailing

Charlevoix gets a taste of winter weather

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The blast of winter weather last week and at the beginning of this week may leave by this weekend, according to the National Weather Service.

Charlevoix, among many other northern Michigan communities, experienced a cold snap last week with temperatures about 10 degrees below normal that also brought rain and snow.

Scott Rozanski, meteorologist with the national weather service, said the cold weather was caused by an "upper trough" that allowed cold air from Canada into the area.

"It just camped up over Ontario (Canada) and sat there," Rozanski said. "It looks like it will begin pulling out later this week."

He said Charlevoix residents and visitors can expect milder temperatures in the 50s, which is pretty much normal for this time of the year. The rain and snow is also expected to quit by this weekend.

As for this winter, Rozanski said a weak El Nino in the Pacific Ocean may make it a bit warmer and dryer than normal. He stressed this does not mean we can expect a prolonged beach and boating season in Charlevoix.

"It could be warmer than normal, but this could be by just one degree," he said.

ACACIA crew to unleash ship's ghosts

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The United States Coast Guard Cutter ACACIA ghost ship will be open from 7 to 10 p.m., Oct. 30. The ship is located at 109 Bridge Park Drive in downtown Charlevoix.
City of Charlevoix trick-or-treating hours are from 6 to 8 p.m. Oct. 31.

Police Chief Dennis Halverson's safety tips:

- Parents should inspect candy and throw away any suspicious pieces or unwrapped pieces.
- Drivers and trick-or-treaters should be on alert.
- Parents should make sure costumes don't interfere with a child's vision.
- Those distributing candy keep well lit pathways.

This year, for one day only, Charlevoix's United States Coast Guard Cutter ACACIA will again transform from a 180 foot buoy tender to a scream machine.

After a one year sabbatical Charlevoix's own haunted ship is returning to the Round Lake harbor.

The ACACIA has hosted one of the spookiest Halloween experiences in town for several years. But last year, following the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attacks, it docked by Coast Guard Station Charlevoix and closed its doors to the public for security reasons.

Halloween in Charlevoix was different without the famed ship as trademark shrieks of horror that traditionally carried across Round Lake were silenced. But the holiday fun is making a frightening return this year.

Twenty-five members of the 50 person ACACIA crew have been planning the ghost ship since early October and after having a year off their fright juices are flowing.

"The crew is very excited to do this again. The guys like scaring people and providing a service to the community. We're ready to have fun and let the community see a lighter side of the Coast Guard," Coast Guard Ensign and Morale Officer Ben Keffer who is in charge of coordinating the ghost ship effort, said.

Keffer wouldn't relinquish any of the gory details, but promised there will be plenty of new tricks and scares tucked in the cutter's main deck for the brave people who venture through.

The ghost ship experience will be offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 30 at the ship located at 109 Bridge Park Drive in downtown Charlevoix. The cost is a non-perishable food item to be redistributed in Charlevoix.

The decision to have the scary ship open the day before Halloween was to allow the ship's crew to be with their families on Halloween.

The trip through is expected to take about 10 minutes and children under 10 should be accompanied by an adult.

Heightened security will be a priority for the Coast Guard that evening and adults and children who want to take a trip through the haunted ship will have to leave any purses, bags and strollers at a supervised location before boarding the ACACIA.

Corrections

A story on page 11 of the Oct. 16 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, titled "Political party opens office in Charlevoix," should have said Republican candidate for secretary of state Terry Lynn Land's opponent is Democrat Melvin Butch Hollowell. Also Republican Ken Bradstreet is running for a representative seat in the state legislature.

Additionally, Dr. Steven Voci's contact information was accidentally left off of his Health page column. His practice is located at 103 Clinton in Charlevoix and his phone number is 547-2901.

Do not take part in acts of vandalism on Devil's Night

EDITORIAL

Halloween is a fun holiday for many children and adults.

It is a day when we can be something different than the normal and we can let our imaginations run wild. It is also a day where we can enjoy getting a little fright, whether it is through watching scary movies or handing out treats to children dressed as their favorite little monsters.

But, there is a dark side to this time of year, Devil's Night. Devil's Night is traditionally the night before Halloween that some think is an excuse to break the law and destroy private property.

There is no rhyme or reason to many of the acts of vandalism. Anyone could find their trees filled with toilet paper, their windows covered with eggs and the pumpkins they or their children spent time carving or painting destroyed on the lawn.

All of this destruction is done in the name of "fun." This type of "fun" is beyond us. How is it fun to break the heart of a child by busting up his or her beloved Jack O' Lantern? How is it fun to throw rolls of toilet paper into a tree or cartons of eggs at a window, just so the homeowner has to clean it up the next day? How is it fun to act like a moron, showing the world how little you care for others and their property?

According to Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson, taking part in one of these acts of vandalism can result in a destruction of property charge and even result in an arrest. So, while it may seem like harmless fun to throw an egg at a car, it could get you a ride in a police car and a night's stay in jail.

While both Halverson and Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said they will have extra officers patrolling on Devil's Night, there are some things a homeowner can do to avoid being a target. Halverson suggested leaving your porch light on that night and making sure your car is locked.

We urge those who are considering taking part in these activities to stop and find out what it is like to be mature. This may be hard for some of these miscreants, but we are sure if they put their mind to it they can act like adults.

Editorial response

Editor:

In your editorial page of Oct. 9 under the caption of "Studies were a good use of money overall," the conclusion you drew from the traffic study and the convention center was that it was money well spent. Oh, please!

Approximately a year-and-a-half ago I wrote an editorial response when the notion of the convention center was surfacing. It was a bad idea then, and now some $27,000.00 later it became a really stupid idea. So, from this study we have learned that more people want to come to Charlevoix in the summer than in the winter. Well, there is a news flash. We also learned that for a convention center we would need approximately 150 parking spaces. I guess no one bothered to walk around the bed and breakfast inn (the location that had been suggested) north of the bridge to determine that there were not 150 parking spaces.

Your editorial suggests that the community now has "solid information" to use if these issues even come up again. Let's hope this notion doesn't surface again. Contrary to what you suggest, this was not a good use of public money.

Vote against zoning ordinance

Editor:

On Nov. 5 our township will have to consider a new zoning ordinance for Charlevoix Township.

The township's planners have stated the new ordinance would clarify zoning regulations so residents would not have an ordinance that is vague or confusing. But have the planners accomplished their purpose? Consider these items.

Webster's Dictionary defines zoning as, "an area or region set apart from its surrounding by some characteristic.

These characteristics would include: Residential, commercial, planned unit development, such as condo or country club, industrial, marine or agricultural district.

Section 3.9 of the ordinance, in part states, "It shall be unlawful to store, collect, dispose of, or lace building materials anywhere in the township."

Where would you store material if you wanted to build a deck, house or garage? Would you have to ask for permission or get a permit before buying any material?

- Section 3.12 fences/hedges makes no provision for a fence or hedge of over 6 feet in height.

This ordinance also goes into highway access management, which is to enhance traffic safety. However this ordinance makes the property owner get a right of way from other property owners if he doesn't have 275 feet of property on the highway. This puts the property owner at the mercy of his neighbor. This is nothing more than the government's taking property.

Section 5.1, R-1 one family dwelling district, in part states that dwellings and complementary uses are compatible in all respects with adjacent homes. With this statement, the township can tell the property owner what type of home he has to build — color, siding material and anything else the township wants.

Section 5.4, planned residential district, states, "The purposes of this district are to provide for the creation of high quality living environments."

This sounds good on the surface but read the fine print. Section 5.4 C3 states that "indoor recreation facilities for the use of occupants only." Section 5.4 C4 states, "outdoor recreation facilities including parks, tot lots, open spaces and other similar recreation uses and facilities primarily for use by occupants."

Is the township trying to control your life and your friends?

You should also realize that if you violate any of this 97 page ordinance that you could be subject to a $500 per day fine and Section 12.2, enforcement, states, that any person who fails to correct a violation or provision of this ordinance within 60 days of the date of notice ordering the correction, shall be guilty. This ordinance makes no provision for any appeal to the township board or the ZBA. Why? Because the township doesn't want to deal with it, let the courts do it.

The township planners stated at a meeting they would only selectively enforce this ordinance.

This ordinance goes too far in trying to control the lives of everyone in the township by including items in this ordinance that have nothing to do with land use but has everything to do with the control over our everyday lives.

The business sections of this ordinance would make it almost impossible to do business in the township.

The items listed above are only a few of the problems with this ordinance. Did the township really read this ordinance before they passed it at a special meeting of the township board? It needs a lot of work.

The voters should not accept a badly written ordinance that we will have to live with. This document could cost us and be a lawyers dream. Please vote no on Nov. 5.

Vote for zoning ordinance

Editor:

As fellow residents of Charlevoix Township, we are asking that you vote "Yes" on the adoption of the new zoning ordinance in the upcoming election. We strongly believe that this new ordinance satisfies current needs within the township, while still maintaining the values of personal freedom, which are held by all of us.

Our current ordinance was originally adopted in the fifties (updated in the eighties) and no longer addresses current situations. Also, portions of the ordinance need simplification. The township hired Fred Hoisington from Gosling & Czuhak in Traverse City to assist in the process. Hoisington has a degree in municipal planning and also owned a home in Charlevoix Township at that time.

The new ordinance was written to accomplish the following:

- Legal definitions needed to be clarified and updated.
- Portions of the former ordinance needed to be simplified or combined.
- Contemporary issues that have arisen since the fifties needed to be addressed.
- Density within planned developments need to be lowered.

In response to citizen's concerns expressed at several public meetings, other changes were made. Permits are not required for fences and hedges, waterfront and shoreline protection is strongly emphasized and a dispute resolution process is included.

On Nov. 5, you will be asked to vote on the adoption of this ordinance. We believe emphatically that this updated ordinance is responsive to public demands.

The density in Planned Residential Zones (formerly PUD) has been reduced from 15 units per acre to 8.7 units per acre. When these zones occur on lake frontage, the density is reduced further to an average of 4 units per acre. A development plan must be presented at the time of a rezone request, and must be followed if the rezone is granted.

Provisions have been made to protect our shorelines and critical dune areas.

Since sexually-oriented businesses may not be excluded, strict requirements and guidelines have been added.

Since the township board is seeing an increase in requests for telecommunications towers, new requirements have been added to address emerging issues. The new ordinance also has been expanded to include requirements for wind energy conversion systems.

The new ordinance specifically includes the township supervisor as an assistant to the zoning administrator for enforcement and provides for a dispute resolution process.

We believe that the Charlevoix Township Planning Commission and the Charlevoix Township Board have been diligent in their task and have provided all of us with an up-to-date and fair ordinance. The spirit of the ordinance has not changed. The new ordinance is only restrictive in situations where the public has asked for restrictions.

Copies of the ordinance are available at your request. You may contact any member of the Charlevoix Township Board or Planning Commission, or stop in at the township hall between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday. We are aware that there are many rumors, misunderstandings, and questions that have been raised. We ask that you come to a member of the above-mentioned boards or read the ordinance before you believe or pass on any rumors that may be damaging and untrue.

We're convinced that if you take the time to review this ordinance, you will vote "Yes." We thank you for your past interest and for seriously considering all of these issues before you cast your vote.

Land swap not best choice

Editor:

On Monday, Oct. 14, I attended the Charlevoix School Board meeting where I expected the subject of the vacant former middle school would be discussed.

I stated that my understanding of the current status is: The property is surplus to the board's needs; that an appraisal has been obtained by the board; the Charlevoix City management is interested in it; the Charlevoix Library Board has made a proposed swap of properties; and the school board has received an offer from a private party for the entire property.

Furthermore, the board's primary obligation is to the taxpayers who have to pay for the new high school and other elements of the program included in the approved bonded project. That obligation is to obtain the best price possible without favoritism or nostalgia for the property, in total. And that money should be applied to paying off the bonded obligation. I also pointed out that the city of Charlevoix has had an aggressive program for the Round Lake waterfront, well done to date but not yet completed, which over several years has removed several properties from tax rolls. My hope is that an individual or group would buy the property for development and place it on the tax rolls. That is the sum of my comments to the board.

The loss of tax paying property is a triple whammy hit on the taxpayers: 1) We have to pay for the property with our tax dollars. 2). We lose the property's tax dollars. 3) Those lost taxes are spread over the rest of the taxpayers for recovery.

The point is, we want more property put on the tax rolls to carry the ever increasing burden. If the school board property, (which is tax free), goes to either the city or the library, both tax free, the taxpayers gain nothing.

The library proposal is very short of the property value and puts no money in the school board pocket. The city is interested in part of the property for a parking lot. Residents facing school property don't want a parking lot.

Dennis Halverson pointed out that maintaining the heat and other basics in the school building is a "hole in the Board's bucket," and they don't know how big that hole might become. Ardeth Wieland cautioned the board that it needs time to hear the public's comments.

Now is the time for taxpayers to call or write to school board members and let them know your opinion. Remember, this is your wallet these tax free interests are talking about.

Thank you

Editor:

On behalf of the Hospice of Northwest Michigan (formerly Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.) Board of Directors and Volunteers, I want to thank the wonderful group of people who arranged the Second Annual Helen Open in memory of that very special lady, Helen Weislik. We were the recipients of the funds raised at the event. We were very appreciative of the extremely generous donation of $15,000. We do not charge for our services — volunteer, bereavement and community outreach — and this money will be put to good use helping those who participated and those who donated. A very special thank you! I know that Helen is smiling down on all of you, and also saying, "Thanks!"

Wind turbines heat up Eveline zoning debate

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The wind turbine battle continues in Charlevoix County as Eveline and Norwood township planning commissions work to fit the contentious energy generating structures into their planning tools.

Eveline Township Planning Commission Chair Eric Beishlag said at the Oct. 14 meeting, when the master plan was discussed, township residents pushed to exclude turbines from the ordinance.

"They're pushing to set them out and according to the Township Zoning Ordinance Act, we can't do that," he said.

The fight to keep wind turbine generators out of Eveline Township started in November 2001, when the township received a request for a special use permit to construct a wind monitoring tower near Ferry and Brock roads.

The proposal was submitted by Bay Windpower of Suttons Bay on behalf of township residents Dawson and Barney Way. The Ways' long-term plan was to construct five wind turbine generators on their property currently used as a hay field and Ralph Richardson, who owns a horse farm on nearby property, was gunning for two.

The possibility of a wind farm being located in what many call a residential area spurred residents to start fighting. Many have said they feel Eveline Township and possibly northwest Michigan is not the place for wind turbines.

Planning consultant Leslie Sickterman of the Traverse City consulting firm Gourdie-Fraser attended the recent master plan meeting. She said the planning commission is still taking public input and from last week's meeting will "tighten elements" of the plan while trying to still be reasonable.

Beishlag said residents butted heads with commissioners on the subject of the number of districts in the wind turbine overlay.

The commission presented two possible overlays where wind turbines would be permitted in districts with a special use permit. One depicted five separate areas and the other two.

The commission favored the option of five, while residents urged the commission to use the overlay with fewer districts.

Sickterman said the rationale behind more districts reflects the commission's goal to be equitable by allowing anyone who meets the criteria for a wind district, including distance from the airport, lack of wetlands and proper topography, to be in a district.

"The idea is to find the best place in the township for wind turbines and not to limit it to one or two small areas," Sickterman said.

Other concerns residents have raised are related to possible effects of the turbines, including the shadow/flicker issue in homes due to blade rotation, noise, ice being thrown from blades and the clearance of blades from the ground.

The possible strobe problem was addressed at the meeting and it was proposed that anyone looking to locate a turbine on their property conduct a study to predict where the shadow/flicker phenomenon would occur taking into account the size of the turbine, the site and vegetation.

Having a noise report was also discussed. This report would be site specific taking into account wind and vegetation. Sickterman said the commission decided to change the noise limit at the perimeter of property lines from 50 decibels to 40.

The township's technical consultant Chuck Frickey addressed the clearance concern. The master plan indicated a 16 foot clearance would be required, but residents saw a possible snow build up closing this gap and creating a safety risk. Frickey said he didn't feel there would be a safety risk but the commission agreed to increase the clearance.

Other changes that will be made before the next meeting include: a requirement that all transmission lines be underground, a closer look at color and lighting requirements, bonding for shadow/flicker problems and an investigation into the alleged ice problem.

While Eveline Township irons out its wind turbine regulations, Norwood Township is embarking on its zoning ordinance changes regarding wind turbines.

The Norwood Township planning commission met earlier this month to take input from residents.

Township clerk Doris Pearl said the outcome of that meeting was a clear consensus.

"Everyone doesn't want them in their backyards," she said.

The township is currently dealing with wind turbines on a scale from personal home use to municipality use. In looking at the issue it is paying close attention to setbacks.

Pearl stressed there is currently no application on the table in Norwood Township for placement of a wind turbine. In fact, she said the township has placed a moratorium on turbines until the ordinance is complete and the township is still early in the process.

Wind turbines in Norwood Township will be further discussed at a second planning commission meeting scheduled to take place at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1 at the Norwood Township Hall located at 19759 Lake Street in Charlevoix.

Candidates vying for state senate seat 37

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While making their picks for a host of local races this Nov. 5, voters in Charlevoix County will also be electing a person to fill the senate seat for District 37.

Charlevoix County joins Grand Traverse, Antrim, Emmet, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Mackinac and Chippewa counties to make up this state district. Voters in these counties have two candidates to choose from: Republican Jason Allen, of Traverse City, and Democrat Michael Estes, of Traverse City.

Allen is married and has one child. He is a 1981 graduate of Traverse City High School and is an Eagle Scout with the Boy Scouts of America. He also served with the Michigan National Guard from 1990 to 1997.

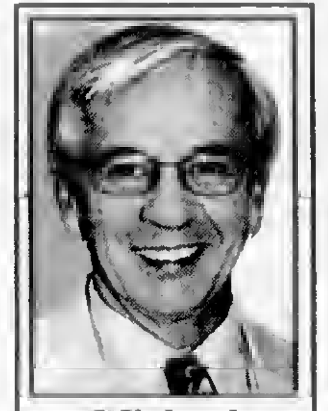
Jason Allen

Allen attended Northwestern Michigan College and Miami University of Ohio, where he received a bachelor of science degree in finance. Besides politics, he is vice president of sales at his family's business in Traverse City, Captain's Quarters.

Politically, Allen served on the Grand Traverse County Board of Commissioners from 1990 to 1998 and was with the Northwestern Michigan Council of Governments.

In 1998, he was elected to the state legislator as a representative for the area.

Some legislation Allen is proud of is he helped make the Friday before Labor Day a state holiday, helped create a legislative package that dealt with student violence, helped establish the new Department of History, Arts and Libraries and was the chair of the House Education Committee and House Commerce Committee.



Michael Estes

Allen said he is running for the state senate because his family has always taught him the values of public service.

"Our family has always been raised that public service is an honorable task. I think that Michigan with term limits is going to need experience in the senate," he said.

The big issues facing the state and the counties in District 37, Allen said, are issues involving education, the economy and the environment. For education, Allen said funding, school infrastructure and what to do with failing districts need to be addressed.

For the economy, Allen separates it out into three issues: tourism, agriculture and manufacturing.

With tourism, Allen said the state should start looking at eco-tourism and cultural tourism. The state Department of History, Arts and Libraries helps with this, he added.

For agriculture, Allen said it needs to be "value added," with different types.

And finally, Allen said manufacturing can be helped with a broadband internet service, allowing northern Michigan companies the ability to bid on projects around the world and show off their wares on the internet.

When asked why voters should choose him, Allen said, "The citizens of northern Michigan should vote for Jason Allen because he has a commitment to be a leader for northern Michigan and represent their values and traditions."

Estes is married and has three adult children. He is a graduate of Western Michigan University and has an undergraduate degree in accounting and a master's degree in business administration.

Estes was an auditor and worked on product costs for Ford Motor Company. He is currently the president of Estes Enterprises, Inc. of Traverse City and has dealt with commercial real estate, gas wells and managed a tree farm. He also has a small orchard.

While Estes has never been elected to public office, he has been involved with Great Lakes Community Mental Health, The Economics

Club of Traverse City, Oryana Food Cooperative, the Kiwanis Club of Traverse City, the National Cherry Festival and most recently was the chairman of the Grand Traverse County Republican Party before leaving to run as a Democrat against Allen.

"I had decided the Republican party had become too special interest for me," he said. Estes said he is very moderate on social issues and has deep concerns about the environment, which caused some soul searching.

He said he decided to run for the District 37 senate seat because he is not a career politician and it is the perfect time for him to run.

me through my campaign and I have already raised my family," he said. "It is the ideal time to do something for my community."

Estes has three big issues he will address in the senate: protecting Michigan's freshwater reserves, the economy and education.

To protect the state's freshwater, Estes said plans allowing businesses the ability to sell Great Lakes water or water from its underground reserves should not happen.

"The citizens of Michigan are all owners of this fresh water. It belongs to all of us. Someday the future of Michigan will be based on our freshwater," he said.

For the economy, Estes said the key is to find out what happened to the state's budget reserves from four years ago.

"Why did it disappear? Where did it go? Someone has got to answer those questions, then start on a program to build up cash reserves," he said.

Estes added the state needs to have less paperwork for businesses to deal with when they are starting up and he said the single business tax should be repealed.

As for education, Estes said Proposition A should be left intact. But there are three issues that schools need to deal with together: excess transportation costs, declining enrollment and school infrastructure repairs.

He said these are the issues causing problems for the school districts and by combining them some type of funding source can be created to address all three at once.

When asked why voters should choose him, Estes said, "I am not a career politician and I will not accept PAC (money), my only interest is to the voters of the thirty-seventh Senate District."

Many millage requests on November ballot

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Aside from casting votes for candidates at the upcoming election, township and county voters will also have to decide how their tax dollars are spent and, in the case of Charlevoix Township, whether a new zoning ordinance will be accepted.

In Bay Township voters are being asked to renew the township's road millage at one mill for one year. If passed, the millage would cost $100 to a homeowner whose property is valued at $100,000 and is expected to bring the township $89,000 for road construction and maintenance.

In Peaine Township a proposal that voters turned down in the August primary is back on the November ballot.

Peaine Township voters made a split decision in August, approving one mill for roads by 62 percent and turning down three quarters of a mill for airport operations and maintenance.

This same three-quarters of a mill is what is being requested by the township again.

Township supervisor John Works said some residents feel the airport is a "black hole" they pay tax money into and get little back from. But, he explained there are many functions of the airport that are vital to the township and the island.

"We're on an island. The boat stops running in December and food supplies and medical emergencies are all through aviation. It's a necessary part. Would you want to rely on a private individual to keep that lifeline open?" he said.

The municipal airport services both Peaine and St. James townships and St. James has already passed one mill to support it. If Peaine voters turn the millage down again, Works said the money to operate the facility will have to come from the township's general fund. Federal grants the airport recently funded $1.5 million in upgrades require that it continue to operate over the next 20 years.

It would cost a Peaine Township homeowner whose home is valued at $100,000, $75 annually for five years. The millage would raise $33,066 in its first year.

Township voters to decide fate of millages

Countywide, voters will be asked to renew and increase Grandvue Medical Care Facility's operating millage.

Grandvue will have two separate proposals on the ballot: Proposal A, asking voters to renew three-quarters of a mill for the facility's operating expenses and Proposal B, asking for an additional one-quarter mill.

"Both are extremely important. We've said all along without that additional operating millage Grandvue would just not be able to function in the same way," Grandvue Administrator Penny Drury said.

The millage voters approved for Grandvue in November of 2000 was to fund a building project and is unrelated to the facility's overall operating expenses.

Grandvue has had an operating millage for the past 15 years and it has always been three quarters of a mill. Over the years, Drury said there have been huge increases in operating costs mostly due to health insurance which has risen about 25 percent annually.

Cost increases have been accompanied by cuts in state regulated Medicaid and federal Medicare funding which pays for about 75 percent of Grandvue's operating costs.

Proposal A would collect the three quarters of a mill from 2003 through 2006 and would cost $75 to a homeowner whose home is valued at $100,000. This would raise $1,041,425 in 2003 for the facility.

The additional millage money that would be generated by Proposal B would cost $25 for a homeowner whose home is valued at $100,000 over the next three years and would generate $347,140 in its first year.

Drury stressed that voters need to be aware that if they agree to the operating millage and the increase they have to vote yes to both, voting yes on just the increase will leave the county facility with one-quarter mill.

While county voters, and those specifically in Peaine and Bay townships, are deciding how to spend their tax dollars, voters in Charlevoix Township will decide whether they want to accept an updated zoning ordinance, which hasn't been revised since 1987.

The township has worked on the ordinance for two years and the ballot request is a result of a second referendum effort lead by township resident Charles Scherping who feels the changes are too restrictive.

Those who vote yes will be voting in favor of the adoption of the ordinance and those who vote no are voting against it.

If the ordinance is not adopted, the 1987 ordinance will still be in effect and township zoning administrator Bob Rajewski said the township board and planning commission have no intention of starting the revision process again.

"If someone comes in and wants 15 units per acre that's the way it's going to be because that's where it's at now (under the current zoning ordinance). Or if someone comes in and wants to put up wind towers, we'll hear about that (because tower restrictions are not included in the current zoning ordinance.) We're trying to be proactive rather than reactive; we're not trying to make anyone's life miserable," Rajewski said.

Residents who want to review the revised ordinance can contact a township official at 547-4611 between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday. The ordinance is also on file at Charlevoix Public Library located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

HAVE A SAFE HALLOWEEN!

Charlevoix Trick or Treat Hours:

Thursday, October 31 • 6PM-8PM

Let's all be aware of children on Halloween night! We want them to be safe and happy and have a great Halloween!

- Try to Trick or Treat when it is still light outside - during specified hours only.
- Costumes should be nonflammable and should not restrict movement. Masks shouldn't block vision. Use makeup instead.
- Carry a flashlight so you can see & be seen easily.
- Homeowners, pick up ladders, play things and other objects from the yard so children won't trip.
- Give your children a meal or snack before they go out, and emphasize that no treats should be eaten before they get home.
- Discard commercially produced candy if the wrapper is loose or the seal has been broken.
- Trick or Treaters should always go in groups, and younger children should be accompanied by an adult.
- Drivers watch out! Children become careless from excitement and may run into the road.
- Dusk is the time of poorest visibility for drivers.
- Choose a costume that is easy to walk in, easy to see out of and can be seen by drivers.
- Remind your children to look both ways and cross streets only at corners.
- Use a reflective tape on your costume so people driving cars can see you.
- Remember to thank people for the treats!
- Stay in familiar neighborhoods if possible. Try to avoid homes of total strangers.
- Do not eat unwrapped candy!
- Leave your porch light on, so kids know it's OK to visit.

This page is sponsored by these concerned businesses.

Tips for keeping children safe while trick-or-treating Imaginary dangers from pint-sized ghosts and goblins abound on Halloween, but parents should take steps to protect their children from real dangers as well, AAA Michigan advises.

Darting out into the street, often from between parked cars, accounted for more than half of the 292 pedestrian casualties among children ages 4-10 in Michigan in 2001.

"Parents should urge children to cross only at corners, never between parked cars or mid-block," said Richard J. Miller, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager.

Miller added that drivers, in turn, should also be especially careful when pulling in and out of driveways and realize that the normal residential speed of 25 mph is way too fast when the night is full of excited kids moving from house to house.

To make sure children enjoy a safe Halloween, parents should follow a few easy steps.

- Try to complete trick-or-treating before dark.
- Make sure to walk with the youngest trick-or-treaters.
- While trick-or-treating, tell children to walk, not run, to avoid falling or tripping over costumes. Encourage them to follow the traffic rules — stop at all corners and look both ways before crossing.
- Choose safe routes, near homes, on well-lit streets.
- Always carry a flashlight when going from house to house and drivers should turn on headlights at dusk.
- Instead of masks which can block vision and make traffic difficult to see, use makeup on children's faces.
- Costumes should be short to prevent tripping and made of white or light colored materials. Attach reflective tape to make costumes more visible to motorists.
- Participate in other planned Halloween activities as an alternative to trick-or-treating.

"Older children who trick-or-treat with friends should always have family-planned routes and home arrival times," Miller said. "Treats should be inspected. Discard anything that looks like it has been unwrapped or tampered with. Wash fruits and cut it into small pieces before eating."

If approved and levied in its entirety, it is estimated that the .75 mills would raise an estimated $33,066 for the township when first levied in 2002.

Golf team finishes fifteenth at state

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School varsity golf team ended its season in fifteenth place in the state finals Friday and Saturday.

The team was able to tie with three other teams for twelfth place on Friday, sending it on to the second day of play. On the first day, Charlevoix tied with Goodrich, Ida and Grandville Calvin Christian with a score of 342.

On the second day, the team shot a 353, giving it a total score of 695.

"We had a good year. I was real pleased we made it to state as a team and made it to the second day," coach Jim Glynn said. "I am real proud of them."

Varsity team members who went to state were: David Shearer, Kreg Wager, Ryan DeYoung, York Smith and Jordan Nystrom. Shearer and Wager are seniors.

"It was nice to see Wager finish his senior year at a state tournament," Glynn said.

He added, it was great to have Shearer on the team for four years.

"He is the best golfer to come out of Charlevoix schools to my knowledge," Glynn said. "I am going to miss him; he showed a lot of class."

Shearer finished in fifth place at state, individually.

Glynn added Nystrom had a real solid performance at the state finals and will be a nice asset next year, as well as Smith and DeYoung.

Individual results for the first day of play were: Shearer with a 77, Nystrom with an 82, Wager with a 90, Smith with a 93 and DeYoung with a 95.

Individual results for the second day of play were: Shearer with a 77, Nystrom with an 82, Smith with a 94, DeYoung with a 100 and Wager with a 112.

Aquatic Therapy helps expectant mothers.

Shelley Budnick
Physical Therapist

Pregnancy is a very special, exciting time. But often, many women experience low back pain or sciatica. Aquatic therapy can help decrease or eliminate these painful conditions by performing stabilization, strengthening, and flexibility exercises in an unweighted environment. Not only does it take pressure off the low back and abdominal region, the water also helps to decrease swelling, and it allows a person to exercise with less stress on the circulatory system (your heart does not have to work as hard in an aquatic environment). Typically, most women feel immediate relief upon entering the pool, and over time, relief lasts longer the stronger they become.

Ask your physician for a referral to begin feeling better today with aquatic therapy.

For more information about how aquatic therapy can help you, contact the professional physical therapy staff at Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center in Petoskey 231-347-9300 or Harbor Springs 231-348-7002.

Soccer team advances in district play

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School soccer team advanced in district play after heating Roscommon Monday night 4-0.

"We were finally able to pull everything together for a great game," coach Josh Block said.

This was also the eighth shut-out for Rayder goalie Jake Pace. Offensively, Spencer Bryan had one goal, Trevor Kline has two goals and John DiMartino had one goal.

Block added the game was very physical, with Roscommon getting six yellow cards and having two players ejected. However, Charlevoix did not receive any yellow cards.

With this win, Charlevoix will play Cheboygan around 6:30 p.m., tonight, Wednesday.

On Oct. 18, Charlevoix lost to Harbor Light 2-1.

Block said this simply was a game Charlevoix should not have lost.

"We were a lot better. We just didn't score," he said. "This (Charlevoix) is a great soccer team. We controlled the game."

Bryce Daly had Charlevoix's only goal. Pace was the Rayder's goalie for this game.

While the team may have lost to Harbor Light, it came after a big win against Forest Area Schools Oct. 16, 6-0.

Offensively, Bryan had two goals, Scott Friske had one goal, Kline had one goal, Daly had one goal and DiMartino had one goal. Pace was once again in goal.

Basketball team loses 72-55

By ALLEN TELGENHOF

Difficult non-conference schedules make a basketball team better come tournament time.

They'd better because they don't do much for a team's overall win-loss record as the Charlevoix Rayders are discovering this season.

"You have to play tough competition if you want to get better," Charlevoix coach Jim Parrish said.

The Rayders fell to non-conference rival Benzie Central, 72-55.

Charlevoix is 5-1 in the Lake Michigan Conference, but only 2-5 in outside play, including losses to ranked foes, Cheboygan (honorable mention in Class B) and St. Ignace (number eight in Class C).

Parrish thought maybe Benzie should be included on that list.

A 24-12 Benzie advantage in the second quarter was too much for the Rayders to overcome.

Grace Farrell led Charlevoix with 17 points, five rebounds, three assists and three blocks. Rachel Wyniawskyj added 10 points, three rebounds and three steals. Jaime Pettis scored nine points and dished out five assists. Sarah Cross tallied eight points, six rebounds and three steals.

The Rayders returned to action Tuesday, Oct. 22, against Elk Rapids but results were unavailable at press time. Charlevoix travels to conference leader Harbor Springs Oct. 29.

Rayders lose, but play well

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Moral victories don't count in the standings, but they can give a sense of accomplishment to a young team.

The Charlevoix Rayders football team fell 6-0 to Boyne City last Friday night, but gained the respect of their opponents, their fans and their coach.

"The kids went in there and played their hearts out," coach Todd Klinger said. "They can hold their heads high knowing they gave it everything they had and played their best game of the season."

Boyne City came into the game undefeated in the conference and early on it appeared they might have an easy time of it. The Ramblers took the opening kickoff and marched down the field until they fumbled on the Rayder two-yard line.

Charlevoix recovered, but couldn't move the ball and was forced to punt. Boyne City took advantage of the great field position and scored on an 11 yard touchdown pass with 51 seconds left in the first period for a 6-0 lead.

The defenses took over the game from that point on.

Charlevoix drove deep into Boyne territory in the second period and had a first-and-goal situation on the Boyne 10. A fourth down Rayder pass was batted down in the end zone to end the scoring threat.

To open the second half, the Rayders stopped Boyne and forced a punt, however, the punt was fumbled giving the Ramblers great field position at the Rayder 18. Boyne City gained no ground whatsoever and turned the ball right back over to Charlevoix on downs.

The Rayders drove into Boyne territory once in the third period, but turned the ball over on downs on the Rambler 35.

Charlevoix's last chance to score came with two and a half minutes left in the game, but a bad center-quarterback exchange doomed a fourth and six at the Boyne 22 and the Rayders were again turned away.

"We played a very intense game of football," Klinger said. "I thought Donovan Swanson and Hal Foster played great defense at linebacker and the guys on the defensive line, Nick Potter, Josh Carter and Marshall Bakker had great games. Those five guys were the heart and soul for us on defense."

Jeff Urban led the offense with 95 yards rushing on 26 attempts. Matt Kilkenny ran for 23 yards. Defensively, Swanson had eight tackles and Potter and Mitchell Klooster each had seven.

The Rayders (2-6 overall, 2-4 conference) finish the 2002 campaign with a home game against Suttons

SCRAPBOOK

Second Bob Miles book on the stands

The Charlevoix Historical Society of Charlevoix, Michigan recently announced the publication of a new book entitled Bob Miles' Charlevoix II.

This book is the second volume of historic photos with supporting narrative text which the society has produced, the first one having appeared for the nation's bicentennial in 1976. That limited edition of 2,000 copies sold out in 1986 and has become a valued collector's item.

Bob Miles was a Charlevoix photographer for 42 years. He was instrumental in saving the historic photo record of the town and area, a collection which now totals over 9,000 photos, negatives, slides and transparencies. His son, David L. Miles, is the principal writer and organizer of the new hook, assisted by five society members.

Charlevoix has been one of the premier resort destinations of the midwest for well over a century. At one time it was the leading shipping port of northwest lower Michigan.

It is a town rich in history, and this new book tells much of it from the beginning to the present time in 32 chapters, with sections on early settlers and pioneer life, the channels, piers and lighthouses, Bridge Street, the hotels, Loeb Farms, the summer resorts, homes and architecture, the coming of the railroad and others. It is 488 pages long and contains 486 classic photos and images.

Bob Miles' Charlevoix II is available at the Society's Harsha House Museum, 103 State Street, or P.O. 525, in Charlevoix . For more information call 547-0373 or fax 547-4033.

A web site order form is available at www.chxhistory.com.

The cost is $45 plus $2.70 state sales tax, total $47.70. Shipping and handling: $5 extra. The book is also available at the Shop of the Gulls, 205 Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

Agencies encourage testing for Radon gas

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency announced today that it is joining with the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) in the observance of Radon Action Week.

This is an annual commemorative event representing a national effort to encourage Americans to test their homes for radon, and, as necessary, take action to reduce exposure to elevated levels. Radon Action Week will take place Oct. 20-26, this year.

Stating that some area residents may be at risk of developing lung cancer from exposure to elevated levels of radon gas in their homes, a Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency spokesperson said, "We are encouraging Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego County residents to get radon test kits and test their homes."

The kits are available at some hardware stores, home centers or other retail outlets and usually range in cost from $10-$20. The kits can also be picked up at the health department free of charge.

Radon is a tasteless, odorless, colorless, radioactive gas that occurs naturally in soil and rock. It moves upward through the soil and enters buildings through cracks and openings in the foundation floor or walls, such as floor/wall joints, sump openings and other penetrations caused by plumbing wiring or ductwork. Outdoors, it is diluted by the atmosphere, but indoors it tends to be more concentrated and can accumulate to unhealthy levels.

Scott Kendzierski, an indoor air quality specialist with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, pointed out that a statewide survey indicates that elevated levels of radon would be expected in one out of eight homes in Michigan. In some countries as many as 45 percent of the homes could have radon test levels above the EPA recommended action guidelines of 4 picocuries per liter.

In this area, several homes have tested above EPA action guidelines and many others could contain elevated radon levels.

"The only way to know is to test," Kendzierski added.

"Because it is invisible and can't be smelled, people tend to ignore it," Kendzierski said. "It doesn't cause headaches, nausea, fatigue, skin rash or other warning symptoms that might be experienced as a result of exposure to many other environmental toxins, yet extended exposure to elevated radon levels may increase one's risk of lung cancer, a generally fatal disease."

According to the EPA, radon is responsible for approximately 14,000 deaths annually.

"Testing is easy and inexpensive with do-it-yourself test kits," Kendzierski said. "Though some people choose to hire a professional tester, particularly when they're testing as part of a real estate transaction. Homeowners are cautioned to use only nationally-certified test kits or testing companies."

Citizens interested in finding out more about radon or to obtain their free test kit can contact Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency at (231) 547-6523 or call the MDEQ toll-free radon information line at 1-800-RADONGAS (1-800-723-6642) for a free packet of information.

Cemex does meet most state regulations

process, was thought to be harmless.

Because it was considered harmless, Cemex, or Medusa as it was then, disposed of it in piles around the site.

Then in the early 1990s further laboratory testing proved the dust to be a low level, hazardous, industrial waste because of metals it contains that "could cause a problem." Some of the metals contained in the dust include: arsenic, copper, selenium, chromium, lead, potassium, chlorides and mercury.

Wagner explained the dust has a high pH and when it comes into contact with human skin and moisture for a sufficient period of time it could cause a burn.

"Relatively speaking it (cement kiln dust) is on the low end for toxicity," Ozoga said.

In the late 1990s and early in 2000 the finding that the dust is not totally harmless, prompted talks between the MDEQ and the company to initiate better disposal practices and to resolve problems with nine historic piles.

As of 1993 Ozoga said the company has been required to have a license to dispose of the cement kiln dust.

"They can't just dump it," he said

In April of 1998 the MDEQ authorized Cemex to build a new 70 acre landfill at its site to accommodate dust disposal over the next 25 to 30 years. Ozoga said 20 of the 70 acres will be constructed by Christmas.

Historic piles six and seven, areas identified as leaching problems, were disposed of in the landfill, a practice Ozoga said addresses the MDEQ's disposal concerns by keeping the toxic substance in a lined landfill.

Thus far, Ozoga and Wagner said the landfill and capping process have fulfilled the MDEQ's request to cleanup the piles.

"We're not seeing an impact from the capped piles. Generally speaking, the company has been pretty much in compliance with the landfill requirements to date. At this point, all nine (historic) piles have been addressed and currently CKD (cement kiln dust) is going into a safe place," Ozoga said.

While the piles are cleaned up, Lake Michigan water which Wagner said the former disposal practice did impact, is still showing signs of contamination. The dust produces a coffee colored water.

Wagner said studies showed the leachate was definitely leaching into the lake and the MDEQ hopes the capping and removal of historic piles has cut that flow off. Historic piles four and five have been combined and capped and he said pile five was the primary source of leachate into Lake Michigan.

"There still is brown water on the lake shore by pile five and it probably will persist for a period of time," he said.

To ensure the flow has been cut off, Cemex installed an interception trench along Lakeshore Drive. Groundwater enters this trench and goes into a pipe that travels to a pump station and back to the quarry where it is monitored and tested before being discharged into Lake Michigan.

Shoemaker said monthly reports on testing of this water for metals and weekly reports that test its pH have shown the company is in compliance with state permitted limits established in June of 2000.

In spite of its compliance with these state and township regulations, some residents at the meeting said they feel maybe the limits are too high and questioned whether they are helpless in controlling activities at the site.

Boulder Park resident Bill Sherman said, "It's not like we're dealing with the guy next-door, we're dealing with a foreign company."

Shoemaker said in October of 2004 the next water discharge permit will be discussed and there will be an opportunity for public comment. Both Ozoga and Wagner said residents who feel the company is not being a good neighbor should contact the MDEQ with their concerns.

And township zoning administrator Bob Rajewski said ordinances are subject to change and residents can discuss proposals for change with the township board.

The issue of air quality is next on the agenda of informational meetings and residents are ready to discuss dust.

"This summer, when they were working on pile five, it was like we were in a dust storm," Sherman said.

Dave Thorley with the Air Quality Division of the MDEQ is expected to be at the meeting to answer questions. This third meeting has not yet been scheduled.

To contact these MDEQ officials call Ozoga at (989) 705-3403, Shoemaker at (989) 705-3424, Thorley at (989) 705-3409 or Wagner at (989) 705-3452.

City, library create tentative agreement on middle school

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Members of the Charlevoix Public Library's Board of Trustees and the library's building committee met with city of Charlevoix representatives in closed session Oct. 23 and 24.

Representing the library at the meetings were Valerie Meyerson, library director; Joe Seidel, library board member and on behalf of the building committee, Connie Saltonstall and co-chair Alvin Ranger. City Manager Mike Wiesner and Mayor Alvin Russell were there on behalf of city council and the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), as was Hugh Mason, chairman of the DDA.

The sessions brought together two entities that are usually separate in a possible joint venture to acquire the former Charlevoix Middle School property off Grant Street.

There are a total of 14 lots included in the property. Prior to the meeting, the city, expressed interest in four to six of the lots to build marina parking and the library said it requires at least eight lots for its upcoming building project that will be a 20,000 square foot single level building.

The building committee is also actively involved in forming another committee that will work to save the old, vacant middle school for community use. Saltonstall has been named chair of the committee that will work to raise funds to convert the facility to a community center.

At the meeting, a tentative agreement was reached. If approved by the library board and city council, representatives of the groups will discuss with the school board, the city purchasing four lots and the library swapping its current Clinton

Why did officials have a closed meeting on school?

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A meeting between city of Charlevoix representatives and representatives of the Charlevoix Public Library to discuss how the two can work together took place in closed session.

"We have a lot of meetings like that where we brainstorm and go over things. We typically do that in private," City Manager Mike Wiesner, who was at the meeting, said. "Maybe rightfully or wrongfully, maybe we should reassess it."

Representatives of the city and library were at the Oct. 23 morning meeting to discuss how their mutual interest in the former Charlevoix Middle School site off Grant Street could be a cooperative effort.

Going into the meeting the city expressed interest in four to six of the 14 lots and the library said it needed at least eight to accommodate its new 20,000 square foot single level building.

From this Wiesner said the group was able to come up with a tentative agreement.

He said the idea behind having the brainstorming session closed was twofold, an effort to offer the final concept without including the dialogue that took place and also to allow his "bosses," the members of city council, a chance to review the proposal before the details are revealed in a newspaper.

While Library Director Valerie Meyerson supported the meeting being open she sympathized with Wiesner's desire to present the plan to city council before it is printed by newspapers.

Meyerson said she too would like to have a discussion about the plan the city and library reached with the library board and building committee before the community reads about it in the newspaper.

Editorial picks for Nov. 5 election

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Election time is one of the more difficult times for newspaper editors.

Newspaper editors are journalists to the core. They enjoy informing the readers, helping writers tell factual stories and keeping the newspaper fair. They don't like their opinions to get in the way of the news and only want to report what others say, think or do.

But, then comes election season and the editorial picks. It is during this time when a newspaper editor must examine each of the candidates for an elected office and decide who they will support publicly. It is one of the few times when a newspaper editor's political views are published.

This is very hard for editors to do, especially me. But, many feel a need to give this information to our readers, helping readers become informed voters and clearing the air about ourselves.

While they are just suggestions on which way to vote, a lot of readers and candidates take them very seriously.

I respect every single person that runs for political office. When a person decides to run for office, they are basically putting their character on the line for a chance to help their community. They are giving their opinions, opening themselves up to criticism and taking time away from their families, just to fulfill a desire to make a difference in the world around them.

I admire that, thus making it all the more difficult to pick one candidate over the other.

For the general election, like many others, I have enlisted the help of the Charlevoix Courier staff. The editorial picks are too important to make on my own.

After almost two hours of discussion over pizza in our conference room, I, with the help of the staff, have come up with some picks to publish. I will only be endorsing Charlevoix City Council races, county commission races and one state senate race.

We did not have enough time to fully examine the state house race between Republican incumbent Ken Bradstreet and Democrat Mike Webster and will not be giving endorsements on that one.

In the race for Charlevoix city mayor, we have two candidates to choose from: Incumbent Alvin Russell and Gabe Campbell.

It has been no secret that I have not liked the way business has been done at city hall. The opposing viewpoint is rarely considered and many times the public seems to only be allowed in on a superficial basis. Basically, I still believe that once city officials have their minds made up on a subject, they rarely change their thinking.

The current mayor is no exception. He very rarely disagrees with city officials and never really gave a solid answer in any of his pre-election stories with the Courier, thereby not really showing his opinion on issues facing the city.

For this, I am endorsing Gabe Campbell. Campbell has proven he will look at both sides of the issues and will keep the concerns of all residents in mind, not just the plans of city officials.

In the race for the city council's second ward we have two candidates: Karen Campbell and D.J. Way.

Karen Campbell is the wife of Gabe Campbell. I really do not like the idea of having a husband and wife on city council and prefer to have a variety of people representing government. Way has shown in many interviews with the Courier that he has strong opinions on city plans and is not afraid to offer solutions.

I am endorsing D.J. Way for second ward.

In the race for the Charlevoix County Commission, we have three open seats we are covering: A district one race between Republican Valerie Snyder, Democrat Paul Richards and Green Party member Bill Henne; a district five race between Republican Dennis Jason and Democrat Arness Cox; and a district six race between Republican incumbent Shirley Roloff, write-in Democrat Berta Meyerson-Molasky and Green Party Member Joe King.

In the district one race, it was a very tough call for me and the staff of the Courier between Snyder and Henne. Both have great experience, both have great ideas for the county and we believe both will do an fantastic job.

But, Snyder came out ahead based on her law experience. Therefore, I am endorsing Valerie Snyder for district one.

In the district five race, we have two very nice and intelligent men running for election. But, Jason clearly has more government experience than Cox and knows the county better.

Therefore, I am endorsing Dennis Jason for district five.

In the district six race, the staff and I also had a hard time deciding between Roloff and King. Roloff is a tireless worker for the county and her constituents and King has some great ideas for opening up county meetings to the public. We especially liked his ideas for televising commission meetings on public access and providing ways for Beaver Island residents to comment using the internet.

But, Roloff has done a phenomenal job for the county, especially with the recycling program. Because she has done such a good job for the citizens of Charlevoix, I am endorsing Shirley Roloff for district six.

I want to add, I encourage both King and Henne to run for other public offices. With more government experience, they will both be extremely strong contenders for the county commission in the coming years.

Lastly is the race for Michigan State Senate District 37 between Republican Jason Allen and Democrat Michael Estes. Both of these men are extremely bright, hard working and dedicated to their communities.

Personally, it was a very tough call for me on this one and I wished they were not running against each other. But, the call needed to be made.

I really liked Estes' answers in his interview with me, especially the part about not wanting to be a career politician. I also admire the courage that he showed in leaving the Republican party, even after being the chair, because he became disheartened with it.

And I really liked his commitment to stay away from PAC money and not use those ugly yard signs.

Therefore, I am endorsing Michael Estes for state senate district 37.

Good luck to all of the candidates on Nov. 5.

Commissioners should be accountable

Editor:

Charlevoix County residents deserve responsible, accountable Charlevoix County Commissioners. A County Board of Commission should encourage not discourage citizen participation. Every County Commissioner needs to respect the spirit of the Open Meetings Act, not just the minimum letter of the law.

The current Charlevoix County Commission have refused to put copies of the Annual Budget and Annual Audit in our libraries where citizens can review them. Agendas and minutes of the meetings are incomplete and are not easily accessible. The public only has a short time at the beginning of meetings to comment on agenda items and often the rules are waived, new items are brought up and the public has no input.

Important correspondence is passed over with no discussion. It is difficult to hear in the Commission Room. Commissioners whisper and confer between themselves. When the commissioners are asked to speak up, the request is often ignored. Public participation is discouraged by

The Lake Charlevoix Association, Friends of the Jordan River, Tip of the Mitt, Watch and other conservationists, asked that stormwater and soil and sedimentation rules be kept strong to ensure that streams, beaches and private properties were protected. But the commissioners bowed to developers and their consultants and implemented a stormwater ordinance that does not protect local property owners and sensitive areas from flooding.

Bill hurts shores

Editor:

Take a look at what is in Michigan's pending House Bill 6418, which is about to be reviewed by House Committee on Land Use and the Environment members. It would allow mechanized mowing, mechanized leveling of sand, removal of vegetation and mechanized plowing and disking in the top 4 inches of soil for a whopping 3,288 miles of Great Lakes public trust bottomlands between the ordinary high watermark and the water's edge. U.S. Representative, J. Barcia and a supporting group called, SOS, Save Our Shoreline, Inc., defines these actions as "beach maintenance activities," but this would result in coastal wetland devastation. If you thought drilling for oil under Lake Michigan was damaging, think what the effects of this bill would be.

Two-thirds of coastal marshes were exposed during the low water years of 1999 and 2000. Under HB 6418, these wetlands could have been destroyed without a state permit. Can one possibly imagine how these rare coastal marshes would survive being mechanically plowed? They would not recover for centuries.

We should not think of shorelines as lawns. Yes, beachfront owners have property rights, but that should not include improper treatment of beaches. We should not mechanically groom, mow, plow or disk shorelines, as some would have us do. These are public trust bottomlands of a very sensitive nature. If you have an interest in seeing that our coastal wetlands are not subjected to such destruction, then I ask you to contact immediately our representative, Andy Neumann, at S1485 House Office Building, P.O. Box 30014, Lansing, MI 48909-7514; e-mail: aneumann@house.state.mi.us.

Members of the House Committee on Land Use and the Environment will review the bill first. Please contact them as soon as possible. All of their e-mail addresses end in @house.state.mi.us. Their names are: rujohnson, jkoetje, pbirkho, gderossett, ldevuys, bpalmer, stabor, chriskolb, rbasham, pgieleghem and dhale. Let's let the folks in Lansing know that we care about our coastlines.

I wish to acknowledge Scott McEwen, Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, for some of the phrasing in the above letter.

Yob's comments

Editor:

The Charlevoix Courier should be commended for its accuracy and completeness in reporting the race baiting remarks of Chuck Yob, the Republican National Committeeman who participated in a prominent role at the opening of the campaign headquarters of the Charlevoix County Republican Party (Page 11, Oct. 16 edition). Yob's suggestion that the residents of the U.P. would be unfavorable to the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State because he was a "black attorney from Detroit and we all know that the people in the U.P. don't like attorneys and they really don't like Detroiters."

This is the year 2002, our country is under attack, we need unity, not racist divisions of the past. The comments were racist and were somehow meant to be "cute."

The comments by Yob are insulting to the people in the U.P. and indicative of the reason for the U.P.'s total rejection of him in his failed campaign for congress. We would not expect much different from Yob.

The real issue is the failure of the leadership and the lack of sensitivity on the part of the other participants at the event. Oh for certainly, we would expect the Republican candidate for state representative to support Yob with a sanctimonious quote from his version of the bible.

However from the Ads touting leadership, we would expect more of that ingredient from our good friend, Mr. Jason Allen, who is running for state senate. Condoning such behavior is apparently acceptable to him and is included in his version of leadership and responsibility.

To the great detriment of our fine community, this story has been picked up and reported in the metropolitan papers. Have the Republican candidates for county commission present at the event made any effort to separate themselves from those comments? Again, another example of "leadership" from people who are actively working to become elected to offices where they are expected to represent all of the "people."

Kay Chase,
Chairperson
First Congressional District Democratic Committee

(Editor's note: Due to the timing of this letter in relation to the Nov. 5 election, we asked state senate candidate Jason Allen and Charlevoix County Commission candidates Shirley Roloff and Vic Patrick to comment. However, we were only able to contact Roloff by deadline.

She said, "If he said it, I expect him to be man enough to stand up and apologize for it.")

Vote Green

Editor:

Charlevoix Republicans opened a campaign office as reported in the Charlevoix Courier Oct. 16 (page 11). Officiating was Chuck Yob of East Jordan, the Republican National Committeeman from Michigan. Republican candidates Ken Bradstreet, Shirley Roloff, Jason Allen and Vic Patrick were on hand, as were reporters.

Yob had just returned from a campaign swing in the U.P. for his party's candidate for secretary of state. Courier editor Jeremy McBain quoted him: "She (Terri Lynn Land, the Republican candidate) is running against a man (Gary Peters, the Democratic candidate) who is a black attorney from Detroit. As you all know, people in the U.P. don't like attorneys and they really don't like Detroiters."

The Courier story mis-named the Democratic candidate. A correction the following week noted the Democrat is Melvin Butch Hollowell. Other than that the reporter got it right.

Yob represents the Michigan Republicans. He has held his elected post since 1989. When he speaks, the party speaks. Indeed, in Charlevoix that day, none of the Republican candidates objected or tried to distance themselves.

Contacted by the Green Party by phone for comment, Yob denied referring to the Democratic candidate as "black," and claimed he didn't even know his race.

Hospital announces results of '100 Miles in 100 Days'

Results were announced recently from the "100 Miles in 100 Days" walking event that took place throughout Charlevoix County this past summer.

Total miles reported for the event were 36,104 miles, with the city of Charlevoix leading at 16,577, followed by Boyne City at 10,030 and East Jordan with 9,497. Local libraries also challenged one another and the results are: Charlevoix with 1,179 miles, Boyne City with 822.5 and East Jordan with 816.5.

Winner of the drawing for a $100 check donated by Charlevoix Hospital was Kent Ruback of Boyne City. In Boyne City, the winner of city prizes was JoAnn Baker, who won golf for two at Boyne USA. The East Jordan drawing was won by Mary Patrick, who won golf at the Mallard.

Charlevoix residents winning in the local drawing was Vance Wood, who won a 30 day membership at Harbor Health and Fitness; Brenda Weise and Tracie Rosema, who each won two passes for 18 holes of golf for two at the city course and Carol Amick, Cheryl McClanathan and Joe Wollam, each winning at three month pass to the Charlevoix pool.

"The real winners were all those who participated in the 100 mile challenge," Monica Speigl, exercise specialist in the hospital's Cardiac Rehab Department, said. "Walking is good for your heart and your health. I hope to see each participant make walking a healthy like-long habit."

Other winners in the program were area food pantries who received canned goods and cash from the more than 450 participants. To register for the program and be eligible for the drawings, participants were asked to either make $1 donations or donate a canned good for the food pantry in their community.

Each of the three food pantries received over $100 and boxes of canned goods.

Plans are in the works now to offer a second walking program starting in mid-November, titled "Four Months of Frigid Fitness." Rules will be similar although there will be no specific miles recommended, with the participants "best efforts" being the goal.

For information on this program, contact the Charlevoix Area Hospital Development Office at 547-8502.

Sheriff Lasater names Deputy Hague 'employee of the year'

Sheriff George T. Lasater announced recently that Deputy Sheriff David Hague has been selected as "Employee of the Year" for the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

Hague has been a deputy for Charlevoix County for 21 years, presently assigned to the Boyne Falls Sheriff's Substation as a senior deputy.

Sheriff Lasater's observations of Deputy Hague:

- He is a very dedicated deputy who continually works past his eight hour shift and the sheriff seldom receives overtime.
- He is an excellent investigator who is like a bulldog. He gets started on a case and goes forward until he comes to a conclusion.

"I never hear negative comments about David Hague, either from peers or citizens, he is well liked and represents the Sheriff's Office in a positive manner," the sheriff said.

- Those distributing candy keep well lit pathways.

Mabe Sape: June 22, 1943 - Oct. 26, 2002

Mabe Sape (Bingham), 59, of Sterling Heights and Charlevoix, died Oct. 26, 2002, at St. John Macomb Hospital in Macomb.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Mabe Sape.

Charlevoix sheriff to have children's safety program

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater recently announced the sheriff's office is continuing a commitment to child safety.

As part of this commitment, the office is organizing its annual Drug and Safety Program for the children of Charlevoix.

Over 1,100 youngsters, ages 5 through 12 will receive educational child safety materials created and geared to each specific age level. This comprehensive program includes safety guidebooks that contain 24 activity pages designed by educators to stimulate the child's awareness and independent thinking about the everyday safety and drug hazards he or she may encounter.

Various other safety booklets, folders, posters and brochures are made available to encourage the prevention of needless suffering, painful chemical overdose, disfiguring injuries and needless death.

Bob Koch, of the National Child Safety Council, Inc. (NCSC) will be helping local officers in planning and delivering programs to the school children. Koch is the Area Child Safety Coordinator of the council.

The National Child Safety Council is a federal tax-exempt nonprofit organization under the Internal Revenue Service Code of 501-C-3 and all contributions are tax deductible.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is in the process of mailing sponsor request letters explaining the entire program to the area business, industrial and professional leaders, asking for their financial support to help cover the cost of the materials used by the department.

Lasater stressed to prospective sponsors that this is the only program of this type that the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will be conducting this year. Should any other person solicit for support, especially by phone or in person, and does not have a letter from Lasater, please contact the sheriff's office immediately.

Choral group to have concert

Singers with the Little Traverse Choral Society continue their musical journey toward their Nov. 16 and 17 concerts by embracing the "kchijiimaan" or large canoe with which they currently share their rehearsal space in the temporary location of the Crooked Tree Exhibition Gallery located at 445 East Mitchell Street in Petoskey.

On Tuesday nights the singers' melodies, swells and crescendos sweep past the kchijiimaan cradling it in their musical "waters."

Brad Moffatt, new helmsman of the Choral Society has set a course for their fall concert "Mozart, Mendelssohn and More" to include both still and white water. "Georgia" by Hoagy Carmichael, "Row, Row, Row" an American popular song, "Steal Away" a Spiritual and "Salve Regina" music of the Renaissance, are among the soothing selections.

The swifter currents — musical white water — to be covered will include: "Gondoliers" by Gilbert and Sullivan, "Jaglied" by Felix Mendelssohn and "Cantata Domino" music of the Renaissance.

The ensemble's anchor selection will be Mozart's "Regina Coeli."

At 8 p.m., Nov. 15 the group will perform at the Presbyterian Church in Harbor Springs, located at 7940 Cemetery Road. Then at 4 p.m., Nov. 16 the concert will take place at the Cross in the Woods Catholic Shrine in Indian River located at 7078 West M-68.

The kchijiimaan, built by the Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians, is used to commemorate their ancestors spring passage from the Big Rock to Good Hart.

It holds up to 20 people and has proven seaworthy in 6 foot waves. The Little Traverse Choral Society would need three such canoes should they try to get to their concert by water.

Charlevoix school enrollment down

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Enrollment in Charlevoix Public Schools is down this year and long-term hopes of a turn around face restrictions.

According to the school district's enrollment figures, kindergarten through grade 12 is down 17 full-time students as compared to last year.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public School Dr. John Sturock said the incoming kindergarten classes this year are smaller than usual and last year's 125 person outgoing senior class was larger than normal.

He said the district does periodic population studies to project numbers based on birth rate and other factors and thus far it has stayed ahead of the decline the studies have projected.

But in the long-run, Sturock said an enrollment increase in Charlevoix faces two major issues.

"We don't have affordable housing for young couples just starting out in life," he said. "Many couples end up moving to East Jordan or Boyne City where they can get a house for a reasonable dollar."

He added that statistically people are also having fewer children.

While this year's drop off may have some wondering if the loss is a major hit to the district's operating budget, Sturock said the decline was anticipated and budgeted for.

When the district creates its budget before school is officially in session, it bases figures on conservative enrollment. This year it originally budgeted for 1,384 students and final numbers came in at 1,389.

Enrollment fluctuations like the downturn realized this year are buffered by the district's fund equity.

"We draw from that fund equity to maintain programs until enrollment comes up," he said. "We're in pretty good shape sitting on a $2 million plus fund equity. Accountants like to see 10 to 15 percent (of the $12 million operating budget) fund equity in reserve. So we're in good shape, but you can't keep spending fund equity every year."

Sturock said by having top notch programs and high quality facilities the school district can attract students from other school districts through open enrollment. But he added that a population increase would make the greatest difference.

"If it continues to be the trend over time, for a school district, less students mean less dollars to work with which means you have to look at programs and it may mean down the road you won't be able to offer the programs you offer today," Sturock said.

From assistant principal to corrections

Charlevoix resident enjoys helping people

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Locals

Barry "Shoe" Anderson has gone from watching over and guiding the youth of Charlevoix as an educator to watching over and guiding parolees and probationers in the court system as a community corrections officer.

In his 34 years living in Charlevoix, Anderson has been a beloved teacher, assistant principal and athletic director who retired to become a well-respected coordinator of Charlevoix and Emmet County Community Corrections, who also works for a security firm on the side.

"I've been busy in retirement. I am 60 years old and I hope to work 4 to 5 more years," he said.

Anderson is also known as "Shoe." He was given this nickname by some people based on the red, white and green shoes he used to wear in the 1970s.

Anderson came to Charlevoix in 1968 from Mackinaw City, to be a middle school physical education and social studies teacher. After seven years, he moved on to the high school to be a business and social studies teacher.

Eventually, Anderson become the assistant principal and athletic director for the high school in the 1990s. But, times were stressful during this period in the school district and Anderson decided to leave after 32 years.

"It wasn't a real good atmosphere with the administration. I think now it is greatly improved. I just didn't fit in," he said.

Anderson said he was a real supporter of the underdog kids. He liked to help them out and give them as many breaks as he could.

"Looking back, a lot of them are still in the community and doing well," he said. Anderson added he really misses the students.

Even though he retired, that didn't mean it was time for Anderson to spend his days lounging by the water or traveling across country. He still felt he had work to do, so at the age of 55, Anderson applied for a job with the sheriff's department as a transporter and bailiff.

"I liked people there and I felt I was too young to just not do anything," he said.

After spending four years with the sheriff's department, Anderson moved on to the community corrections job, one that gives him a chance to continue helping people.

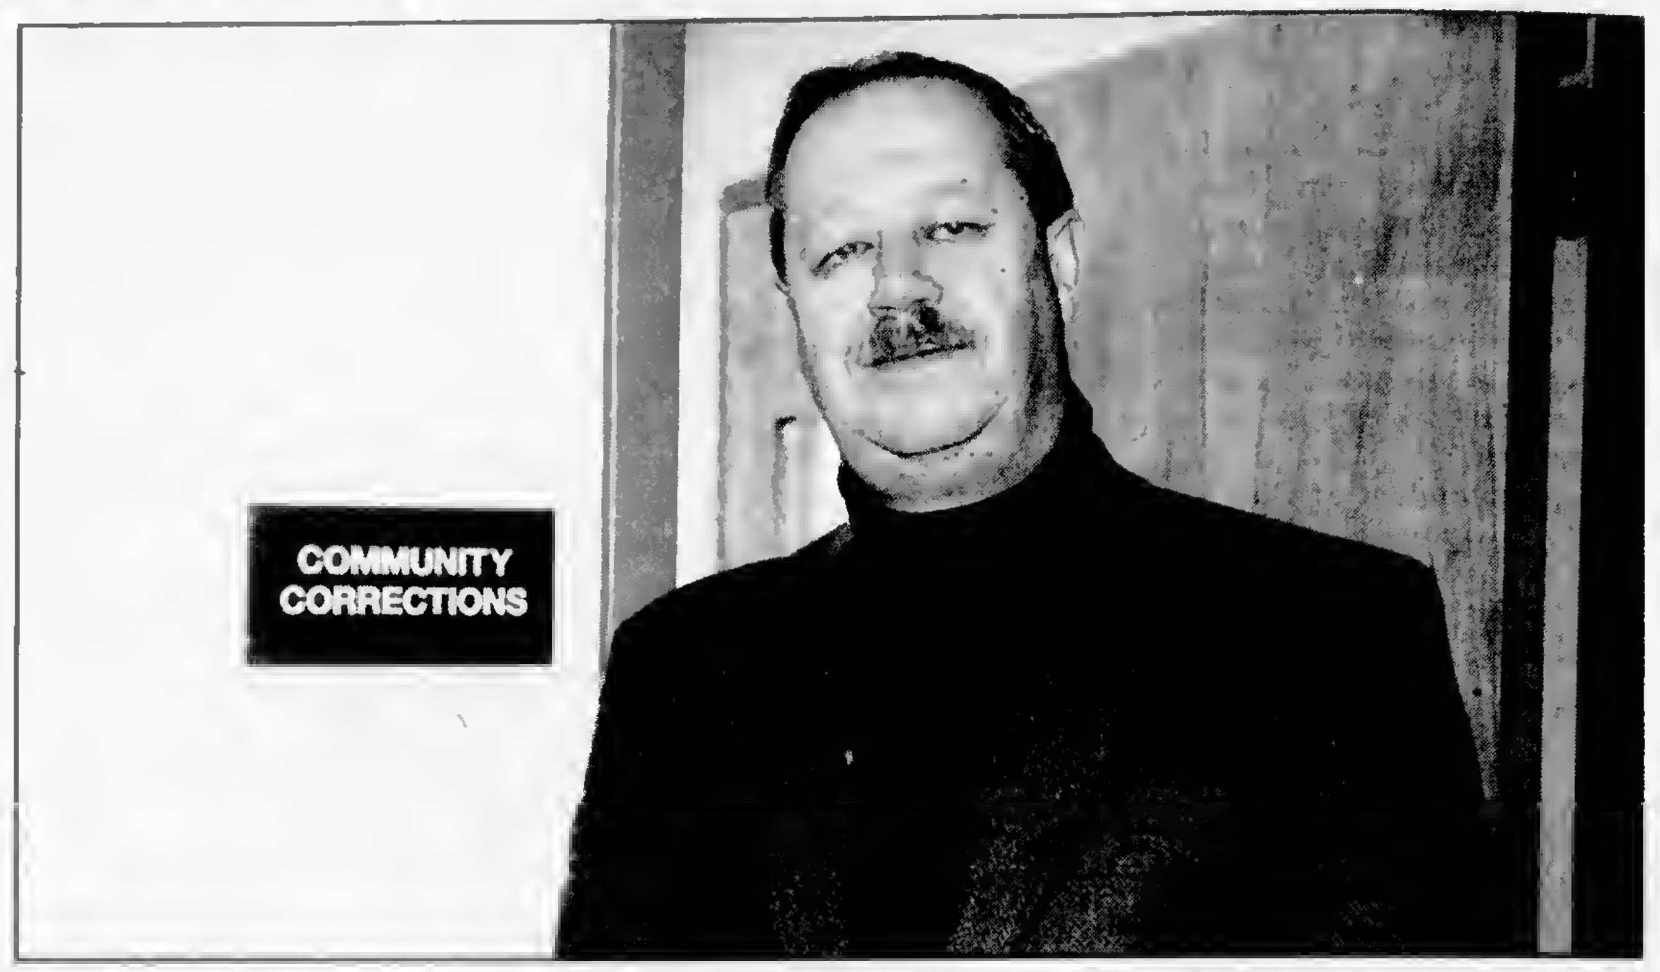
With Community Corrections, Anderson works with the district court and circuit court to come up with punishment in lieu of jail for those committing crimes. This could be setting someone up with community service.

Anderson also works with parolees from the state prison system and sets up treatment programs for drug and alcohol abusers.

"I think the most important thing is to try to help some of these people. A lot of them are really intelligent people who would do well on the MEAP," he said. "I feel sad for some of them. Many of them I have had in school or had their parents in school. Sixty to 70 percent of the time when I knock on a door, I know the people."

He added he really enjoys his work though, especially working with young people and the probation officers.

"I really can't say enough about the system here. They are doing a great job, but it is so busy," he said.



Community Corrections coordinator Barry Anderson has helped a lot of people during his time in Charlevoix. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

"Charlevoix is a great community, there is no question about that. There are some problems with some of the young people and I am not sure if all of these young people are former Charlevoix students ... there are some great kids, it is just that there is a gap that is widening," he said. "I don't know what the answer is. I just think young kids need to be addressed."

Anderson is married to Gwen and they have five children, and seven grandchildren. All of his children are grown and "doing well."

In his spare time, Anderson works on his horse farm and is building a log home.

He also does side work for a security firm headquartered out of the Grand Cayman Islands, LSS Consulting. With this firm, Anderson has worked with businesses and private individuals to address their security needs, such as bodyguard work.

Anderson said he likes doing this and meets a lot of interesting people in the process.

He is also very active with sports and his grandchildren and is the past president of the Michigan High School Coaches Association.

With 34 years under his belt in Charlevoix, Anderson said he has noticed some changes in the community, especially in the schools.

He said he thinks the school programs are stronger and there is some excellent teaching going on. He said he has also noticed that while the students are still great they are "tougher."

As for the community, Anderson said he has really noticed it has grown and the traffic has gotten worse.

"This time of year there wouldn't be a car on the main street (34 years ago)," he said.

As for his future, when he finally retires for good, Anderson said he enjoys traveling and spending time out west. He added he would also like to spend some time out east and visiting Florida.

"I am enjoying life. I feel good," he said.

This is the second in a monthly series on year-round people in the community.

Company offers winter driving tips

The first snow of the season catches some drivers off guard.

They find out the hard way that slick driving conditions can affect a vehicle's handling and braking ability. In fact, said AAA Michigan, the leading cause of traffic crashes on ice-slicked, snow-clogged roads is following the car in front too closely. The driver in front stops, you can't.

AAA Michigan recommends increasing your following distance on slippery roads from the good-road gap of 3 seconds to 6 seconds.

A good way to measure the six-second time gap is to pick out a distinct road marking or sign, and then begin counting when the car ahead passes that spot, "one-thousand-one, one thousand-two...."

Use extra caution on shaded areas and bridges, overpasses and intersections — areas where ice is likely to form first or be slipperiest because the shiny ice surface has either been polished by previous traffic, a thin layer of water covers melting ice below or a temperature difference exists.

Improve visibility by clearing all snow and ice from the entire car —hood, roof, trunk, turn signals, lights, windows, mirrors and even fender wells. Also, driving with headlights on low beam provides better road illumination in snow and fog than using high-beams.

Posted speed limits are set for ideal road and weather conditions.

Avoid sudden starts, stops, turns. Accelerate carefully so wheels don't spin.

Don't brake hard unless your vehicle is equipped with anti-lock brakes.

If your vehicle is not ABS-equipped, in a skid, ease off the accelerator and don't lock up the brakes. Carefully steer in the direction you want the car to go and straighten the wheel as soon as the car begins to go in the desired direction.

Anticipate potential danger such as ice on bridges, snow-covered lane markings, stalled cars and poor visibility. Adjust speed, increase distance between other cars or change lanes to avoid trouble. Watch for other drivers who may be unprepared for changing road conditions.

Motorists should carry a shovel, boots and other winter items in their trunks and make sure vehicles have at least a half tank of gas.

Shall the newly revised zoning ordinance adopted at the July 15, 2002 Special Meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board (Ordinance No. 1.69) be adopted by Charlevoix Township?

Peaine Township
Airport Operation and Maintenance Proposal

This proposal will permit the Township to restore the Township's .75 mills for airport operations and maintenance previously approved by the electors and now expired. The Headlee Amendment previously reduced this millage to .7025 mills. This ballot proposal renews the existing .7025 mills and restores the .0475 mills previously rolled back by the Headlee Amendment.

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes, which may be imposed, on taxable property in the Township of Peaine, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan be increased by up to seventy-five cents ($.75) per thousand dollars ($1,000) (.75 mills) on the taxable value on all taxable property in the township for five (5) years, 2002 through 2006 inclusive, for the purpose of providing funds for airport operations and maintenance? If approved and levied in its entirety, it is estimated that the .75 mills would raise an estimated $33,066 for the township when first levied in 2002.

Proposal A
GRANDVUE OPERATING MILLAGE RENEWAL

This proposal will permit the County to restore .75 mills for Grandvue Operation previously approved by the electors and now expired. The Headlee Amendment reduced this millage to .7035 mills. Shall the previously voted increase in the 15-mill tax limitation imposed under Article IX, Sec. 6 of the Michigan Constitution on general ad valorem taxes within Charlevoix County be renewed at .7500 mills ($0.75 per $1,000 of taxable value) upon all taxable property within the County, for the years 2003 through 2006 inclusive for Grandvue Operation; and shall the County levy such renewal in millage for said purpose, thereby raising in the first year of levy an estimated sum of $1,041,425?

Charlevoix city audit comes in clean

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A city of Charlevoix audit for 2001-2002 revealed the city's general fund balance is at a six year low, but city treasurer Rick Brandi said there is no reason to worry.

"We are closer to the lower ebb of where we would like to be and in the middle of where their (auditing firm The Rehmann Group of Traverse City) recommendation for fund balance is. I'm comfortable with the amount," Brandi said.

He explained that several factors impact the general fund balance including decreased revenues and increased transfers and expenditures.

Impacts on general fund revenue include decreased state revenue sharing and lower interest rates. The city's expenses also increased due to higher health care costs.

Charlevoix's greatest source of revenue is money generated by taxes. During the audit period, April 1, 2001 to March 31, 2002, taxes generated $1,307,478. On the flip side, its greatest expense is recreation and culture at $869,895.

Recreation and culture includes the city golf course, Mount McSauba, the marina, McSauba Day Camp and city beaches. Brandi said that recreation and culture being the biggest hit to the general fund is unusual.

"It's typically not the largest expense in most cities, but most cities don't have that many recreation facilities they oversee," he said.

He explained that most of the city's facilities "break-even." Those that don't cost the city money include the golf course and McSauba Day Camp. While the marina generates revenue, Mount McSauba costs the city money.

User fees generated at these facilities fall under charges for services in the general fund along with ambulance services. Revenues from these charges for the audited period are $497,578.

The audit looked at all 20 of the city's funds. At the city council meeting Oct. 21, Brian Postma, a representative of The Rehmann Group who worked on the city's audit, described the audit as "clean."

"Charlevoix is a little better off right now compared to many of the cities I work with. In general you are in very good shape," he said.

Committee discussing lake-to-lake trail

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While the community celebrates the opening of a new biking trail from Charlevoix to Harbor Springs, one group of residents and officials want to build another from Lake Charlevoix to Lake Michigan.

Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner and director of the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy Jo Anne Beemon and resident Dean Davenport have teamed up to help organize a committee of other individuals that are interested in building a trail along the old "Medusa railroad spur."

The trail would begin at the southwest corner of Ferry Beach and take a path parallel to Ferry Avenue, across M-66, towards and then behind the Belvedere Golf Course and then across Marion Center Road and US-31. Once across US-31, the trail would travel along the Charlevoix Municipal Airport and near the current Cemex (once called Medusa) Cement Company next to Fisherman's Island State Park and eventually ending at Lake Michigan.

The total length of the trail would be 5 miles.

Currently, parts of this trail are used by the Charlevoix Snowmobile Club and the high school cross country teams.

City recreation director Ike Boss, Charlevoix High School track coach Ken Plude, cyclist Neil Suomela, Charlevoix Snowmobile Club president John Ferguson and Charlevoix High School student representative Liz Ulrich have joined Beemon and Davenport in studying this idea.

The group will have a meeting about the plan at 5:15 p.m., Nov. 7 at the Charlevoix Public Library on Clinton Street.

For more information about this group or the trail plan, contact Beemon at 547-4820 or Davenport at 547-6433 or (213) 796-7252.

Candidates discuss housing, business

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

ELECTION 2002

City council candidates recognize that as a seasonal destination, Charlevoix faces two problems, a lack of affordable housing and a slow off-season economy.

While candidates had no magic solutions to either issue, each of the six offered some ideas as to how the problems could be tempered.

All the candidates running explained the same source of the problem, the community's seasonal draw. People flock to Charlevoix in droves during the summer and there is a mass exodus once November hits, leaving homes and stores vacant.

Alvin Russell

This same seasonal draw affects the housing market, as over half of the city's population is currently made up of second home owners. This desire to live in Charlevoix in the summer has driven up the cost of property, pushing out year-round businesses and young families.

Gabe Campbell

"Low-income housing is always a problem. But it seems like somehow everyone gets a house," first ward councilman Bill Haggard, who is currently running unopposed, said of the housing issue.

Alvin Russell, Charlevoix's current mayor who is running for reelection, agreed that plenty of houses and rentals are out there.

Karen Campbell

Houses may be for sale, but mayoral candidate and current second ward councilman Gabe Campbell doesn't think they are selling at a fair price or to the right people. He said the only groups buying houses are retirees and vacationers — reality he feels poses big problems for the city.

Douglas J. Way

"I think there are more houses for sale in the city than I've ever seen. And we're up to about 80 percent non-homestead; that's not good for the city," Gabe said. "It doesn't hurt the city tax wise because it gets tax dollars from second homeowners, but I don't think it's good for a community not to have anyone here in the winter."

Russell agreed with Campbell that in regards to taxes the second home trend doesn't hurt the city and he too would like to see more people in town year-round.

Haggard and Campbell both suggested tax abatements for low income housing developers to attract families to Charlevoix.

But current third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain, who is also running unopposed, pointed out there is limited open land in the city for such a development.

Creating more land would seem impossible, but that's just what Gabe thinks in the long-run should be done, and he suggested the city and Charlevoix Township merge, providing more area for business and housing.

His wife, Karen Campbell, who is running for his open second ward seat, said housing needs to be addressed first and from that will come more business opportunities as the work force is increased.

Gabe agreed and said he likes to see people and businesses need people to survive.

Karen's opposition for the second ward seat, DJ Way agreed that housing will need to come before business. He explained that when businesses look at communities to relocate to they assess where and how their employees will live.

Way believes that the city's pursuit of land for a new industrial park is necessary and will help the business community.

Gabe said one place the city could work to create more jobs is by entering into a cooperative agreement with Marion Township to work toward filling the empty manufacturing site, Hoskins, off M-66.

However, with a slow selling season eight months out of the year, businesses also need reasonable rent rates. Gabe, in part, blames high property costs for the lack of year-round business.

"The only ones who stay in business are the ones who own the building. If you only have three months to make money you can't afford to pay $2,000 or $3,000 a month in rent," he said.

Haggard said if building owners lowered rent in the winter they may be able to keep businesses open year-round.

"But building owners have to pay high taxes," he said.

Way feels the answer to those high taxes is simple and suggested the city offer property tax breaks as incentive for businesses to stay open and employ Charlevoix residents year-round.

Haggard and Russell said the city works to encourage people to come to town by helping fund the downtown coordinator's position.

Russell said he feels the business community is healthier now than in the past as the central business district has seen less turnover

Way agrees that the city should get involved in bringing people to town and said the city's support of festivals and the petunia planting effort help draw people to town. He would like to see more "off-season" activity of this type.

Bill Haggard

Russell said the business community will also be assisted by the upcoming marina renovation.

While others brainstormed about how to get people to town, Chamberlain talked about getting people in town, downtown.

"I think the biggest problem is the fact that people aren't shopping Charlevoix," he said.

He said in the typical household, both people work and on the weekends tend to go to Petoskey and Traverse City to shop when everything they need is here.

Sherman Chamberlain

"I think that hurts the local business community," he said.

Voters have two candidates for 105th district

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

ELECTION 2002

Due to redistricting, Charlevoix County has been placed in the 105 house district, meaning voters will be picking from two new candidates for their representative in the state house.

Ken Bradstreet

Running for this seat is Republican incumbent Ken Bradstreet, of Gaylord, and Democrat Mike Webster, of Charlevoix County's Melrose Township.

Bradstreet is married and has six children and five grandchildren, with a total of seven grandchildren expected by the end of the year. He is a graduate of the Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music and grew up in northern Michigan.

Mike Webster

Before being elected to the state house, he spent 21 years as manager and part-owner of a small business in Gaylord, which he sold in 1998.

In the house, he is the chair of the energy and technology committee and serves on the education, conservation and health committees.

Bradstreet said, if elected, this will be his last term in the legislature. He said he is not a career politician and believes in citizen government.

Right now he is working on passing a state "do not call" list for telemarketers. While this bill has been in committee for some time, he said he is optimistic it will be passed soon. If passed, the bill will allow Michigan residents the ability to be put on a list of telephone numbers that telemarketers are prohibited from calling.

"This is kind of like putting a no trespassing sign on your telephone," he said.

He is also working on a bill that would create a research park and tax incentives for the development of alternative fuel-cell technology in the state.

Bradstreet said this type of energy technology is being hailed as a concept that will have a big impact on the world in 15-20 years. It will create vehicles that run on hydrogen and emit water vapor, decreasing our need for fossil fuels.

The research park will probably be located near Wayne State University in southern Michigan.

As for northern Michigan's economy, Bradstreet said a recently passed broadband bill could be of great help. This bill would allow smaller markets in the state the ability to get high-speed Internet access.

This access could enable smaller companies the chance to work with some larger companies and larger projects. It would also allow information technology companies the ability to work from practically any area of the state.

Bradstreet addressed the issue of school funding in Michigan, saying that something needs to be done for the fixed costs and transportation costs each school incurs. Transportation is especially costly in northern Michigan due to large, spread-out, school districts.

He suggested increasing the foundation grant to schools to help with this.

He added schools are also facing declining enrollment, which means less money. One solution is to spread out the cost difference from a shrinking enrollment over a few years, giving the school time to adjust its budget.

Another issue Bradstreet addressed was health care in Michigan. He said the problem is the person doing the buying, health care users, is not the one writing the checks, insurance companies. This means people sometimes do not make financially good health care decisions and help drive up the costs.

Bradstreet would like to create a health care savings account where people could take pretax money and save it up for health care costs, allowing them to take a higher deductible in insurance premiums, thus helping to lower the cost of health care.

When asked why voters should choose him for another term, Bradstreet said, "I think I represent the concerns and the values of northern Michigan, having grown up here in northern Michigan, it is a district that tends to be conservative in their thinking and I tend to be conservative in my thinking so I am a good fit for the district."

Webster is also married and had two daughters. He moved to the area in 1994 to start a cottage maintenance business near Walloon Lake. After selling the business, he moved his metal fabricating business from Detroit to Walloon Lake.

He supplements that business by working with special needs children in the area.

Webster is currently the supervisor for Melrose Township in Charlevoix County and considers himself a moderate democrat.

It was through a combination of his job as supervisor and having children in school that Webster became interested in running for the state house.

First, he was trying to find out why the county roads in his township were not being repaired and why there was so little funding for it. Second, he was getting tired of his children, and their friends, being asked to sell various merchandise or candy to help fund their schools.

The answer to both of these problems was found through the way the state budgets its money, showing Webster that he needed to go to Lansing to make a difference.

If elected, Webster said he believes the big issues are school and road maintenance funding and health care.

"This (health care) is a ticking time bomb," he said. In Michigan, a majority of those with health care, got it through their place of business. But, providing health care is becoming too hard for many small businesses.

"My feeling is we can't look to businesses to continue to carry this burden," Webster said. "Government needs to get more involved with health care coverage. That is not to say we need a national health care plan. It needs to get involved at a regional level."

Webster is also a big advocate of the environment and is against slant drilling and a water bottling plant in Mecosta County. In Mecosta County, a water bottling company is pumping water from an aquifer to be bottled and sold.

However, Bradstreet said he sees nothing wrong with either slant drilling and the bottling issue.

He said the slant drilling is very safe and the bottling of water is only an issue because it is pure water. He pointed out that Great Lakes water is used to make beer and soda, yet no one complains about that.

"Water is moved around in the form of beverages all the time. We don't think anything of it until it is pure water," he said.

But, Webster said this bottling plant is sucking out a precious natural resource and by allowing this company to sell Great Lakes water it creates a precedent.

"Preserving and conserving water is crucial to our future. If (this company) can do it, why can't any other company come in and suck water out?" he said.

However, Webster did share Bradstreet's desire for alternative energy and said more should be done to promote it, such as tax abatements or enterprise zones.

While helping the environment, he said if we start studying alternative energy sources, we could create a new type of industry to help diversify our economy. To further help the economy, Webster said we need to attract higher technology and industry to northern Michigan.

Webster also said an issue he would push for is giving more control to the states to address some of these concerns facing the country. He said America is a changing country and we need to change the roll of government in this country.

Webster said we should send less money to the federal government and use more of it to fund state programs that could help more people.

When asked why voters should choose him, Webster said "I have the education, the experience and the tools to work on the social issues that plague us."

Hospital donated over $7,000 to group

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix Area Hospital is one of many hospitals being criticized by a northern Michigan senator for donating to a group pushing for the passage of a proposal this Nov. 5.

Recently Michigan Senator Walter North wrote a letter to the editor of a newspaper saying he did not like that many northern Michigan hospitals had contributed some of their funds to a political organization called Citizens for a Healthy Michigan. Citizens for a Healthy Michigan are pushing for the passage of Proposal 4 this Nov. 5.

Proposal 4 would give the "Tobacco Settlement Revenue" received by the state from cigarette manufacturers to health care organizations and to fund programs that will reduce tobacco use. Currently, the state uses the funds in its budget and for the Merit Scholarship program.

Opponents say this proposal would take needed money from the state budget and give it to private organizations with little oversight on how it is spent.

In its drive to get this proposal passed, Citizens for a Healthy Michigan has raised around $3 million. Charlevoix Area Hospital contributed $7,386 to this.

Charlevoix Area Hospital President Bill Jackson said the decision to give money to the group was based on two things: First, he said the hospital can do this because it is not supporting a political party or candidate, just a ballot proposal. Second, if this proposal passes, about $117,000 in additional state funding will be given to the hospital.

"We looked at this as what was the best for the overall health care of the community," he said.

He added it is not an issue the hospital is taking lightly and this is the first time it has taken this strong of a stance on anything.

Jackson said the state did not use the tobacco settlement money as it was intended and this proposal will change that.

Elizabeth Gertz, executive director of the North Central Council of Hospitals, said not every hospital in northern Michigan gave to this organization, but those that did, did "because it is simply the right thing to do."

"Tobacco money should be used for health care," she said.

North is the state senate representative for Charlevoix.

Up in the air about Mortgages?

It's no wonder. Most banks sell their mortgage servicing before the ink is even dry.

But Northwestern mortgage servicing stays right here and we'll take care of you for the entire life of the loan.

Why should you have to dial an out-of-state 800 number when you can get your questions answered face-to-face at any Northwestern office? You can make your payments there too, if you like.

And your money stays local. That's good for northern Michigan.

Our mortgage people know their products, top to bottom. Even if you don't know what questions to ask, they do. And by the time all is said and done, you'll find no better mortgage value than right here.

Our mortgages have deep, local roots. That's what community banking is all about.

Street site for the remaining 10.

While this tentative agreement was reached, Wiesner said it wasn't the utilization of the property he had originally considered.

The first conceptual drawing shows 64 parking spaces and the library's architect who drafted the design, Engberg Andersen Design Partnership, Inc. of Milwaukee, Wis. suggests the library itself offer 60 spaces.

So the lots shown in the layout published along with this article would not accommodate city and library use. Wiesner said at the meetings the city requested another drawing he done with the island area between the two lots converted to parking.

Meyerson said the total parking would then be between 80 and 90 spaces.

Prior to the meeting, Meyerson said she believed major issues to be discussed would likely include: deciding who will maintain any park area, ownership of lots, shared parking and the possibility of seasonal designated city parking.

At past meetings the library board and building committee have expressed their desire for the city to maintain any park grounds.

Wiesner said no definite direction was decided at the meeting, but ideally the city would maintain its four lots and the library would maintain its 10.

The city's maintenance of the school building for the remainder of this year was also discussed. Wiesner said no definite direction was given and the request will likely be made of city council.

The next step is for both the city and library to go to the school board with a presentation of their thoughts.

Meyerson said at the meeting they hope the school will have a proposal.

"I have a feeling it will be similar to the bid they have now from the developer," she said.

Wiesner said that private bids came in around $40,000 a lot, over $300,000 lower than the site's appraised value.

A meeting has been set between the school board and representatives of the library and city for Nov. 4

Bellairs takes lead trumpet in orchestra

Charlevoix student Rachel Bellairs, a senior at Northwest Academy, will lead the four person trumpet section of the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony Orchestra when it opens its concert season Sunday, Nov. 3 at Grand Rapids Christian High School.

In addition to her busy schedule of performances with the Northwest Academy Jazz Band, Bellairs has had the position of principal trumpet for the Traverse Youth Symphony Orchestra for the past two years. When her private instructor, Irving Spang of Lake Ann, suggested that she seek a more competitive environment, Bellairs auditioned for the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony last May.

Upon receiving notice of her acceptance, Bellairs and her father, Bob, began making weekly trips to Grand Rapids in September. After chair auditions, the second week of practice, Bellairs emerged as the principal trumpet for the 120 piece orchestra.

"Orchestral music presents a whole new level of challenge," Bellairs said. "The music is difficult, yet it is fun to play and beautiful to hear. It's unfortunate that area students who play wind instruments don't have opportunities to play classical orchestral literature."

At the Nov. 3 concert, the orchestra, led by John Varineau, will play three selections: "Capriccio Italien," by Tschaikovsky; the "Overture to The Corsair," by Hector Berlioz; and "Suites from Carmen," by Georges Bizet.

The concert will begin at 3 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Charlevoix, East Jordan ski teams to merge

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Members of the Charlevoix and East Jordan ski teams generally compete on the slopes, hut this year they'll join forces as teammates.

The Charlevoix and East Jordan school boards and the Michigan High School Athletic Association have agreed to a two year plan that will partner the Charlevoix and East Jordan ski teams.

The cooperative venture will allow each school to offer boys' and girls' ski teams.

"It gives kids a chance to ski," Charlevoix High School Athletic Director Jim Kanine said of the agreement.

Last year there were two Charlevoix girls who expressed interest in being on the team and several hoys. There weren't enough girls for a separate team, so they competed with the boys.

East Jordan experienced the same problem only reversed, with plenty of girls and few hoys.

Kanine talked with East Jordan High School Athletic Director Steve Hines and the two decided that a cooperative effort would allow both schools the opportunity to offer two teams.

On Oct. 14 the Charlevoix School Board approved the cooperative program with East Jordan High School for the next two years. However, if this year is unsuccessful and the two schools agree to opt out, the program will be terminated.

Charlevoix's head coach Sue Miller and assistant coach George Pete will stay on to coach and East Jordan has agreed to fund a third coach. No one has been hired for this third position.

Kanine anticipates both the girls' and hoys' teams practicing together.

The first day of ski practice is Nov. 18 and as of Oct. 24, specific details of the agreement, like husing and extracurricular policy guidelines, had not heen ironed out. But Kanine said his relationship with Hines is strong and the transition will be smooth.

"It's something we don't offer, so I don't see why we can't work to make it work," he said at the October school board meeting.

This is the first cooperative arrangement Charlevoix Public Schools has participated in during the 16 years Kanine has worked in the district.

Sheriff warning about deer danger on roads

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office would like to give a warning and notice to motorists in Charlevoix County to be alert when driving in the morning, evening and especially at night to deer crossing the highways.

The sheriff's office is averaging four car/deer accidents a day for motorists in Charlevoix County. All of these accidents are resulting in property damage to the vehicles involved and some accidents have resulted in personal injury to the driver or their passengers.

The sheriff's office suggests you slow down your speed and drive defensively and alert for deer crossing the roadways.

Lake Keepers group seeking volunteers

The Lake Keepers are looking for help from area residents in protecting Lake Charlevoix.

The Lake Keepers, a committee of the Lake Charlevoix Association, does various on-the-water tasks in the service of keeping Lake Charlevoix's water clean.

Instead of one paid keeper, which is the model on some other hodies of water this organization has seven volunteers, each using his own boat. They are: John Danly, Bill Gallagher, Steve Hansen, Paul Nowak, Ralph Parker, Gail Piltz, and Leon Vercruysse.

Their tasks mostly have to do with the shoreline, so the boats move along in shallow water, in full view of the home owners.

Here are some examples of ongoing studies, the data for which is gathered by the Lake Keepers:

- Locating eroding banks along the shore. Through the multi-agency Lake Charlevoix Watershed Project, the group is able to offer the owners of the most severe examples matching grant money for repair.
- Surveying the shoreline to determine what proportion of the 1,640 properties have ecologically good — a full or partial green belt or wetland — or not good — lawn to the lake or scalped beach — features.
- Counting, annually, the various types of boats using the lake.
- Inventory of the permanent and temporary docks around the lake.

In addition, the Keeper committee has established a data base in which this information can be entered, trends in the data can be seen and the association can correspond with the various property owners in educational endeavors. An example would be the letters to shoreline owners alerting them to the presence of the filamentous green growth, named Cladophora, seen on their shore. The presence of Cladophora may indicate excess nutrients entering the Lake.

Two Keepers, John and Leon, record measurements of the lake's water clarity and plant growth in the mid-main body and south arm during the summer months.

In the next few years, the Keeper committee would like to take over the spring time scouting for Cladophora, currently done by staff from Tip of the Mitt. Another future step is more publicity for the Keeper ecology-question answering service at 582-0117.

If any of this activity appeals to you, and you would like to be a part of the effort, please call Steve at home 547-0436 or the Keeper number 582-0117.

Having a shallow draft boat is good, but not essential, since many of the tasks require a crew of two. Kayakers are needed. The Cladophora surveys have been done, in close, from kayaks.

People knowledgeable about data entry are welcome, as are people who enjoy studying the tax assessment maps to learn about new property splits and consolidations. Copies of these maps are how the Keepers orient themselves along the shoreline and how they learn addresses to use in letter writing.

Tribe, Crooked Tree to host Ghost Dinner

The Crooked Tree Arts Center in collaboration with Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians and Grand Traverse Bay Bands will have the Annual Ghost Supper as a highlight of the Anishnaabe Festival 2002.

Festival events, which are all open to the public, include a visual arts exhibition, family plaque workshop and ghost supper. The festival ends with the Ghost Supper, on Friday, Nov. 1, beginning at 5 p.m.

This year's visual arts exhibition is titled, "Celebrating Contemporary Tribal Artists of the Little Traverse Bay Band." The aim of this show is to highlight the artistry and imaginative expressions representative of the culture that was in existence when the Europeans arrived.

Some of the artists included in this year's show are: Manii Baldon, Sara Evans, Yvonne M. Walker Keshick, Andrea Pierce and Levi Walker. Paintings, beadwork, arrowheads, corn husk dolls, quillwork will be displayed at the exhibition.

A jiimaan (canoe) is on display as part of the art exhibition.

Featured in the "Back of the Gallery" is Zoey Wood-Saloman, an Odawa painter of stories, legends and everyday life and Garry Enosse's birchbark, willow and sinew (pyrography) woodburning artwork.

The Ghost Supper will feature a buffet of turkey, ham, whitefish, corn soup, frybread and family favorites.

A Ghost Supper is a gathering of friends and family to honor their ancestors. Traditionally, a family hosts a Ghost Supper, feeding anyone who visits, until the food is gone.

The first plate of food is offered symbolically to ancestors and then is burned in a ceremonial fire. Drumming, a fire, and storytelling are all part of the evening's events.

The story-telling will be given next to the arts center in the Petoskey Library. Musical entertainment will be provided by flute players and guitarists.

The supper will take place in the Crooked Tree Arts Center's temporary art exhibition hall at 445 E. Mitchell Street. There is no charge for the supper and everyone is welcome to attend.

Attendees may bring a family favorite dish to share, but it is not required.

Please call the Crooked Tree Arts Center at (231) 347-4337 for more information or visit www.crookedtree.org.

This is an annual autumn festival hosted by the Crooked Tree Arts Center. The center's temporary location is downtown Petoskey at 445 E. Mitchell Street. The Crooked Tree Arts Center is supported in part by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Trail to eventually go to Harbor Springs

TRAIL

"There's a lot of people chomping at the bit for this thing," said Larry Sullivan, Charlevoix County Planner who helped coordinate the extension with the Top of Michigan Trails Council, the Charlevoix Trails Committee and others.

Sullivan saw just how excited people were to use the trail minutes after the dedication when he and major trail work organizer Jerry Corley, vice president of the Top of Michigan Trails Council and Chairman of the Charlevoix Trails Committee, and Mike Eberline with the TEA-21 federal granting agency hopped on bikes and rode over 10 miles.

Along the way the group found they weren't alone, other bikers and joggers were working out in spite of cold temperatures and sharp winds traveling off Lake Michigan.

Sullivan said he expects use of the trail to exceed initial expectations and credits in part the trails unique setting.

"There are trails around like this, but they don't have the views this one has," he said.

The Lake Michigan views and scenic wooded areas of the trail are what Sullivan said make this trail unique and are also what made the project's cost climb to $4 million.

Over the past two years, Sullivan and others along with the Michigan Department of Transportation have struggled to get funding for the long stretch.

In fact, it took three grant requests to get the full amount to extend this portion of the trail. In 1999 a request was approved for $1.4 million, a portion of the project, in 2000 another was shot down and in 2002, the third request was awarded $1.3 million.

He said the $4 million price tag in comparison with the distance the trail runs, made the granting agency, federal government officials in charge of TEA-21 Transportation Enhancement Act funds, uneasy.

But the trail's close proximity to Lake Michigan raised erosion concerns, as did some steep slopes, archeological sites and wetland zones. Each required custom design and in some cases expensive boardwalk areas.

According to Corley the trail would not have been possible without the hard work and support of the groups involved. They include: the Top of Michigan Trails Council, Charlevoix County officials including Sullivan and the county commission, Petoskey's Northwest Design Group, the Hayes Township Board, Williamson Works of Grand Rapids and Trail Committees from Charlevoix, Petoskey and Boyne City.

Sullivan said there are plans in the works for Emmet County to purchase land, called the Resort Bluffs, to continue the extension and connect the trail to Petoskey.

This purchase received significant financial backing last week when the Department of Natural Resources granted it a $899,000 Natural Resources Trust Fund grant. This money joins a $100,000 donation from Emmet County's Resort Township and $400,000 from Victories Casino. Sullivan estimated the land's value at around $2.3 million.

Even though bikers were on the trail earlier that morning, it was officially dedicated at 10 a.m. when this group cut the ribbon. They are (from left) Mike Eberling, Jay Gailitits, Jerry Corley, Larry Sullivan and Gary Niemi. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

To complete the connection from Charlevoix to Harbor Springs, there are also two other small areas in Emmet County where the trail needs to connect — a short distance near Arrowhead Shores and a stretch near the condominiums after the bluff area.

Second grade students from Charlevoix Elementary gathered lots of nonperishable foods for the Charlevoix Food Pantry, located at the First Congregational Church on State Street. The food drive started almost two weeks ago and was in recognition of Make a Difference Day. On Oct. 28 they dropped the food off at the church and learned about the program's importance. Charlevoix couple to open second ACE

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

To meet the hardware needs of a growing community, Charlevoix's Ace Hardware is opening a second location that will double its size.

Currently, Ace Hardware has one store in Charlevoix's downtown area on Bridge Street. But, owner Mark Greyerbiehl is planning on opening a second Ace Hardware on M-66 near the United States Post Office sometime in January of 2003.

Greyerbiehl said he needed a second location due to customers wanting "in-stock general hardware" items, such as non specialized industrial tools and parts.

"When Quality Farm and Fleet threw in the towel, we realized there would be a huge hole for basic hardware in Charlevoix that we could not fill with our current store," Greyerbiehl said.

In addition to the hardware, Greyerbiehl will also rent out various machines and tools, such as cement mixers and carpet cleaners. He will also have a section for some fun rentals, such as, popcorn stands, "big blow up bouncies" and a "reverse dunk tank."

With a reverse dunk tank, a person sits under a "toilet" containing water and people throw balls or shoot baskets at a target. When a ball hits the target, the bottom of the toilet opens up and drops water on the person under it.

"It's really cool. I am really excited about it," Greyerbiehl said. "I am going to make challenges for public people to participate with local charities."

The new Ace Hardware location will also have, a full time engraving center, pool and spa supplies, a full lawn and garden department, flooring, gutters and a 52 foot lightbulb aisle.

And, Greyerbiehl boasted it will have the "largest grill display in northern Michigan."

Greyerbiehl added the old location will have more light hardware items, such as tools, fluorescent lights and lights bulbs. He will also be increasing the sporting good section, bike rental, marine supply and start selling small kayaks.

With the two stores, Ace Hardware will also be increasing employment in Charlevoix from nine to somewhere around 15-18.

The new location will tentatively be open seven days a week, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday; 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., on Saturday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Girls' basketball beats Elk Rapids

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix girls' basketball squad blew open a close game with a big third quarter and defeated Elk Rapids, 65-51.

The win kept the Rayders within one game of conference leader Harbor Springs.

Charlevoix led only 30-28 at the half but outscored the Elks, 21-9 in the third stanza to take control.

Rachel Wyniawskyj led the Rayder scoring with 17 points. She also added three assists and three steals.

Jaime Pettis had a great all-around game with 13 points, eight rebounds, six steals and three assists. Seven of her 13 points came in the fourth quarter as the Rayders held off the pesky Elks.

Grace Farrell scored 11 points, pulled down eight rebounds and blocked three shots.

Shayna Drost and Kari Way each had eight points. Way also had five rebounds. Alyssia McDonough scored only two points but grabbed five rebounds and dished out seven assists.

The Rayders (8-6 overall, 6-1 conference) played at Harbor Springs, Oct. 29 in a game that will likely decide the conference championship, but results were unavailable at presstime.

They return to action at home against East Jordan on Thursday.

Football team ends season with loss to Suttons Bay

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders close out the 2002 football campaign with a 41-6 loss to playoff bound Suttons Bay.

"We were pretty much outmanned speed-wise, but the kids didn't give up and played hard the whole game," coach Todd Klinger said. "The opposing coaches commented to me on that. It was something to see the season basically over and the team still not giving up."

A Rayder runs for the goal-line in their last outing of the season. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Jeff Urban scored the only Rayder touchdown on a 53 yard scamper and paced the offense with 106 yards on 15 rushes. Jake Teuscher was 5 for 12 passing for 43 yards.

On the defensive side of the ball, Klinger praised the play of Hal Foster who led the defense with 12 tackles.

"He played a very physical football game," Klinger said.

Charlevoix closed out the season with a 2-7 record.

Before the first regular season game, the Rayders' chances suffered a blow as senior quarterback Nate Teuscher was lost for the year due to injury.

Still, the team kept a positive attitude according to their coach.

"The thing about this team that will always stand out in my mind is how much they enjoyed playing football and coming to practice each day," Klinger said. "Every Monday morning they came in ready to work, under all of the circumstances, adversity and injuries they had to endure."

"These kids showed a lot of character," Klinger added. "These guys are not going to give up down the line. They will have positive attitudes toward things the rest of their lives."

Klinger had special words for his outgoing senior class.

"They worked extremely hard for two years and set good examples in their work ethic, whether it was in the weight room, on the practice field, or anywhere else," he said.

Middle school football perfect

The Charlevoix Middle School Rayders ended its season on a high note Oct. 22 with a 44-0 win over the Harbor Springs Rams.

The win caps a perfect season with the Rayders going 5-0 in regular season play, while also shutting out their opponents in all games.

The Rayders opened the season with a 36-0 win over the same Harbor Springs team, then posted consecutive shutouts over Elk Rapids (38-0), Petoskey (18-0), Boyne City (14-0), and, as previously mentioned, the Rams (44-0).

The Rayders' stellar defensive play was lead by leading tackler, safety Chad Ellis, defensive tackle Ray Jones, defensive end Brad Cyr and linebacker Matt Kautz.

Offensively, the Rayders moved the ball, mostly at will behind leading ground gainer running back Matt Kanine, full back Brad Cyr and runningback Dan Swenor. Quarter back Chad Ellis was effective with runs around the end and passing the ball to ends Ty Haske, Mitch Crandell and Kyle Jones.

"The boys have done everything we asked of them and more," said coach Dan Yenglin. "Every boy of this Rayder team is a MVP as far as the coaches are concerned and we look forward to seeing them have a great high school football career. Great job! "

The Charlevoix High School soccer team ended its season last week with a 3-0 loss to Cheboygan in the district tournament.

According to Coach Josh Block, Cheboygan only scored one "real" goal on Charlevoix. The other two were penalty kicks.

While the Rayders lost, Block was very happy with the game and said Cheboygan is an extremely tough team. Cheboygan was ranked second in the state when they faced Charlevoix, and had come off of wins against Traverse City Central and Petoskey.

Cheboygan went on to become district champions.

"They were a great team and we played them tremendously. We had an outstanding game. I was very proud of that game," Block said.

In the goal for Charlevoix was Jake Pace. Pace finished the season with eight shut-outs.

We leave it to readers to decide whether to believe Yob, or to determine Hollowell's race. Hollowell's picture is at www.friendsofhollowell.com.

If the Republicans are asking voters to vote on the basis of race no further comment is needed.

But even if not, it concerns us that the party would ask voters to decide an election on the basis of a candidate's home, occupation and cultural preferences. Yob went on to explain, as he repeated in the phone call, that what he meant was U.P. people "support the Green Bay Packers. They are not Lions fans." Further, they associate more with Wisconsin than Detroit.

By contrast the Green Party campaigns on issues. Ray Ziamo, our candidate for secretary of state, says:

- Give redistricting responsibility to an independent committee, as is done in 14 other states.
- Adopt alternative voting systems that guarantee majority winners, and offer representation to many more citizens, such as "instant runoff voting."
- Ensure accurate vote counting, expand absentee ballot rules and eliminate partisan funding of judicial races. And make Election Day a holiday.

An election campaign is a chance to stimulate public discussion. Let's hear what Republicans think about Green proposals. Or let them put forward their own. That way, issues, not trivialities, will decide the election.

Against ordinance

Editor:

Please join us in voting against adopting the new zoning ordinance. We already voted it down by a large margin last year and the determined ones who drew it up before think we're stupid and have "tweaked" it and are trying to shove it down our throats again. But we succeeded in getting a referendum vote, which they wanted to deny us. Evidently they think they know just what is best for us, with the way they shove this through every time, determined to get it by without our consent.

We are losing more and more of our freedoms and are becoming more of a police state every day. Let's at least do something for our children and grandchildren, who will have to live with these laws. If we don't stop this foolishness, we have no one to blame but ourselves.

We have spent our entire lifetime to try and make this a beautiful, happy, fun place to live. Let's not let them take it away from us. Vote No!

Against ordinance

Editor:

I have a Charlevoix Township resident for 54 years, including 35 years as a business and property owner. I am deeply concerned about many provisions in Charlevoix Township's newly proposed zoning ordinance on which we are once again being asked to vote. Last year, we the voters turned down the first version by a margin of nearly two to one. The newly "tweaked" version is little improved and maintains essentially the same restrictions we've already turned down.

One of the reasons the planners gave me for revising the old ordinance was to help generate fewer complaints for them. Will it work? I think not. When one's liberty is restricted, another's tendency to complain simply expands. This tough and highly restrictive zoning, when taken to their ends, will result in no one having any liberties and everyone complaining.

Voltaire wisely said, "No problem can withstand the assault of sustained thinking." To achieve an optimal and sustainable solution to their problem, I believe the planners and the board need to give revisions to our zoning ordinance more thought. Therefore, on Nov. 5, I am voting "No" on the newly proposed zoning ordinance.

Al Wojan
Charlevoix Township

Letter response

Editor:

Normally, I do not write to the letters-to-the-editor column, but, I feel that I must correct any misunderstanding that may result from Mr. Charles Scherping's article (page 4, Oct. 23 edition). First of all, yes they really did read the ordinance. As a matter of fact, it has been in the works for over two years. The ordinance was coordinated with a professional in the area of zoning and planning from Gosling and Zubeck by the name of Fred Hoisington. Fred was at that time a home owner in the township.

As far as his problem with storing "building materials," if a person has a zoning permit and/or building permit, there would be no problem. When the problem arises is when a person stores materials or other supplies with no intention to build in the near future. No provision for fences over 6 feet. Scherping was very vocal in his opposition to changing the fence regulations. So the board did not change the ordinance. It is as it has always been. If you would like to build a privacy fence over 6 feet you can go to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Everyone has a right to access the roadway. Along major highways like M-66 and US-31 we are looking into the possibility of using interior connections so you do not have to enter the main road to go from one business to another. This is to avoid going onto the highway as you have to do to go from Wolohans to K-Mart or the Post Office.

As in any residential area, pools and/or play yards are normally private and are for the use of residents and guests. If a pool or playground is to be built for public use it should be in a designated park area, a Planned Unit District or Commercial District.

Scherping states that the township planners would only selectively enforce the ordinance. The township planners do not enforce the ordinance. That is the job of the township supervisor and the zoning administrator. Normally a citation is not issued unless the person refuses to comply with the ordinance after a reasonable time. After the citation is issued, the person has an additional 60 days to go to the board of appeals or township board for relief or correct the problem. Only after that is the citation enforced and the fine is up to $500.

There is no architectural control in any section of the ordinance. The township cannot tell you what color, design, and others that you can or cannot build.

All I can say is the ordinance that was written by the planning commission and passed by the township board is very professionally done and all the concerns of all the residents were considered. It was reviewed by the legal authorities and found sound.

Copies of the proposed ordinance are available at the Township Hall, the library or the county planners.

Robert J. (Bob) Rajewski
Charlevoix Township Zoning Administrator

For ordinance

Editor:

The Charlevoix Township Board and Planning Commission has presented to us, the voters of Charlevoix Township, an opportunity to update the Township Zoning Ordinance in the Nov. 5 election. The current ordinance was last updated in 1987, almost 15 years ago.

The updated ordinance was professionally written following a series of meetings with interested citizens and addresses zoning issues that didn't exist in our township 15 years ago. The updated ordinance protects our property rights and values today and out into the future.

Comparing the updated zoning ordinance to the old one, here are a just a few of the improvements that have been made to position the township for the future:

- Protection for shoreline and critical dune areas.
- Wind energy and telecommunication tower construction has been addressed.
- Controls for sexually oriented businesses.
- Density guidelines for certain developments.
- Guidelines for interior road connections between businesses (reducing the need to enter the highways).
- Simplified wording and updated legal descriptions.

There are some people that will tell you that living with an outdated zoning ordinance that is 15 years old is good enough. In 1987, cell phones were just a dream. Just think about how many cell phone towers there were back then and how many there are today.

It's time to give everyone a fair and balanced zoning ordinance and update our protection as property owners in Charlevoix Township. I'm urging you to vote "Yes" on the zoning ordinance update on Nov. 5.

For Proposal 4

Editor:

Are you tired of paying the healthcare and nursing care costs of Michigan's uninsured smokers? Yes, you do currently pay these expenses indirectly through your state taxes. Do you think the cigarette companies should pay these expenses? Our state will be receiving hundreds of millions of dollars over the next 20 years, moneys stipulated by the tobacco lawsuit settlement to pay for these expenses, as well as scholarships for health-care workers and anti-smoking campaigns. Yet our state government plans to continue diverting this money to be used for everything but smoking related ex-

Vote Schuette

Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to voice my support for Bill Schuette, candidate for judge on the Michigan Court of Appeals, Fourth District. I encourage voters to support him in this nonpartisan ballot election.

For nearly two decades as a U.S. Congressman and a Michigan Senator, Schuette has been writing laws which govern our nation and state. In addition, as director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, he was responsible for the execution and implementation of laws and regulations of an important department of the Executive Branch of state government.

In addition to his public service, Schuette has extensive training as an attorney. Whether in private practice, or working for a Federal District Court Judge in Michigan or a Superior Court Judge in California, Schuette has experience working on a wide range of legal matters. Through his experience both in the public and private sectors, Schuette is the most qualified candidate to be our judge.

Further, as a resident of Charlevoix County, I have been impressed with Schuette's ability to administer and apply the laws in a thoughtful and fair fashion. Throughout his years of public service, Schuette has conducted himself with a high level of integrity. As a result, he has built bipartisan bridges to support him for this nonpartisan job. Not only has he received the endorsement of Democrats and Republicans, he is supported by law enforcement organizations that keep the peace, organizations such as the Police Officers Association of Michigan, The Fraternal Order of Police, The Deputy Sheriff's Association and the Michigan Association of Police Organizations.

For all of these reasons, I strongly support Schuette as a candidate for the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Thank you

Editor:

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the Charlevoix Rotary Club hosted the first of many concerts at the Charlevoix High School Center for the Performing Arts. We would like to extend our appreciation to those people who helped to make it all possible.

First, many thanks to all the businesses and individuals who donated to the rotary, "Reach for the Stars" project. At last count $100,000 ($5,000 in the days following the concert) has been raised to purchase enhancements to the sound and lighting systems in the center. We are currently designing the bronze plaque, which will permanently recognize all of you.

Thanks to the Charlevoix High School performing arts and band directors Connie Ford and Jayne Bennett, for their interest, enthusiasm and patience in working with our club during the planning and performance.

To the students who participated in the jazz band and performing arts portions of the concert, thank you. Those early morning and weekend practices didn't go unnoticed.

Last, but certainly not least, we wish to express the gratitude of our club and our community to Betty Hoffmann and her late husband Walter for donating funds to the Charlevoix Enrichment Foundation. These funds were used to purchase the hydraulic orchestra pit.

In total, our community raised over a quarter of a million dollars. Nice job!

Support tourism

Editor:

Unbelievable! Whoopee! A Governor's Fishing Day. A Governor's Hunting Day.

That will restore Tourism in Michigan. But no new funding for Travel Michigan or Tourism programs because of the budget crunch.

The tourist industry doesn't want new funding, just restore what has been taken away the past 8-10 years. Michigan wouldn't be in the financial crunch it's in if there had been a respectable investment in tourism.

I just watched Lt. Governor Dick Posthumus on a television interview on Channel 29/8 from northern Michigan, sponsored Public TV13 and a U.P. talk radio station. I learned the Lt. Gov. hunts and fishes in the U.P. I'm sure Jennifer Granholm would have some fantastic photo ops as governor donning hunting or fishing gear.

It's going to take a lot more than an occasional trip to the U.P. to make these beautiful venues provide jobs and income for many small businesses that depend on tourism in the U.P. Again, I'm shocked at the unrealistic approach on the part of the Engler/Posthumus team to invest in Michigan's number two industry — tourism. Granholm has identified tourism as a big part of Michigan's economic recovery. I'm convinced she'll make the investment to assure our return as a respected national leader in tourism for the benefit of the entire state. Granholm and a supporting cast of Democratic legislators will get it done.

Great concert

Editor:

It was gratifying to see a good crowd of people at the free concert given by the Mona Shores (Muskegon) High School orchestra Saturday evening, Oct. 26. It would have been even nicer if the new auditorium had been filled to capacity for this first performance of an orchestra in that beautiful new facility.

It is rare that we are privileged to hear an orchestra in this area and it was a dreary, rainy Saturday night, making it even more appropriate to be indoors and listening to some lovely classical music.

The orchestra was wonderful, and our thanks to Mr. Tim Staudacher, their fine director; Ms. Kelly Kramer, his assistant director; and to our own area "Music Man" Gary Stutzman, who arranged for their appearance in Charlevoix and conducted the final rousing work, Gliere's "Russian Sailor's Dance." It included local area students substituting for Mona Shores' wind section who couldn't make the trip, and they fit like a fine glove!

We hope this orchestra might consider visiting our town again and gifting us with their talent.

We hosted two fine, young gentlemen overnight at our home and they were gentlemen in every sense of the word. We enjoyed their enthusiasm for the orchestra program, their courtesy and gratitude and overall behavior.

Thanks again to Gary for bringing them here and to Tim and his lovely wife, Jeri, who keeps everything organized, for revisiting this town which they love and in which they used to reside. .

Our only regret is that more Charlevoix folks didn't hear this performance by some talented high school young men and women.

Charlevoix is wonderful

Editor:

As I traveled across the United States and I looked at all the small obscure towns along the way, I began to think about everyone having roots, a place where they came from.

After living in Los Angeles for 21 years, I brought my whole family (who are L.A. based) home to Charlevoix. I must say I felt an overwhelming sense of pride when I showed my family the rich little town that I came from. It has grown and flourished since I moved away, but the serene beauty and charm still remains. I only wish that I would have realized what I had when I was younger. I think you often take things for granted in life and do not appreciate them until they are gone.

I am so proud to say that I came from Charlevoix. This is one of the most beautiful places that I have ever seen. The community that still thrives here is so responsible for truly helping Charlevoix be what it is today...."Charlevoix the Beautiful"

Vote for Proposal 4

Editor:

In 1998, the tobacco industry agreed to pay Michigan and 45 other states more than $206 billion to compensate for the costs accrued or money already spent for health care for smoking related illnesses. Over 25 years, Michigan could conceivably receive between $300 million and $364 million annually from this settlement.

Out of tobacco settlement payments, two trust funds were formed. One is the Merit Award Trust Fund, which funds education scholarships. The other is the Tobacco Settlement Trust Fund, which funds health care programs and anti-smoking programs. From this, $5 million has been used to fund respite programs for individuals with Alzheimer's and other illnesses. These include in-home respite as well as adult day services. Additionally, from this fund the Elder Prescription Insurance Coverage Program (EPIC) was created to help seniors with the cost of prescription drugs. EPIC is funded at $30 million, with the option of applying for an additional $20 million which would be jeopardized if Proposal 4 passes. That extra $20 million would assist in enrolling seniors whose income are within 200 percent above the poverty level. Enrollment is closed at this time pending this referendum. Depending on the amount of revenue coming and what the state chose to apply for in additional funds, this could mean a significant decrease to the EPIC prescription program.

Ballot Proposal 4 says that tobacco settlement funds should be used almost exclusively for anti-smoking programs and to compensate for costs related to health problems and care of smokers. They have put forward Proposal 4 to be voted on this Nov. 5 which will change the distribution of the Tobacco Settlement dollars without negotiating. They are seeking to circumvent the legislative process and give our share of public money over $50 million to private corporations who don't have to follow Open Meetings Acts or disclose how this money is being spent once they receive it. Therefore, no accountability whatsoever.

Under Proposal 4, two existing funds would be replaced and 90 percent of the tobacco money would go to a new Tobacco Illness Fund, which would be primarily distributed to hospitals, nursing homes and nurses. No community based services were included in this distribution. The remaining 10 percent would go to the state's general fund.

The $5 million from the Tobacco Settlement Trust Fund currently allocated for respite funding (in-home respite and adult day services) for Alzheimer's disease and others requiring 24 hour supervision would be eliminated! These programs help families to continue to care for their loved ones at home. Without caregiver relief and respite, families would have no other option except early placement into a nursing home.

Families and caregivers face severe emotional, social and economic stress when caring for someone with Alzheimer's disease. Obviously, availability of and assistance with the cost of respite care services is the greatest priority for the Alzheimer's Association and aging services.

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging share with other groups such as the Alzheimer's Association and the Area Agency on Aging of Northwest Michigan concerns about altering our state's constitution. Rather than using the normal legislative appropriations process, as well as the lack of oversight after the funds are dispersed. Given all of these very strong concerns, The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging opposes Ballot Proposal 4. It does not promote healthy Michigan for seniors. Please vote no on Proposal 4!

Centennial year game next Friday

Charlevoix High School will recognize football's 100th year with special activities during half-time of the Rayder-Boyne City game, Oct. 31.

According to Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and Leonard Staley, athletic director, next week has been proclaimed "Football Centennial Week" in Charlevoix by Mayor William Fochtman.

Plans call for centennial presentations to CHS co-captains, coaches and a special band performance to commemorate the first game played in New Brunswick, New Jersey, between Princeton and Rutgers in 1869.

Charlevoix has a rich football heritage, with several former CHS players making their marks nationally.

Among them is Bob Carey, who appeared on his way to the top of with the Chicago Bears in the National Football League before an injury cut his career short. Chuck Fairbanks, head coach at Oklahoma, has his Sooners in the national rankings annually. Dick VanRapphorst is putting his "educated toe" to good use in the pros.

There are many others who have gone from Charlevoix High School to major football schools with great success. Some of them will return to Charlevoix for the activities next Friday night.

Football's centennial year will be remembered by Rayder players. All players will receive citations for participating in the sport during its 100th year.

To date, the season has been an outstanding one for Coach Chuck Carey and his team. Suffering only a tie, their record is unblemished. The Rayders will be gunning for victory number six when they take the field against Boyne City in the centennial game.

Some long-time fans are comparing the present club with other CHS teams of the past. Charlevoix's best teams, according to reports, were in 1946, 47 and 48 when the teams logged a long undefeated streak.

Butters Sunset Lodge Is Destroyed By Fire

In the worst fire Charlevoix has experienced in the past 25 years, Butters Sunset Lodge owned by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Butters and located at 205 Michigan Avenue, was completely destroyed by fire of an unknown origin early Saturday evening.

The loss which included furnishings and the couple's personal belongings was estimated at $95,000. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

In little more than half an hour from the time the fire was discovered at 7:35 p.m., the beautiful furnished and well-kept three story resort hotel had been reduced to a heap of smoldering debris by the flames which were whipped by winds of 40 mph off Lake Michigan, a half block away. The lodge located 1.5 blocks from the business district housed 16 guest rooms, a guest lounge, a coffee shop, a fourth floor which was furnished and the couple's apartment.

Charlevoix firemen were joined by the Charlevoix Coast Guard which furnished both men and equipment and the Petoskey and East Jordan fire departments which sent their trucks and firemen to man the equipment. Firemen were also recruited by Fire Chief John Curtis from among the spectators in fighting the spectacular blaze which threatened the entire north side residential district.

Origin of the fire is not known but the fire is believed to have started only a short time after Mr. and Mrs. Butters left the house about 7 p.m. Mrs. Butters had gone to a movie in Petoskey and Mr. Butters to the Rod and Gun Club. Mrs. Charles Hampton who lives at 103 West Dixon Avenue noticed flames in the southwest section of the lodge at about the same time Mrs. Ralph V. Hess, who lives next-door to the lodge at 207 Michigan Avenue, saw the fire in the guest lounge at the northwest corner of the building.

Firemen arrived at the scene to find that the heat had already broken the picture window which allowed the wind from the west to turn the building into a flaming inferno within minutes after it was discovered. Flames reached more than 100 feet in the air and spewed flaming debris as much as four blocks away.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hess was threatened as flames from the lodge whipped at it and only the fact that firemen trained their hoses on it plus an unexpected shift of the wind to the northwest saved the home which last week was painted. The front of the house was blistered and scorched and there was some damage on the interior of the house.

Other homes across Michigan Avenue which is also US-31 were threatened. Mr. and Mrs. William Heering at 202 Michigan Avenue and Judge and Mrs. Floyd A. Supp at 201 Michigan Avenue, were ordered to leave their homes as firemen from East Jordan and Petoskey battled to keep them from catching fire from the extreme heat and flying sparks and debris. A third house at 206 Michigan Avenue, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Osborn of Flint and unoccupied at the time was also threatened. Other homeowners in the area watered their roofs with garden hoses and extinguished sparks and debris as they fell on their roofs and in the yards.

A trailer owned by Mr. and Mrs. Butters which was parked opposite the south door of the lodge was pulled to safety by William Fochtman who backed the Charlevoix Oil Company tow truck into the yard and hauled it away shortly after the fire was discovered. A cottage to the west of the lodge was undamaged by the fire.

Curtis said that approximately 40 firemen and volunteers joined in fighting the fire. He and city officials had only praise for the work of the firefighters untiring efforts averted a major catastrophe which would have resulted had the fire spread to the homes across the street or next-door to the lodge. Firemen remained at the site of the fire throughout the night to control smoldering embers which were being fanned into flames by the wind.

The Charlevoix Fire Department lost more than 500 feet of hose and the US Coast Guard 50 feet of hose in the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Butters purchased the property 7 years ago from the late R. E. Olds of Lansing and remodeled and enlarged the summer home located on the property into a summer resort lodge. The original house was constructed about 60 years ago and at one time was occupied by the late Mrs. New, widow of a Civil War general.

The lodge has been closed since Labor Day. The couple had planned to leave Sunday for the upper peninsula on a hunting trip.

The yellow lamb which had become the lodge's trademark, Buttercup III, had been taken to its winter home and was not at the lodge at the time of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Butters are now residing in their trailer near the site of the former lodge.

Many new faces in local offices

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer
And by JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix County voters turned out in mass for the Nov. 5 general election and with the high voter turnout came a few big changes.

In the city of Charlevoix over 54 percent of registered voters cast a ballot. Of those 1,263 voters almost 55 percent voted in favor of a new mayor, Gabe Campbell.

"I'm happy it's over and ready to see what we can do. I'll try and push things a little different," Gabe said.

Gabe saw his greatest support from voters right where he lives, in the second ward.

Former mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell was not available for comment by press time.

While Gabe breaks in a new seat, his wife Karen Campbell has taken his former second ward council seat. The unusual husband and wife city council combination was instated by a small margin — Karen beat out her competition, DJ Way, by just 10 votes.

The final vote was 193 in favor of Karen and 183 for Way.

"I knew it would be close. Ten votes isn't many, six people could have turned the tide," Way said.

This will be Karen's first time in a political position.

"I look forward to trying to help the people and vote the way they want," she said.

The second ward change is the start of Karen's political career and marks the end of Way's. He plans to move to the country, a plan that was on hold pending the outcome of the election, and said he doesn't plan to run for any township office.

Millage support was strong in Bay and Peaine townships.

DDA wants to expand district

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is working to expand its district to include the former Charlevoix Middle School property and several others.

The DDA would like to buy four to six of the school's 14 lots to build designated marina parking. While this is a project the authority can pursue, expanding its boundaries is no simple task.

The city can purchase the property without the DDA, avoiding the expansion hassle, but Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said, "I don't see where there is that kind of money readily available."

He explained the general fund balance is just over $400,000 and that money is needed for working capital through the year. He said the city has $75,000 in its parking fund that could be used by the DDA.

The amendment involves not only the businesses the district may include, but also ties in the Charlevoix School District and Charlevoix County government.

Properties included in the DDA district are subject to a tax increase of 1.3 mills and part of their regular property taxes are "captured" from

Corrections

The picture above, from page 16 of last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier, was misidentified. It is actually from the Oct. 26 Muskegon Mona Shores Symphonic and Concert Orchestra performance at Charlevoix High School. Northwest Academy music teacher Gary Stutzman is seen here leading the group during its last song. The U.S. Army Jazz Band photo that went with last week's cutline is below. (Photos courtesy of the Petoskey News-Review)

Also, in the article titled, "You can bike, jog or walk to Bay Shore" that ran on the front page of the Oct. 30 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, the cost of the Charlevoix County portion of the Little Traverse Wheelway should have been listed as $2.8 million.

Lastly, a letter to the editor on page 34 by Susan Bergmann, should have been titled "Vote no on Proposal 4."

Holly Daze to raise money for obstetrics

Celebrating its tenth year of raising money to support the Charlevoix Area Hospital, Holly Daze intends to capture the joy and spirit of the holidays with a very special gift to the hospital.

All money raised this fall from the proceeds of their Live and Silent Auctions and Festivities will go directly to furnishing two birthing rooms in the new Obstetrical Department, including: birthing beds and lights, infant radiant warmers, bassinets and a fetal monitor.

Dr. Jim Jeakle, ob-gyn specialist and chief of staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital, is extremely excited about the new department and the gift by Holly Daze. He pointed out the many benefits of delivering a baby in Charlevoix, including the personal attention from doctors and the nursing staff.

"We provide excellent pre-natal care and are well-trained and skilled in handling routine deliveries as well as caring for mothers-to-be with diabetes, high blood pressure and even multiple births. Only a very small percentage of our patients, perhaps one mother a year, is transported to another hospital for care," he said.

Dr. Bill Mosher, ob-gyn specialist, added, "Approximately 220-250 babies are delivered a year at Charlevoix Area Hospital. With the addition of four new beds we will also be able to care for expectant mothers requiring a long-term stay prior to delivery, as well as our gynecological patients in this unit."

The expanded Obstetrical Department, scheduled to open in December or January, will more than double in size. The department includes eight labor, delivery, postpartum and recovery rooms, a nursery and a family waiting room with a view of the lake. Expansion means that the birthing experience will be enhanced for mothers, families and staff alike.

Kicking off the Holly Daze event is Preview Night, Nov. 17, at the Charlevoix Country Club. Guests for the club's "Sunday Spectacular" dinner from 5 to 9 p.m. will have a sneak peak at all the selections that will be auctioned later in the week.

Sealed bids will be accepted on Preview Night from those who just can't wait or are unable to attend on Nov. 21. To make a dinner reservation, call the Charlevoix Country Club at 547-3555.

The Celebration Dinner and Live and Silent Auctions at the Charlevoix Country Club on Nov. 21 will showcase, among other items, "Favorite Finds," area artist's unique creations; "Prestige Packages," day and weekend trips and/or activities; and "Sought After Keepsakes," designer trees and wreathes, sports memorabilia and holiday gifts.

Tickets for the dinner, which includes hors d'oeuvres, are $60 per person. Complimentary champagne will also be served. Doors open at 6 p.m.

The traditional silent auction, "Ho Ho Holly Daze — It's A Festival," is in the Solarium of Charlevoix Area Hospital and is from Nov. 25 to Nov. 30.

Co-chairpersons, Patti Aikin and Sharon Blossom, urge the community to come and explore all the whimsical creations and abundant items on display, as well as participate in activities like Men's Night, Nov. 26, or Kid's Day, Nov. 30.

There will also be a schedule of workshops and demonstrations on items such as ornament painting and soap making. There will also be a bake sale on Nov. 25.

The financial goal of Holly Daze is to raise $71,000. To learn how you can make a personal contribution, find out about sponsorship opportunities or for further information, call 547-8685.

City jumps the gun with DDA district

EDITORIAL

In the race to find a use for the old middle school property, the city of Charlevoix and the Downtown Development Authority have started well before the gun has gone off.

Recently, the Downtown Development Authority has put forth a plan to extend its area to include the middle school property and two businesses. This is being done so the city can buy a portion of the old middle school land to build a parking lot using DDA money.

However, this plan is premature and unfair for many reasons.

First of all, the city has agreed to work with the Charlevoix Public Library in creating a plan that would benefit both entity's desires for that property. But, to date, no final plan has been approved by either the Charlevoix City Council or the Charlevoix Public Library board.

By saying it wants to expand the DDA district, the city is putting its faith in some unfinished plan.

Secondly, the owners of the middle school property, the Charlevoix Community School District, have not even agreed to sell the property to the city or library. And, since a private developer has submitted an offer on the property, there is no telling if the district even will sell to the city or library.

If the city expands the DDA district and does not get the property for a parking lot, then it will have created a bigger DDA and will be collecting additional $1.3 mills on properties in this district for no reason.

Third, because the residences are being exempted from this expansion, this will mean the city will be collecting taxes from two businesses just because it wants to build a parking lot: the law firm of Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof and Snyder and a parking lot of Citizens Bank.

Therefore, two businesses are being taxed, even though there is no final plan.

Before coming up with new ways to tax businesses in Charlevoix, perhaps the city should actually have a finalized plan for the money in place. As it is, this amounts to nothing more than the city and DDA coming up with an additional tax without reason.

Writer finds leaf blowers not as bad as he thought

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Preemptive strikes are in the news just now. Be warned, this is something of a preemptive strike, to counteract what people may think about what I have done.

Several years ago I wrote a column in which I expressed my hostility toward gasoline-powered leaf blowers. I said many unkind things about them, their noise and their pollution. I may even have suggested eliminating them and certainly raised my objections to the level of a moral question. A number of readers informed me that I had spoken their thoughts about leaf blowers. Leaf blowers were not popular in the eyes or ears of many.

As the phrase goes, "That was then, this is now." As the years wear on, I find that the joy I once derived from physical labor is lessened by early fatigue. Raking the fall leaves is not the satisfying occasion it once was. The rake seems heavier and it takes longer to accomplish less.

The long and short of it is that two weeks ago I bought an electric leaf blower and have been using it in my yard. I now wish to defend myself against the incipient charge of hypocrisy and self-described moral laxity.

While the change could be ascribed to simple laziness, I prefer to think of it as energy conservation. The conservation of my energy.

The blower weighs little more than the large leaf rake I had been using. Being electric, it does not emit fumes like the gasoline powered ones, but it has all the rest of their faults. It is noisy, but age related loss of hearing on my part makes it less annoying. I don't want to think about annoying the neighbors. I won't use it on Sunday morning or late at night.

I have not abandoned the environment and its concerns, I have only abandoned my commitment to a leaf rake. I remain committed to a clean, healthy world in which we interfere as little as possible in each other's lives. I am using more electricity and certainly adding to atmospheric problems somewhere.

My blower, which I think of as different from others of its kind, has become a useful tool at a certain age. In fact the manufacturer calls it an electric rake, so I didn't really buy a leaf blower. It is faster than the non-electric rake it is replacing, it doesn't product blisters on the hands and it is a cheery red color.

I cannot retract the things I said a few years ago about leaf blowers, but I will try to ignore them if someone points them out to me. Don't write or call if you see me following leaves about my yard. I know what I have done and while I may not be completely proud of it, I can live with the consequences.

Other and more problematic preemptive strikes may lie in our collective future. But then, war is not leaf blowing; it is much harder to control.

Thank you

Editor:

On behalf of the Hospice of Northwest Michigan (formerly Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.) Board of Directors and Volunteers, I want to thank the wonderful group of people who arranged the Little But Mighty Labor Day Bridge Walk in Charlevoix.

We were the recipients of the funds raised at this event. We are appreciative of the generous donation of $1,000.

We do not charge for our services — volunteer, bereavement and community outreach — and this money will be put to good use helping those in our communities. I know how much work was put into this activity and we want to say a special, "Thank you!"

Great concert

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to lend praise to a very wonderful event which took place at the Public High School Auditorium on Saturday, Oct. 26. The combined string orchestras of Muskegon Mona Shores, musicians from both Charlevoix high schools and the greater Charlevoix area combined to perform a concert of unequaled excellence. It was gratifying to see what co-operation and harmony could accomplish. The whole building had a certain "warmth" which seemed to radiate from every corner.

Once again, my thanks and heartfelt praise to all the very charitable people who housed the visiting musicians and allowed them to play such beautiful music.

Honor the veterans

Editor:

This Veterans Day we honor the long line of men and women who have served in our nation's armed forces. More than half of the 48 million Americans that have served since the Revolutionary War are with us today. They range from a few hundred World War I veterans, all more than 100 years old, to recent high school graduates serving on military duty around the world in our nation's war on terrorism.

This is a proud line of service, as strong as our belief in freedom and as enduring as our history as a free people. Thanks to our veterans, it is also an unbroken line. That is what Veterans Day is all about — thanking our veterans. Our nation endures because they endured. We remain free, because they gave up theirs when duty called.

We in the Department of Veterans Affairs enjoy what I believe is the noblest mission in government, serving and caring for our veterans. Public interest and public support make that possible, and each citizen can do his and her part on Veterans Day. Show veterans you care. Fly the flag. Attend a Veterans Day ceremony. Honor the veterans where you work, go to school or worship. And maybe most important of all, just say thanks — thank you for my nation and my liberty!

Share your thoughts on old middle school

Editor:

Our community is continuing to study and evaluate the library and the old middle school property. Nothing has been decided yet.

The school board heard from the library building committee and other citizens at the Oct. 14 school board meeting and agreed to continue meeting with us. Some members of the library building committee and library board also met with the city manager, the mayor and the chairman of the DDA.

On Monday, Oct. 28, committee and board members also spoke at the DDA meeting. The DDA has offered to fund a more extensive study to determine if the middle school could be used as the library or part of the library complex. Discussions will continue among the school, the city and the library.

A Committee for the Charlevoix Community Center is forming to support the use of the old middle school gymnasium and to study the feasibility and uses of the old middle school building and site. We are planning an organizational meeting to take place at 7 p.m. Nov. 14 in the meeting room on the lower level of the Charlevoix Public Library.

Community support and involvement is crucial to accomplishing our goal. Please join us!

Tips to protect yourself from telephone scams

Turmoil and uncertainty in the telecommunications industry have led to increased confusion and concern for consumers – and reports of questionable and unethical business practices.

"Slamming" is the illegal practice of switching a consumer's telephone service — local or long distance — without permission. Customer reports of misleading sales practices range from statements that "SBC is going out of business" to "SBC is being bought by (company x)" claims, which are false.

"Customer awareness is the best weapon against slamming and other deceptive sales and marketing practices," said Linda Tecter, executive director of Michigan Citizen Action.

From January to August 2002, SBC Ameritech Michigan received an average of more than 275 calls per month from customers seeking assistance with alleged incidents of deceptive sales and marketing practices, as well as slamming. More than 800 calls were reported on-average each month in the five-state SBC Ameritech region during the same period.

"We are closely monitoring the situation in Michigan, and will act to prevent unethical and unfair marketing practices," said Gail Torreano, president, SBC Ameritech Michigan. "We are committed to helping customers avoid slamming and other unethical business practices, and work directly with customers who have fallen victim to such practices to restore legitimate services."

According to the Oct. 16, 2002 Wall Street Journal, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reported a 31 percent increase in the number of slamming complaints nationwide that it received in the second quarter of 2002.

Consumers should contest any charges imposed by a company who slammed them. According to the FCC, consumers who are victims of slamming don't have to pay for services resulting from this practice for up to 30 days.

SBC and Michigan Citizen Action offer the following tips to help consumers identify and protect themselves from these illegal violations of consumer choice:

- Ask questions first. When receiving a call with an offer to switch your phone service to a new provider, be sure to ask questions that will help clearly identify the company, what it offers, price of the service and contact information for a service representative. Also, be sure you understand who will provide the service and what service is being changed.
- Guard your personal information. Use caution when giving out your phone number, financial information, Social Security number, personal identification number (PIN), or any other personal information to an unknown caller.
- Carefully read your telephone bill. Make sure you only receive charges from your provider of choice. Ensure you thoroughly understand charges listed on your phone bill and have chosen to do business with the listed provider billing for those charges.
- Educate family members and office staff. Decide who is authorized to make telecommunications decisions and communicate this to everyone in your household or office. Slammers often target children, baby-sitters, and other unsuspecting people.
- Be suspicious of alleged changes in your service. Some customers have reported receiving calls or mailings from companies alleging that they bill or provide services on behalf of another service provider, a tactic presumably used to slam customers.

Women's center in need of cash, food donations

Family violence is a major issue in our society with one out of four women experiencing physical abuse by their partner at some point in their life.

The Women's Resource Center provides critical emergency services to domestic abuse/sexual assault victims and their children in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Safety, security and help are available at the Safe Home, a shelter specifically for families in crisis.

In the past year, 86 women and 105 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse and 2,529 nights of housing were provided averaging seven persons per day, 365 days a year.

During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $26,500, of which over $21,500 was donated locally by groups and individual supporters.

The harvest food and supply drive is an appeal to the community to assist the Safe Home in providing food, household goods and personal items to the many families who reside there.

Non-perishable food items, paper products and toiletries are a major need.

The Safe Home is also faced with raising over $75,000 each year to physically maintain the facility, staff and operate the home 24 hours per day, and provide its special services. Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home needs list or for more information, please call the Women's Resource Center of Petoskey (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan (231) 627-2380, Gaylord (989) 731-0918 or Mancelona (231) 587-8891.

DDA may fund study on old school becoming library

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Who: The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, Charlevoix Public Library
What happened: The DDA suggested helping the library fund a study on making the old middle school a new library.
What does it mean: If the study comes back positive for this plan, the library may move into the old middle school, thus saving the building from destruction.

The former Charlevoix Middle School may be converted to Charlevoix Public Library after all.

The library plans to take the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) up on its offer to fund a study that will take a close look at the possibility of the library relocating to the old school.

The authority made the suggestion at its meeting Oct. 28 but took no official action.

"Obviously we feel what happens to the middle school is important to the downtown district itself and members of the DDA and the community would like to see the building renovated," DDA chairman Hugh Mason said.

Library director Valerie Meyerson is excited to see the DDA is willing to get involved and said the possible financial assistance will help the library come up with the best possible plan.

Mason said the cost of the study is expected to range from $2,000 to $10,000 and Meyerson feels in the grand scheme of the library expansion it will be money well spent.

"We never did a full study as to whether or not it would be feasible. We're going to take the DDA up on its offer and bring in the architects to do a full, formal study and see what they come up with. It may open options we didn't see," she said.

Library architects Engberg Anderson of Milwaukee, Wis. will be in town soon to walk through the building and draft a cost estimate for the study.

Meyerson said this type of study probably wouldn't have been pursued by the library because of its cost and the initial indication from architects that a renovation would be costly.

Representatives of the architectural firm have walked through the building before and Meyerson said they are familiar with buildings like the middle school, including its age and architecture.

"They seemed confident it would be very costly to renovate," she said.

Some concerns the architects passed along included the building's use of load bearing walls and questionable floor stability with the added weight of library books.

While the study will look at whether the building can handle a major renovation, Meyerson and the library board and building committee will have to consider whether or not the library can handle the huge building.

The facility being planned for is 20,000-22,000 square feet to provide for the library's needs through 2020 and possibly longer. Meyerson said even if the population expands 50 percent, the library would only need 30,000 square feet and the middle school is 50,000 square feet.

While the cost of renovating the building and its size are two strikes against the old school being converted to a library, Meyerson said this doesn't mean use of the building is impossible. Some possibilities she highlighted include connecting the new library to the school which could be used for meeting space. Or to achieve the single level the community and board decided would be best, meeting rooms could be on the second floor and library space on the first.

However, because architects initially attached a multi million dollar renovation price tag to the project, Meyerson said in her opinion, use of the middle school as a library is "highly doubtful."

"It's a huge job," she said. "Personally I think the community deserves a nice building. If you fit something into a structure that it wasn't meant to be, you might not get what you want, you are compromising."

The library's tentative plan before this study was brought up was to build a new facility on open land at the former school site. The plan also included the formation of a group that would try and save the old school for community use.

Regardless of the possibility of the upcoming study, this effort to save the middle school is still underway and the group is looking for volunteer involvement at its first meeting scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Nov. 14 at the library located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

Trubilowicz picked for open board seat

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix School Board once again has seven members.

The board unanimously appointed Charlevoix resident Bill Trubilowicz to fill the vacancy created Oct. 13 when board trustee Mike MacMillan resigned.

MacMillan said increased travel associated with his job prompted his decision. The board then had until Nov. 4 to fill the vacancy and after four interviews made its decision that evening.

"Bill has not only been involved with the facility project, but has been attending board meetings. By being at the meetings, he has seen what issues we are currently facing and how the board works through those issues," board president Allen Telgenhof said before a final vote was taken.

The board met at 5:30 p.m., Nov. 4 in the media center at Charlevoix High School to interview the four candidates who sent in letters of interest by 4 p.m., Oct. 25.

Those who responded included: Trubilowicz, Elizabeth A. Rich, Anna G. Young and Kenneth A. Staley.

Trubilowicz, 52, has been a resident of the school district since 1986 and has been very active with the schools as a parent, volunteer and employee. He raised two children who attended Charlevoix Public Schools and his wife, Martha, has been a speech therapist with Char-Em Intermediate Schools for 18 years.

Professionally, Trubilowicz has worked for Consumers Energy at Big Rock Point for 26 years.

He was the assistant coach of both the middle and high school ski teams for five years and taught a manufacturing technology class in 2000. He also chaperoned various class trips including outings to Beaver Island, Pittsburgh, Penn. and Washington DC.

He took on an active role with the new high school building project in 1999 as co-chair of the Facilities Steering Committee and co-chair of the Bond Election Campaign Committee. Then, in 2000, he showed his support of the school board in taking on the position of School Board Anti-Recall Campaign Committee co-chair.

It was his work on the many committees that supported construction of the new high school that many board members said made him the front runner.

Board member Barney Way, who supported a motion by Scott Boss to appoint Trubilowicz, said, "Bill's background being involved with the school system over the last four years gives him a good idea what's going on and where we are trying to go. He's a couple steps ahead."

After the appointment was official, Trubilowicz said he is excited to get started. He added he had been thinking about running for the school board for some time, but has been happy with the board's performance.

"I'm honored they would choose me over everyone here that could have filled the position," he said.

While Trubilowicz ultimately rose to the top, his competition was tough. All three of the other candidates have board experience and displayed an interest in the school district.

"As far as all the candidates go, it makes me feel good to come to this meeting and hear from these people who have an interest and are willing to give their time when sometimes this job can be difficult. Any one of these candidates would do a tremendous job," Telgenhof said.

Rich has lived in the school district since 1998 and currently has four children in Charlevoix Public Schools where she volunteers regularly. She is a member of the Parent Teacher Organization and is on the Board of Directors for the Antrim-Charlevoix-Kalkaska Board of Realtors, is on the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau and is a Charlevoix Kiwanian.

Young has two children in the school district and has lived in Charlevoix since 1993. She is the staff physician at East Jordan Family Health Center, serves on multiple medical boards and is also a board member at Charlevoix's BASES.

Staley, a lifelong resident of Charlevoix, has three children with his wife, Arleen, all of who graduated from Charlevoix High School. He is a United States Marine veteran who actively participates each year in the Marine Corps League's "Toys for Tots" program.

His board experience is extensive and includes: six years on Charlevoix City Council as hoth a councilman and as mayor, eight years with the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, nine years with the Charlevoix Area and City Planning Commissions and 10 years with the Charlevoix City Zoning Board of Appeals.

While these three candidates won't fill the interim position, they will have a chance in June of 2003 to run for the seat. Trubilowicz said he plans to run.

Cinema III to have fund-raiser for art center

Cinema III of Charlevoix will donate $1 for each seat sold during the Sunday, Nov.10 and Monday, Nov. 11 showings of Enigma.

Cinema III and their Second Sunday Film Series presents award-winning films, not normally shown in northern Michigan, in a comfortable movie theater setting. Bill Supernaw of Charlevoix Cinema III is hoping to fill a void and fulfill his patrons request for non-mainstream movies.

The series are held to benefit non-profit organizations in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"Enigma," starring Kate Winslet, Dougray Scott, Jeremy Northam and Saffron Burrows, was directed by Michael Apted.

Set in 1943 England, Tom Jericho (Scott) is a brilliant code cracker who had previously broken the Nazi's Enigma Code for U-Boats ("Shark"), but now the Nazi's have changed the codes completely and the race is on to break the code again .... except that things are even worse with the threat of a possible spy within the very ranks of the British code breakers and it might be someone close to Tom himself.

A number of elements contribute to Enigma's poignancy, elevating it way beyond the level of just a well-executed thriller. Based on fact, Enigma relates an almost obscure chapter in history, one that ultimately helped the Allies win the war.

Furthermore, the central mystery is linked to a shameful, real-life scandal in World War II; a massacre of Polish soldiers by the Russian army — a disaster that was only recently acknowledged by the Russian government.

On another level, younger tech-oriented viewers will be intrigued by the film's setting: Station X can be perceived as the birthplace of the computer age. A veteran feature and documentary helmer, Apted brings his entire experience (including the James Bond actioner "The World is Not Enough") to a film that represents his smoothest, most technically accomplished work to date, one that benefits immensely from his well-known attention to historical and anthropological detail.

Check out the movie web site, www.enigmathemovie.com

Cinema III is located in downtown Charlevoix. Tickets are $6.50 for adults and $5.50 for seniors.

Movie dates and times are at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 10 and at 6 p.m., Monday, Nov. 11.

Developer discusses plans for old school site

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

As the city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Public Library look at uses for the former Charlevoix Middle School site, a private developer waits his turn.

The city and the library's interest peaked when news that a developer had entered a bid on the property, started to circulate. Planning for a new library and designated city marina parking at the site kicked into high gear and rumors of this elusive private developer's intentions of building condominiums or an apartment complex on the property flourished.

But recently, the man who entered the bid, Stuart Kaufman, a Charlevoix homeowner of 20 years and a state-wide real estate developer, stepped forward to let people know what his plans really are for the former school property, single family housing.

"I think that would be a perfect use for that property. If I lived on Mason or Clinton (streets), I would want houses built across the street rather than a parking lot," he said. "I think new residences are probably what the city lacks more than any other single part of the market there could be a demand for."

If the school district ultimately accepts his proposal which recently expired, Kaufman, a resident of Birmingham and Charlevoix, plans to construct 14 single family homes. He will first conduct a market analysis to target demand and if the results show there is a similar need to what he found before developing Boyne City's Harborage Park, similar homes will be built.

He described the Harborage Park community as homes from 1,500 to 2,500 square feet with wood siding and front porches ranging in price from $150,000 to $300,000.

"Something that looks like it's been there as long as the city has been," he said.

He feels this is the best use for the property, not the city's parking lot or the library's new site.

"The property is surrounded by houses. It's a residential neighborhood. If I lived on that block and they were talking about commercial uses I wouldn't be very happy," he said.

The property is currently zoned R-2 residential, a district that allows for uses beyond homes that include: public schools, public buildings and community centers when operated by a governmental agency.

In a memo from city planner Gerry Harsch to city manager Mike Wiesner, Harsch explains that under the current zoning it is questionable whether the city can construct a municipal parking lot that is not directly associated with a public building in the R-2 district.

So Harsch said a "zoning amendment" or a zoning change may have to be made. City attorney Jim Young recommended and Harsch concurred that the easiest way to address this is to add a provision for municipal parking lots to the language of the R-2 district.

But Kaufman feels the property is properly zoned and such an exception would be inappropriate.

"The library or a parking lot should be in a more commercial area. The library should build another level and stay right where they are," he said.

The city's interest in this piece of property came as a surprise to Kaufman who said, "I'm flabbergasted it's (housing) not the number one thing the city wants, good housing stock. In the end the city is made up of the people who live in it, not sewers, streets and parking lots, people create the quality of life here."

While Kaufman feels the library's current location is best suited for an expansion he is willing to sit down with library representatives and explore a joint venture.

However, the library has said it needs at least 10 of the 14 lots and Kaufman said he wouldn't be interested in the property to build just four homes. But following a recent meeting with the DDA and library representatives it seems there may be a future for the two after all. Representatives of the library were open to revisiting the idea of renovating and relocating to the former school building.

Kaufman's plan does not include the old school and his bid was for the property, without the building.

"I see no use for that building whatsoever. To change the use and bring the building up to code would be very expensive," he said.

His renovation comments were based on first hand experience garnered from his role in converting a school in the Detroit area to an office building. He said the cost per square foot would make rental prohibitively high and would create more office space than currently exists in the entire city. He said to renovate the building to a library would also be costly.

Aside from Harborage Park in Boyne City, Kaufman has also been involved in several projects in the area. In Charlevoix, he and others developed the C & O Club in 1992 and also worked on other lakefront projects.

In Boyne City he developed the Harborage Condominiums and a grouping of flats called Harborage Bay. And in East Jordan he developed Harborage Pointe.

Kaufman said he will be patient while the school, library and city figure out where their interests lie and would enter another bid.

"I don't really have many choices," he said.

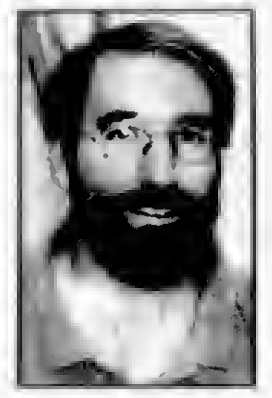
HEALTH

You want to give my baby another shot?



Roderic Tinney, M.D.

'Your health'

Your whole body aches, you have a fever, cough, chills, headache and a bad sore throat. If it is winter or early spring, you know you probably have the flu.

The flu is a syndrome or constellation of symptoms caused by the respiratory virus influenza. Most adults are very familiar with the flu and older adults and people with certain chronic disease are in the habit every fall of getting their flu shot or influenza vaccine. Yearly influenza vaccines have been recommended for everyone 50 years of age and older, people with certain chronic diseases over 6 months of age and health care workers for several years.

Just this year, the annual influenza vaccination has been encouraged for healthy children who will be 6-23 months during influenza season — generally January to March or April. Included in this recommendation is that their household contacts and their out-of-home caretakers — day care providers — should also receive the influenza vaccine.

Children must be at least 6 months old to receive the vaccine so an additional recommendation is to encourage all household and out-of-home caretakers of children less than 6 months to also receive the vaccine. Older "children" in college dormitories are also now being encouraged to receive the influenza vaccine along with pregnant women who will be in the third trimester during flus season. In addition anyone over 6 months of age may receive the vaccine if they just want to lower their chances of getting the flu.

It will take about two weeks for the vaccine to "start working," that is for adequate antibody levels to develop to provide protection. Because of the time it takes to develop protection, the flu vaccine needs to be administered in the fall, if possible, — October or November. In addition, children less than 9 years of age receiving the vaccine for the first time should receive two vaccines separated by one month to get the best protection. People at risk, however, should still get vaccinated even later if they happen to miss it in October or November.

The risk of the flu vaccine causing serious reactions is very small. Children with a history of a serious allergic reaction to eggs or allergic reaction to a previous influenza vaccine should probably not receive the vaccine or at least have it administered under the direct supervision and advice or their physician.

Most common reactions are just some soreness, fever and body aches.

The flu vaccine does not contain any live virus, so you cannot "catch" the flu from the vaccine. As with any vaccines a rare life-threatening event is most apt to occur in the first few minutes after administration, so waiting in your physician's office for a while after you or your child's vaccine is prudent.

A reality this year may be availability for all children. Since this is a new recommendation, the production and subsequent availability of the vaccine may not be adequate to immunize all those who request it. Locally, many of us do not know how many of our parents will want to immunize their children and simply may not have ordered adequate supplies this year for our offices.

The vaccine will be administered first, as it always has, to those at greatest risk for more severe influenza. So people with chronic disease, health care workers and the elderly should get vaccinated early to assure they can get the vaccine.

None of us like having to poke our children for so many vaccines, but as is said down at the CDC, "Vaccines are good. Disease is bad." We should all be thankful we have the opportunity to prevent so many illnesses, especially in our children.

The influenza vaccine may be given at the same time as other vaccines your child is to receive and does not diminish the effectiveness or increase the risk of any reactions from the other vaccines.

Please talk to your child's pediatrician, family physician or health department about influenza vaccine for your children, especially if they have any other health problems.

To find out more about influenza vaccine or any other vaccines for you or your child, you may go to the National Immunization Program web site at www.cdc.gov/nip.

Dr. Roderic Tinney can be contacted at Pine River Medical — located next to Charlevoix Area Hospital — by calling 547-6554.

Accident with injury not discovered for four hours

A 26-year-old Boyne City resident was injured in a one vehicle rollover on Camp Daggett Road in Hayes Township around 12:30 a.m., Oct. 25.

A Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office investigation at the scene found that a vehicle driven by the resident had run off the road, struck a tree then rolled over several times. It was determined that the accident had occurred at approximately 12:30 a.m. but was not reported until around 4:30 a.m.

The vehicle was down an embankment and the driver sustained broken legs and other injuries as a result of the accident.

The driver was able to crawl out of the vehicle and crawled on the ground for approximately 50 feet, until he got near the edge of the road where he attempted to flag down any vehicles that were passing by. However, the driver was unable to do so.

Around 4:30 a.m., a passing vehicle did see the driver and stopped to render aid and call 911.

When found, the driver was suffering from broken bones and other injuries and exposure. The driver was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey, where he was admitted for treatment.

High speed is a factor in the accident which is still under investigation at this time.

The sheriff's office was assisted at the scene by Boyne City Police and Boyne City Ambulance. The driver was wearing a seat belt and both front air bags did deploy upon impact, which is believed to have prevented further injuries.

Girls finish twelfth in state finals meet

Boys' runner Gorkiewicz finishes fourth in division

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School girls' cross country team finished twelfth out of 27 teams at the state finals last weekend in Brooklyn.

Additionally, Liz Ulrich was named all-state with her fifteenth place finish with a time of 19 minutes, 25 seconds. This is the third all-state honor for Ulrich.

According to coach Mary Plude, Ulrich is the "fastest girls' cross country runner in Charlevoix history" and she is the first girl to be all-state three times.

Other individual results were: Brenna Bergmann in ninety-fifth place with a time of 21 minutes; Sonya Plude in one hundred and thirty-sixth place with a time of 21 minutes, 29 seconds; Natashia Kleiber in one hundred and fifty-sixth place with a time of 21 minutes, 51 seconds; Elizabeth Madison in one hundred and sixty-seventh place with a time of 22 minutes, 1 second; Lauren Silberhorn in one hundred and eightieth place with a time of 22 minutes, 19 seconds; and Theresa Martin in one hundred and ninety-third place with a time of 22 minutes, 37 seconds.

Mary said Madison stepped it up at the meet as Martin had suffered an injury. She took off at the one-and-a-half mile mark to keep the Charlevoix girls in the running for a top 10 finish.

Mary also commended Sonya Plude, who she said ran very composed and kept moving up through the whole race.

"For her first time in a state meet, she wasn't afraid to move up on her own," Mary said.

Mary added Silberhorn really capped off an excellent season with this race.

"She really took off in cross country after making the switch from basketball two years ago because of knee surgery," Mary said.

The girls' cross country team and one member of the boys' cross country team did well at the state finals last weekend. They are (from left): Sonya Plude, Elizabeth Madison, Liz Ulrich, boys' team member Peter Gorkiewicz, Theresa Martin, Brenna Bergmann, Lauren Silberhorn and Natashia Kleiber. Additionally, the one boys' cross country team member who competed at state, Peter Gorkiewicz, finished in fourth place in Division III out of 256 individual runners. He also ended twenty-second out of all runners in the boys' meet that day, a total of 986, and was named all-state.

Coach Ken Plude said he will really miss Gorkiewicz, a senior.

"He has been, by far, the best leader I have had in years," Ken said. "His real goal this year was to succeed for the team and to get the team to state. What he tried to do to get our young team to the state meet was awesome."

Up in the air about Mortgages?

It's no wonder. Most banks sell their mortgage servicing before the ink is even dry.

But Northwestern mortgage servicing stays right here and we'll take care of you for the entire life of the loan.

Why should you have to dial an out-of-state 800 number when you can get your questions answered face-to-face at any Northwestern office? You can make your payments there too, if you like.

And your money stays local. That's good for northern Michigan.

Our mortgage people know their products, top to bottom. Even if you don't know what questions to ask, they do. And by the time all is said and done, you'll find no better mortgage value than right here.

Our mortgages have deep, local roots. That's what community banking is all about.

Rayder loss may mean conference clinch

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

In a battle of the top two teams in the Lake Michigan Conference, Harbor Springs bested Charlevoix, 58-48.

With the victory, the Rams likely sewed up the conference title.

The Rayders bounced back two days later to defeat East Jordan, 74-67, overshadowing an outstanding individual performance by East Jordan's Courtney Hammond.

At Harbor Springs, the game was close throughout the first half with the Rams leading 11-10 after one quarter and 25-22 at the half.

Harbor broke the game wide open with a 20-5 third quarter advantage.

Rachel Wyniawskyj led the Rayder scorers with 12 points. Grace Farrell scored 10 points, grabbed 13 rebounds, blocked six shots and had three steals.

Kari Way tallied eight points and 11 rebounds. Alyssia McDonough chipped in with eight points and grabbed four steals.

It was a game of contrasts against East Jordan as their star, Hammond, scored 53 of the Red Devils' 67 points, while five Rayders scored in double figures in a team effort.

Charlevoix jumped out early with a 14-9 first quarter advantage and held a 35-24 halftime lead. The Rayders led 54-39 after three stanzas.

Sarah Cross scored 12 points and pulled down six rebounds to lead the Rayders. Brooke Blanchard scored 11 and grabbed eight boards.

Jaime Pettis, Wyniawskyj and McDonough each had 10 points. Way scored five points and had seven rebounds. Shayna Drost added seven points and five assists.

Charlevoix (9-7 overall, 7-3 conference) hosts Kalkaska on Thursday, Nov. 7 in the final regular season home game.

The Rayders played at Traverse City St. Francis on Nov. 5, but results were unavailable at presstime.

Concentrate and win

Monday afternoon chess matches at Black Bear Coffee and Tea Lodge on Bridge Street have many Charlevoix students thinking strategy rather than television after school. Here, Andrew Leusink, 14, (left) and Arden Vallad, 14, face off in an intense match. The matches have been going on for three weeks. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

City needs DDA money for parking lot

DISTRICT

the schools and county and are given to the DDA.

The capture was initially instated in 1983 and the millage followed in the last 1980s. Each year, through the capture and millage, the authority is able to bring in around $600,000.

Prior to two public hearings city council will meet with representatives of both the county and city. The DDA has recommended council set those hearings for Dec. 2 and Dec. 16, but no definite dates have been approved.

To further keep lines of communication open between the parties involved in the possible expansion, the DDA plans to inform the newly included businesses of the economic implications of the amendment.

If approved, two businesses would face the additional DDA millage, the rear parking lot at Citizens Bank and the law office of Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof and Snyder. Two residences located at 204 and 206 Clinton Street will be exempt and the remaining lots included in the expansion are school and county owned and are tax exempt.

If Charlevoix Public Library relocates to the site it too would be tax exempt.

Allen Telgenhof, president of the school board and a partner in the law firm is in a unique position. From a business standpoint the expansion will cost his firm money and from his head chair with the school board, he sees that the district stands to lose money.

Telgenhof said a group of attorneys with his firm sat down and discussed the possible expansion and came up with no concrete answer as to whether or not they will support the plan at this point.

"I'm concerned about the school, if it costs more tax-wise, we'll have to deal with that," Telgenhof said.

The DDA capture only applies to the school district until 2013 when the city's debt for renovations to Bridge Park is paid off.

While the district expansion would capture tax dollars from Citizens Bank and the law firm, Wiesner said both the school district and Charlevoix County have the option of opting out of the plan. This would mean the DDA can not capture those school and county dollars collected from properties in the amended district.

If the library and city plan falls through and the boundaries are amended, the millage increase would fall on the eventual property owner(s). Wiesner said the millage payment would still be required if a housing development was built, but the capture would be questionable.

Stuart Kaufman, a developer from Charlevoix and Birmingham who has entered a bid on the property said the expansion of the DDA district may have some negative repercussions. Kaufman said the DDA boundary extension to include the middle school property should make the school board nervous.

He said the extra 1.3 mills that would be levied on property owners will likely make development more expensive.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock said he doesn't know how the district expansion will affect the property.

While some may argue there is a financial burden on those properties to be included in the proposed amended district, Wiesner believes the benefit of the DDA far outweighs its cost.

He said in 1983, when the DDA first formed, properties within its boundaries had a state equalized value of $5.9 million. The DDA district's current state equalized value has reached over $29 million.

Wiesner calculated this to be an increase in value of 8.7 percent in each of the past 19 years. He added that the city also tracked its growth rate and compared its numbers with growth in similar communities without DDAs. The study found growth was greater in Charlevoix.

"The theory of the DDA is if you have public improvements, private will follow," Wiesner said.

Over the years the DDA has put more than $9 million into the community for projects that include: renovations to Bridge and Veteran's parks, archway and alley improvements, bandshell construction, installing Pine River Channel walkway lighting, payment for East Park and marina engineering, property purchases and sidewalk improvements and repairs.

Island residents may get a break on phone bills

Beaver Island residents may get a break on their telephone bills in the near future if a plan by local provider TDS Telecom is approved by the state.

Under the plan, residents of Beaver Island and Bois Blanc Island would be able to call the mainland without incurring long-distance charges.

TDS Telecom, which provides local telephone service to Beaver Island and Bois Blanc Island residents will file a voluntary "Expanded Local Calling Plan" with the Michigan Public Service Commission in the next month.

Under this plan, residents of Beaver Island will receive 200 minutes of local calling to Charlevoix for an additional $1.75 a month. Bois Blanc residents will receive 200 minutes of local calling to Cheboygan for an additional $2.05 a month.

Callers from both islands who exceed 200 minutes a month will be billed at 4 cents per additional minute.

To date, several other local telephone companies in Michigan have or are in the process of expanding their local calling boarders. Five additional companies are awaiting commission approval to do the same.

Scott Stevenson, of the Telecommunications Association of Michigan, said the company's plans will be reviewed as soon as the state receives it. The company has 30 days to file it.

High voter turnout reported across county received voter support as 67 percent approved a one mill renewal for road maintenance and repair.

ELECTION

In Peaine Township voters had a change of heart on an airport operation and maintenance millage they turned down during the August primary election. This time around 61 percent of those who voted supported the .75 mill proposal that will be in effect from 2002 to 2006.

In Charlevoix Township a long battle over the township's zoning ordinance is over. The ordinance was passed by a vote of 386 to 231. This was the second referendum vote the ordinance faced.

Charlevoix Township Trustee and Planning Commission Chair Nancy Rajewski breathed a sigh of relief when the final numbers came through.

"I feel wonderful. Charlevoix Township has always been on the cutting edge of things and I think this shows we still want to be. It's putting in some things we need — it's going to really help us," she said.

County-wide voters made a split decision on funding for Grandvue Medical Care Facility. They supported the .75 mill renewal to support operating expenses and rejected a .25 mill increase.

"We're thrilled with the renewal; that's our lifeblood. The other one (increase) I knew was more debatable. The increase wasn't critical since it wouldn't be in the budget until 2004. It's not going to have an immediate impact, we have another year to figure out what we are going to do budget wise," Penny Drury, Grandvue Medical Care Facility administrator, said.

Voters in the city of Charlevoix Precinct 18 south, Precinct 19 and Precinct 20 and those in St. James, Norwood and Peaine townships and in Charlevoix Township Precinct 4 re-elected Shirley Roloff as the Sixth District County Commissioner.

Roloff won with 1,098 votes or 80 percent of the vote. Her challenger, Joe King, received 173 votes or 12 percent. There were also 108 write-in votes or 8 percent of the vote.

"I want to thank all the people for still supporting me. I will continue working for the county. I still have things to do and I'm glad I made it back. I look forward to working with the new commission," Roloff said.

Residents of the city of Charlevoix Precinct 18 north, Charlevoix Township Precinct 4 north and Hayes and Bay townships voted in Valerie Snyder as the new county commissioner for district one.

Snyder won with 938 votes or 59 percent. Her challengers Paul Richards and Bill Henne each received 424 votes or 27 percent of the vote and 225 votes or 14 percent, respectively.

In Eveline, Marion and parts of Wilson townships, voters elected Dennis Jason to the District Five county commission seat with 68 percent of the vote. Jason had a total of 1,018 votes. His opponent, Arness Cox, received a total of 658 votes.

Budget woes threaten school plans

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Who: The Charlevoix School District.

What happened: The district is facing a budget crunch.

What it means: Cuts may have to be made in the budget and the city and library's plans for the old middle school may be in jeopardy.

A grim financial outlook for public schools across the state threatens Charlevoix Public Schools and could affect planning for the sale of the former Charlevoix Middle School site.

From a Nov. 5 closed session meeting between representatives of the school district, the library and the city came a proposal to request the school board hold off on sale of the property for a year. This was to give the city and library time to conduct a study to explore possible uses of the school.

"The primary question is the potential reuse of that building. That is a looming question in my mind and the group's mind and we need time to answer that question," City Manager Mike Wiesner said.

But a year was too much to ask for some school board members, who on Nov. 11 at the board's regular meeting ultimately agreed to a six month delay.

Board trustee Dennis Halverson said with budget problems on the horizon he doesn't feel it would be fiscally responsible to hold off sale for a full year.

"The board is struggling to keep the facility in public hands but if push comes to shove in the future that's an asset that could assist in our number one job of education," he said.

Halverson's concern was rooted in a budget presentation made by school district accountant Judy Boss, before the board addressed the issue of the building. Boss said expenditures for this year came in

Airplane bound for island missing

By JEREMY MCBAIN

A Cessna 175 aircraft carrying a Beaver Island man and his wife disappeared over Lake Michigan, near Big Nay De Noc in the Upper Peninsula, Sunday evening.

After looking for the plane since Monday morning, The United States Coast Guard and aircraft from the Civil Air Patrol called off the search by Tuesday morning, but then resumed it based on new information by Tuesday afternoon.

According to Coast Guard Petty Officer Paul Roszkowski, a Cessna 175 aircraft, with the tail number N7091M, flown by Beaver Island resident Melvin Bellamy, was reported missing on Sunday somewhere between Fond du Lac, Wis. and Beaver Island. Melvin's wife, Judy Bellamy, is a passenger on the plane.

"There was no sign of wreckage. We don't even know if it actually crashed," he said.

The plane was last seen around 4:30 p.m., when the Bellamys were getting fuel in Fond du Lac, Wis. The flight

Students publish poetry book for class

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Students at Charlevoix High School have published a book of artistic expressions.

Rich Bachus' Mass Media class which included grades 10 through 12, started the project in March and received finished copies of the literary collection earlier this month.

The book is 81 pages long and is filled with over 100 different student submissions which include: poetry, art work and short stories. Its title, "Mixed Nuts," was chosen by contest. Andy Bergmann, a 2002 graduate, took the $50 cash prize for his fitting choice.

Students were assigned positions like editor, business manager and advertising director and were allotted salaries accordingly. Once roles were established, they downloaded templates on-line and got to work.

They soon found getting the software was the easy part. While the shiny softcover book looks polished, the eight month road to completion wasn't easy. Getting submissions was a slow process but after three weeks, advertising and some candy bar bribes, a steady flow streamed in.

Then it was time to choose what would be included in the publication.

"We really had to push," Jason Westenbroek, a junior who was the prose editor in the editorial department, said.

A team of teachers judged the poetry competition. First place went to Will Sampson for his poem "Poetry" found on page 2, second place to Allison Holmes for her poem "Two Versions" on page 6 and third place to Ally Flowers for her poem "Her" on page 7. Each of the students won prizes and recognition for their poems.

Once the selections were made, the crew furiously typed and edited. Then this summer Bachus did some final tweaking and sent the collection by disk to a publishing house called iUniverse in Lincoln, Neb.

In the acknowledgments section of the book Bachus said he opted to pursue the class project because, "I realized that the best way for my students to learn about mass media is to create mass media products of their own."

In a recent interview he said the outcome was just what he hoped for.

"The book really helped them understand everything that goes into it. As well as the other side — how it is received," he said.

Brooke Blanchard, a junior who was the poetry editor said, "It wasn't as easy as we thought it was going to be. It was hard working with people I don't normally work with and coordinating to get things done."

> "I really learned a lot about people in the school."
> Brooke Blanchard, High school student

Several of the students who worked on the project said they also took away a new outlook on the importance of teamwork.

Aside from the academic gains students made, Bachus also saw value in recognizing high school students' creativity. Westenbroek, who said the project inspired him to write, was one of the many successes.

Beyond inspiration and a learning experience, the final product also offers readers a rare glimpse into the teenage mind.

"I learned a lot about people in school," Blanchard said.

Westenbroek added, "Reading their work was like reading into their personalities."

Whether or not a second volume will be published this year has not been decided. Connie Ford has taken over Bachus' Mass Media class and he is now teaching both Introduction to Language and Modern Communication.

Copies of Mixed Nuts Volume 1 are $12 and available at the school located at 5200 Marion Center Road in Charlevoix, at the Bridge Street Book Shop located at 405 Bridge Street in Charlevoix or online at www.iuniverse.com.

The project received its financial backing from the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation. Proceeds from the sale will go to either the Mass Media program or the Mixed Nuts program depending on whether a second volume is pursued.

Public deserves to hear the whole story on school

EDITORIAL

When it comes to government projects in Charlevoix, our local leaders are always preaching about the virtues of getting public input on it before finalizing any plans. But, is this really the case?

Take the actions regarding the old Charlevoix Middle School off of Grant Street. Various officials of government bodies have said they want to work together to purchase that building and its land for a new library and municipal parking lot.

And they say they want the public involved in this process. But, several closed meetings later, it seems as though the groups have a plan they are going to present to the school district that the public hasn't been privy too.

The first meeting occurred when the city and library wanted to meet and talk about it. Our reporter was invited to this meeting by the library, but was promptly asked to leave by Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner.

Wiesner said he did not want his "bosses" — whom he called city council — to find out anything before he had a chance to tell them himself. Never mind that it is the public that pays his salary with their taxes, therefore making the public his "boss" too.

While we have no issues with a city official, such as the city manager, meeting with one or two people to hash out a solution to a problem, this meeting consisted of representatives of the library, the downtown development authority and the city. But, because there were not enough of each group to make a decision, they could claim the meeting was closed.

This was also the case almost a week later when the city and the library met with representatives of the Charlevoix school district and the Charlevoix School Board. Purposefully not enough elected officials to make a legal decision were invited to the meeting, thereby allowing them to keep out the pesky public.

In both of these meetings, plans were debated and created for the old Charlevoix Middle School. The formal acceptance of these plans will take place in the required public meetings, but the public will never get to hear the debate that took place.

While in both instances the Michigan Open Meetings Act was not violated, its spirit was violated, if not trampled upon. This is simply a case of Charlevoix officials obeying the act only when absolutely necessary.

After all, why would they want that pesky public to know the details of what they are doing? We might not like what they are doing and that could cause problems for the plan.

At least they are letting the public speak at meetings, even if our officials may have already made up their minds.

Many groups combine for successful Ghost Supper

Edith Gilbert

'Behind the news'

How would you like to plan a lovely sit-down dinner for 400 people in a setting without a dining room or kitchen?

That was the challenge facing Tom Lavanway when he was asked to chair the Ghost Supper for the Crooked Tree Arts Center, an event they have hosted every year since 1986. This year, however, due to renovation, the center is completely torn up and unavailable.

Believe it or not, those who attended the supper said it went off beautifully without a hitch.

But first let me tell you about a few of the honored traditions in connection with a Ghost Supper celebrated by Native Americans on Nov. 1, also All Saints Day.

Tribal ancestors are honored with traditional ceremonies. For instance, tiny tobacco pouches are given out to all the dinner guests, windows and mirrors are covered to avoid reflections and no photographs may be taken. Before supper this year, tribal elder, Joe Mitchell, gave a prayer in his native tongue. Then he selected a plate of food from the long buffet table and burned it outside in a ceremonial fire as an offering to the dear departed and subsequently these ashes were buried beneath the new renovated arts center.

Why would Lavanway step up to the logistic challenge to provide dinner for 400 people in a mere hallway 18-by-110 feet adjacent to the arts center? In part, Lavanway strongly believes in cultural exchange.

Born in Bellaire, his father was a member of the Little Traverse Band of Odawa Indians and Lavanway is a member of the Grand Traverse Band of Odawa and Chippewa. He is also Chairman and CEO of Shanty Creek.

Lavanway turned to Don Lee, purchasing agent, who contacted Shanty Creek's purveyors. They donated $2000 worth of food, including 125 pounds of turkey breasts, 125 pounds of bone-in-hams, 200 pounds of mashed potatoes and 50 cases of Coca Cola products among other things.

In addition, Victories Casino donated 40 pounds of whitefish and Cross Fisheries donated 15 pounds of smoked fish. Executive Chef Brian Ramsey carved an Indian Head from a 200 pound block of ice, which was displayed on a long attractive buffet table, where food was served in round-topped chafing dishes.

Ramsey also contacted the American Culinary Federation's Chapter in Petoskey who stepped up to the plate under the guidance of Roy Hall in charge of the Petoskey High School Culinary Arts Department. They provided not only chefs to serve the meal, hut prepared all the food with the help of two dozen, junior students who earned credit for their efforts.

Lavanway's wife, Karen Lavanway, ably assumed complete responsibility for the "front of the house." She borrowed linens, pitchers, flatware and others from Shanty Creek, as well as acquiring pumpkin flower centerpieces from Mary Pasternak, of Nature's Garden. She supervised volunteer board members of Crooked Tree, who waited tables and served cider, coffee and dessert to the assembled guests; approximately 50 percent, who attended the Ghost Supper were Native Americans.

The success of the evening was due primarily to the vision, leadership, management and volunteer support of everyone involved.

The vision came from the Board of Directors of the Crooked Tree Arts Center, who in spite of the fact that the building is completely torn up for renovation, planned to hold this annual dinner as usual.

The leadership came from Karen and Tom Lavanway, who had the resources to draw on through their connections with Shanty Creek.

Management came from the competent staff of Crooked Tree.

Special volunteer support was provided by Native American tribal elders, Joe Mitchell and Yvonne Walker Keshick, and other volunteers, who provided music and story telling during the evening.

Fix cemetery

Editor:

We have a concern as to the long-range upkeep of the Charlevoix cemeteries. I have tried to contact someone as the stone for our grandparents is sinking on one side so badly, we are in fear it will crack.

Upon driving through both cemeteries, we noticed the care of the grounds is not what it used to be. A cemetery is supposed to be a place that is kept up well enough to be around for hundreds of years, but the way these in Charlevoix are being cared for this will not happen.

When we put our loved ones there we expect the fees that are charged will cover maintenance. Not just cosmetic cares, but the care that will be there for years to come. Someone is getting paid for a job not done.

Apology

Editor:

This is an open letter of apology to Berta Molasky. I, Doris Pearl, take full responsibility for asking our election inspectors to not allow the placement of stickers on the ballot Nov. 5. They did what I asked them to do.

I misunderstood a communication and thought the placement of stickers on the ballot would be a problem for our ballot reading machine. I was wrong and I sincerely apologize, not only to Berta, but to my election inspectors and to those voters who had to hand write her name on their ballot rather than simply using a sticker.

Please accept my apology.

Thank you

Editor:

We would like to thank the downtown businesses that greeted our kids and gave out treats last Thursday during our annual Halloween parade. It means a lot to the children when people show an interest in what they are doing. Also, thank you, Bill Schuiling, for having a bakery van make a special trip to our school and for personally handing out freshly made cookies to our students and beautiful Halloween cakes to our staff. It is so nice to work in such a supportive, caring community that likes being involved with our kids' activities. We appreciate all you do.

Television show was wrong

Editor:

There's a growing recognition that the final answer to terrorism involves rooting out violence and bigotry in our daily lives. It's a long process, but ultimately the only sure fire approach.

Unfortunately, not everyone has gotten with the program. A case in point is the TV drama, "The Practice" in the episode Oct. 20 which depicted a case of child neglect by parents who chose to treat their child by prayer instead of medicine and failed. This is an appropriate subject because it is an important topic and one that is complex with no pat answers.

What I felt was inappropriate was that the case was a dramatization of some actual events, but falsely attributed to Christian Science, in spite of the fact that most Christian Scientists were as revolted as anyone else by some of the bizarre actions of the small sect of faith healers in this instance.

Vilifying a denomination with a well established record of healing and or responsible adherence to the law and to wise decision making, not only adds fuel to bigotry, but may turn people from considering prayer in the healing process, potentially causing more lives to be lost.

This show was also out of step with the rapidly growing recognition by medical people of the beneficial effects of prayer in healing. The Handbook of Religion and Health published last year by recognized medical researchers reviews 1,600 studies of the effects of religion and spirituality in health care, a majority of which were positive.

In fact, Kenneth R. Pelletier, M.D., in his book "The Best Alternative Medicine: What Works? What Does Not?" (Simon and Schuster, 2000) states, "...scientific studies have shown religion to be beneficial to healing 81 percent of the time, neutral 15 percent of the time and harmful 4 percent of the time. Any new pharmaceutical drug that offered such benefit-to-risk ratios would be an overnight success!"

In another ironic twist for a nation that is trying to promote peace, the show was further out of step by gratuitously demeaning the Christian Science Monitor whose motto is "To injure no man, but to bless all mankind," and which has won seven Pulitzer prizes for successfully living up to its motto.

Hospice unveils new cards for Christmas fund-raiser

With November being designated National Hospice Month, Hospice of Northwest Michigan (formerly Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc.) is happy to be able to start off the month by introducing its Christmas cards for 2002.

This year it has three cards to offer, the first is a sled resting against White Birch — with the saying inside, "Wishing you a Christmas brightened with laughter, warmed by good company and glowing with lasting memories." It was designed by Chris Fall Knight of Boyne City.

The second, a lighthouse down by the harbor in Boyne City — with the saying inside, "May this loving, caring season give you reason to rejoice." It was designed by Kay Gee of Harper Woods.

She also offers a decorated sailboat towing a rowboat with presents and a Christmas tree — with the saying inside, "A time to remember, a time to look ahead, a time to share the beauty and joy of the season."

The cards are available at Boyne Country Books in Boyne City; The Clothing Company and Trademark Clothiers in Charlevoix; Busy Bridge Gifts and Antiques in East Jordan and Sturgeon River Pottery and Wild Bird Supply in Petoskey.

The proceeds from the sale of these cards will help further the work of Hospice of Northwest Michigan, in partnership with Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency to provide hospice care in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Campbell: Residents wanted a change

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
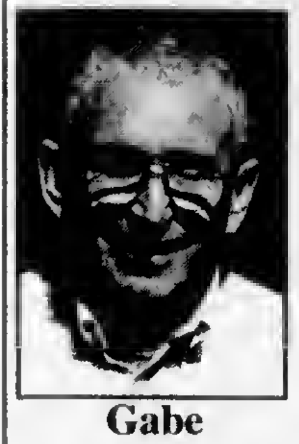
Staff Writer

Voters in the city of Charlevoix proved at the Nov. 5 general election that they are ready for something new.

"I heard from a lot of people they thought it was time to change things," Charlevoix's newly elected mayor Gabe Campbell said.



Gabe Campbell

In spite of minimal campaigning by Gabe and Karen Campbell, husband and wife, both were chosen to be new mayor and a new second ward council person, respectively.

Gabe replaces former mayor Alvin "Butch" Russell. He won the seat by a vote of 638 to 518 taking 55 percent of the vote. Karen fills Gabe's former second ward seat. She beat out DJ Way for the spot by a small margin — the final tally was 193 to 183.

Karen Campbell

Gabe said their modest campaign included about 400 informational letters being sent to people in the second ward and yard signs. The couple's "passive" campaigning coupled with the final outcome support Gabe's theory that voters were looking for new faces.

"People were encouraging us from the time we turned in our petitions," he said. "I think a lot of people were upset about things that might not necessarily have been Butch's fault."

But Gabe said city residents' general dissatisfaction was enough to have voters submit ballots supporting change.

The two now on council share more than the same street address, they also have similar ideas about what needs to change in the city. Both Gabe and Karen have repeatedly chastised "frivolous" city spending and have said if a new East Park renovation plan proposes to remove the current bandshell or to build more buildings, they'll oppose it.

"I think a lot of people are upset with the bandshell (possibly) being torn down. People in town donated money for that and now they are talking about just tearing it down and building another one," Gabe said.

Karen said she thinks people don't want to have the building torn down and she will vote accordingly. She added she will keep a close eye on city spending.

"When it's other people's money, I don't want to spend it. Maybe that comes from growing up with nothing," she said.

While voters support Gabe and Karen's outlook, some feel their ideas could slow growth in the city and stunt city improvements. But, Gabe said he feels the change won't be that major, but will be just enough to quench the public's thirst for accountability.

"I don't think it's (the change) a negative thing. I think the people want more restrictions on city spending. But I think most of the things we are doing are good," he said.

Third ward council person Shirley Gibson has often shared Gabe's concerns and voted similarly. She said she was pleased to hear voters opted for change.

"Now there is more diversity on council — different opinions and different people all coming together to come to a consensus. Not everybody thinks alike," she said. "Council is going to take a different direction and will have to be more accountable with spending taxpayers' money."

While Gibson feels the election will change things in the city, city manager Mike Wiesner thinks major projects will stay on track.

"I don't see a lot of issues on projects. Everybody unanimously voted on council to accept the marina plan. There are still some issues on the land side plan, but there is a willingness in the community to work those out," he said.

Gabe and Karen have also supported upcoming renovations to city hall and upgrades at the municipal airport.

"The projects we're talking about have been planned for years and it seems everyone is on board," Wiesner said.

Gabe and Karen agreed they support these major projects, but will be keeping a close eye on where dollars go.

"There are some things you just have to do. Like the marina, we have to bite the bullet and fix it or we'll have a liability case. But how far do we have to go, that's the question," Gabe said.

Over $20,000 collected from parking meters

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix City Police Department has collected over $20,000 from the city parking meters over the summer and over $11,000 in parking ticket money to date for this year.

According to Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson, his department collected $20,640.58 in change from the parking meters over the summer. Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandi also reported the city has received $11,153 from parking tickets so far.

Brandi added more money may come in to the city from parking tickets this year from those who have received parking tickets during the summer.

Halverson said his officers write about 3,000 parking tickets a year on average. A vast majority of those tickets are written in the summer months.

"In the summer we do about $100 a day. The most common is the $2 meter violation," Halverson said

After summer, he said officers write tickets on a case-by-case basis.

In the off season, officers usually get information on the driver of the vehicle by running the vehicles' plate and usually only when a citizen makes a complaint. They then contact the driver and inform them of the complaint.

"A ticket is a possibility," Halverson said.

He added parking enforcement is the one duty his department performs that it gets the most public feedback from.

"It is probably one of our less popular enforcement activities," he said. "But it is a critical part of a viable downtown in the summer."

Halverson said there are two purposes for parking enforcement: parking space turnover and safety.

He said the meters are more turnover oriented and allow for more open parking spaces for shoppers. Halverson said without parking enforcement people using the Beaver Island Ferry or other visitors in the area for similar reasons could leave their vehicle in a downtown parking space for days at a time, thus hampering other businesses in the area.

Other parking rules, such as no parking in yellow zones and no parking next to a fire hydrant, deal with safety issues.

Kite record

Two Charlevoix Cub Scouts were part of an international scout rally at Hessel that broke the world record for the number of kites flying in the air at one time. The previous record was over 600. The scouts were able to maintain 874 kites in the air at one time. Weblos scouts Casey Riley, Brian Shutler and assistant cub master Jeff Riley are shown attaching a ribbon commemorating this accomplishment to the Pack 11 flag. (Courtesy photo)

Deer numbers down at start of gun season

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

> "The deer population has been reduced from previous levels due to the antlerless harvest, particularly in the western part of Charlevoix County."
> Glen Matthews,
> DNR wildlife supervisor

Deer hunters heading into the woods for the opening day of deer hunting season with guns Nov. 15, may find a smaller herd in Charlevoix County.

According to Glen Matthews, wildlife supervisor at the Michigan Department of Natural Resources office in Gaylord, the deer population in Charlevoix county is slightly lower than last year.

"The deer population has been reduced from previous levels due to the antlerless harvest, particularly in the western part of Charlevoix County," he said. It has been the department's objective to reduce deer numbers in this part of the county for a few years, based on the amount of deer the area can handle during the winter.

Because of this, the department has reduced the number of antlerless deer permits it has given out this year to Charlevoix and Antrim counties. All of those permits have been taken.

Matthews said there was a quota of 2,900 antlerless deer permits for private land this year in Charlevoix County. That quota has been met. Likewise for the quota of 400 for public land, which were all given out to hunters in a drawing.

But, even with a smaller herd, hunters are still expected to take to the woods in high numbers this year.

According to the department's figures, so far there have been 1,224,779 total deer hunting licenses sold — for both bow and rifle seasons — in the state of Michigan. But, that number is expected to go up as gun season gets closer.

Winfield Scott, manager of the Holiday gas station in Charlevoix on US-31, said he usually sells a lot of deer hunting licenses for gun season on Nov. 13 and 14.

"It gets real crazy on the fourteenth," he said.

Matthews added hunters that are successful are encouraged to bring the head of their deer into one of the department's deer check stations so it can be tested for tuberculosis. While the disease has not been found in Charlevoix or Antrim counties, it has been found in a cattle herd in Emmet County.

He said the department uses these tests to determine where the disease is in Michigan, especially in northern lower Michigan.

"We don't anticipate finding TB (tuberculosis) in deer in Charlevoix or Antrim counties, but we cannot be sure unless we test," Matthews said.

Hunters that do bring in deer heads for testing will receive a "successful deer hunter" patch. The results from the test are usually available in a week to 10 days.

The heads will be collected from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 14 through Dec. 1 — with the exception of Thanksgiving Day — at a check station 2 miles north of Boyne Falls. Deer heads can also be taken to the Department of Natural Resources field office in Bellaire from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 14 - Dec. 1, located on East Cayuga Street.

Group trying to save old middle school

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Who: Committee for the Charlevoix Community Center.

What it is: An organization of people who want to save the old middle school.

What it means: If they succeed, the building could be a new community center or library.

Calls from Charlevoix area residents interested in helping save the former Charlevoix Middle School have been filtering in at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Just two weeks ago the Committee for the Charlevoix Community Center was formed by co-chairs Marilyn Hall and Connie Saltonstall. The two women have since started coordinating a volunteer effort to work toward converting the 50,000 square foot building to a community center.

Shortly thereafter things got rolling. The city of Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) met and agreed to fund a study to see if the Charlevoix Public Library could use the building for its upcoming expansion plans.

The study has not yet begun, so the library doesn't know whether it can use the building or part of the building.

These current unknowns call into question whether the building will ultimately be demolished or used as a library or a community center. But the uncertainty hasn't slowed the committee whose members want to make sure that while the school board, the city of Charlevoix and the library hash out its future, the building is used.

"Our first goal is to continue to operate that building for another year," Connie Saltonstall said.

The committee's first step toward meeting that immediate goal and in the long run saving the building will be this week.

It is planning an initial meeting of area residents interested in saving the building to take place at 7 p.m., Nov. 14 in the library's basement. The library is located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

Saltonstall said everyone who attends the meeting will have an opportunity to offer input as to what the school can be used for. From the meeting, the committee will gauge the amount of community support for the effort to save the school.

"It's an opportunity for people to support the concept of keeping the building, whether it be used as a library or a community center or a combination," she said.

It will also set up a forum for discussion about ways to meet that first goal of keeping the gymnasium open this winter. Saltonstall said at a special meeting of representatives of the city, school, library and DDA it was clear that the city and the school district are not interested in financially supporting the gym's use through the winter.

Saltonstall stressed that the reason to keep the gym open through the winter goes beyond offering the community activities. She said if the gymnasium is used this winter, the school will meet the "continued use" requirement which allows it to be used without being brought up to code.

Volunteers who are interested in working on or with the committee are asked to attend Thursday's meeting at the library. For more information about the meeting contact the library at (231) 547-2651.

Little Traverse singers preparing for concerts

Singers with the Little Traverse Choral Society continue their musical journey toward their Nov. 16 and 17 concerts by embracing the "kchijiimaan" or large canoe with which they currently share their rehearsal space in the temporary location of the Crooked Tree Exhibition Gallery located at 445 East Mitchell Street in Petoskey.

On Tuesday nights the singers' melodies, swells and crescendos sweep past the kchijiimaan cradling it in their musical "waters."

Brad Moffatt, new helmsman of the Choral Society has set a course for their fall concert "Mozart, Mendelssohn and More" to include both still and white water. "Georgia" by Hoagy Carmichael, "Row, Row, Row" an American popular song, "Steal Away" a Spiritual and "Salve Regina" music of the Renaissance, are among the soothing selections.

The swifter currents — musical white water — to be covered will include: "Gondoliers" by Gilbert and Sullivan, "Jaglied" by Felix Mendelssohn and "Cantata Domino" music of the Renaissance.

The ensemble's anchor selection will be Mozart's "Regina Coeli."

At 8 p.m., Nov. 15 the group will perform at the Presbyterian Church in Harbor Springs, located at 7940 Cemetery Road. Then at 4 p.m., Nov. 16 the concert will take place at the Cross in the Woods Catholic Shrine in Indian River located at 7078 West M-68.

The kchijiimaan, built by the Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians, is used to commemorate their ancestors spring passage from the Big Rock to Good Hart.

It holds up to 20 people and has proven seaworthy in 6 foot waves. The Little Traverse Choral Society would need three such canoes should they try to get to their concert by water.

Girls' basketball team took two losses last week

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

It was a rough week for the Charlevoix Rayders girls' basketball squad as they dropped two straight games, falling to Traverse City St. Francis, 61-46 and Kalkaska, 57-54.

Sarah Cross and Grace Farrell each scored 13 points against St. Francis. Cross had six rebounds and Farrell four. Rachel Wyniawskyj scored nine points.

Against the Blazers, Jamie Pettis led the Rayders with 15 points, four rebounds, five assists and three steals. Farrell had 13 points and 13 rebounds.

Alyssia McDonough scored 10 points and grabbed five rebounds. Wyniawskyj chipped in with eight points.

Shearer named All-State

David Shearer

Charlevoix High School senior and varsity golf team member David Shearer was named to the All-State team for the third year.

"It's outstanding," coach Jim Glynn said. "It was a fine high school career. He had the best record in high school I know of in golf."

Shearer was selected to the All-State team as a sophomore and a junior. He was also the All-Conference selection for four years and made the All-Region team three years.

According to Glynn, Shearer's dual meet average was 34.6, his jamboree average was 72.2 and he had a tournament average of 74.7. This placed him in the top five in every match he played throughout this season, except one.

Shearer was also a medalist six times in the Lake Michigan Conference.

To get to the state meet, Shearer shot a 70 at regional and a 77/77/154 at state to finish in fifth place overall.

"David Shearer is a gentleman who has integrity, presence and sportsmanship — the essence of the game," Glynn added.

Counting problems led to election result delays

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

People who were anxious to get final general election results Nov. 5 for Charlevoix County were held off by ballot counting mishaps.

Election workers at the Charlevoix County Clerk's office generally have final numbers for the county tabulated by 10:30 p.m. and are home in bed shortly thereafter. But this year, at 2:30 a.m. Nov. 6 the final count was finally in.

County Clerk Jane Brannon said recount problems likely arose as inspectors became exhausted from the long day, when foreign scenarios presented themselves and when crowds of voters gathered at the polls.

Problems this year centered around delays in five of the county's 21 precincts. The precincts include 15 townships, and three cities — Charlevoix with three wards, East Jordan with one precinct and Boyne City with two precincts.

Brannon said numbers on the precinct counting machine weren't matching up with the poll book, which kept election inspectors at a Boyne City precinct and in Charlevoix Township pulling their hair out. The inspectors had to feed ballots through the counter several times and even had to hand count ballots.

Eveline Township was another straggler. There, 19 absentee ballots that were never returned were recorded in the poll book, so at the end of an already long day, election inspectors had to go back and remove those names from the official tally.

The count was also thrown by voters who were distracted and left with ballots and by ballots that either were rejected by the counting machine or would get stuck in the machine.

Brannon said on top of all the count problems inspectors face exhaustion. Workers start the day at 6 a.m. and assist voters until the polls close at 8 p.m. Then it's time to engage in a frustrating battle to match numbers.

Two years from now, at the next general election, the county clerk will host a series of election schools and then at the election, staff from Brannon's office will be stationed at some precincts to help out.

For this year's election, 9,773 voters, out of 19,842 registered voters, cast their ballots in the county. The state of Michigan recorded a 47 percent turnout, with 3,202,603 voters casting ballots out of 6,797,293 that were registered.

Peaine Township, on Beaver Island, had the highest percentage of its voters participate with 83 percent. East Jordan had the lowest turnout with 40 percent.

In the city of Charlevoix, Ward One had the highest turnout with 58 percent. Ward Three had the lowest turnout with 50 percent.

Charlevoix Courier Editor Jeremy McBain contributed to this report.

Red Cross to have fishy fund-raiser

The American Red Cross of Northern Lower Michigan has announced an opportunity for artists and northern Michigan communities to team up to be a part of the Great Northern Fish-in.

The event is modeled after Cincinnati's wild Big Pig Gig and New Orleans' Festival of Fins, but this project features a great northern fish as its icon.

The bigger than life size fish, designed by Grant West and Eric Heline (artists and sculptors from Beaver Island) and expertly fabricated by Glass Hand in Cincinnati, Ohio is approximately 5 feet, 4 inches long and 3 feet, 4 inches high.

Area sponsors such as businesses, civic groups, schools, local artists, families, friends and neighbors will purchase a fish. The fish is creatively painted by a Michigan artist and put on display in communities throughout northern Michigan.

These fish will be securely mounted and displayed the months of June, July and part of August.

At the conclusion of the display period, these painted fish will be auctioned or their sponsors may choose to retain their unique piece of art for their own use after the event.

Call Todd at the American Red Cross at (231) 348-7666 for further details or visit the web site, www.greatfish-in.com.

Charlevoix hospital gets EEG machine

Charlevoix Area Hospital recently acquired sophisticated, computerized equipment that will allow it to perform electroencephalograms on site.

The electroencephalogram (or EEG) measures brain activity by collecting data from electrical impulses the brain emits during periods of wakefulness and sleep. EEGs are used to diagnose a number of conditions in children and adults — seizure disorders, migraine headaches and memory or attention problems.

The test is painless and takes place in a quiet, darkened room to encourage relaxation. During the simple procedure, patients wear a small cap that is connected to electrodes that gather and transmit brain-wave information to a computer. That information is stored digitally on compact disc.

Through a partnership with Steven W. Huder, M.D., and Great Lakes Neurology in Petoskey, data on the disk are reviewed and interpreted. Huder then provides his report and diagnosis to attending physicians.

"This state-of-the-art, paperless system is very accurate and enables us to respond quickly," Huder said. "It's a very important addition to Charlevoix Area Hospital."

Huder said having the EEG equipment on site means the diagnostic test can be given to inpatients more easily and comfortably, and, because it eliminates travel, it's more convenient for outpatients as well.

The EEG lab is located in Charlevoix Area Hospital's new Emergency Department, where it is operated by EEG technician Carol Bruske.

SCHOOL

$2.2 million over revenues. She said $1.5 million of this can be accounted for in planned one-time costs associated with the new school, but $700,000 comes out of the district's fund balance.

She said this has raised concerns in lieu of probable education funding cuts at the state level next year and rising insurance costs. Boss and Sturock have met to discuss ways to cut back including program cuts and bringing in new teachers.

"If we do nothing, pretty soon we'll be spending $1.5 million more than we take in. With the fund balance at $2.1 million we can't afford to do that," she said.

Sturock added, "If we continue down the path that we did this year, we'll eat up the fund equity in about a year's time. If we end up at zero we'll lose serious programs."

In February or March of 2003 the board will be looking at ways to cut expenditures for the 2003-2004 school year without hurting programs.

So now as the district faces the funding crunch, the library and city who are interested in building a new library at the former middle school site and city marina parking, will have to be prepared by spring — and some library officials aren't positive that's possible.

Connie Saltonstall co-chair of the committee to save the school and a member of the library's building committee said, "We hope at the end of six months the process will show we should continue the process."

All along the board has said its main concern is the building being a financial drain on the district. The library and city addressed this by promising to figure out a way to pay for upkeep of the building.

This will include funding heating costs through the winter, but not opening the building for any use. The Committee for the Charlevoix Community Center meets tomorrow, Thursday, to discuss use of the gymnasium this winter for recreational activities, but that doesn't look possible.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock addressed numerous other costs that would be incurred if the building was used, including janitorial services and liability insurance costs.

He said Charlevoix recreation activities including intramural volleyball and basketball will be played at the elementary school and the current middle school, respectively.

Coast Guard searching for missing plane

MISSING

time from Fond du Lac to Beaver Island is about two hours.

Roszkowski said the United States Air Force informed the Coast Guard it had detected a plane matching the Bellamy's around 5;30 p.m., Sunday, near Pt. Detour — off of Big Bay De Noc in the Upper Peninsula.

The Coast Guard focused its search on that area Monday night, but did not find the plane.

Roszkowski added one of the Civil Air Patrol searchers did report hearing a faint emergency beacon, but Coast Guard searchers could not detect it. Searchers also canvassed the area between Fond du Lac, Wis., Beaver Island and Escanaba.

But, on Tuesday, a Fairport resident reported to the Coast Guard that they saw a plane matching the description of the missing Cessna flying at treetop level and heading north-northeast on Sunday evening.

The new search area is five miles west of Pt. Detour off Big Bay De Noc. It will also include a ground search in the area of Fairport.

The incident has also been reported to the National Transportation and Safety Board.

Pam Sullivan, senior air-safety investigator for the organization, said investigators will be gathering as much information as possible on the incident, such as the plane, its crew and radar contacts. However, she said the National Transportation and Safety Board does not conduct searches.

Roszkowski said the Bellamys had good weather for their flight. Good weather was also reported for the search. Searchers had been looking for the plane since about 9:30 a.m., Monday.

Roszkowski said Coast Guard helicopters from Traverse City and aircraft from the Civil Air Patrol were involved in the effort.

The Bellamys were returning to Beaver Island after attending a Marine Corps Ball in Missouri when the plane went missing.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On the 20th day of August, 2002, an action was filed by Oliver P. Brown, Plaintiff, against David B. Lamb, Defendant, in this Court to foreclose a land contract.

Upon consideration of the Verified Motion of Plaintiff, and the Affidavit in Support thereof, attesting to the fact that the Defendant in this action cannot be personally served with a Summons and a copy of the Complaint herein because his present whereabouts are unknown, and he cannot be found at his last known address, and that publication of notice of this action in a newspaper of general circulation is most likely to give notice to this Defendant, and it appearing to this Court that Plaintiff, after diligent inquiry, has been unable to ascertain the Defendant's residence either within or without the State of Michigan, and it further appearing that personal service of the Summons and Complaint in this action cannot be made on the Defendant for the above stated reasons, and that publication is the best means available to apprise Defendant of the pendency of this action,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Defendant David B. Lamb, shall on or before the 10th day of January, 2003, serve his answer on Bernard J. Caspar, attorney for Plaintiff, whose address is P.O. Box 1214, Gaylord, MI 49734, or take such other action as may be permitted by law. Failure to comply with this Order may result in a judgment by default against the Defendant for the relief demanded in the Complaint filed in this Court.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a copy of this Order be published once each week for three consecutive weeks in the The Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper of general circulation hereby designated as most likely to give notice to the Defendant. Publication shall occur within the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the first publication of this Order be made within 20 days from the date of entry of this Order; and that mailing a copy of this Order be dispensed with because Plaintiff cannot, with reasonable diligence, ascertain a place where the Defendant would probably receive matter transmitted by mail.

SCRAPBOOK

A lot of work goes into writer's decorations

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

In 1987, we set up our first Christmas exhibit, with decorations inside and outside. Before that, we had a 25 foot Christmas tree in the front windows. We decided to enlarge our scene, and each year we have added new characters. Today we have over 500 characters and ornaments outside.

Dale and I enjoy doing this, and have just begun the task of setting everything up this year. Our grandchildren have joined us in bringing in the 24 large and small Christmas trees. The smaller children decorate them, doing a great job of placing all the ornaments on them. It's fun to see their enthusiasm as they work together in twos. This year, we will put some of the scene up outside and then our children and grandchildren will help us. It's a monumental job. Last year, we began setting everything up in September, but with help, we are doing it later this year.

When I make the wooden figures, I buy 4 feet by 8 feet sheets of underlayment board. I lay these out on the lawn and roll a coat of oil paint on both sides. Then, I draw the figures on the board, cut them out, sand each one and then they are ready to paint. I paint all the clothes, features and others. When I put the final touch on their faces and place the last little dot of light in their eyes, they seem to perk right up as if they were alive. I also paint the edges of each one, so they are waterproof and coat them in a preservative clear coat. The year I made Big Bird, I cut him out of two sheets of board. Then, I drilled 1,200 holes in him, placed 1,200 lights in the holes, and glued them in. I then painted each bulb the correct color so he would look as he should. He is 12 feet tall and stands on the front porch.

When we set up the figures in the places they belong, we take them out, and place them around the yard. Dale drives in stakes and each figure is placed in position and screwed into the stake. We buy toys at garage sales for the elves to be making and place them by each set of working elves. I make ornaments to hang in the trees out of wood and paint them bright colors. To attach them to tree branches, I use fish line and spinners, which allows them to spin around in the wind, making the scene more lively. Then, we put all the thousands of lights in the trees and bushes and place spotlights all over to light up each set of figures.

We have a large screen TV, which we place in the front patio door, and a Walt Disney tape plays on the screen. The music is piped outside, with Mickey and Donald singing Christmas songs. The music puts a finishing touch on the Christmas atmosphere. Last year, Dale made a Wizard of Oz house, which Auntie Em and Uncle Henry lived in. It is set on an angle, as it just survived the tornado. Dorothy and Toto are standing outside. The house is 8 feet by 10 feet. We decided to leave it up year-round, as he made it so sturdy. I made eyes and a mouth on the "apple" tree next to it and hung wooden red apples from the branches. They twirl around also. We display our two Model T's in the yard and put large stuffed animals in the sears. On Christmas Eve, our son, Jim brings his 1915 brass Model T over also, so there are three Ts in the yard. We have a big sign on the front of the house that says "Santa's Workshop." In all the windows in front we display toys and dolls so it looks like the real thing.

We buy all our lights and tree ornaments each year when they are 75 percent off. Our turning tree stands end up costing only $12 each. Our manger scene is in a shed Dale built from old barn boards, and houses a donkey and cow, sheep, Mary and Joseph and baby Jesus, plus the shepherds and wisemen. We have an angel above the roof and a big shining star. After Christmas we store the characters in the shed.

We love to see the children when they look at their favorite characters. Many of them dance on the porch to the music. It is so enjoyable to watch them and we often go outside to talk to visitors. Dale builds a hot fire in our old self-contained fireplace. When it is cold, everyone stands around it to get warm. On Christmas Eve, we are Santa and Mrs. Claus and greet everyone from 6 to 9 p.m. The children tell Santa their wishes and Mrs. Claus gives out candy. I think it gives us more pleasure than the children.

Several years ago, we had to put an additional meter and electrical box in our pool house as we didn't have enough electricity to run everything. The crowds have been getting larger every year and people come from all over. We light up the scene on Dec. 1 and take it down New Year's Eve. We are always on the lookout for new and used items to add. This past year, our grandson, Logan Priess, painted and cut out a rocket ship in class, and that will be joining the menagerie.

I thought you might like to know what goes into a project like this. We don't even count the hours it takes anymore. The pleasure it brings is worth it all.

Dale Boss attaches some of the couple's figures around the pond in the front yard of their home. The Boss home is located on Pearl Street. (Courtesy photo)

School staff may be cut

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A grim budget forecast for the Charlevoix School District's 2003-2004 school year will likely result in a loss of staff.

"Unfortunately there is not enough money to fund everything we have been able to do in the past," school district accounting manager, Judy Boss said. "We will be taking a look at all the places money goes and start making decisions on what is going to happen."

In order to keep up with programs this year and meet the district's operational costs, it is spending $750,000 more than it is bringing in and things aren't looking any better for next year.

"We expect the same thing next year," she said.

In order to face the problem head on, planning for the future will begin in February or March of 2003.

Currently, 83 percent of the district's costs are staff and fringe benefits. Boss said staff is one place cuts may have to be made. If six teachers retire this year, as is anticipated, the district may not be able to replace them or may have to replace them with beginning teachers.

In mapping the 2003-2004 budget, Boss is not planning for an increase in the state foundation allowance per student, meaning revenue will stay the same.

But flat revenue may even be optimistic. She said with the state facing a $1 billion deficit there may be a 5 percent reduction in the allowance.

"We will likely get the same or less money from the state and our expenditures are already over budget by $750,000 and our expenses for next year like retirement, health care and staff costs, are continuing to increase. We have to cut dollars out of the budget," she said.

For this year the district is spending a total of $2.2 million more than it brought in. Beyond the $750,000, it is also paying $1.5 million for one time expenses.

These one time expenses were planned for with construction of the new high school and the district saved the money to pay for them. Over the past four years the district saved $1 million — $80,000 of which was spent last year and the remaining $920,000 is being spent this year.

The $920,000 is being spread over a variety of areas. The vocational education department used $236,000 it

Search for missing plane called off

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The search for a missing plane containing two Beaver Island residents has been suspended.

As of 4 p.m., Nov. 12, the United States Coast Guard ended its search for the aircraft that was flying from Fond du Lac, Wis. to Beaver Island. However, the Michigan and Wisconsin Civil Air patrol units continued searching until Nov. 17.

The airplane was suppose to arrive on the island the evening of Nov. 10. It was being flown by island resident Melvin Bellamy, with his wife, Judy, as a passenger.

The Bellamys' daughter, Melissa Crova, said, "Based on the information from the Civil Air Patrol they searched very thoroughly. They looked everywhere they could."

The Bellamys have three children: Crova, of Romulus; Jennifer Bellamy, of Royal Oak, and Michael Bellamy of Newaygo. They also have two grandchildren: Anna Crova, 4, and Renee Crova, 1.

They have had a home on Beaver Island for about 10 years and recently began staying year-round. They are formally from Newaygo.

Crova said her parents were very active and traveled a lot.

"They did everything together," she said.

Melvin, a Vietnam veteran, has been a pilot for over 30 years and volunteered at Fort Lenardwood in Missouri, where Judy would cook and Melvin would help with cadence.

The Bellamys were returning to Beaver Island after attending a Marine Corps Ball in Missouri.

To increase participation and make sure folks have fun, countless specialty features have been added to this year's Holly Daze Silent Auction at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Officially designated, "Ho, Ho Holidays — It's a Festival," the event takes place Nov. 25 through Nov. 30 at the hospital. Traditionally dedicated to the auction the festival now includes: a jewelry sale, bake sale, men's night and kids' day.

According to co-chairs, Patti Aikin and Sharon Blossom, attendees can bid on any number of sought after items donated by local businesses and area designers, as well as participate in daily workshops and demonstrations.

A sampling of desirable silent auction items include: an autographed Dale Earnhardt hat, a big screen TV rental for the Super Bowl, Big John down-riggers, memberships at the Charlevoix and East Jordan pool, a 12 month certificate for Top Rank service and a Bonsai Hospital Garden. Nearly 100 items have been generously donated.

"I don't see how the community will be able to resist getting involved this year. Not only will they have the opportunity to master new crafts such as the art of over-the-top wrapping by registering for holiday gift tag stamping or bow making and live evergreen arrangement workshops. But they can save themselves

East Park ice rink not in city's plans for this year

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix residents and visitors will likely have to wait another few years before lacing up their ice skates in East Park.

Those who looked forward to ice skating in the park last year and were disappointed when warm temperatures foiled the plan may be even more disappointed this year when they find there is no plan.

"It would be wonderful for the downtown to have that activity. As it stands, everyone who was for the ice rink is still for the ice rink. But people are frustrated because it doesn't ever seem to happen and we're not certain why. We get different responses every time we approach it. I don't know if it's a safety problem, a time problem or it really isn't possible," downtown merchant Linda Mason, an advocate of the rink, said.

While merchants and residents support the idea of a rink in the park, city officials claim nature doesn't make it possible.

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said the city plans to build an ice rink at the current Charlevoix Middle School, as it has over the past several years, but a rink in East Park is doubtful.

"I question the climate to regularly let us have a rink down there without artificial help," he said.

Wiesner blames temperature moderation from Round Lake for the city's two failed attempts to create an ice rink in the park — one last year and another in the late 1980s.

"If the community decides in the park plan (to renovate East Park) that an ice rink should be included, we'll look seriously at an artificial situation to have ice down there on a continual basis," Wiesner said.

But construction on the park and marina is not expected to start until 2005 and Mason would like to see the city try again this year.

"The ideal situation would be to

OPINIONS

Open meetings, mindless television, privacy

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

There is just too much going on for one column these days.

So, let's take a trip into my mind — if you dare — and discover some of the topics I am pondering.

Open government

Has a city of Charlevoix public official actually heeded my urgings for more open government? It quite possibly seems that way.

At his first city council meeting as mayor, Gabe Campbell informed those in attendance that every city meeting will be open to the public.

This came out as he was creating a committee that will search for a new city fire chief — Doug Carver, the current fire chief, will be retiring soon. In creating this committee, city council member Norman "Boogie" Carlson said that there were too many council members on the committee, thus making the committee's gatherings "open" to the public.

What Carlson doesn't realize is every committee meeting, regardless of how many council members are on it, are open to the public.

But, Campbell informed Carlson and everyone else in attendance that "everything" would be open. He then specifically pointed to the press table and said he didn't want trouble from "them."

Way to go Campbell. If this is a sign of things to come, I am very excited for the future of city government. Perhaps county and townships governments will be watching and learning from your guidance.

Television

With the onset of winter just around the corner, my wife is getting into her nightly cold-weather habit of watching network television for entertainment. Since she is the boss of the house, this means if I want to watch television, I must watch her shows.

But, lately I have learned that most television shows are pretty much the same. Almost every show on the tube is: a cop show, an attorney show or a doctor show. And every week one of these shows will have a "special" event "that you don't want to miss," such as one of the main characters dies, gets sick, gets sued, commits a crime or gets a large boil on their neck.

This makes me ask: Whatever happened to creativity? Why do we need so many television shows that are basically copies of each other and all equally as bad? They say television rots the brain, well this season's lineup on the networks proves that television writers' brains are dust.

Oh well, at least I still have books, such as courtroom murder mysteries, dramatic true tales of doctors fighting to cure diseases and detective stories.

Civil liberties

Whatever happened to the idea of getting government out of our lives? Did this concept go completely out of the window when America was attacked by terrorists on Sept. 11, 2001?

Take, for example, our government's creation of the Pentagon Information Awareness Office, headed by John M. Pointdexter on Feb. 13, 2002. You might remember Pointdexter from the Reagan years and the Iran-Contra scandal. Pointdexter was convicted of conspiracy, lying to Congress, defrauding the government and destroying evidence.

Now, this convicted felon is in charge of a government program that will create a database on all Americans that will include everything about you from what is on your credit report to what library books you check out. All of this is being done in the name of safety.

Maybe there is something wrong with me, but I don't feel very safe when my government starts taking away my privacy, my civil liberties and my freedom.

Throughout American history, brave men and women have fought and died for the freedoms we have now. America is unlike other countries in that we have almost complete freedom to travel within our own borders, vote, speak our minds and live without government intrusion.

However, it seems that we are headed in a different path. One that will lead to databases about each of us, a national identification card and a soldier on every corner checking our "papers."

All in the name of safety.

How many freedoms can we give away before we feel safe? How many before we lose our American way of life? Does this mean the terrorists are winning?

By the way, I thought Republican's were for less government in our lives? And it seems Americans agree, based on the last election. Then how come they are not fighting these new plans to take our privacy and freedom?

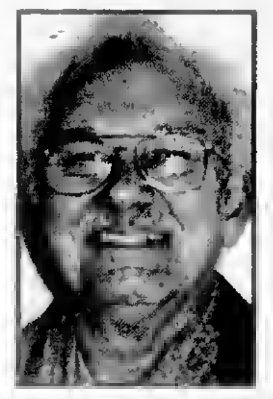
A guide to new, fun words



Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Last week I found a book in the library that was the source of more enjoyment than I have had in a book for a long time.

The unlikely title of this entertaining volume is "Complete Guide to Prescription and Non-prescription Drugs." In its more that 1,000 pages it provides a wealth of valuable information about more than 5,000 medications available in the U.S. market.

Any book that claims to be "complete" sets a very high standard for itself, but this one comes through nicely with information on dosages, side effects, interactions and warnings of various kinds. I imagine you are wondering just what could be entertaining about that.

There are really only a few hundred specific chemicals that make up most of the available medications. However, they are formulated in a multitude of ways by different companies and each of those separate formulations has to have its own unique name. The names must be short (only two or three syllables) and memorable. There is probably employment out there for dozens if not hundreds of English majors who need to make a living somehow.

What better way than making up new words? Acetaminophen, which most of us know as the active ingredient of Tylenol, is present in more than 350 separate medications and each has its own name: Atasol, Exdol, Genex, Rounox, Tapanol and Valadol to name only a few. Couldn't we all just learn to recognize acetaminophen? To be truthful, many of those 350 different medications have things other than acetaminophen in them, but do we really need 350 different and potentially confusing names? Pity the poor pharmacist.

Names beginning with "vi" are very popular, I suspect because it reminds us of vital or viable (lively or capable of Life). Certainly Viagra is easier to remember than sildenafil citrate, which is the active ingredient. But it is potentially confusing with Virilon, Vivactil, Viromed, Vibutal, Vivol, Videx and a dozen others which all do very different things.

There are in "The Complete Guide" 84 names with aspirin as the active ingredient including: Headstart (which I thought was an educational program) and Supasa, which sounds like part of Spanish or Mexican cuisine.

New comic heroes found in names of medications

KNUTSON

If you pay no attention to the information and just concentrate on the sounds of the medication names, "The Complete Guide" is a wondrous source of fun. There are of course a few real clinkers among the hopefully memorable names. Regardless of what they might treat, who would be enticed by names like Spasquid, Pertofrane, Honvol or Susano (which would almost be a song if you left it in the medicine chest too long). There is even a medication called Confuss, which is what I am. There are 20 generic names (the actual ingredients) found in almost 700 different named antihistamines. Pseudoephedrine, a decongestant, is found in over 500 different named medications, and dextromethorphan in almost 300.

Maybe as generic medications become more common, we will gradually unlearn most of the punchy two and three syllable names and learn the real name. For now, "The Complete Guide" is a source of marvelous names for almost anything.

Some of the names would make fine comic book super heroes. Consider: Allegra, Queen of the Forest, or Zantac, Prince of Lightning. I'll let you make up your own heroes to go with Conar, Zephrex, Zetar, Zocor or Paxil.

Besides being a fine source of real information for the layperson, "The Complete Guide to Prescription and Non-prescription Drugs" is an entertainment for anyone who likes the sound of words.

Letters to the editor

Thank you

Editor:

I want to express my deepest thanks to a wonderful group of young people: the K-Kids, a youth group affiliated with Kiwanis Club, and a contingent of high school students who were carrying out part of their community service obligation.

With Ms. Gayle Gennet, of Charlevoix Elementary School, and Ms. Elizabeth Grunch, of Charlevoix High School, they cleared my yard of fallen leaves, something which I can no longer do for myself. The group worked quickly and enthusiastically, in spite of very chilly and windy weather. I deeply appreciate their help; they demonstrate an outstanding example of good citizenship and participation in the life of their community.

Buckle up

Editor:

Nov. 15 marks the first day of firearm hunting season in Michigan. But it isn't just deer at risk during this season. Active deer running for cover pose a serious threat to motorists. The best protection for any passenger or motorist is your safety belt. Buckled. Always.

Michigan leads the nation in deer related crashes. Last year there were over 65,000.

If the possibility of crashing into a deer doesn't motivate you to buckle up, consider this: For two weeks beginning Nov. 25, more of Michigan's law enforcement officers will be on the road strictly enforcing the law that requires front seat passengers to buckle up. They will be looking for safety belt violations and issuing tickets.

Don't take a chance with your life or your wallet. Buckle your safety belt.

Editor:

Keep up the good work. Your last two editorials have been excellent. The public appreciates being truly informed about what really goes on in the political arena downtown.

Save the school

Editor:

It would be easier for the school board to tear down the buildings and put the cash in the bank.

It would be easier for the library to just build a new building.

It would be easier for the city to say we don't need a new gym.

But Charlevoix has the opportunity to do it right, not easier!

The Downtown Development Authority has taken a positive step to fund an engineering and architectural study to use for the old middle school as a library/community center. The library board has offered to swap their current site for the old middle school site and the city wants to buy land for parking.

This is a unique partnership between three public entities that can result in a win-win-win.

On Nov. 14, 20 people gathered for the first meeting of the Committee for the Charlevoix Community Center. The committee is forming a 501(c)3 non-profit corporation with the goal of preserving the gymnasium and developing a feasibility plan for a library/community center based on the results of the study and the needs of the community. We are designing a needs assessment and planning fund-raising.

The library will win because they will have the additional space and parking needed to plan for the next 20 years.

The city will win because the recreation program will need the gymnasium when boys and girls sports are in the same season. (There are many groups who could win by using the space now.)

The school will win because they will be compensated for the building.

The community will win because they will have a wonderful library, gym and community center in the heart of Charlevoix.

You can be a member of this winning team and help make it happen. Talk to your city council members, school board representatives and county commissioners. Let them know this is important to you and the future of our community. Join us at our next meeting at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 4 in the Pine Lake Room on the lower level of the Charlevoix County Building.

How to get news in the paper

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail charlevoixcourier@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event we are notified of. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Historical thanks

The Charlevoix Historical Society is sending out its thanks to the community for its recent support of its annual spaghetti dinner and especially to Terry Left of the Villager Pub, who every year offers his restaurant for the society's use. All tips collected during the evening help preserve and restore the historical artifacts in the museum collection. Door prize winners for the night were: Hal Johnson, of East Jordan; Cathie Terrill, of Charlevoix and Dianne Clifford, of Charlevoix.

Hospital fund-raiser shows merchant's support

Local merchants, Charlevoix Area Hospital and many area school children are working together to help spread the message that money spent locally benefits everyone.

"We know that dollars spent locally create a circle of funds that will benefit our community," William C. Jackson, president of Charlevoix Area Hospital, said.

On Nov. 29, many local merchants will display decorated bedpans to collect loose change to benefit the hospital and many will donate a percent of their sales. A project of the Retail Committee of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Business and Professional Committee of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Development Council, "Shop Charlevoix" demonstrates to the community that merchants and retailers here support the hospital and that money spent here turns into jobs, groceries, gas, construction and donations that benefit the community.

Lori Jodar, business and professional chair, said, "We're very grateful to all those taking part in this promotion to benefit the hospital and encourage local shopping."

Shoppers are encouraged to check out the bedpans by students from St. Mary's School, Charlevoix High School and some hospital employee children. They range from being covered in feathers, to stickers to special paint jobs and decorative scenes — many with patriotic themes.

"We are very grateful to all the students and teachers for their creativity and time," Jackson said.

Shoppers are encouraged to watch for participating merchants and their associates, many of whom will be wearing hospital scrubs. Many merchants will also display the "bedpans," throughout the holiday season, collecting loose change for additional donations to the hospital. Funds raised through Shop Charlevoix will go toward the hospital's equipment needs for the new expansion and remodeling project.

Participating merchants will provide shoppers with a wide range of locations to have a meal, decorate their home, fill a prescription, visit their local bank, buy a tree for the holidays, have their hair done, go to the movies, purchase some new shoes or clothing, get a book, purchase new furniture, do their Christmas shopping and pick up some cheese and wine.

Participating retailers include: Charlevoix Country Club, Charlevoix Screen Masters, Esperance, Giuseppe's Italian Grille, Don's Market in Charlevoix and Harbor Springs, Hair Quarters, Mason Interiors, Elements, The New Trademark, Three Chairs Company, Village Inn Pizza, Carey's Shoes, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank, Central Drug, Whitney's of Charlevoix, J. Charles R. Lehman: Aug. 16, 1935 - Nov. 10, 2002

Charles R. Lehman, 67, of Charlevoix, entered Eternal Life Nov. 10, 2002.

A celebration of Charles' heavenly homecoming, lead by Pastor Arndt of the Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church in Petoskey, was Nov. 14, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, concluding with graveside services at the Barnard Cemetery and followed by a luncheon at the Charlevoix Estates Clubhouse.

Charles was born Aug. 16, 1935, in east Detroit. He served in the Army Air Reserves as a helicopter mechanic and worked in Detroit for the Detroit Board of Education before moving to Charlevoix, where he met and fell in love with Audrey (Egler).

They were married Dec. 10, 1982. Charlie worked at Medusa Cement Company until retiring in 1995.

Charles loved being an umpire for the Charlevoix recreation department. He was an active member of Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church. He enjoyed "tinkering" with his Antique 1930 Model A Ford. He loved to garden, whether it was roses, gladiolus or his prized Rhododendrons. He loved being busy in his yard, pole barn or by lending a hand to his neighbors. He was a true friend to many, sharing joys, sorrows, celebrations and coffee.

He and Audrey truly loved traveling in their motor home, visiting children, sight seeing and wintering in Sebring, Fla.

He is preceded in death by his mother, Carrie (Hunttenlocher), and father, Ralph Lehman. He has left his love in the hearts of those he leaves behind, his wife of 20 years, Audrey, her children whom he shared his love with; Kathy Lester, her sons Matthew and Jay; Scott Egler, his wife Lynn; Beth Egler; Patty Thomas, her husband Al; Janice Massey, her husband Bob, his children Angela and Bobby; Mary Young, her husband David, his children Nicholas and Amanda; Tom Egler, his wife Terry, their children Julian and Shannon.

He also leaves behind his brothers Michael, his wife Barb; Bob and his wife Linda; sisters, Shirley Azuara, her husband Manuel and Sally Sauer, her husband Bert, plus many nieces and nephews.

Charles also leaves behind the memory of kindness and generosity to many friends who will dearly miss his smile, laughter and help.

Memorial donations may be sent to Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church, 1825 Sheridan Road, Petoskey, MI 49770.

Dorothy R. Smith: Sept. 25, 1912 - Nov. 12, 2002

Dorothy R. Smith, 90, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 12, 2002, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Dorothy was born Sept. 25, 1912, in Boyne City, the daughter of Harry B. and Kate (White) Rothenberger. She graduated from Boyne City High School in 1930, then graduated from Eastern Michigan University in 1933 with a life certificate, later a bachelor of science in education.

She taught at Boyne City High School from 1934-42 and at Lincoln Park Public Schools from 1942-75.

Dorothy was a member of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix, was a volunteer at Charlevoix Area Hospital and the Rainbow Shoppe, was a life member of the Charlevoix Historical Society and was a member of Michigan Retired School Personnel.

Dorothy traveled extensively having made two trips to Europe. She also toured Japan, China, Africa, Malasia, Australia, New Zealand, Athens, Greece and Greek Islands, Cairo and the Nile and all the United States Pacific Islands, many of the Caribbean Islands, Hawaii and Alaska.

On March 21, 1942, Dorothy married Victor C. Smith and he preceded her in death on July 20, 1965. She is survived by her nephews, Carl H. (D'Ann) Rothenberger of Charlevoix, Kenneth R. (Joan) Bell of Fontana, Wis., and James (Patricia) Racignol of Cadillac; grandnephews, Carl H. (Karen) Rothenberger, III., Jess (Kris) Racignol; grandnieces, Danya (Chris) Drost, Jenny (Mark) Van deBogert, Sandra (Michael) deCastro; great-grandnieces, Taya, Taryn, Shayna and Janay Drost, Ana Rothenberger, Makayla deCastro, Kelly Racignol; great-grandnephews, Michael Van deBogert, Kaden and Merrek deCastro, Jack Racignol.

Dorothy was also preceded in death by six sisters and two brothers.

Memorial contributions may be made to Christ Episcopal Church or the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Clock back

As a result of a generous donation by Harriet Noble of Ellsworth, the original clock which hung in the ticket master's office at the Charlevoix Depot has been returned to its rightful spot. Stamped on the back of the case are the initials "C & WM" which stand for Chicago and West Michigan Railroad, the company which built the railbed and the depot in 1892. Noble was given the clock by Lester Arndt, who was the depot agent for a period of time ending in 1970. When the last train departed in 1982, Arndt was told by the Chesapeake and Ohio Company which then owned the railroad that, as a thank you for his years of service, he could remove anything he wanted from the premises before the depot was sold. He chose the clock. The Charlevoix Historical Society has now placed the clock, still in running condition, back on the wall where it kept time for 90 years. Society co-directors David Miles, left, and Betsy Reynolds with the clock. (Courtesy photo)

Hunter allegedly shoots at another in argument

A 26-year-old Charlevoix resident was arrested following an altercation around 11 p.m., Nov. 14 in Fisherman's Island State Park located in Norwood Township.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater at around 11 p.m. on Nov. 14 Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies responded to a reported assault involving a firearm in Fisherman's Island State Park.

An investigation found a group of deer hunters had set up camp in the state park for the opening of firearms deer season. Several hunters went to another campsite to visit other deer hunters. An altercation began between several of the hunters, as one hunter was leaving the camp site, a shot was fired at a 29-year-old male from the Charlevoix area.

The victim was not injured and fled into the woods. It was reported several more shots were fired by the same suspect as the victim fled.

Deputies were able to locate the 26-year-old Charlevoix suspect in the state park campground area; he was taken into custody without incident. Deputies also recovered a .45 caliber semi-automatic pistol and one deer rifle during the arrest.

The suspect was lodged in the Charlevoix County Jail pending issuance of warrants for felonious assault with a weapon, possession of a firearm during the commission of a crime and possession of a firearm while intoxicated.

Alcohol is believed to have been involved in the incident, which is under further investigation at this time.

No fire calls for department since July 15

Fire gear lies ready for the next call as Charlevoix firefighters wait patiently. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

As furnaces are lit and wood stoves are stoked this winter, the threat of structure fires increases, but the city of Charlevoix fire department has had an unusual lull in calls.

Fire trucks can be seen pulling in and out of the station attached to city hall for department drills, but there has been a four month drought in real emergency response situations.

"We have to be prepared because you have no idea when it will happen. Sooner or later we'll be called on to operate so we best keep training," fire chief Doug Carver said.

The last major structure fire took place July 14 at a home off Whitmere Road in Norwood Township and ever since the sirens have been silent.

While Carver is pleased that the fire prevention message is being heard, he said there is a down side for the department.

"I think they (firefighters) lose their edge when you just don't have any calls. Drills aren't a replacement for a real emergency," he said.

He added that many other northern Michigan fire departments are seeing a similar drop off in structure fire emergencies which is unusual for this time of year.

"Now is the height, people start burning woodstoves and are working inside more," he said.

Carver said with the holidays just around the corner it's especially important that the city department be ready. He explained that Christmas and the indoor Christmas trees and wrapping paper that go along with it, make this time of year one of the worst times for fires.

While reduced preparedness is one of Carver's concerns, another is the loss of volunteers. The department currently has 26 volunteer firemen and four on staff.

"We haven't had any drop out, but it could happen," he said.

In 2001 the city fire department responded to six structure fires. As of Nov. 15, 2002 they had also responded to six, meaning if the city fire department makes it through Jan. 1, 2003 without a structure fire call there will have been no increase.

Former Housing Coalition executive director arrested

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Former Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition executive director Victoria Anne Morgan was arrested recently by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and charged with embezzlement and check fraud.

She was arraigned on Oct. 15 and entered a plea of not guilty. Morgan is out on bail. A preliminary exam has been set for 3:15 p.m., Dec. 3 in the Charlevoix District Court.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, Morgan's arrest stems from a five month investigation. The amount of money involved in this matter is yet to be determined.

George Booth, the new executive director of the housing coalition said the organization is in good financial shape right now.

"It has not affected our agency at all. We are very healthy and doing well," he said.

Board member John Murphy added, "We are actually expanding services to the homeless and families in need of better housing."

He stressed no funding has been cut and the organization is financially sound.

Booth was appointed the executive director in August. Morgan had been dismissed from her position with the housing coalition in June.

According to Lasater, Morgan is also facing additional criminal charges on similar counts in Cheboygan County, though not associated with the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition.

Play challenges students with Dream Coat

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix performing arts students will be breaking new ground on the high school's new state-of-the-art stage.

Over 60 students will come together for the school's fall performance of the Broadway version of, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat."

Performances are scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Nov. 23 and at 2:30 p.m., Nov. 24 in the new high school auditorium located at 5200 Marion Center Road in Charlevoix.

Performing arts instructor and musical director, Connie Ford, said the performance was chosen by the students out of a stack of possibilities because it challenged them.

"They wanted a challenge — there is no dialogue, so they are learning how to act and sing, not just here is the acting and here is the singing," she said.

Through songs, the students will tell the Biblical story of Joseph, one of 12 sons of Jacob. When Jacob gave Joseph a multicolored coat from his father the other brothers were jealous and in an act of vengeance sold Joseph into slavery.

While a slave, he earned his master's respect and was promoted, only to be at the wrong place at the wrong time with a certain lady — a stroke of bad luck that landed him in jail.

This was all Ford and Craig Stockman, who plays Joseph, the lead in the play, would divulge, leaving the rest to be discovered at the show.

While this is not the performing arts troupe's first time on the stage, they performed for the inaugural Rotary Reach for the Stars event, this will be its first major production.

Ford and Stockman both said that those who have attended past performances in the former Charlevoix High School gym are in for a treat.

The stage itself is permanent and "real" stage curtains border each side of the performance area. Bleacher seating has been replaced by plush theater seats and state of the art technology replaces a mobile lighting system and an outdated sound system.

Ford said during the last six weeks of practice she and students have spent time getting accustomed to the new equipment. Two student technicians are now ready to run sound for the big show.

Because of the adjustment to the new facility and new equipment, Ford said the move has made directing the fall show both easier and harder.

"Easier because I don't have to be in here two hours early to set up everything and I don't have to spend time hanging curtains over windows. But it's technically harder to teach," she said.

In spite of difficulties Ford and her students have welcomed the new facility with open arms.

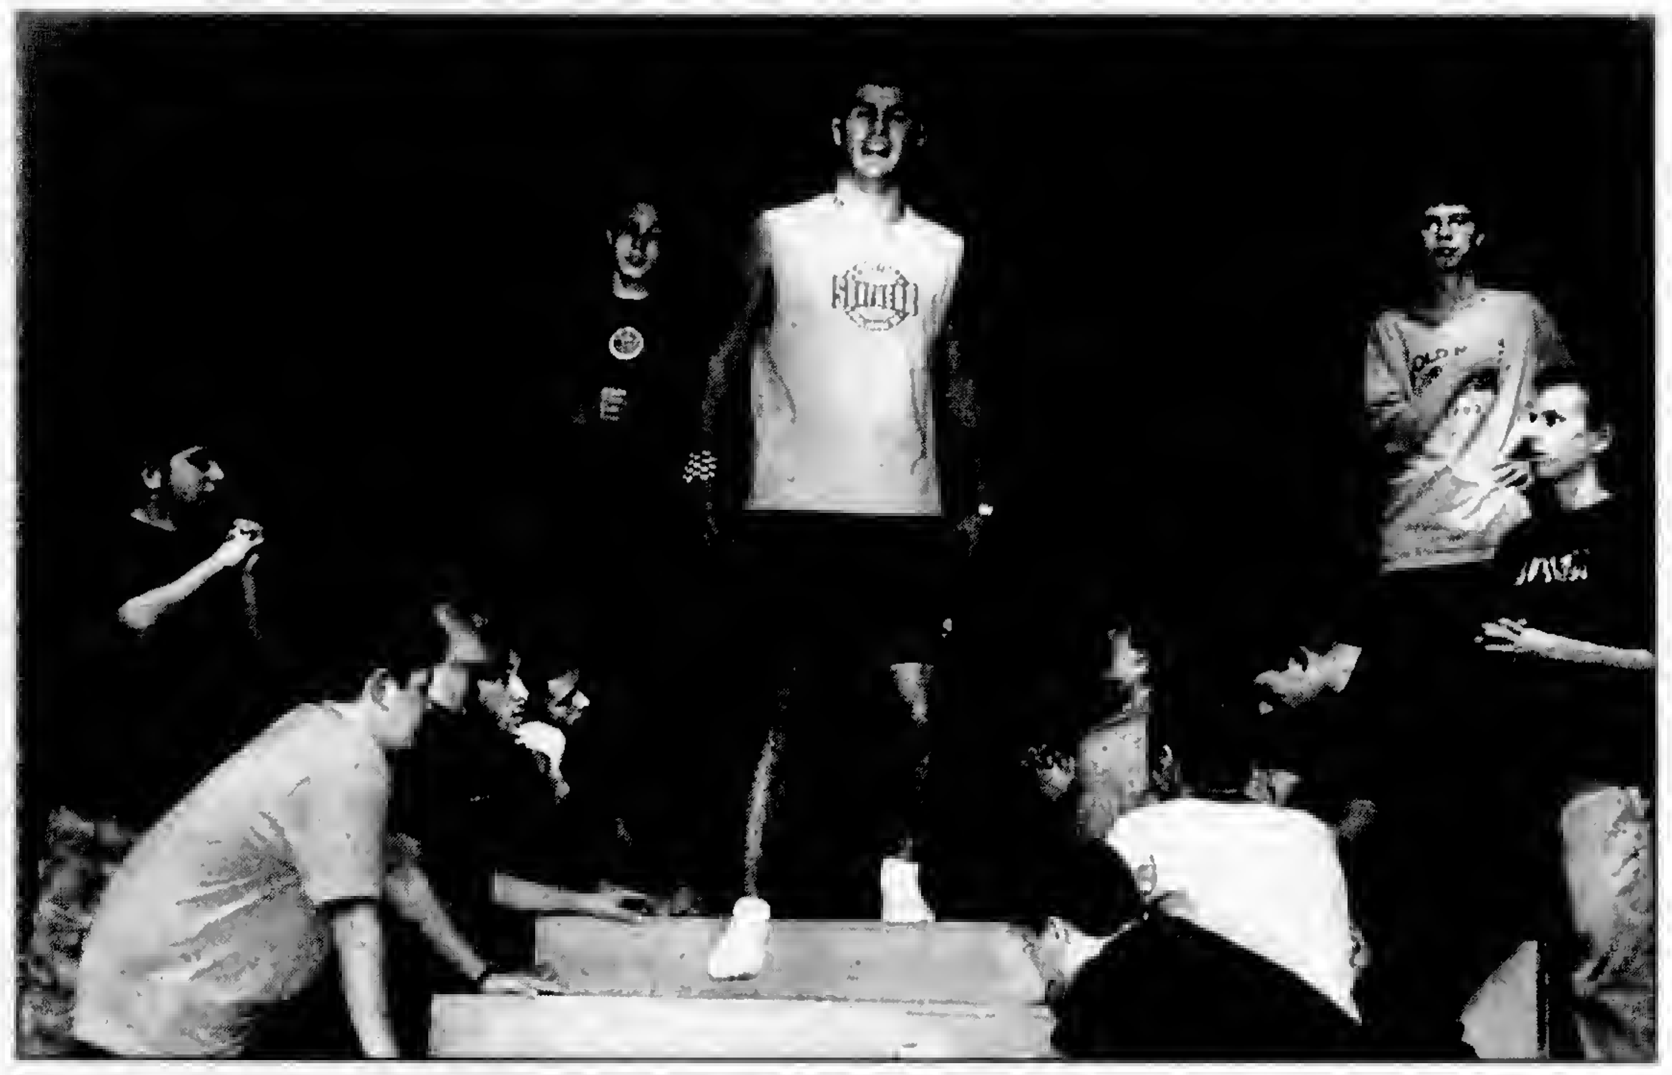
Stockman said he can hardly wait to hit the stage.

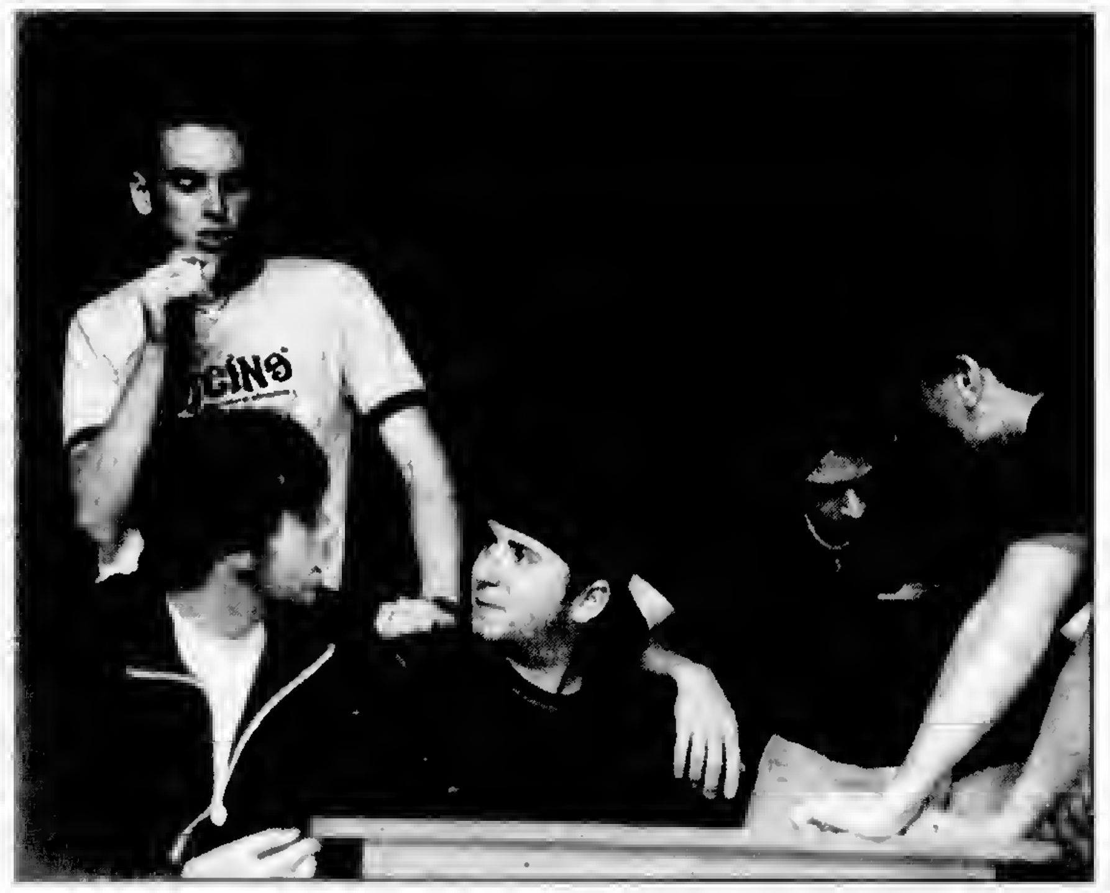
"Now we get a feel of what it will actually be like by being in the theater instead of the gym," he said.

Ford added that those who attend will appreciate the change just as much as she and her students have.

"It will make a difference in the quality of the program. By the end of the year we will be doing some pretty complicated productions," she said.

Tickets for the upcoming show are $3 for students and $5 for adults. They are available at the school's front office. For more information call the school at 547-3222.





Charlevoix High School students have been working on the first play for the new auditorium. (Above) Joseph's brothers grovel for food after he is made prince of Egypt. (Joseph's brother Rueben, played by Adam Richards, sings, "Those Canaan Days," a song about famine. Building preservation group has first meeting

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A group of Charlevoix residents confirmed they want to save the former Charlevoix Middle School and moved forward by agreeing to officially register as a non-profit corporation.

This week, Marilyn Hall and Connie Saltonstall, co-chairs of the Committee for the Charlevoix Middle School, plan to work toward getting 501C3 status for the committee.

After a two hour brainstorming session Nov. 14, the 20 community members who attended the first committee meeting had developed a list of ideas for the old building.

Saltonstall said some of the ideas for the school included: use for education including college classrooms and adult and alternative education, a craft show venue, part of the library, a place for stage productions, use for recreational sports, a building to serve senior citizens, a community center, a conference area and an arts center.

Saltonstall said the plan that received the most support was for a combined community center and library.

"Everyone there could see the value in having a library and community center in the same place," she said.

Saving the gym was also of specific interest to those who attended.

"The gym and recreation idea was a slam dunk; everyone agreed we need to keep the gym — there isn't enough gym time or space," Saltonstall said.

At this point the committee may agree, but any use of the gym for a recreation program faces two major players who don't want anything to do with it: City of Charlevoix administrators and the Charlevoix School Board.

"The people were in favor of using it this winter, but the problem with us doing that is the school board and the city have said they want it locked up," Saltonstall said. "I find that very discouraging."

At the November school board meeting Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturock said the cost of maintaining the building would be higher if it were open.

Saltonstall said in order to use the building the committee will need to raise non-public money to pay the school the difference in utilities and to find and pay a maintenance worker.

"(At the meeting) I felt the community supports the project, but the committee's real challenge will be getting the school board and city to come on board," she said.

Fund-raising and generating interest from school and city officials requires commitment from volunteers, who may lose interest as the process continues with no definite direction. The group started out working toward use of the building as a community center and now its definite direction is undefined.

Recently, the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) offered to fund a study that will explore uses of the building. However, the DDA can not fund the study until it has expanded its district to include the school property.

A public hearing to discuss the expansion is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 2 in city council chambers at city hall located at 210 State Street in Charlevoix.

So, Saltonstall said the study results may not be ready until January and as of now the committee doesn't know exactly what use it is promoting or even when it will be able to establish this use.

"I think they (members of the committee) understand this is a process and long-term plans have to wait for the results of the study," she said.

In the meantime, committee members will meet with officials, attend meetings, discuss plans with local service clubs and look into fund-raising.

To generate more interest the group is considering an idea offered by Mary Snyder — sponsoring a sock hop for former students and others interested in preserving the school.

The group's next meeting will take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 4 in the Pine Lake room on the lower level of the Charlevoix County Building.

Contact the library at 547-2651 for more information about the committee.

Homeless shelter closes due to low use, high costs

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix homeless shelter, the Ezra House, faced a tough financial decision and closed its doors in June.

"We've closed the physical location because the census didn't allow volunteers to have enough to do. It was so erratic," Tim Boyko, Christian Outreach to Strangers board president said. "It worked but it didn't work enough."

He said use had steadily declined from January of this year and in June the board met and decided it was paying too much for apartment space that wasn't being used that much. The shelter was located in the apartment above the Serenity House where the Alano Club meets, off Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

"It just wasn't the most efficient use of donated funds," Boyko said.

The Ezra House opened its doors March 15, 2001. It was an extension of the outreach group which formed in 1999. The board drew its volunteer membership from the local religious community.

In January of 2000 the program hosted its first clients who were accommodated in area churches. From that point to January of 2002, two years later, the program gave people a roof over their heads 120 different nights.

Money donated to the Ezra House and the Christian Outreach to Strangers program will be transferred to the Charlevoix Ministerial Association and will be handed out to applicants in need.

However, Charlevoix no longer offers the outreach service and with winter beginning to show its cold face, Charlevoix's disbanded program may make some worry. Boyko said at this time of year rising heating costs coupled with high home costs have people struggling to make ends meet.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 679 of 2002

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Addition of new Chapter 163 to Article XI.

11.81. Purpose.

The purposes of this chapter are to regulate access to and ongoing use of public rights-of-way by telecommunications providers for their telecommunications facilities while protecting the public health, safety and welfare and exercising reasonable control of the public rights-of-way in compliance with the Metropolitan Extension Telecommunications Rights-of-Way Oversight Act (Act No. 48 of the Public Acts of 2002) ("Act") and other applicable law, and to ensure that the City qualifies for distributions under the Act by modifying the fees charged to providers and complying with the Act.

11.82. Conflict.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed in such a manner as to conflict with the Act of other applicable law.

11.83. Terms Defined.

The terms used in this chapter shall have the following meanings:

(a) "Act" means the Metropolitan Extension Telecommunications Rights-of-Way Oversight Act (Act No. 48 of the Public Acts of 2002), as amended from time to time.

(b) "City" means the City Charlevoix

(c) "City Council" means the City Council of the City Charlevoix or its designee. This Section does not authorize delegation of any decision or function that is required by law to be made by the City Council.

(d) "City Manager" means the City Manager or his or her designee.

(e) "Permit" means a non-exclusive permit issued pursuant to the Act and this chapter to a telecommunications provider to use the public rights-of-way in the City for its telecommunications facilities.

All other terms used in this chapter shall have the same meaning as defined or as provided in the Act, including without limitation the following:

(f) "Authority" means the Metropolitan Extension Telecommunications Rights-of-Way Oversight Authority created pursuant to Section 3 of the Act.

(g) "MPSC" means the Michigan Public Service Commission in the Department of Consumer and Industry Services, and shall have the same meaning as the term "Commission" in the Act.

(h) "Person" means an individual, corporation, partnership, association, governmental entity, or any other legal entity.

(i) "Public Right-of-Way" means the area on, below or above a public roadway, highway, street, alley, easement or waterway. Public right-of-way does not include a federal, state, or private right-of-way.

(j) "Telecommunications Facilities or Facilities" means the equipment or personal property, such as copper and fiber cables, lines, wires, switches, conduits, pipes and sheaths, which are used to or can generate, receive, transmit, carry, amplify, or provide telecommunication services or signals. Telecommunication facilities or facilities do not include antennas, supporting structures for antennas, equipment shelters or houses, and any ancillary equipment and miscellaneous hardware used to provide federally licensed commercial mobile service as defined in section 332(d) or part I of title III of the communications act of 1934, chapter 652, 48 Stat. 1064, 47 U.S.C. 332 and further defined as commercial mobile radio service in 47 CFR 20.3, and service provided by any wireless, two-way communication device.

(k) "Telecommunications Provider, Provider and Telecommunications Services" mean those terms as defined in Section 102 of the Michigan Telecommunications Act, 1991 PA 179, MCL 484.2102. Telecommunication Provider does not include a person or an affiliate of that person when providing a federally licensed commercial mobile radio service as defined in Section 332(d) of part I of the communications act of 1934, chapter 652, 48 Stat. 1064, 47 U.S.C. 332 and further defined as commercial mobile radio service in 47 CFR 20.3, or service provided by any wireless, two-way communication device. For the purpose of the Act and this ordinance only, a Provider also includes as of the following:

(1) A cable television operator that provides a telecommunications service.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by the Act, a person who owns telecommunication facilities located within a public right-of-way.

(3) A person providing broadband internet transport access service.

11.84. Permit Required.

(a) Permit Required. Except as otherwise provided in the Act, a telecommunications provider using or seeking to use public rights-of-way in the City for its telecommunications facilities shall apply for and obtain a permit pursuant to this chapter.

(b) Application. Telecommunications providers shall apply for a permit on an application form approved by the MPSC in accordance with Section 6(1) of the Act. A telecommunications provider shall file one copy of the application with the City Clerk, one copy with the City Manager, and one copy with the City Attorney. Applications shall be complete and include all information required by the Act, including without limitation a route map showing the location of the provider's existing and proposed facilities in accordance with Section 6(5) of the Act.

(c) Confidential Information. If a telecommunications provider claims that any portion of the route maps submitted by it as part of its application contain trade secret, proprietary, or confidential information, which is exempt from the Freedom of Information Act, 1976 PA 442, MCL 15.231 to 15.246, pursuant to Section 6(5) of the Act, the telecommunications provider shall prominently so indicate on the face of each map.

(d) Application Fee. Except as otherwise provided by the Act, the application shall be accompanied by a one-time non-refundable application fee in the amount of $500.

(e) Additional Information. The City Manager may request an applicant to submit such additional information which the City Manager deems reasonably necessary or relevant. The applicant shall comply with all such requests in compliance with reasonable deadlines for such additional information established by the City Manager. If the City and the applicant cannot agree on the requirement of additional information requested by the City, the City or the applicant shall notify the MPSC as provided in Section 6(2) of the Act.

(f) Previously Issued Permits. Pursuant to Section 5(1) of the Act, authorizations or permits previously issued by the City under Section 251 of the Michigan Telecommunications Act, 1991 PA 179, MCL 484.2251 and authorizations or permits issued by the City to telecommunications providers prior to the 1995 enactment of Section 251 of the Michigan Telecommunications Act but after 1985 shall satisfy the permit requirements of this chapter.

(g) Existing Providers. Pursuant to Section 5(3) of the Act, within 180 days from November 1, 2002, the effective date of the Act, a telecommunications provider with facilities located in a public right-of-way in the City as of such date, that has not previously obtained authorization or a permit under Section 251 of the Michigan Telecommunications Act, 1991 PA 179, MCL 484.2251, shall submit to the City an application for a permit in accordance with the requirements of this chapter. Pursuant to Section 5(3) of the Act, a telecommunications provider submitting an application under this subsection is not required to pay the $500 application fee required under subsection (d) above. A provider under this subsection shall be given up to an additional 180 days to submit the permit application if allowed by the Authority, as provided in Section 5(4) of the Act.

11.85. Issuance of Permit.

(a) Approval or Denial. The authority to approve or deny an application for a permit is hereby delegated to the City Manager. Pursuant to Section 15(3) of the Act, the City Manager shall approve or deny an application for a permit within forty-five (45) days from the date a telecommunications provider files an application for a permit under Section 4(b) of this ordinance for access to a public right-of-way within the City. Pursuant to Section 6(6) of the Act, the City Manager shall notify the MPSC when the City Manager has granted or denied a permit, including information regarding the date on which the application was filed and the date on which permit was granted or denied. The City Manager shall not unreasonably deny an application for a permit.

(b) Form of Permit. If an application for permit is approved, the City Manager shall issue the permit in the form approved by the MPSC, with or without additional or different permit terms, in accordance with Sections 6(1), 6(2) and 15 of the Act.

(c) Conditions. Pursuant to Section 15(4) of the Act, the City Manager may impose conditions on the issuance of a permit, which conditions shall be limited to the telecommunications provider's access and usage of the public right-of-way.

(d) Bond Requirement. Pursuant to Section 15(3) of the Act, and without limitation on subsection (c) above, the City Manager may require that a bond be posted by the telecommunications provider as a condition of the permit. If a bond is required, it shall not exceed the reasonable cost to ensure that the public right-of-way is returned to its original condition during and after the telecommunications provider's access and use.

11.86. Construction/Engineering Permit.

A telecommunications provider shall not commence construction upon, over, across, or under the public right-of-way in the City without first obtaining a construction or engineering permit as required under Chapter 8 of this Code, as amended, for construction within the public rights-of-way. No fee shall be charged for such a construction or engineering permit.

11.87. Conduit of Utility Poles.

Pursuant to Section 4(3) of the Act, obtaining a permit or paying the fees required under the Act or under this chapter does not give a telecommunications provider a right to use conduit or utility poles.

11.88. Route Maps.

Pursuant to Section 6(7) of the Act, a telecommunications provider shall, within 90 days after the substantial completion of construction of new telecommunications facilities in the City, submit route maps showing the location of the telecommunications facilities to both the MPSC and to the City. The route maps should be in paper format unless and until the Commission determines otherwise, in accordance with Section 6(8) of the Act.

11.89. Repair of Damage.

Pursuant to Section 15(5) of the Act, a telecommunications provider undertaking an excavation or construction or installing telecommunications facilities within a public right-of-way or temporarily obstructing a public right-of-way in the City, as authorized by a permit, shall promptly repair all damage done to the street surface and all installations under, over, below or within the public right-of-way and shall promptly restore the public right-of-way to its pre-existing condition.

11.90. Establishment and Payment of Maintenance Fee.

In addition to the non-refundable application fee paid to the City set forth in subsection 11.84(d) above, a telecommunications provider with telecommunications facilities in the City's public rights-of-way shall pay an annual maintenance fee to the Authority pursuant to Section 8 of the Act.

11.91. Modification of Existing Fees.

In compliance with the requirements of Section 13(1) of the Act, the City hereby modifies, to the extent necessary, any fees charged to telecommunications providers after November 1, 2002, the effective date of the Act, relating to access and usage of the public rights-of-way, to an amount not exceeding the amounts of fees and charges required under the Act, which shall be paid to the Authority. In compliance with the requirements of Section 13(4) of the Act, the City also hereby approves modification of the fees of providers with telecommunication facilities in public rights-of-way within the City's boundaries, so that those providers pay only those fees required under Section 8 of the Act. The City shall provide each telecommunications provider affected by the fee with a copy of this ordinance, in compliance with the requirement of Section 13(4) of the Act. To the extent any fees are charged telecommunications providers in excess of the amounts permitted under the Act, or which are otherwise inconsistent with the Act, such imposition is hereby declared to be contrary to the City's policy and intent, and upon application by a provider or discovery by the City, shall be promptly refunded as having been charged in error.

11.92. Savings Clause.

Pursuant to Section 13(5) of the Act, if Section 8 of the Act is found to be invalid or unconstitutional, the modification of fees under section 11.91 above shall be void from the date modification was made.

11.93. Use of Funds.

Pursuant to Section 9(4) of the Act, all amounts received by the City from the Authority shall be used by the City solely for rights-of-way related purposes. In conformance with that requirement, all funds received by the City from the Authority shall be deposited into the Major Street Fund and/or the Local Street Fund maintained by the City under Act No. 51 of the Public Acts of 1951.

11.94. Annual Report.

Pursuant to Section 10(5) of the Act, the City Manager shall file an annual report with the Authority on the use and disposition of funds annually distributed by the Authority.

11.95 Cable Television Operators.

Pursuant to Section 13(6) of the Act, the City shall not hold a cable television operator in default or seek any remedy for its failure to satisfy an obligation, if any, to pay after November 1, 2002, the effective date of this Act, a franchise fee or similar fee on that portion of gross revenues from charges the cable operator received for cable modem services provided through broadband internet transport access services.

11.96. Existing Rights.

Pursuant to Section 4(2) of the Act, except as expressly provided herein with respect to fees, this ordinance shall not affect any existing rights that a telecommunications provider or the City may have under a permit issued by the City or under a contract between the City and a telecommunications provider related to the use of the public rights-of-way.

11.97. Compliance.

The City hereby declares that its policy and intent in adopting this ordinance is to fully comply with the requirements of the Act, and the provisions of this chapter should be construed in such a manner as to achieve that purpose.

11.98. Reservation of Police Powers.

Pursuant to Section 15(2) of the Act, this ordinance shall not limit the City's right to review and approve a telecommunication provider's access to and ongoing use of a public right-of-way or limit the City's authority to ensure and protect the health, safety and welfare of the public.

11.99. Severability.

The various parts, sentences, paragraphs, sections and clauses of this ordinance are hereby declared to be severable. If any part, sentence, paragraph, section or clause of this ordinance is adjudged unconstitutional or invalid by a court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction, the unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of any remaining provisions of this ordinance.

11.100. Authorized City Officials.

The City Manager or his or her designee is hereby designated as the authorized City official to issue municipal civil infraction citations (directing alleged violators to appear in court) or municipal civil infraction violation notices (directing alleged violators to appear at the municipal chapter violations bureau) for violations under this chapter as provided by the City Code.

11.101. Municipal Civil Infraction.

A person who violates any provision of this chapter or the terms or conditions of a permit is responsible for a municipal civil infraction. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the remedies available to the City in the event of a violation by a person of this chapter or a permit.

11.102. Repealer.

All ordinances and portions of ordinances inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

SECTION 2. Effective Date.

This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its enactment.

Season ends with close win

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders girls' varsity basketball team closed out its regular season with a 55-51 victory over Boyne City.

Charlevoix finished in a tie with Kalkaska for second place in the conference with an 8-4 record. Harbor Springs won the league with a perfect 12-0 mark.

"It was a good game to get us ready for the tournament," coach Jim Parrish said.

The Rayders led throughout, but couldn't put away the pesky Ramblers. A fourth quarter Boyne comeback had them with the ball and a chance to tie in the last minute of the game.

Charlevoix held on, however, for the win.

Grace Farrell scored 13 points and grabbed eight rebounds to pace the Rayders who finished 10-10 on the year. Sarah Cross had 11 points, eight rebounds and four steals.

Jaime Pettis tallied 11 points, five rebounds and five steals.

Charlevoix defeated Elk Rapids in the first game of district play on Nov. 18. Details were unavailable at press time, but will appear in next week's Courier.

The Rayders play at 5 p.m. at Elk Rapids against Mancelona (7-13) tonight, Wednesday, with the winner likely to face Harbor Springs at 6 p.m. on Friday.

Find your lost pension

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, help is available for finding lost pensions.

In Michigan, there are more than 27,000 different pension plans covering tens of thousands of retirees. Monthly benefits from these pensions, along with Social Security benefits and private savings, are a very important part of many senior citizens' retirement income. Yet there are a surprising number of lost or forgotten pensions out there.

Many times pension administrators cannot locate former employees who have changed their addresses or names. Sometimes lost pensions belong to seniors who have simply lost track of benefits earned long ago from employers that have gone out of business, merged or moved away.

If you think you, or someone you know, may have a lost or unclaimed pension, help is available.

The federal government's Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) "Pension Search Directory" web site at www.pbgc.gov is a good place to start looking. The PBGC's free booklet, "Finding a Lost Pension" is also available by calling toll free: 1-800-400-7242.

In Michigan, seniors with pension questions or problems can also find help by contacting the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians' Pension Rights Project toll free at: (800) 347-5297 or through their web site at www.mlan.net/lhom.

Area dentists contribute much to the community

Dr. John Merrill

'Your health'

It is truly a privilege for those of us who are able to call Charlevoix home.

It is a community nestled in inspiring landscapes. It glimmers in every season. But what brings out its best are its people.

True, we often struggle to reach an agreement on virtually any subject, be it street-lights, a park or a school. We struggle because we all care deeply about this place and our community.

It is obvious that we need to appreciate the wonderful blessings we enjoy: Our community pool, our new bike path, our newly refurbished parks, our expanded hospital, our new beautiful school....the list continues.

As a dentist who has enjoyed Charlevoix for nearly 20 years now I would like to cast a spot light on our dental community and celebrate its contributions. Charlevoix hosts six private practicing dentists whose service combines for over 120 years of experience. We depend on our staffs to help serve our patients and their years of service total well over 400 years!

As I travel and work with dentists around the country it is rare that a community is so well served by such consistently high caliber professionals. Many of Charlevoix's dentists far surpass the state requirements for continued training.

Areas of advanced expertise include cosmetic and reconstructive dentistry, laser diagnostics and treatments, the emerging field of micro-dentistry, as well as periodontal and TMJ therapies. Some local dentists have even attained national recognition for their talents.

These dentists also are giving back to this community, in charities, in service clubs, in school screenings, in donated dental services and in our churches. We also work to cover for each other patients in the dentist's absence.

Most have office hours of over 30 hours per week and each dentist in town is accepting new patients. We also have access to nearly every dental specialty within less that an hour of travel.

The dentists in Charlevoix include: Dr. Jay Balasz 547-2377, Dr. John Merrill 547-9141, Dr. Glen Paramo 547-7510, Dr. Jeff Porter 547-9516, Dr. Harry Suckert 547-6269 and Dr. David Strawbridge 547-5670.

They are part of what makes Charlevoix a great place to live.

Dr. John Merrill can be contacted by calling 547-9141. His office is located on M-66, across from Kmart.

Zonta Club to give out annual award

Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is currently accepting applications for its annual Young Women in Public Affairs award, which awards $500 to an outstanding young woman living in Charlevoix County and currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9969. The deadline for receiving applications is Feb. 1, 2003 to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club c/o Maura A. Snabes, P.O. Box 633, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The winner will be announced at the Zonta meeting in late February.

The recipient of the local award will also have her application forwarded to the district, which awards an additional $500 to the district winner.

Adrienne Winchester from Charlevoix High School was named the winner of last year's Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award.

The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award competition is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. The Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs program looks to the young women today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Charlevoix Area Zonta Young Women in Public Affairs Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta.

Former students get a taste of the MEAP test

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Why is it that after almost two decades of formal education that simple phrase "I passed the test" still makes me breathe a sigh of relief.

When Dianne Litzenburger, director of communication services with the Char-Em Intermediate School District, called and asked if I would take a mock Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) test, I knew it was a must do and begrudgingly agreed.

As a reporter who conveys information about Charlevoix School District MEAP scores to the public this was the perfect opportunity to get a first hand look at what students face.

On Nov. 12 I joined about 20 other adults from Charlevoix and Emmet counties in this statewide "Take the Test" challenge.

I found that while this is a standardized test, it's different from the "darken the oval" ACT and SAT, two tests many colleges look at as an indicator of a student's intellect. The MEAP questions required greater interpretation and even offered a chance for short answer.

While I knew my score could be a secret, unlike Charlevoix students whose scores are splashed across newspapers, the student in me still wished there was an opportunity to study.

Students in Charlevoix schools take a couple weeks before the test to prepare, time some parents feel is wasted in "teaching to the test." But Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock explained the test, which began in Michigan in the late 1970s, is just one piece in the education puzzle. This piece is meant, not to compare school districts but to make schools accountable by judging whether students are meeting state benchmarks.

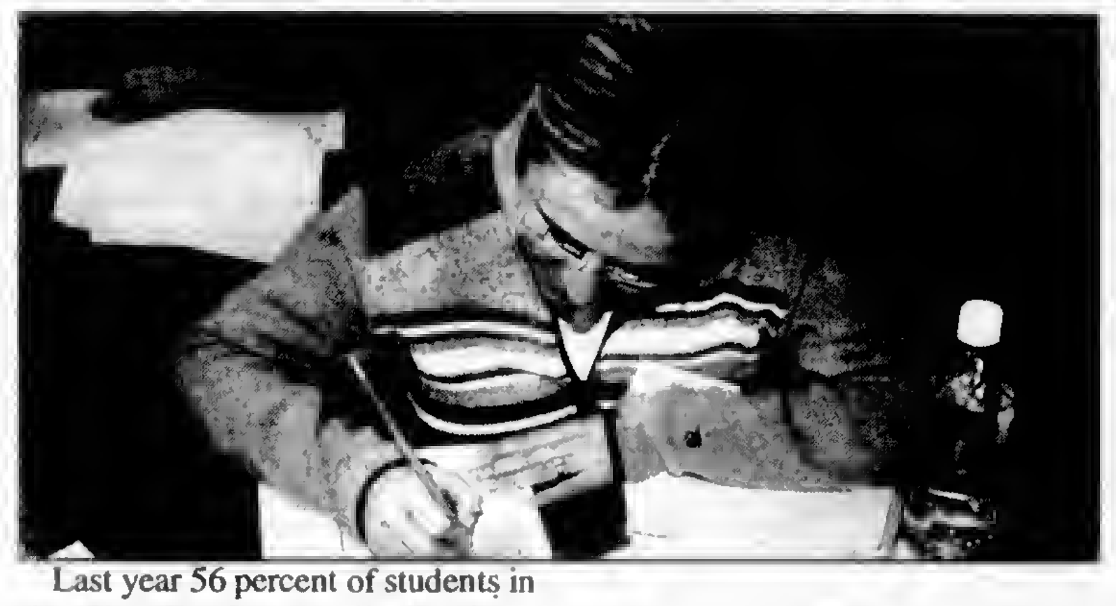
He told me, "Our product is our students and this is one of the pieces in place to make sure we are doing a job we hope all public schools are doing. Public schools are the backbone of our country."

As a recently retired student, I understand that at the state level MEAP testing is an accountability thing, but from my point of view it's another test and I know most students want to excel. So naturally the student in me crept out and I searched for a way to study. To get ready for the big night I went to the Char-Em web site, www.charemisd.org, and took what I thought was a practice with 16 questions spanning fourth through eleventh grade levels of difficulty.

Wrong, it was the real thing. I did well, but I took the test at my own desk with no time constraints. So when I opened my test booklet last Tuesday night and found the questions were all too familiar, I took the chance to watch others work furiously. I snapped some pictures of furrowed brows, heads being scratched and pencils being gnawed — all typical indicators of people taking a test.

While a learned a few things about the test's format that night, it also brought to light one important thing parents should remind themselves of as their students get ready for test time.

Tests bring anxiety and it is important all students are physically and mentally prepared for the long week of brain draining testing. That means make sure your student gets a good night of sleep, eats a high protein meal and tries to relax.



(Above) Charlevoix residents and public officials try their hand at the MEAP test Nov. 12 in the "Take the Test" Challenge. (Left) Charlevoix Courier staff writer Julie Witthoeft relives her high school days with the test. (Photos by Julie Witthoeft)

Last year 56 percent of students in the Char-Em Intermediate School District scored high enough to collect the MERIT Award, a $2,500 college scholarship. This reflects just how healthy our school districts are but students shouldn't sweat it because 20 years from now no one will remember what they scored.

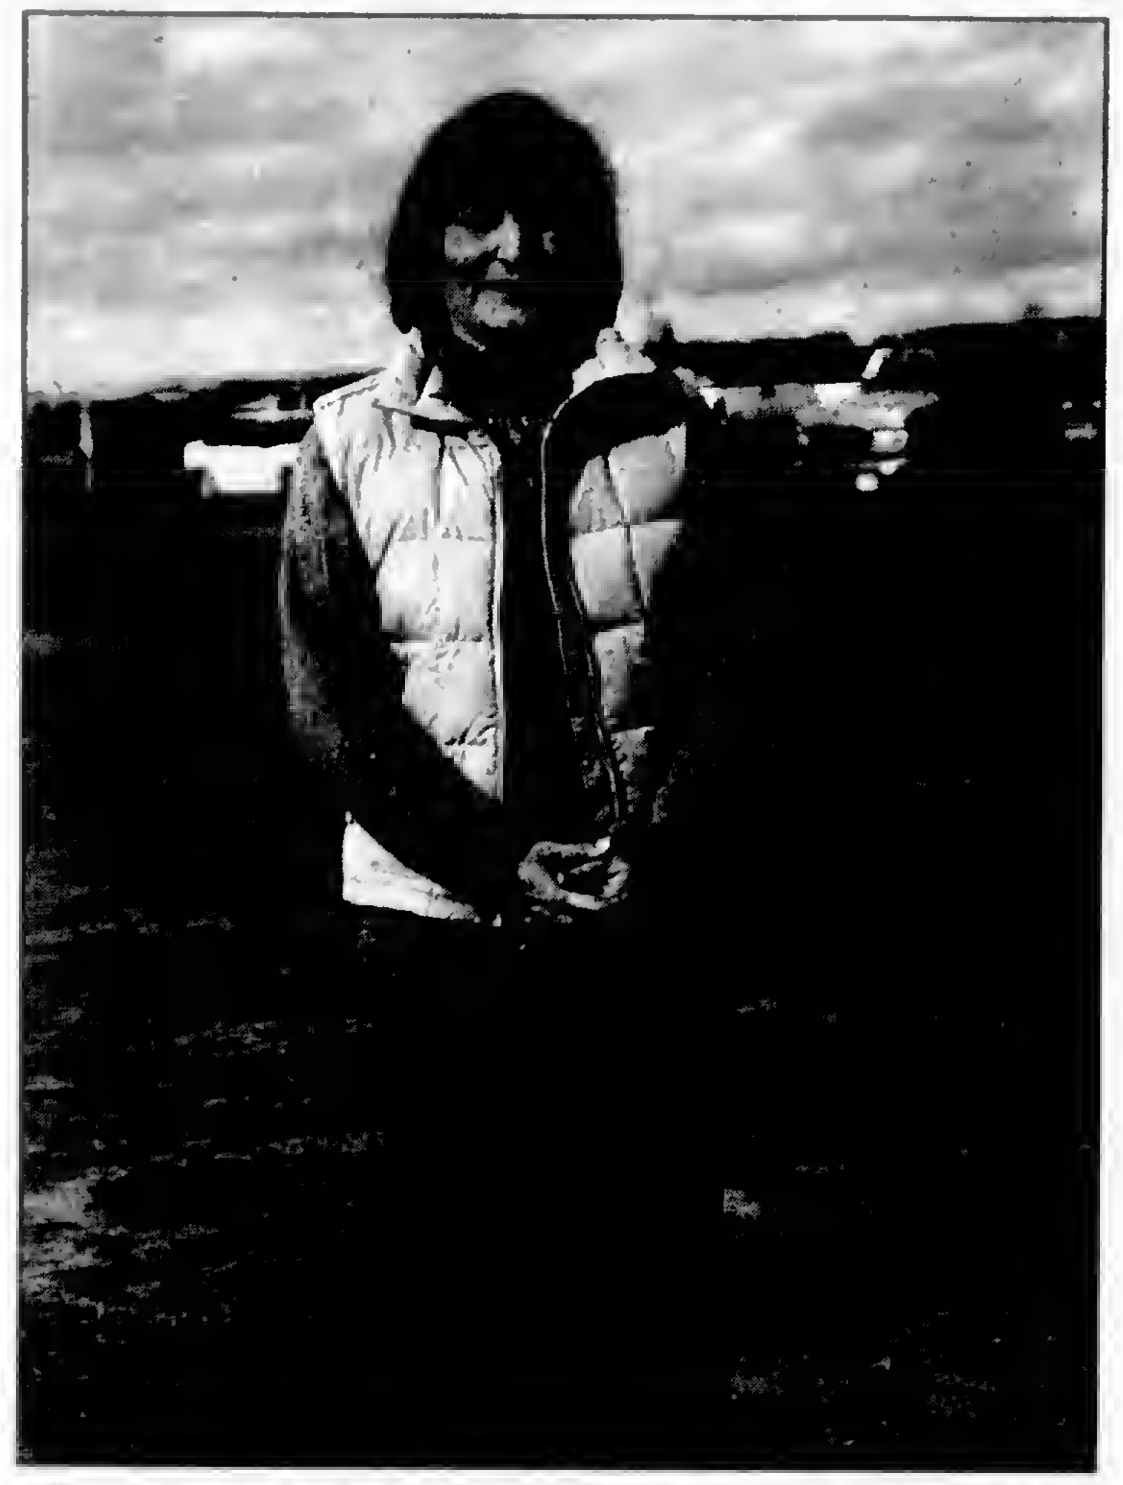
Airport plan calls for expansion, upgrades



Airport manager Karyn Brooks stands in the parking lot, which is slated for renovations. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Municipal Airport is getting ready for the next 20 years.

Recently, Charlevoix city officials approved a master plan that will affect the airport for the next 20 years with many new improvements and expansions on the property. Because it is a master plan, this means the projects are only suggestions, but some of them are already being planned for in the next five years.

"This is something that has evolved over several months. I think the product is good. How aggressively we pursue these projects will depend on growth and the use of the facility," Airport manager Karyn Brooks said.

Airport use will increase as the desire increases for individuals to visit Beaver Island and local industries increase business, she said.

Brooks added most of the feedback she has received from the master plan has been positive. Really the only concerns she said she had was due to a fencing project that is separate from this master plan.

The airport is updating the fences around the property and improving security, thus decreasing the amount of public on the airport grounds. This has caused some concern from hangar owners who often have visitors.

While Brooks said she understood their concerns, she added, "We really have to look at safety and security."

The first of the projects that will be tackled by the city in the five year portion of the master plan are improvements to the parking lot. Many complaints have been filed over the years by airport users who have gotten their vehicles stuck in the spring mud of the parking lot or found their vehicles completely frozen to the ground due to water holes in the winter.

But, Brooks said the city is planning on paving the parking lot — which should help the mud and ice situation — next year. Plans also call for a parking lot expansion in the future to meet growing needs.

Along with parking, the city is planning on developing and constructing storage buildings for snow removal and emergency equipment at the airport.

The total cost of 2003's projects are $2,100,000. Most of the money will be paid for with state and federal funds, with only $150,000 coming from local funds.

Plans for 2004 call for more hangars for private plane owners. While the individual own-

Homeless have fewer options in Charlevoix

EZRA

Now that Charlevoix is once again without a shelter, people in need will have to turn to a few other options out there to address financial and housing issues.

The Nehemiah House and Mary Margaret House in Petoskey service homeless men, women and children in the area and Ministerial Association representatives have agreed to meet the local need by providing transportation to those shelters.

Locally, a few hotels also work with the Ministerial Association to provide low cost winter accommodations for homeless clientele.

"That's a very simple option and we are not paying for unused time. But it's missing more human contact and interaction. Because of those two options, (Petoskey shelters and local hotels) I don't think people will be turned away; it's just not the same category of care," Boyko said.

To contact a Charlevoix Ministerial Association representative with questions about the programs available call Cara Hochalter or Todd Thompson at the First Congregational Church at 547-9122.

Other agencies that also handle financial hardship and homeless needs include: the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition and the Family Independence Agency (FIA). The housing coalition can be reached at 547-5451 and the FIA can be reached at 547-4471.

ers would pay for the construction of their own hangars, the city would be getting the land ready for these buildings.

In 2004, the city also wants to purchase a new plow truck, blower and sweeper.

The total cost of the 2004 plan is $1,250,000, with $418,750 coming from local funds.

In 2005, plans start for rotating an existing turf runway and preparing it for paving by getting the proper easements at the ends of the runway. If the city wants to pave the current turf runway and rotate it, it will need to get permission from some land owners to trim trees on their properties.

Actual work on this runway is not slated to start until 2006.

Along with the easements, the city wants to create the first phase of a larger aircraft parking apron. The second phase is planned for 2007.

In 2005, the total cost of the projects is $1,051,000, with $85,100 coming from local funds. In 2006, the total cost is $1,050,000, with $97,500 coming from local funds. And in 2007, the total cost is $1,615,000, with $80,750 coming from local funds.

The grand total of this five year plan is $7,066,000, with $832,750 from local funds.

These plans do not include a recent landscaping project conducted by the city and using money from the city's electrical fund.

According to city treasurer Rick Brandi, the city will still have to repay $145,400 to the electric fund for the landscaping at the airport. This money will be coming from the city's infrastructure fund.

As for the local portion of the five year plan, Brandi said all of the money will be coming from the city's airport fund. Currently, this fund has $132,000 and is growing each year.

Brandi said hopefully there will be enough money in this fund for all of the projects and the airport will support itself. He said the main factors in this will be the amount of state cutbacks next year and the amount of money in the general fund.

have an artificial rink in the park. Anything can happen in two years, it would be wonderful to have the ice rink now," she said.

Mason also argued that by having a rink in the park now, the community would have a good trial run which could help decide whether people want to have a rink in the final park plan.

Last year, Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) allocated $20,000 to pay for construction and staffing of an East Park rink.

Chairman of the DDA Hugh Mason said a request for this year has not been made and there may be money available.

John Martin, superintendent of the city street department said the rink at the current middle school will be constructed around Christmas, if the weather is cold enough.

plenty of time by purchasing Christmas gifts and tasty treats sold exclusively at the bake sale on Monday," Blossom said.

"We're always in a pinch this time of year to find distinctive hostess gifts or to figure out what to do with the kids while we shop," she said.

The extra events will help solve the nagging gift problem. The Angel Shoppe and silent auction offer thoughtful affordable gifts.

Kids suffering from cabin fever can participate in a new Holly Daze event, Elf School scheduled to take place Nov. 30. In class kids will learn to make special treats for Santa's reindeer, to decorate a Christmas cookie and will have a chance to have their picture taken with Santa. After completing the afternoon class they will each be given an honorary elf diploma.

Class size is limited so register early for one of three sessions. To register call 547-8685.

Other workshops include making a beaded bracelet, an angel centerpiece or soap, block painting, simple quilting and glass ornament painting or stained glass. To register for these workshops or for more information call 547-8685.

Men are encouraged to shop Nov. 26. There will be a gold and silver jewelry sale and John McDonald and Bill Bellinger from Wild Bill's Guide Service will be there to demonstrate the art of fly tying.

Hospital tours of the new emergency and obstetrical departments will also be scheduled from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Holly Daze at the hospital will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Nov. 25 to 30 except for Nov. 29 when it will be closed.

All proceeds from these events as well as the Holly Daze Celebration Dinner and Live and Silent auction on Nov. 21, will go toward furnishing two birthing rooms in the obstetrical department including: birthing beds and lights, infant radiant warmers, bassinets and a fetal monitor.

"We intend to surpass our financial goal with the help and participation of the community, retailers and businesses," Holly Daze CO-chair Patti Aikin said.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On the 20th day of August, 2002, an action was filed by Oliver P. Brown, Plaintiff, against David B. Lamb, Defendant, in this Court to foreclose a land contract.

Upon consideration of the Verified Motion of Plaintiff, and the Affidavit in Support thereof, attesting to the fact that the Defendant in this action cannot be personally served with a Summons and a copy of the Complaint herein because his present whereabouts are unknown, and he cannot be found at his last known address, and that publication of notice of this action in a newspaper of general circulation is most likely to give notice to this Defendant, and it appearing to this Court that Plaintiff, after diligent inquiry, has been unable to ascertain the Defendant's residence either within or without the State of Michigan, and it further appearing that personal service of the Summons and Complaint in this action cannot be made on the Defendant for the above stated reasons, and that publication is the best means available to apprise Defendant of the pendency of this action,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Defendant David B. Lamb, shall on or before the 10th day of January, 2003, serve his answer on Bernard J. Caspar, attorney for Plaintiff, whose address is P.O. Box 1214, Gaylord, MI 49734, or take such other action as may be permitted by law. Failure to comply with this Order may result in a judgment by default against the Defendant for the relief demanded in the Complaint filed in this Court.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a copy of this Order be published once each week for three consecutive weeks in the The Charlevoix Courior, a newspaper of general circulation hereby designated as most likely to give notice to the Defendant. Publication shall occur within the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the first publication of this Order be made within 20 days from the date of entry of this Order; and that mailing a copy of this Order be dispensed with because Plaintiff cannot, with reasonable diligence, ascertain a place where the Defendant would probably receive matter transmitted by mail.

Life Saving drills an attraction in town

By DAVID L. MILES
Charlevoix Historical Society

After the Life Saving (future Coast Guard) Station was completed on the channel in late 1900, regular training drills for its crew of seven "surfmen" were conducted in the channel water and on the Lake Michigan beach.

These events began to intrigue more and more people until they became the biggest draw in town for locals and resorters alike.

People journeyed from neighboring towns by boat and rail just to witness this one attraction. Hundreds lined the north embankment (Pine River Lane), extending out onto the trestle catwalk that gave the lighthouse keeper access to the lighthouse that was then on the north pier.

Hundreds more massed around the station and stretched both east and west down the channel embankment and out onto the south pier, shoulder to shoulder. The occasion was quite an outing for those who thought to bring along blankets and picnic hampers.

What they mainly came to witness were rescue drills. One involved shooting a line over the channel to first a tree, then a pole at the end of the north bluff. A surfman received it and shimmied up to attach it at the top. Then a breeches buoy was attached for ferrying the surfmen high over the water from one bank to the other.

This breeches buoy rescue method was used right here when the large passenger liner Illinois went aground on the beach in August of 1906 a few hundred feet south of the pier. The crew managed to get about 135 off via a breeches buoy shot from the end of the pier onto the boat until increasingly foul weather brought the surf boats out to ferry the remaining 365 to the beach all night long without injury or loss of life, a Great Lakes rescue effort that stands to this day.

Another drill involved flipping a surfboat over in the channel, then climbing atop it to stand while helping others climb aboard the exposed boat bottom. The boats were designed to be unsinkable.

Visiting dignitaries and their wives were often treated to surfboat rides in the channel during these drill sessions.

The photo gives an indication of the huge popularity of the event. It was taken after 1911 when the lighthouse was shifted over to the south from the north pier and the trestle catwalk removed. Spectators are lined up solid on the south pier. Over the course of a summer, the number who witnessed these regular drills reached into the thousands.

More photos of the Life Saving, and later Coast Guard Station, plus the channel, piers and lighthouses through the years are available for viewing at the Harsha House Museum, 103 State Street, from 1-4 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and 1-9 p.m. Thursday until Christmas.

Photos of the breeches buoy and surfboat drills, plus several of the Illinois grounding with an accompanying story, are included in the Charlevoix Historical Society's new book Bob Miles' Charlevoix II.

It is available at the Harsha House Museum and the Shop of the Gulls, 205 Bridge Street (seven days a week). Mail orders are available from the Harsha House, 547-0373 or write to P.O. Box 525, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Visa, Mastercard, and Discover cards accepted. The cost of the book is $47.70 (with tax), plus $5 for shipping and handling.

Sheriff Lasater warns of psychic dangers to seniors

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater would like to advise citizens of the area to the possibility of scams by "Psychics."

Unfortunately for older adults, 75 percent of all Americans targeted for these scams are seniors.

People are told that by dialing a 1-900 telephone number they can find out all they want to know with regard to their personal health, wealth and love life. A free or discounted first reading is often used to lure in new customers, but remember, the longer you stay on the line the larger your phone bill will be.

In addition, more and more seniors are finding their mailboxes stuffed with letters from "psychics" claiming to have the inside scoop on what lays ahead. Many times the psychic letters ask for very specific information such as date, time and place of birth, mother and father's name as well as mother's maiden name.

Officials are concerned that providing this type of information could lead to identity fraud.

Think twice before responding to that next psychic solicitation; save your hard earned money for better things.

If you think you may have fallen victim to this kind or any other type of scam, file a complaint with your local law enforcement agency or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office by calling (800) 765-8388.

To build communities worth spending a lifetime in... greet people with a smile.

Grim budget to cause cuts had saved to purchase equipment for the new high school that will be used in its business labs, construction and manufacturing technology classes and in health occupations classes.

An additional $97,000 paid for technology capital outlay, which included the school's new phone system and computers.

This year also marks the fifth and final year in the district's early incentive retirement plan through a company called Design Underwriting. This program paid 23 retired teachers additional funds over 10 years — this year's cost is $112,000. The expected retirement of six teachers this year is estimated at an additional $125,000.

A $50,000 decrease in revenue for this year is a small factor in the current budget. This decreased revenue is a result of a smaller than expected Title 9 Native American Grant. The district anticipated receiving $150,000 and the grant came in at $19,000.

The total $2.2 million hit will be paid for out of the district's $4.3 million fund balance, a place Boss said she doesn't ever remember having to take money out of. After this year the projected fund balance is $2.1 million.

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock said superintendents across the state predicted the current debacle. He said the situation was created by the state government which balanced the budget over the past couple years with one year fixes. He also pointed to tax cuts along the way "that are OK when the economy is running well, but now that the state's hit hard times the money isn't there."

"During high times we put money aside (the fund balance) to get through this time. But even with that, we still have to make cuts," he said.

Boss said schools across the state are also facing budget cuts and the only schools that won't take a major hit are those that are growing. Charlevoix is not anticipating growth for next year.

They were last seen fueling their aircraft in Fond du Lac at around 4:30 p.m., Nov. 10.

The flight time from Fond du Lac to Beaver Island is about two hours.

The Coast Guard was informed of the missing plane on the morning of Nov. 11 and searched until Nov. 12, with a concentration around Fairport and Point Detour, near Big Bay De Noc in the Upper Peninsula. This was based on a report from a resident of Fairport who reported seeing a plane matching the Bellamy's flying just above the treeline.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Paul Roszkowski said the estimated survival time for a person in the water of Lake Michigan, based on current air and water temperatures, is six hours.

Crova said a memorial service for the Bellamys is being planned.

Council nixes pool contract

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

In a close vote, Charlevoix's City Council made a decision that will save the city $6,974, but could cost Charlevoix Area Community Pool $25,000.

According to Charlevoix pool director Al Gooch, last year the Frey Foundation offered the pool $25,000 for two years if local governments matched that amount. But council voted 3-2 Nov. 18 against entering into a contract with the pool.

"They thought with as much recreation and water as there is in this area, that the pool should at least be on the list for local governments. So the foundation initiated the challenge grant to spur local governments as well as the schools," Gooch said.

The $6,974 the pool requested from the city was part of that matching effort and would have been used to subsidize dollar nights at the pool. The dollar swim program started last winter and takes place from 6 to 8 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights offering discounted recreational swim time for families.

At the Nov. 18 council meeting pool board president John Danly said use on those nights has increased 60 percent since the dollar nights special began. Without the money from the Frey Foundation, dollar nights will likely be a thing of the past.

Last year the city and Charlevoix and Hayes townships accounted for $15,000 of the government match and the Grand Traverse Tribe of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians and the Char-Em Intermediate School District funded the additional $10,000.

Hayes and Charlevoix townships had already agreed to support dollar nights again this year when the request was brought to council last

Also, on page 18, Charlevoix dentist Dr. Glen Paramo's number should have been listed at 547-1100.

Students bring history to life with museum

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

History came alive at Charlevoix Middle School this week when students transformed into high profile characters like Galileo, Einstein, Larry Bird and Jerry Seinfeld.

On Nov. 25, the hallways of the middle school were filled with 118 seventh grade students who portrayed different current and historical characters. The project was called the Charlevoix Wax Museum.

As parents, siblings, friends and neighbors passed by displays, the students whose heads rested lifelessly on their chests, would come to life as each told a brief, detailed history of the character they were for the night.

The students are members of Pat Ricks' and Pam Swenor's middle school reading and English classes respectively. The teachers organized the project to help students develop skills in language arts through differentiation.

"There were several different components to the whole project that work together," Swenor said.

The students started the multifaceted undertaking in mid-October. In Ricks' class they focused on creating presentation boards and costumes and preparing a timeline of each character's life. In Swenor's class they focused on researching character's lives, writing a research paper and transforming the paper to speech format.

Students said they not only came away with useful research and presentation skills, but also had fun in the process.

Molly Braniecki, who chose Richard Simmons because she thought he was funny, said she ended up learning about writing reports and further enhanced her computer skills by looking up photos of Simmons on the Internet and using a word processing program to write the report.

The important part of the game is fun

EDITORIAL

Another fun fall sports season has come to a close in Charlevoix.

The fall sports teams, like all Charlevoix High School teams, successfully fought their ways to glory and championships in many instances. The students on those teams showed integrity, self-confidence, determination and that they were having fun.

In the end, it is this last aspect that is the most important in school sports — fun. It is not about winning the game, showing off your school pride, making the city famous or breaking records. It is about the students having some fun in their high school years and creating great memories.

Yes, our golf team did great at the state meet. Our cross country teams were superb once again at state finals. The soccer team was exciting and talented. The football team kept our Friday nights fun. And the girls' basketball team was a success.

These are all fantastic accomplishments for the students and they create pride for the city. But, those students taking part and the parents cheering them on should remember that no matter what the outcome, it is downright fun.

The problem is, some people in the stands are having trouble with that. Several staff members of the Charlevoix Courier have been told, or heard as we attended sporting events, very negative comments from some people in the community about coaches, players, games or officials.

At the recent girls' regional tournament basketball game, for example, some of the shouts and actions heard and seen by the editor of this newspaper by some Charlevoix fans were embarrassing. Some fans were seen kicking walls, throwing things and heard shouting out cuss words and insulting comments.

While this is not all of the Charlevoix fans — a majority acted like responsible adults — this minority of miscreants were a blemish on the night.

The players, like all Charlevoix sports teams, held their heads high in the end, showing the great quality of people our school district is creating.

As we start another winter sports seasons, that will have its share of exciting times, perhaps it is time some of the members of our community take a hard look at their actions and words. Perhaps they need to be reminded about how much fun sports can be.

Get ready for coming Charlevoix civic battles

'Behind the news'

Brace yourself! The new Charlevoix City Council nixed their support this year for funding for the Charlevoix Area Pool by a vote of 3-2.

Never mind that the Charlevoix Area Hospital refers patients for its water therapy programs or that the youngsters from as far away as Beaver Island learn to swim here.

To quote Birdie Whitley, a resident and activist in the second ward, "It's a wonderful thing, but we don't need another tax. Six thousand here and $6,000 there and pretty soon it's another burden to the city."

On the subject of wards, for those who are new to this area, let me remind you that the city of Charlevoix is divided into three wards. The first ward is located on the north side, second ward is in the valley and the third ward is on the south side. The second ward or valley, exerts the most power because they turn out the vote even though they have less year-round population with only 715 registered voters!

For example, in the third ward on the south side with 793 registered voters, summer homeowners of the Belvedere Association are not able to vote on local issues. In the third ward on the north side with 813 registered voters, summer residents in the Chicago Club are not eligible to vote. Finally, the grand total of seasonal occupants and homeowners who may not vote in Charlevoix is 644.

Never mind that those summer homes located on Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan pay as much as $8,000 in property taxes every year!

May I remind Whitley that $8,000 here and $8,000 there is a nice round income for the city, when we consider that the summer people don't have children in school and don't use the fire and police services for 10 months of the year.

SCALE
CITY OF CHARLEVOIX PLANNING DEPARTMENT

There are three wards in the city of Charlevoix, with two council members for each. (Courtesy graphic)

Should we be concerned how the city council votes in the future? You Bet! The 3-2 vote of the city council to withdraw support for the pool portends what is in store for us in the future. Their vote for example, will affect decisions pertaining to the old versus a new band shell in the park.

Their vote will affect the decision regarding the future of the old middle school building and the library. Believe me, it may even affect the petunia planting!

Unfortunately many people don't realize how tiny the year-round population is in the actual city of Charlevoix. Take away Round Lake and Boulder Park, there isn't much land left. Remember that the elementary school, high school, hospital, post office, Kmart and several churches are all located in the township, not in the city!

People who live in the township don't vote in the city elections and the ones that I have talked to don't even know or care, who serve on the city council. When asked they shrug and say, "I live in the township."

Never mind that they park and shop on Bridge Street, celebrate the Venetian Festival, Art Fair and Apple Festival, use the library and marina, visit the historical society, support the chamber of commerce, enjoy the public beaches and dine in downtown restaurants.

So please, brace yourself for future major civic battles ahead. Things may get worse before they get better.

Letters to the editor

Students did a great job

Editor:

On behalf of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, I would like to thank Caroline Smith, Charlevoix Middle School art teacher, and Kathy Mays, parent helper, who inspired a group of students to design and paint the wonderful artwork on "Magic Fashions" windows. What a beautiful alternative to the papered windows we have seen in the past years.

We are grateful to students Johnathon Jelinek, David Mays, Rebekah Mays, Hanna Bradley, Shawna Spencley, Kristina Bourassa, Heather Poston, Rose Garcia, Elizabeth Salazar, Elise Smolenyak, Jared Haller, Emma Baker, Nikki Spiegle, Caroline Dupuis, Katie Left, Julia Yaldo, Merideth Rich, Kelsey Schulman, Madison Way, Katelynn Johnson and Alyssa McCormack. The "Charlevoix For All Seasons" mural is fantastic. You've done a wonderful job!

Thank you for helping to "Keep Charlevoix Beautiful" year-round. Your interest in the beautification of this community is commendable.

Explain gas prices

Editor:

I believe it is time for the four gasoline stations in the city of Charlevoix to explain to those of us who live here on a year-round basis why, on average, we pay anywhere from 15 to 20 cents more per gallon than similar name brand stations down state.

The answer, to my way of thinking, is pretty straight forward. Lack of competition or willingness to engage in competition. Of course, some might define competition as the fact that the Holiday station charges 1 cent less for their regular blend than the Mobil station up the street, but I doubt in a rational world whether this would fit anyone else's definition of competition.

I'm sure the four gasoline stations would tell you that the cost differential involves "transportation cost" as well as the volume of gasoline distributed. If those are the responses then they likewise have no relationship to reality. If "transportation costs" were really a factor then one would expect to see gasoline in the U.P. of Michigan around $2.50 a gallon. If the truth be told, you can find many locations in the U.P. where gasoline sells for less than what we are charged in Charlevoix the beautiful.

As to the amount of gallonage sold by our four stations you only have to wait in line behind someone who has pulled his powerboat into the station for a fill-up to realize this argument doesn't hold water either.

While gasoline prices around the state of Michigan are certainly higher than what we are used to, the fact that we are now paying $1.50 per gallon, as opposed to $2 a gallon should not lead us into a warm, fuzzy feeling. As many of you will recall after the events of Sept. 11, certain gasoline stations across the northern Michigan area increased their prices to the point that the attorney general for the state filed complaints against these stations for violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act. Our circumstance in Charlevoix is probably not akin to that, but in the purest sense this really is price fixing by default. Showing the locals a little consideration now that the tourist crowd has gone down state might tend to show that they are part of the community rather than against it.

Thank you

Editor:

Even though we try to thank our Meals on Wheels drivers every day, we think the public should also give them an extra pat on the back. Some are employed and take around 45 minutes out of their day to help their fellow man. Any person age 60 or over can receive Meals on Wheels.

- After reading our request for drivers in the Courier, the late Gene Ostling volunteered and recruited Nick Aninos, Jackie Hayes, John Murray, Gene Steele, John Yaroch, Mark Knapp, Cindy Scott and Sissy Walker.
- The AKtion Club only missed one day's delivery because the Bergmann Center was closed due to the weather.
- George DeGraeve, Bruce and Joyce Herbert, Bob and Nancy Rajewski, Bev Boss, Sue Kinnaird volunteered. Tom and Sharon Davis, Linda Shomin, Julie Dominey and Clem Olach moved away or retired.
- Substitutes are Ted and Marilyn Dumbauld, Con and Carolyn Klooster, John and Barbara Danly, Paul Richards, Mark Baker, Vickie Wheat, Liz Meadows and Eleanor Sadowski. Many are close to being regulars and encourage calls.

Happy holidays from the whole gang at the Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center.

Hayes woman arrested for multiple home invasions

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office has arrested a 32-year old Hayes Township woman for multiple counts of home invasion.

Rebecca Jo Helveston has been arrested on one count of home invasion first degree and three counts of home invasion second degree. All of the incidents took place in the Bay Shore vicinity.

The sheriff's office said some of the residences had been victimized up to four different times and alleged Helveston would enter the residence of acquaintances and steal prescription medication, money or returnable bottles or cans.

The incidents date back over approximately a one-year period.

Helveston was arrested after she was caught allegedly breaking into a residence while the occupants were in an adjacent room watching television. She remains lodged in the Charlevoix County Jail pending further court appearances.

Helveston is also expected to be charged in Emmet County for similar incidents there.

Church to present musical on how Jesus came to earth

"Angels Aware," the story of how Jesus came to earth from the viewpoint of the angels, will be presented at 6 p.m., Dec. 8 by the children's choir of Community Reformed Church.

The musical has been presented at Community Reformed in the past and returns by popular demand.

"Angels Aware" involves much more than just singing talent on the part of the kids involved. The musical is also a means of teaching children about the true meaning of Christmas through songs and narratives.

The musical begins as the angels in heaven look forward to the birth of Jesus.

Cindy Boss directs the seventy plus voice choir. Charles Britton is designing sets for the event, Gail Cherry is in charge of costumes, Jan Boss is in charge of sound and Joanne Jones will create the programs.

"Angels Aware" will be preceded by an "opening act." This will be the pre-kindergarten and Kindergarten children who will present a program of songs and short recitations. Following "Angels Aware," refreshments will be served.

Postmus named to Charlevoix Library Board

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Cynthia Postmus was named the new representative for Charlevoix Township to the Charlevoix Public Library Board.

Cynthia Postmus

Postmus was appointed at the township board's October meeting after former township representative Gordon VanWieren announced his resignation and recommended her appointment.

"Gordon told me about the opening and I wasn't sure if I wanted to do it, it's a lot of work. But I thought maybe this is a way for me to give back to the community," she said.

VanWieren had been on the library board since its inception in 1997, but board president Rick Brandi said he recently told the board he was frequently out-of-town and thought with planning for the new library underway, a replacement living in town full-time might better serve the library's needs.

Postmus grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School. She went on to graduate from the University of Michigan's School of Nursing in Ann Arbor, where she lived for 40 years.

She has owned a home in Charlevoix since 1967 and returned here full-time in 1995.

After moving back to town she became involved with the library, the Charlevoix Area Garden Club and the Charlevoix Historical Society.

She served on the historical society's board and is an active member of the Friends of the Library as chairperson of the Michigan Room Committee.

Postmus has also volunteered her time at the library and is in charge of finding interesting historic articles from the library's Charlevoix Courier microfilm collection for the paper's Scrapbook page.

She also researches questions directed to the library concerning vital records like births and deaths and many times has gone to area cemeteries and the county building to search out responses.

She said her dedication as a library volunteer stems from her interest in the library.

"I've always enjoyed coming to the library. When I came here to vacation I always had a connection there. Now that we live here I found the library has become a good fit," she said.

Recently, she has closely followed the library's building project progression with a steady stream of information coming in from her husband Roger who is a member of the building committee.

She has also visited libraries across the state and offered input to the committee as to what amenities might be well used in the new building.

Postmus supports the library relocating to the former middle school site from its current location off Clinton Street. But, she is waiting for results of the architectural study of the former school to decide whether a renovation of that building is in the library's best interest.

Postmus joins several board members who were appointed at its inception. They are: city of Charlevoix representative and board president Rick Brandi, Charlevoix School District representative Mary Anne Chew, Eveline Township representative Anne Hansen and Hayes Township representative and board secretary Betty Henne.

Two members appointed after the board was formed are: Marion Township representative and board treasurer Joe Seidel and Norwood Township representative Lorrie Way.

The library board meets from 4 to 6 p.m. on the second Thursday of each month in the library's basement. The library is located at 109 Clinton Street in Charlevoix.

How to get news in the paper

Rayder paintings to decorate new gym

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

> "It will be huge; it's going to be awesome."
>
> Joe Vogelheim,
> Charlevoix Sports Booster

The bare gymnasium walls at Charlevoix High School will soon wear images of Rayder power, letting everyone who enters know exactly where they are.

The Charlevoix Sports Boosters have hired artist Dave Wiley who lives in Georgia to create a "Rayder" figure nestled inside a varsity "C," a huge model of the word "Rayders" and the word "Charlevoix."

To come to the final mural choice, a committee including: school board president Allen Telgenhof, high school principal Gary Grundman, high school athletic director Jim Kanine and long-time sports booster Joe Vogelheim, reviewed four different plans.

Vogelheim said Wiley has done similar projects in other area school gymnasiums like Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Manton schools.

The former high school gym, the current Charlevoix Middle School gym, was decorated with banners, but didn't have this kind of wall art.

The Rayder figure will be 20 feet tall by 20 feet wide and will be attached to the gymnasium wall across from the main entrance.

"Rayders" will hang to the right of the Rayder character and "Charlevoix" will be 40 feet long on the second floor by the track above the home team fan bleachers.

"It will be huge; it's going to be awesome," Vogelheim said.

There are no plans for artwork on the gym floor at this time, Grundman said the new floor needs time to season and currently there are only two coats of polyurethane varnish protecting it.

Vogelheim said in two or three years artwork on the floor might be a possibility.

Wiley will create the artwork on high quality plywood in Georgia, cut it out and will transport it to Charlevoix where he'll hang the pieces on the gym walls. Vogelheim said Charlevoix sports fans can expect to have the art in place in nine weeks.

The boosters have been planning the gym art for two years and are paying just under $5,000 for the three pieces. Its next step is to order banners.

The boosters' annual budget is $25,000. Last year it pursued several major projects including assistance in resurfacing the track at the current middle school, payment for a full-time trainer and an assortment of gear for multiple sports teams.

"Our goal is to promote sports and help the school," Vogelheim said.

The funds are available through fund-raising activities like the concessions stand, dinner coupon sales and membership donations. Those who donate are recognized as boosters members — the current membership is around 200.

"It's been fun, I love it. We are here to meet the school's needs," Vogelheim said of his involvement.

For more information about the boosters, contact Vogelheim with questions at 547-9980. To donate to the group, make checks payable to the Charlevoix High School sports boosters and mail donations to P.O. Box 83, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

BUSINESS

My Sister's Closet has new location

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

My Sister's Closet has moved — next door to its previous location.

Patricia Dillon, owner of My Sister's Closet, said as of Oct. 28 her business moved into the same location as Charlevoix Antiques, located at 1209 Bridge Street, near the Dairy Queen. Dillon manages both My Sister's Closet and Charlevoix Antiques.

Dillon moved the businesses into the same location after her daughter and son-in-law bought the building next to her previous location on Bridge Street. This new building gives her more room for My Sister's Closet — a consignment clothing shop — and Charlevoix Antiques.

"Customers think it is absolutely wonderful. They like the building and the layout. There is more wall space," she said.

In addition to moving into a new building and expanding the size of her businesses, Dillon also completely renovated its insides with fresh-smelling pine walls. She said the building is now in excellent shape and got a wonderful inspection before she moved in.

Now that she has more room to expand her selection to customers with her consignment clothing business, Dillon said she is looking for more vendors who want to sell items in the antiques business.

My Sister's Closet and Charlevoix Antiques is open throughout the year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday, Thursday and Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sunday. For more information, call Dillon at 547-7350.

Money taken in two recent break-ins

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is investigating two breaking and entering incidents that recently occurred in Boyne Falls.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, Matelski Lumber Company and Boyne City Co-op were broken into.

In both cases, a substantial amount of money was taken, the sheriff said.

If anyone believes they have information that could lead to the conclusion of either case, please call Lasater, Deputy Rex Behling or Deputy David Hague at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at 547-4461.

The sheriff's office is offering a reward of $500 for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for these crimes.

Winners announced in poster contest

Poster judging again proved difficult for members of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club as they met on Nov. 12 to award top honors for posters entered in this year's contests.

Hundreds of students from both Charlevoix Elementary and St. Mary's School participated in the two sponsored contests "A Thing of Beauty — A Tree" and the "Smokey the Bear — Woodsy the Owl."

As usual, many of the posters were outstanding in the artists' use of color and creativity.

"It's so hard to choose," said juror Pat Roski of the Charlevoix Garden Club. "There are so many good ones this year."

First, second and third place winners were selected from each grade level from 1-5 from the combined entries of the two elementary schools in the "Smokey the Bear — Woodsy the Owl" contest.

They include:

- First Grade — first place: Zachary Tibbits; second place: Gunnar Lundteigen and third place: Kelsey Pischner.
- Second Grade — first place: Autumn Sobleski; second place: Charlie Hamilton and third place: Paige Poirier.
- Third Grade — first place: Molly Jeakle; second place: John Boss and third place: Stirling Witthoeft.
- Grade Four — first place: Renae Miller; second place: Linsea Jelinek and third place: Madison Sayward.
- Grade Five — first place: Krista Pischner; second place: Paul Rehmann and third place: Kate Jones.

The Garden Club also simultaneously sponsors the poster contest titled "A Thing of Beauty — A Tree" and local students in grades 1-6 were eligible to compete.

This contest was judged not only for its artistic merit, but also for the reasons given by the artists for choosing the plants and animals displayed in their posters.

Winners in this contest were:

- First grade — first place: Justin Pearl and second place: Jackson Buday.
- Second grade — first place: Joshua Hogan; second place: Anton Volovsek and third place: Olivia Herbert.
- Third grade — first place: Nicole Pischner; second place: Luke Wisniewski and third place: Christian McFalls.
- Fourth grade — first place: Ashley Marsh; second place: Lacey Greene and third place: Cassidy Stebe.
- Fifth grade — first place: Madeline Jeakle and second place: Shauna Bradley.

The first place and only winner in Grade 6 was Emily Wisniewski.

The first place winners of each contest at each grade level will be sent on for further competition at the state and national level. All winners will receive a certificate to be presented by the Garden Club in the spring at a tea held in their honor.

The top local winners of each contest will receive a U.S. savings bond worth $50 at maturity, a gift from the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Renae Miller, a fourth grade student at Charlevoix Elementary is the overall winner of the "Smokey the Bear — Woodsy the Owl" contest and Justin Pearl, a first grader at St. Mary's, is the overall winner of the "A Thing of Beauty — A Tree" contest.

Official Notice

The following ordinance was adopted by the Charlevoix City Council on Monday, November 18, 2002.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 680 of 2002

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD A NEW CHAPTER 53 TO TITLE V OF THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE TO REGULATE THE DIVISION OF EXISTING PARCELS OF LAND PURSUANT TO ACT 288 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1967, AS AMENDED, AND ACT 279 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1909, AS AMENDED, TO PRESCRIBE PROCEDURES THEREFOR, AND TO PROVIDE PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE CHAPTER.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 1. Amendment of Title V.

Title V of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to add a new Chapter 53, which shall read in its entirety as follows:

Chapter 53
PARCEL DIVISION ORDINANCE

5.300 Title.

This Chapter shall be known as the City of Charlevoix Parcel Division Ordinance.

5.301 Purpose.

The purpose of this Chapter is to carry out the provisions of the Land Division Act (Act 28B of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended, formerly known as the Subdivision Control Act), to prevent the creation of lots and parcels that do not comply with applicable City of Charlevoix ordinances, to minimize potential boundary disputes, to maintain the orderly development of the city, and to otherwise protect the public health, safety and general welfare of the residents and the present and future property owners of the City of Charlevoix. This shall be accomplished by regulating the division of existing lots and parcels and the property transfer between two (2) or more adjacent lots or parcels. It is further the purpose of this Chapter to prescribe the procedures for the submission and review of proposed lot and parcel divisions and property transfers, to authorize fees for the review of applications submitted under this Chapter, and to provide penalties for violations of this Chapter.

5.302 Definitions.

Except as provided in this section, the terms used in this Chapter shall have the same meaning as in the Land Division Act, being Act No. 288 of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended. In addition, as used in this Chapter,

(a) "Applicant" means an owner of a lot or parcel of land, or his or her designee.

(b) "Parent parcel" means first a tract of land lawfully in existence on March 31, 1997, if one exists in connection with a proposed division, or, if one does not exist, a parcel lawfully in existence on March 31, 1997.

(c) "Property transfer" means a transfer of property between two (2) or more adjacent lots or parcels.

5.304 Approval of Land Divisions or Property Transfers Required; Establishment of Exempt Splits.

The owner of a lot, parcel, or tract of land shall not divide or effect a property transfer involving, or cause any person to divide or effect a property transfer involving, that lot, parcel, or tract of land except as provided in this Chapter, unless the division is an exempt split as defined in the Land Division Act of 1967, being Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended, the division or property transfer is approved as part of a subdivision plat at the time of plat approval under the Land Division Act, as amended, the division or property transfer is part of a condominium project developed under the Condominium Act, being Act 59 of the Public Acts of 197B, as amended, or the division or property transfer is done pursuant to an order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

5.305 Procedure for Division or Property Transfer.

The following procedure shall be followed to divide a lot, parcel or tract of land or to effect a property transfer:

(a) The Applicant shall submit an application to the Zoning Administrator on a form supplied by the city for that purpose. The application shall include, but not be limited to the following:

(1) Proof of ownership of the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or of the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer, which shall include a copy of a warranty deed, land contract, title commitment, or other evidence satisfactory to the Zoning Administrator.

(2) The names and addresses of all persons having an interest in the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or of the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer and a statement of the type of interest each holds.

(3) The history of the prior divisions of the parent parcel from which the Applicant's parcel or tract of land came and proof that the Applicant holds the right to divide the parcel or tract of land proposed for division.

(4) A survey map of the land proposed to be divided or the land involved in the property transfer prepared pursuant to the survey map requirements of Act 132 of the Public Acts of 1970, as amended, certified by a land surveyor licensed by the State of Michigan. This survey map shall depict all of the following:

(a) The dimensions of the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer;

(b) The dimensions of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer;

(c) The location of all current easements on the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or on the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer;

(d) The location of all proposed utility and ingress/egress easements on the lots, parcels or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer;

(e) The location of all buildings and structures on the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or on the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer;

(f) The distances between these buildings and structures and the original property lines of the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer; and

(g) The distances between these buildings and structures and the property lines of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer.

(5) In addition to providing the survey map, the Applicant or his or her representative shall accurately stake the boundaries of the lot, parcel, or tract of land proposed to be divided or the lot or parcel involved in the property transfer and the boundaries of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer such that the Zoning Administrator may, by use of a tape measure and horizontal measurements, confirm that the boundaries as staked are as represented on the survey.

(6) Accurate legal descriptions of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer. In the event the Zoning Administrator is unable to determine whether the legal description is accurate, he or she may require the Applicant to obtain at Applicant's sole expense legal descriptions of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer certified by a registered land surveyor licensed by the State of Michigan.

(7) The Applicant shall submit documentation that each such resulting lot, parcel, or tract of land has or will have adequate permanent access, as defined in the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance, as amended. In addition, if the lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division or property transfer will be a development site, then the Applicant shall submit evidence establishing adequate easements for public utilities from each such resulting lot, parcel, or tract of land to existing public utility facilities.

(B) Such other documentation that the Zoning Administrator may require relating to the application to divide a lot, parcel, or tract of land or to effect a property transfer.

(b) The application shall be accompanied by an application fee as established and set forth in a city fee schedule. This fee schedule shall also establish "after the fact" fees that must be paid when an otherwise lawful division or property transfer occurs but without first complying with the procedural requirements of this Chapter. This "after the fact" fee is not intended to be a penalty, but shall consist of the normal application fee plus an amount equal to the legal and administrative costs incurred by the city as the result of the Applicant's failure to initially comply with the requirements of this Chapter.

(c) Within forty-five (45) days alter receiving the information required in subsection (a) above, the Zoning Administrator shall decide whether to approve or disapprove the proposed division or property transfer. If the Applicant fails to provide all the information required by this Chapter, then the application shall be deemed incomplete and may be denied on that basis. The Zoning Administrator's decision to approve the division or property transfer shall be made pursuant to the standards contained in Section 5.306 of this Chapter. The Zoning Administrator may grant conditional approval of an application, subject to the Applicant obtaining any necessary variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals pursuant to Section 5.308 of this Chapter. If the Zoning Administrator fails to grant approval of a proposed division or property transfer, written reasons for his or her decision shall be given to the Applicant. The Applicant shall then have the option of resubmitting information for approval to the Zoning Administrator or appealing the Zoning Administrator's decision to the Zoning Board of Appeals pursuant to Section 5.309 of this Chapter.

(d) Upon approval of a proposed division or property transfer, the Zoning Administrator shall send a letter indicating such approval to the Applicant with a copy to the Charlevoix County Equalization Department. This letter shall contain the following statement: "Pursuant to Section 109a of the Land Division Act, as amended, the City of Charlevoix, its officers and employees are not liable if a building permit is not issued for a parcel less than one (1) acre in size that resulted from an approved division under the City of Charlevoix Parcel Division Ordinance." A copy of this letter shall be retained by the Zoning Administrator in his or her official records.

(e) Because zoning requirements may change over time, any approval of an application for a division or property transfer by the Zoning Administrator under Section 5.305(c) above shall expire and a new approval required after ninety (90) days from the date of the approval, unless the Applicant records in the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds Office an instrument(s) of conveyance documenting the division or property transfer and files a copy of that recorded instrument(s) with the Zoning Administrator.

5.306 Standards for Approval of Divisions or Property Transfers.

An application to divide a lot, parcel, or tract of land, or to effect a property transfer shall be granted when all of the following standards are met:

(a) The proposed division or property transfer shall comply with all requirements of the Land Division Act of 1967, being Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended.

(b) The lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer shall comply with all requirements of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance, as amended, including but not limited to the requirements relating to area and width for the newly created lots, parcels, or tracts of land, the requirements relating to lake and/or street frontages, and the requirements relating to setbacks if the newly created lots, parcels, or tracts of land have buildings or structures on them.

(c) Each lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division or property transfer shall have an adequate and accurate legal description.

(d) Each new lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division shall have a depth of not more than four (4) times its width as measured under the requirements of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance. This standard shall not apply to a property transfer.

(e) If a lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division or property transfer will be a development site, then each such resulting lot, parcel, or tract of land shall have adequate easements for public utilities from each such resulting lot, parcel, or tract of land to existing public utility facilities.

(f) Each lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division or property transfer shall be accessible.

(g) The owner of the parcel or tract of land shall possess the right to divide the parcel or tract of land. This standard shall not apply to a property transfer.

(h) The property lines of the lots, parcels, or tracts of land that will result from the division or property transfer shall be consistent and in harmony with the property lines of the lot, parcel, or tract of land to be divided, or the lots or parcels involved in a property transfer, and/or the property lines of adjacent lots, parcels, or tracts of land.

5.307 Limitation Affecting Property Transfers.

If the land transferred between two (2) or more adjacent lots or parcels does not independently conform to the requirements of the Land Division Act, being Act 28B of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended, the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance, as amended, and this Chapter, then the land transferred shall not thereafter be independently considered a development site, but may only be used in conjunction with an adjoining lot(s), parcel(s), or tract(s) of land.

5.308 Land Configuration Variances.

(a) If a lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from a division or property transfer does not meet the requirements of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance as specified in Section 5.306(b) of this Chapter, then the Applicant may seek a variance from those zoning requirements from the Zoning Board of Appeals pursuant to the procedures of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance.

(b) If a lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from a division does not meet the depth to width requirements of Section 5.306(d) of this Chapter, then the Applicant may seek a variance from those requirements from the Zoning Board of Appeals pursuant to the procedures of this section.

(c) The Zoning Board of Appeals may grant a variance under this Chapter from the depth to width requirement of Section 5.306(d) of this Chapter, if all of the following exist:

(1) Exceptional or extraordinary circumstances or conditions exist on the parent parcel, including exceptional topographic or physical conditions, that do not generally apply to other lots, parcels, or tracts of land in the city.

(2) The exceptional or extraordinary circumstances or conditions existing on the parent parcel are not the result of any act or omission by the Applicant or his or her predecessors in title.

(3) The granting of the variance shall not be injurious or otherwise detrimental to adjoining lots, parcels, or tracts of land or to the general health, safety, and general welfare of the city.

(4) The resulting lots, parcels, or tracts of land with the variance granted shall be compatible with surrounding lots, parcels, or tracts of land.

(5) The variance granted shall be the minimum variance that will make possible the reasonable use of the parent parcel.

(d) The Zoning Board of Appeals shall follow the procedures of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance relating to variances when deciding whether to grant a variance under this section.

(e) In granting any variance under this Chapter, the Zoning Board of Appeals may prescribe appropriate conditions and safeguards in order to ensure that the lot, parcel, or tract of land that will result from the division or property transfer complies with the variance granted under this Chapter. Violations of such conditions and safeguards shall be deemed a violation of this Chapter, punishable under Section 5.310 of this Chapter.

5.309 Appeals to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Any person aggrieved by a decision of the Zoning Administrator may appeal that decision to the Zoning Board of Appeals following the procedures of the City of Charlevoix Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for appeals to the Zoning Board of Appeals. Any such appeal shall be filed within thirty (30) days from the date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. During the appeal, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall conduct a de novo hearing of the matter and to that end shall have all the powers of the Zoning Administrator. In rendering its decision, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall receive and consider evidence and data relevant to the case and shall issue its decision in writing within thirty (30) days after receiving all evidence and data in the case. The decision of the Zoning Board of Appeals shall then be sent promptly to the Applicant, to the person who filed the appeal (if different than the Applicant), to the Zoning Administrator, and to the City Assessor.

5.310 Violations and Penalties.

Any person who shall violate any provision of this Chapter shall be responsible for a municipal civil infraction as defined in Public Act 12 of 1994, amending Public Act 236 of 1961, being Sections 600.101-600.9939 of Michigan Compiled Laws, and shall be subject to a fine of not more than Five Hundred and 00/100 ($500.00) Dollars. Each day this Chapter is violated shall be considered as a separate violation.

5.311 Enforcement Officer.

The Zoning Administrator is hereby designated as the authorized city official to issue municipal civil infraction citations directing alleged violators of this Chapter to appear in court.

5.312 Nuisance Per Se

A violation of this Chapter is hereby declared to be a nuisance per se and is declared to be offensive to the public health, safety and welfare.

5.313 Separate Court Action.

In addition to enforcing this Chapter through the use of a municipal civil infraction proceeding, the city may initiate proceedings in the Circuit Court to abate or eliminate the nuisance per se or any other violation of this Chapter.

Section 2. Validity.

If any section, provision or clause of this Ordinance or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not effect any remaining portions or application of this Ordinance, which can be given effect without the invalid portion or application.

Section 3. Effective Date.

This Ordinance shall become effective seven (7) days alter being publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the city.

Deputy City Clerk

Sheriff warns of 'Notch Baby' scam in Charlevoix

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater is warning Charlevoix County Senior Citizens to be on the lookout for a scam that is currently making the rounds.

The Social Security Administration advises the scam targets seniors born between 1917 and 1926 (the so-called "Notch Babies").

A flaw in the cost of living formula used in the late 1970s resulted in fewer Social Security benefits being paid to this group of seniors. Consequently, fundraisers frequently solicit the Notch Baby populations for funds to lobby on their behalf.

Although several bills have been introduced in Congress to correct this situation, none have become law as of press time.

Thousands of flyers have been posted in churches, nursing homes and other places that seniors may frequent encouraging them to apply for benefits totaling $5,000 by simply providing personal information including name, address, telephone number and social security number to the "National Victims Registrar." Unfortunately, this situation has provided fertile ground for scam artists.

Federal officials have advised that the flyers are neither from, nor endorsed by, the Social Security Administration and it is believed that information collected by those distributing the flyers may be used for identify theft.

Personal information should never be provided over the phone, through the mail or over the internet unless you have initiated the contact and know who you are dealing with.

If you believe you have been the victim of identify theft, file a complaint with your local law enforcement agency, obtain a copy of the police report and make it available to your credit card companies and financial institutions. To further help minimize the damage, notify the major credit bureaus and request that they flag your file with a fraud alert.

Contact these bureaus toll free at: (888) 525-6285 (Equifax) or (800) 680-7289 (Trans Union).

If you believe someone has illegally obtained and is using your Social Security number for fraudulent activity, file a complaint with the Social Security Fraud Hotline at (800) 269-0271.

Soccer coach honors graduating seniors

The Charlevoix High School varsity soccer will graduate four seniors this year that coach Josh Block said will be greatly missed.

Travis Smith, Spencer Bryan and Trevor Kline have all earned four varsity letters in soccer during their high school careers. Craig Stockman, who missed much of his freshman year due to a leg injury, earned three varsity letters.

With Kline playing up front, Smith and Bryan in the middle and Stockman playing in the back, the seniors provided strong leadership throughout the field, Block said.

Stockman has played all of the positions on the field. His senior year, he filled a void on defense and did a great job, Block said.

He added, "Stockman always gave everything he had plus a little more. He has good speed and quick feet. Stockman was good at clearing shots and stopping offensive threats."

Spencer Bryan led his team with 14 goals and 13 assists.

Block said, "Spencer is a strong player who is highly motivated. Spencer was inspirational during his pregame and half-time talks with teammates and he loved to be competitive."

Block was most impressed with Bryan's personal growth during the season.

"Trevor Kline was one of the team's hardest workers during practice," Block said. "He always set an intense pace and did a fantastic job working with his younger teammates."

Kline was truly dedicated to his team and was willing to do whatever was best for it. Kline played any position that needed to be beefed up.

"Travis Smith played with a relentless tenacity," Block said.

Block was astonished how Smith made it through the season without any major injuries.

"Travis can change the direction of the ball on a dime and is excellent at setting up offensive attacks," he said. "Smith helped create a positive climate on the team and helped make the season both fun and successful."

"These seniors have truly made a contribution to the soccer team and it is a stronger program because of them," Block added.

Girls take districts, knocked out in regional tournament

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

> "I'm just proud of my girls. With 2.2 seconds on the clock, they were still chasing the ball to get that basket."
> Jim Parrish,
> Charlevoix girls' basketball coach

It was pay-back time for the Charlevoix High School varsity basketball team Friday as they beat Harbor Springs, 65-55, to become the district champions.

"It was something we mentioned from time to time all year. That was like a little motivation factor — to get some revenge," coach Jim Parrish said.

Charlevoix was beaten in last year's district tournament by Harbor Springs in overtime. Since then, the Rayders have been wishing for a rematch.

"Going into the game as a coach, you are thinking, 'You better be careful what you wish for.' But, my worries never affected the girls," Parrish said. "We took it to them each quarter."

From the start of the game to the end of the game, the Rayders rushed Harbor Springs, forcing hurried shots and allowing limited turnovers. The Rayders have had a problem this season with turnovers —averaging about 20 over the season — but only allowed 17 against Harbor.

Additionally, the Rayders were able to play Rachel Wyniawskyj, who had injured herself earlier in the tournament against Elk Rapids.

"She said she would do whatever it takes to get into that game," Parrish said.

Parrish also commended Jaime Pettis for her great playing against Harbor Springs.

He said Pettis' mother has been fighting cancer all season and eventually could not come to the games. She had to watch her daughter play by videotape.

However, Pettis' mother was able to be in Elk Rapids for the district championship game against Harbor Springs to see her daughter lead Charlevoix to the win with 20 points.

"Jaime (Pettis) was playing for her family that night," Parrish said.

Other scoring leaders were Grace Farrell with 14; Sarah Cross with 13 and Wyniawskyj with 10.

Other district wins leading up to the championship game for the Rayders were Nov. 18 against Elk Rapids with a 78-50 win and Nov. 19 against Mancelona with a 67-45 win.

Scoring leaders for the Elk Rapids game were Farrell with 15, Pettis with 14, Cross with 10 and Wyniawskyj with nine. Scoring leaders for the Mancelona game were Farrell with 20, Cross with 15 and Pettis with 10.

While the Rayders are able to celebrate a district championship, the regional tournament was beyond their grasp. Charlevoix was taken out of the running in a hard-fought first game against Marion, losing 51-48, Monday night.

"I'm just proud of my girls," Parrish said after the game. "With 2.2 seconds on the clock, they were still chasing the ball to get that basket."

Parrish pointed out he will only be losing one player to graduation, so he will have a seasoned team next year.

"We got a taste of the atmosphere with the big crowd and all the noise. We learned how to play with a lot of pressure. They could have crumbled, but they never did that at all," he said. "This was good experience for the whole crew."

Parrish said Marion simply covered the floor very well all night, frustrating his attempts to find the perfect defense or perfect offense.

Ways' Eveline rezone to face public Dec. 2

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Next week things will heat up again at the Eveline Township Hall when Dawson and Mark "Barney" Way's controversial rezoning request faces a public hearing.

But, it looks as though opponents of the rezoning effort could win at this first stage.

Township planning firm Gourdie-Fraser of Traverse City reviewed the request and recommended that the planning commission turn it down.

The Ways are requesting that 156.5 acres of land they own in the township's farm and forest section be rezoned to R-4, mobile home park residential. This amount of land in the R-4 district could accommodate a 1,200 unit manufactured home community.

While Ways' development plan is looking at closer to 200 homes, by changing the zoning the planners said the township is opening itself up to the possibility of there some day being 1,200 homes at that site.

Eveline Township Planning Commission Chairman Eric Beishlag said the planners feel the request is just too large.

"(The planner's recommendation said) It would be a burden on the township. You can say it (a 1,200 home development) wouldn't happen, but by allowing the rezoning the township would be giving the opportunity for it to happen," he said.

The planning commission will host the hearing which is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 2 at the township hall located at 08525 Ferry Road in East Jordan.

Beishlag said the commission will likely make a decision at that time.

"I think we will, but you never know," he said.

If the commission is unable to come to a vote at the meeting, another public hearing will be scheduled.

At the meeting Michael Boss, a professional engineer with Boss Engineering of Howell, who is working with the Ways, will be given the opportunity to comment on how he feels the rezoning request meets a number of findings of fact. Opponents of the project will then be given the opportunity to review how they feel it doesn't meet those same findings of fact. Then the commission will close the public comment and review the findings of fact as a board.

A public hearing was scheduled for this request Sept. 18, but was improperly noticed. So, this will be the first official public hearing to discuss the Way request.

Beishlag said at the September unofficial hearing Boss presented the Way development plan and comments were taken by the public, but no action was taken.

A copy of the proposed zoning change can be reviewed at the office of Don Hayden, the township clerk, located at 5141 Ferry Road in East Jordan at a time scheduled with Hayden. To contact him call 582-3119.

Those who would like to submit their comments and concerns in writing can give them to Hayden at, or prior, to the hearing. Comments can be mailed to Hayden at 5141 Ferry Road, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Whether the commission decides to recommend the zoning change be approved or not, the request will go before the Charlevoix County Planning Commission for review and a recommendation, while the township board will make the final decision.

Who: Dawson and Mark "Barney" Way, Eveline Township Planning Commission
When: 7 p.m., Dec. 2
What does it mean: The Ways want to rezone their Eveline Township property for a mobile home park.

Official Notice

NOTICE

The City of Charlevoix City Council will hold two public hearings on Monday, December 16, 2002 at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720 to discuss proposed amendments to Chapter 51, Zoning and Planning of the City Code.

The first ordinance would amend subsections 5.256(3) through (5) of the Charlevoix City Code and to add new subsections 5.256(6) through (8) to the Charlevoix City Code relating to the standards, conditions, and rehearings for zoning variances.

A second ordinance amendment would repeal Section 5.173A of Chapter 51 of the Charlevoix City Code. This section addresses lot divisions as part of the zoning ordinance. However, the city has adopted a separate land division ordinance which makes this provision unneeded.

A complete copy of the proposed language is available at the City Planner/Zoning Administrator's Office.

Interested citizens can make comments at the public hearing or written comments may be sent to the City Clerk's Office, 210 State Street, P.O. Box 550, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Accident leads to arrest

A 20-year-old East Jordan man was injured in a one-vehicle accident around 12:30 p.m., Nov. 24 on South Ranney Road near Nelson Road in South Arm Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Jeremy R. Palmrose, 20, of East Jordan was operating a Ford Ranger pickup when he lost control and the truck left the roadway.

The vehicle rolled and Palmrose, who was not using a seat/shoulder belt, was ejected out through the windshield. Evidence observed at the scene and interviews indicated that he had been driving recklessly in the area immediately before the crash.

The Sheriff's office said he was transported by private vehicle to the East Jordan Family Health Center and then by East Jordan Ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of multiple injuries.

Palmrose was arrested for driving while his license was suspended, reckless driving and having no insurance following his release from the hospital later in the afternoon.

Frey Foundation grant to pool in jeopardy

POOL

week. But support by those townships wasn't matched by the city and the $25,000 match for the 2003-2004 budget could be lost.

"If we don't reach $25,000, technically we didn't meet the challenge and don't get the money. If we don't meet the challenge, we'll have to raise the ($25,000 match) money from within the community and that puts extra strain on the community," he said.

Pool representatives will now go to other government entities including other townships and the city of Petoskey, where a large percentage of users come from, to request funding.

If all else fails Gooch will approach the Frey Foundation and ask for a lesser match but there are no guarantees.

In spite of the possible strain on the pool, council said it wasn't approaching funding the right way.

Just before council voted, third ward council member Shirley Gibson said, "The way to go for the pool is a ballot proposal."

Gibson, second ward councilman Bill Bellows and newly elected second ward council person Karen Campbell voted against the one year contract request. First ward councilmen Bill Haggard and Norm Carlson supported the contract, and third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain, who was disappointed with the outcome, abstained because he is a member of the pool board of directors.

However, had Chamberlain voted in favor of the contract, a tie would have given newly elected mayor Gabe Campbell the final vote. He said he wouldn't support the pool.

"It's a nice facility and I think there's a need for it, but the people don't want to pay for it. I think a small millage is the way to go," Gabe said.

But Haggard said the importance of the service the pool provides city residents far outweighs the cost of the contract request.

"It's recreation that does a great deal of good around here. The ski hill is subsidized about $25,000 and the beaches are more than that. It's a great asset for the kids to learn to swim — with all the water we have around here it's quite an insurance policy," Haggard said.

Gooch said the pool also specifically supports the city in many ways including by providing swim lessons formerly offered by the city at area beaches and by training city lifeguards.

Last year council voted Dec. 3 to support the dollar night program by entering a one year contract for $6,974.10. But even last year dollar nights won by a close 3-2 vote with Bellows, Carlson and Haggard supporting the plan and Gabe, who was a second ward councilman at the time, and Gibson voting against it. Chamberlain was absent.

This year Bellows changed his tune and turned the tide.

He said last year he told pool representatives that he was only going to vote in favor of the contract for one year and for this year suggested they explore ballot options.

However, Gooch said he is proud the pool has operated since the summer of 1997 without taxing people and a pool millage faces difficulties, including questions like where would it fall on a ballot. He said if it was distributed county-wide it may not pass because East Jordan has a pool and it wouldn't likely be supported there. Plus a city millage wouldn't be enough to cover expenses.

So, Gooch said the most likely possibility would be to put the request on township ballots or on school district ballots.

Currently, 53 percent of the pool's operating budget is paid for through user fees, 25 percent is paid for with proceeds from the annual auction and the other 25 percent comes from grants and donations. Its tentative budget for 2003-2004 is $304,000.

"Somehow, we have to raise that money," he said.

One option would be to raise user fees, but Gooch fears they would lose people by doing that.

"It's the pool's job to serve the community," he said.

The pool board will meet Dec. 7 to continue its search for long-term solutions.

"We are trying to find a long-term solution to this but until then it's year by year," he said.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On the 20th day of August, 2002, an action was filed by Oliver P. Brown, Plaintiff, against David B. Lemb, Defendant, in this Court to foreclose a land contract.

Upon consideration of the Verified Motion of Plaintiff, and the Affidavit in Support thereof, attesting to the fact that the Defendant in this action cannot be personally served with a Summons and a copy of the Complaint herein because his present whereabouts are unknown, and he cannot be found at his last known address, and that publication of notice of this action in a newspaper of general circulation is most likely to give notice to this Defendant, and it appearing to this Court that Plaintiff, after diligent inquiry, has been unable to ascertain the Defendant's residence either within or without the State of Michigan, and it further appearing that personal service of the Summons and Complaint in this action cannot be made on the Defendant for the above stated reasons, and that publication is the best means available to apprise Defendant of the pendency of this action,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Defendant David B. Lamb, shall on or before the 10th day of January, 2003, serve his answer on Bernard J. Caspar, attorney for Plaintiff, whose address is P.O. Box 1214, Gaylord, MI 49734, or take such other action as may be permitted by law. Failure to comply with this Order may result in a judgment by default against the Defendant for the relief demanded in the Complaint filed in this Court.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a copy of this Order be published once each week for three consecutive weeks in the The Charlovoix Courier, a newspaper of general circulation hereby designated as most likely to give notice to the Defendant. Publication shall occur within the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the first publication of this Order be made within 20 days from the date of entry of this Order; and that mailing a copy of this Order be dispensed with because Plaintiff cannot, with reasonable diligence, ascertain a place where the Defendant would probably receive matter transmitted by mail.

CITIZENS MEET AT CITY OFFICE

The public session of the city council held Monday evening at the chambers of that body in the library building was well attended and resulted in a better understanding among the representative citizens present, of the problems of the council and the measures that have been effected in the public interest through its instrumentality. Quite a few of the ladies were present and the spirit was one of keen interest and willingness to lend a hand in the discussion of the matters presented for consideration.

Possibly, the meeting should not be termed a public one specifically, as every session of the city's governing body is open to the public, without special invitation necessary. Monday evening's proceedings demonstrated very clearly what a mistake the citizens of Charlevoix are making in not more regularly attending these meetings to give their support and often times valuable suggestions to their elected officials.

Mayor Bergeon started the ball rolling with an explanation of the council's purpose in inviting the public's attendance — namely to give the people an idea of how their money was being spent and afford an opportunity for the individual to express his views and aid the council in their work by his suggestions.

Myer Levinson, reporting on the highway department, called attention to a saving of some $1,000-$1,100 effected in the purchase of a cheaper oil for laying dust on madadam roads. The city formerly paid 12 cents a gallon for its oil against a price for this year of 7 3/4 cents. He also expressed high commendation of the present street commissioner and his economical methods of upkeep.

Councilman J.J. Hallett told his audience that the new siren on the fire house had been purchased by the "laddies" from the proceeds of their various entertainment, plus $50 donated by the city. The appropriation this year he said for the fire department was $2,000. Actual expenditure for fires during 1922 totaled $240 to date. A portion of the appropriation has been used for the purchase of new coats, boots, smoke masks and fire hose. The fire chief is paid by the year and the assistant by the month.

Various phases of our summer resort business were next discussed. A very excellent suggestion was made by Mrs. Louise Elston, recommending that comfortable benches be located along the main boulevards of the town and at other points frequented by our summer visitors, particularly along Dixon Avenue between the Inn and Lake Michigan. She had heard, she stated many comments on the lack of such resting places from these people.

C.R. Bellinger made a strong plea for the improvement of our water front and the cleaning up of rubbish and unsightly spots, particularly along the shores of Round Lake. The mayor supplemented Mr. Bellinger's remarks with a suggestion to the ladies to include Charlevoix among the subjects of their study in the various literary societies where Russia, Asia Minor and other remote regions are discussed. He urged the formation of a civic league to clean up the city, pointing out rather humorously that the men had evidently failed miserably along this line and that it was a matter falling naturally within woman's sphere. H.A. Craig later added something more to the subject, relating the difficulties that had attended his efforts at various times to get the government to clean up the dock and the strip of land on the north side of the channel, west of the Argo mill.

The subject of discriminative rates for electric light service was the cause of a rather spirited debate led by Dr. Armstrong who contended that it was manifestly unfair to charge the summer visitor 20 cents per kilowatt hour and the townsman occupying his residence the year-round, 10 cents for the same service. This was not the way, he asserted, to cement the bonds of good feeling between the resorter and the people of Charlevoix. In further support of his argument, city clerk D.S. Payton rose to show the gross unfairness of penalizing the resorter who buys property here for a summer home and is immediately charged the 20 cent rate, although has become a taxpayer and thus loaded with a double share of the burden of maintaining light service. Others present offered their testimony to the prevailing dissatisfaction in our summer colony at the present system of charges. Consensus of opinion seemed to favor the uniform assessment of an average rate throughout the entire year on all consumers alike, at a figure that would produce the same revenue as the present discriminatory rates.

C.R. Bellinger believed that our bathing beaches and facilities for the public use of our water frontage available for bathing should be developed. In this he had the hearty support of the mayor who pointed out that there is now no provision for public bathing along our shores.

Mrs. Armstrong spoke on the subject of the city park, warning against denuding the ground of its larger shrubbery, thus exposing it to drifting sand with the consequent total destruction of plant life. She also objected strenuously to any attempt at "improvement" that would destroy the natural beauty of the park.

The mayor introduced the subject of obtaining new industries for Charlevoix, one of his hobbies, it seems: This started a lively discussion in which several of the councilmen and the citizens present took part.

L.P. Adams voiced his belief that there were enough honest people left in Charlevoix, despite our sad past experiences with promoters and blue sky artists, to finance and make a success of a cement plant on the site of the old Rock Product Company.

H.A. Craig spoke for a canning factory for Charlevoix and was supported by Dr. Armstrong (who by the way found time to prescribe for ailing infants and dyspeptic grownups over the phone at 10 or 15 minute intervals and still make some of the snappiest speeches of the evening.) The doctor said that in his opinion we could have a successful canning factory provided it was of the "home grown" variety and not controlled by outside parties to the extent of 50 percent or more of the stock. He said we had been stung so often by parties who wanted a bonus to come in and start something for us that now, if anybody said "factory," all the rest of us grabbed our cash boxes and hunter convenient holes (or words to that effect.)

Dr. Armstrong spoke again — this time in favor of developing winter sports in Charlevoix — a Michigan St. Moritz in miniature, naming Mt. McSauba as an ideal spot for a ski hand toboggan course. Many of our younger summer people he believes could be induced to come here for the winter months as well, were the proper attractions offered.

George W. Priest brought up one of the most important matters of the evening — the establishment of a first class, free auto camp in or near the city, similar to those now becoming so popular in Traverse City, Cadillac and other Michigan points and in Florida. Such a camp he thought would be better advertising for Charlevoix, if properly equipped and conducted, than reams of printed advertising, although he did not decry the value of the latter form of publicity in which as Mayor Bergeon pointed out, we should follow the example of St. Petersburg and Miami who are heavy advertisers in the big daily papers and with signboards placed at conspicuous points along the Dixie Highway, urging the tourists to stop and enjoy their hospitality. The mayor spoke of the efforts in this direction that had been made by Alanzo Powers who on his recent trip to Florida had placed similar signs advertising Charlevoix along his route.

Mr. Priest's argument was seconded by A.J. Usher, who pointed out that Charlevoix, was rapidly developing the reputation of being an exclusive "millionaire resort" through our neglect of the average tourist and his needs. He maintained that every effort should be bent toward the purchase by the city of the property west of town, now used as a public park, originally selected by the council for the site of a free tourist camp, but which a cloud on the tile had prevented their securing at an earlier date. This difficulty Mr. Usher felt might be removed and he urged that no time be lost in effecting the purchase and adding a "sure thing" to our list of attractions for the tourist. Like Mr. Priest, he stressed the importance of making the camp up-to-date and first class in every respect, as otherwise it would fail widely of its purpose and be more of a detriment than an asset.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:30 p.m. and those who were in attendance departed with a better knowledge of city affairs and an awakened enthusiasm in the welfare and progress of our fine little city.

Recall petition must start over in Eveline

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A recall effort in Eveline Township that was 90 percent complete will have to start from scratch as a result of a clerical error on the part of the Charlevoix County Clerk's office.

"We thought we had the job taken care of and there would be no belaboring over the holidays, now this. It's upsetting to be at that point again," Nancy Ferguson, a recall petitioner with the Eveline Township Preservation Group, said.

The recall effort started in August and is aimed to unseat township supervisor Dan Skrzeczkoski and township clerk Don Hayden. Ferguson said efforts are being made to remove both because they have "not been responsive to the people."

Ferguson filed the petitions Nov. 25 with 167 signatures, 29 more than was required, only to get a call the next day from County Clerk Jane Brannon who said her office made a big mistake.

"She was given the wrong information from here. It was my fault entirely," Brannon said.

Ferguson said she accepts Brannon's apology, but that doesn't change the outcome.

"We have to go back out and do the leg work. I went to her as the authority several times," Ferguson said.

The petition they circulated which stated the reasons some be-

Council to reconsider pool issue

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix City Council agreed to an unusual revisiting of the Charlevoix Area Community Pool's request for funding.

The issue will be back on the table at the regular council meeting, scheduled to take place at 7 p.m., Dec. 16 at city hall located at 210 State Street in Charlevoix.

"I was happy they brought the matter up again. Maybe what the people want will be understood. I'm concerned that maybe some members of council incorrectly judged what the people want," pool board president John Danly said.

First ward councilman Norman Carlson said he received multiple calls after council voted 3-2 Nov. 18 against entering a contract with the pool that would have cost the city $6,974 to subsidize dollar swim nights at the facility.

Carlson said this decision was met with animosity by people in the community who feel the pool plays an important role as a provider of swim lessons, lifeguard training, therapy and exercise.

He added that the pool's possible $25,000 loss may not have been clear to those who voted against it. The outcome against the pool could cost it a $25,000 matching grant from the Frey Foundation aimed at challenging local governments to support the pool.

At the meeting, city resident Patty Sitzema scolded those who vot-

Correction

In a story on page 14 of last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier, a story on the new location of My Sister's Closet should have said the hours of operation were 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday.

Also, Dillon did not renovate the inside of the building with "fresh-smelling" pine walls. This was already there when she moved in.

Crime, police responsibilities changing

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

(Editor's note: This is the first of a two part series on crime in and around Charlevoix. In the second story, we will hear from those in the court system.)

Area law enforcement has more crime to deal with along with expanded responsibilities with homeland security. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Two Charlevoix area law enforcement agency heads agree crime is on the rise, along with the responsibilities their departments take on.

"We will be up this year. It was a busy summer," said Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater. He said crime was pretty steady over the year and the number of complaints his office handled will be higher. These complaints can be anything from traffic accidents to neighbors having an argument.

Lasater, who has been the Charlevoix County Sheriff since 1977, said he has noticed people call 9-1-1 more often to resolve conflicts with their neighbors now than in the past.

"I don't think our population has grown that much. When I was growing up in the 50s, the philosophy of the average citizen was: the police were the last people you called. If you had a problem with a neighbor, you tried to work it out, then if all else failed you called the police. Now we are the first call," he said.

Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson also said his department was busy last summer. But, he said he has noticed a changing nature of area crime from locally based to regionally based.

"A majority of our serious crime has taken a regional aspect. Groups are more mobile and somewhat organized," he said. "This is requiring a lot of things from us and working with regional police departments."

For example, home invasions were usually localized in the past and perpetrated by a local individual. However, Halverson is seeing more home invasions being done across the area, by the same person or persons who are from outside the area.

Halverson said he believed this increase is being driven by drugs, adding he is also seeing an increase in hard drugs in the north, such as ecstasy, crack and cocaine.

"The reason for that (increase in crime related to drugs) is those types of drugs are not cheap to use and abuse," he said.

Lasater also said there has been a change in the types of crimes, as well as the criminals.

Lasater said in the mid-1970s, 90 percent of the county jail population was due to alcohol related problems. Today, he said a majority of the cases still have alcohol attached to them, but there is a significant increase in the drug factor.

He added the types of crimes are also more assaultive in nature and the criminals in the jail are more aggressive. Today's criminal has an adversarial attitude, is assaultive and ready to accuse the officers with wrong-doing and threaten lawsuits, Lasater said.

Due to their aggressive nature, Lasater said this has also increased the number of police officers who have been injured in the line of duty.

In the first 12 years as sheriff, Lasater said his department recorded six injuries. In the past 12 years, 61 officers have been injured.

There are many other differences in today's prisoner than that of the 70s, such as age and sex.

Lasater said in the past the typical criminal was in the mid-20s and there were only 4-6 people in jail. Now, he said it looks like a high school class in the jail and the population is anywhere between 40-60 daily.

Keep an open mind when searching for new chief

EDITORIAL

The city of Charlevoix's fire department is one of the best departments in northern Michigan and has some of the most dedicated and talented firefighters, both volunteer and full-time, attached to it.

It is a real honor to have a department such as this and it is a shining star in the career of Fire Chief Douglas Carver as he prepares for his upcoming retirement.

Carver is a fantastic leader in the department and was extremely instrumental in creating what we have today. So, it would be prudent for our city officials to find a replacement that can continue this tradition of excellence and keep Charlevoix safe.

But, there is a concern with mayor Gabe Campbell's insistence that we stay local in our search for a new fire chief. While it would be great if we could promote from within, it is wrong for the department and community to not keep an open mind.

Perhaps the best person for the job is not within the department? Or perhaps it is? The only way we can tell would be with a wide search around the state and nation for applicants for this position. In fact, Carver was found in the Petoskey area, and look at what a great department we have now.

Another concern is that the mayor seems to be pushing for a smaller full-time fire department. He wants to have just two full-time firefighters, instead of the current three. Which seems to be one of his reasons for concentrating the search for a new chief in the current department.

But the city should be cautious when considering this plan. By having only two full-time firefighters, this means the workload would be greater for these men and we have a concern about safety.

This is especially troublesome if the county and city starts conducting fire and housing code checks — something we fully support. While this would take up more time from our force, it would ensure the safety of the residents of Charlevoix, both homeowners and renters.

Plants and animals have a lot to say about our climate

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

I suppose this is not the time of the year to be talking about global warming, when everyone has just pulled out of storage their warmest clothing and the high boots that go with winter.

My final conviction about the reality that the world is getting warmer comes not from the usual measurements of atmospheric temperatures or ocean temperatures as observed by the finest instruments and monitored by orbiting satellites. Such measurements are all well and good, but they are subject to all sorts of interpretation, and there are very few long-term measurements from exactly comparable places. Weather stations do not change their positions as cities grow around them. Some information is, of course, better and more useful than no information.

Carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is considered to be one potential cause of global warming. While we may argue about the source of increasing carbon dioxide in our air, there is little argument that it is increasing. Maybe too many factories and automobiles are releasing carbon dioxide into the air. Maybe too many forests are cut down and converted to pasture. Whatever the cause, SUVs or cheap chainsaws, what are called greenhouse gases are increasing. But does that mean that the world's temperature must increase? Not necessarily.

There are very good temperature records of the past available from the activities of organisms. Tree rings produced 500 years ago can tell us with considerable precision what the temperatures were when that tree was growing. Tree rings actually contain materials accumulated in the year they were produced and those materials do not change with time. Records of organisms that lived in the deep ocean hundreds of thousands of years ago can also provide us with real information about what ancient ocean temperatures were.

How can organisms provide us with better information than is available from even the most precise measuring instruments? Simply said, organisms, plant and animal, live in the climate around them every minute of every day and respond to all the fluctuations and changes in temperature or rainfall or sunlight. They provide the best possible information about climate, past and present.

What do plants tell us about global warming? The best and most recent information I know of comes from Peter Del Tredici, the director of living collections at Harvard University's Arnold Arboretum. In an article from a recent New York Times he chronicles the number of warm-climate exotic plants that they have attempted to grow out of doors at the arboretum over the past century. Several kinds of plants that either died or refused to bloom in the past, now survive Boston winters with little difficulty, bloom and produce seed. He mentions especially the first Camellia ever to manage the New England winter.

Why should I believe the witness of some far-out-of-its-range plant over the most sophisticated satellites? Maybe I just like plants. But we are surrounded by the same phenomenon here in northern Michigan. Plant ranges are creeping north. It is necessary to look very closely to see the changes, but the changes are real.

Next time you see an opossum, either dead on the road or strolling across your back yard, think of them having been a southern animal a century ago. A southern animal which now manages to live year-round in our cruel climate.

Plants and animals can tell us a great deal more about climate than can the weatherman. We just have to listen.

Mayor responds

Editor:

On two occasions the people of Charlevoix voted "no" on a pool in Charlevoix. Most of the people at that time expressed the thought that we would not be able to afford the maintenance of such a pool.

In 1999 or 2000, the pool committee came to the council, asking for $5,000. The next month they asked for $35,000! Both requests were turned down by the council.

At that time I suggested that the pool committee form a pool district and ask for a portion of a mill to fund the pool. I offered that suggestion twice more, both in 2001 and 2002.

I do not believe that the council has the right to vote "yes" on something on which the citizens of Charlevoix have already voted "no."

A quarter mill would generate $100,000. In the Charlevoix Courier, the pool committee was quoted as saying, "A large portion of our users come from Petoskey." Maybe those people could be included in the district and then they could ask for less than the quarter mill. A $100,000

Explanation needed

Editor:

Unbelievable! The community deserves an explanation as to why our new city council administration has decided to become anti-youth and anti-recreation with their decision not to support the Frey grant with a mill allocation of $6,974.10, which in turn will cause a loss for the pool budget in the upcoming year. With that loss, the programs for our youth and recreation such as "Dollar Night" may have to be changed. It's been a huge success; an inexpensive, safe activity for our youth and families.

When the pool opened it pledged to teach all of Charlevoix children to swim. Up until then lessons were offered at our local beaches, weather permitting, at an expense to our city. Starting with second grade and following up with fifth grade, we've accomplished our goal and are continuing this service through fund-raising and dedication of volunteers. Our recreational director of Charlevoix noted we had more lifeguards apply for jobs with the city than positions available. Charlevoix Community Pool trained these people, life-guard training, water therapy, swim lessons are just a few of the programs the pool offers.

The number one priority of the pool is to teach water safety. Mayor Gabe Campbell, you seconded the vote for the new marina in September of this year, yet you voted no for the grant. Am I missing something here? Our children deserve to be taught water safety. Charlevoix Township and Hayes Township voted to allocate this grant. Without the city of Charlevoix, we are losing so much. I've taught swimming to 25 years. Once a child learns to swim, their confidence has an impact on their personality making new challenges a little easier. Self-esteem needs nurturing with new experiences. Citizens of Charlevoix, I urge you to contact your city council representative and let them know how you feel.

Carol Mack
Charlevoix

(Editor's note: Charlevoix Mayor Gabe Campbell did not vote on the pool issue at the city council meeting. As a mayor, he does not have a vote, except as a tie-breaker.)

Council voted correctly

Editor:

After receiving one of my first Christmas presents of the season in the form of taxes from the city of Charlevoix, I am even more convinced that the pool is a luxury.

With a budget of $304,000, I fear that the pool committee will be back next year, looking for even more tax dollars. Never mind that assistance to the pool was twice turned down by the taxpayers of this city. I am also quite sure that if the hospital recommends water therapy, an individual's insurance company is billed for such therapy.

There are people in this community who struggle to decide if they should buy food or medicine. If the city has excess money, perhaps they should consider lowering taxes, instead of supporting a pool to which the taxpayers have already said "no."

I am also curious as to the statement by Charlevoix Courier columnist Edith Gilbert in last week's edition that the summer residents use the fire and police protection only a couple months of the year. Tell me, whom do they call the other 10 months if they should have a fire or a breaking and entering?

The Belvedere and Chicago Clubs have always been an important part of Charlevoix. Perhaps those people would consider changing their residency to Charlevoix so that they would have a vote and could express an opinion as to how their tax dollars should be spent.

The people went to the polls and said "no" to supporting the pool. Thank you to the city council for supporting the people's decision.

Pool vote wrong

Editor:

I am very disappointed that our city council did not deem a $6,000 investment in our community pool worthwhile. We spend much more than that maintaining our three public beaches that are basically used two months out of the year and there are no matching funds available as there are with the pool.

Every student in our elementary school learns how to swim at the community pool during school hours free of charge. The pool is handicapped accessible and is used weekly by Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospital for therapeutic rehabilitation. Swimming is an activity that all members of the family can use together through our long, cold winters.

Many cities that have community pools are paid for and operated by the city. Our city fathers cannot even see their way clear to spending only $6,000 for something that benefits many of our residents both young and old.

Some on our city council need to stop giving in to the vocal minority and consider what is in the best interest of the silent majority.

All cities like all businesses have a budget. If you do not spend that budget it hinders the long term vitality of a community. This is not deficit spending and the homeowners have a right to expect our city council to continue to provide enhancements to our community that makes it a better place to live and protects their home investment.

If the whiners of city spending think that not allocating the annual city budget is going to lower their property taxes, they need to think again.

New library location

Editor:

Ok, so we are non-residents, but I went to the library idea meeting.

I did not get that the deciding vote was to be the middle school property only. There were several options available and many votes for an addition to the current building. My sister-in-law — a resident — came away with the same thought.

Is the middle school the only plan now?

Dorothy Irwin

(Editor's note: While it is not the only plan, locating a new library on the old middle school property is the main plan by the library board and Charlevoix City Council. It is currently the topic of a feasibility study.)

Thank you

The Mona Shores High School Orchestra wishes to thank the community of Charlevoix for the hospitality offered us during our Fall Concert Tour, Oct. 25-27.

We began this trip at Interlochen where the students studied in an afternoon clinic with director Dave Holland. We arrived in Charlevoix, toured the downtown area, and then proceeded to the beautiful new Charlevoix High School Auditorium.

The orchestra rehearsed with many local students under the direction of Gary Stutzman for an evening concert. What an honor to be the premiere performance in such a magnificent facility as the Charlevoix High School Auditorium!

The concert was well attended and the performance was warmly received. Many members of the community provided home stays for our 85 students. These friends provided dinner, transportation, evening hospitality and overnight accommodations. We are grateful for making our stay in Charlevoix so pleasant and for the kindness extended to our students.

Mona Shores Orchestra students, parents and staff wish to thank all the individuals that made this trip possible, especially Gary Stutzman who worked with school and community representatives to arrange the tour in conjunction with our beloved director, Tim Staudacher. The people of the Charlevoix community treated us like valued guests and we look forward to a return engagement.

Local bluesmen headed to Memphis

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix based blues band, Mojo and the Boogieman, is on its way to national success following a big win at the First Annual Detroit Blues Challenge in Royal Oak Nov. 24.

The competition pitted the local bluesmen against four longtime Detroit area bands for a $500 award and the chance to represent Detroit and Michigan at the Nineteenth Annual International Blues Challenge in Memphis, Tenn. Jan. 30 through Feb. 2.

Mojo and the Boogieman's lead vocal, Brian Fischer, 31, of Petoskey, said of the Royal Oak competition, "I was nervous until about halfway through the first song."

Jon Archambault, 35, of Charlevoix, added, "I wasn't nervous; I was amped."

Fischer said he believes the bands personality gave them an edge, while Archambault said their energy and original song selection was the key. The band played five songs in 30 minutes during the competition.

This was Mojo and the Boogieman's first competition.

The band was included in the Detroit blues challenge after a unanimous Nov. 10 vote by the Detroit Blue's Society. Mojo and the Boogieman were informed of the decision by the editor of Big City Blues magazine Robert Whitall Jr.

Mike Rembor, vice president and treasurer of the Detroit Blues Society, said he first heard Mojo and the Boogieman during a wedding reception the band was playing at in the Detroit area.

"I was instantly impressed," he said.

After that gig, Rembor said he asked the band to come down to Detroit and play at the society's electric jam Nov. 3 in the Detroit area. After that show, the society's board decided Mojo and the Boogieman should be included in the blues challenge.

"The bands they beat out were well established Detroit area bands. So it was quite a feat that they pulled it off," Rembor said.

Now Mojo and the Boogieman will be headed to Memphis for the international competition.

At the Memphis, Tenn. competition, the band will be competing for a first place trophy, $1,000 cash, studio time, 1,000 complete CDs, booking and public relations consultations and nine national blues festival gigs.

But, to get to Memphis, the band will need to raise some money.

To help them out, Terry Left, owner of the Villager Pub in Charlevoix, is planning a fund-raiser Jan. 11. According to the band, he will give .50 cents of every drink served to Mojo and the Boogieman, as well as proceeds from the door.

T-shirts will also be sold with sponsors names on the back.

In the meantime, Mojo and the Boogieman will have a "Memphis or bust" tip jar on stage at each of its shows.

Mojo and the Boogieman were originally formed in 1990 by Archambault and Fischer as a classic rock band. However, Archambault said the band gravitated towards blues music as its members matured as musicians.

The current lineup of the band has been in place for four months, with the latest edition being a keyboard player. They are: Fischer; Archambault; Charles Witthoeft, 31, of Charlevoix on harmonica; John Hefty, 51, of East Jordan on bass; Leo Dombecki, 30, of Gaylord on sax, keyboard and guitar; and James Hunt, 45, of Traverse City on drums.

The Detroit Blues Society was created about 20 years ago by a group of musicians and fans to preserve folk blues in Detroit.

Staff Writer Julie Witthoeft contributed to this report.

Charlevoix Holiday Open House to be Dec. 7

Christmas lights are twinkling as Charlevoix merchants prepare for the annual Holiday Open House to be Saturday, Dec. 7.

A full day of activities have been planned and the songs of the season will be performed throughout the day in East Park and downtown by a variety of musical groups.

The Ragamuffins, under the directorship of Kathleen Whitaker, will be heard as they begin caroling in East Park and throughout downtown from noon to 2 p.m. They will be there to welcome Santa Claus when he arrives perched atop a city fire truck.

Santa will greet all starting at noon.

The afternoon entertainment will continue with the Charlevoix Adult Brass Ensemble, the Northwest Academy Sax Quartet and choral ensembles from both Northwest Academy and the Charlevoix Public Schools, under the leadership of Gary Stutzman, Evelyn Wujcik, Jeff Longren and Jane Bennett. Also performing will be the Charlevoix Barbershop quartet with John Lignell, Gerry Staublin, Rick Torres and Byron Wright and the Petoskey Salvation Army Band.

After seeing Santa, the children are invited to see a full length movie at the Charlevoix cinema. This year two features will be shown: Country Bears (G) and Crocodile Hunter (PG). Children are asked to bring a canned food item to be donated to the food pantry if possible. Following the movie, children are invited to the Black Bear Coffee Lodge for a story hour.

While the children are at the movie and story hour, parents and family members will have a good chance to shop at the many unique Charlevoix stores. During this special Saturday Open House, many shops will have hors d'oeuvres, spiced wine, flavored coffees, cookies and other holiday goodies for their customers. Many of the merchants will also have extended hours for shopping, offer free gift wrapping and holiday special sales.

The Merchant's Association, in conjunction with the chamber of commerce, are again sponsoring a Christmas Gift Certificate Giveaway. All adults are invited to sign up for the drawing at one of the 30 participating merchants or the chamber office.

Over $1,300 in gift certificates will be awarded to the winners. The drawing will be on Dec. 10 and winners will be notified.

Search committee discusses options for new chief

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
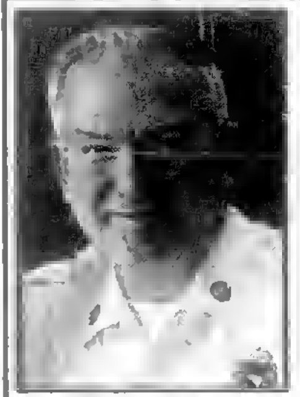
Staff Writer

The city of Charlevoix has started its search for a new fire chief.



Douglas Carver

Charlevoix City Fire Chief Doug Carver, 62, will retire in late January of 2003, after over 40 years of dedicated public safety service. He was hired in Charlevoix in May of 1992, replacing former chief and current Department of Public Works director, John Martin.

A fire chief selection committee made up of City Manager Mike Wiesner, mayor Gabe Campbell, city police chief Dennis Halverson, third ward council person Shirley Gibson, second ward council person Karen Campbell and first ward councilman Bill Haggard, met Nov. 26 to discuss the process.

In discussing advertising mayor Campbell said he understood accepting applicants from outside of Charlevoix, but feels ultimately Carver's replacement should be a local person.

"We need to take a look at all the qualified local people before we go outside. I would feel more comfortable having someone who really knows the area," he said. "I don't care who is in Alpena, West Branch or Bangladesh, if we have someone with the ability to fulfill the job and he's local that's where I want to go."

However, Wiesner said the committee should not narrow its search based solely on where the applicant is from.

"Long-term we want the best person. Council may decide it is the local guy, but maybe it isn't," he said.

Campbell also feels with the pending change of command it is an opportune time to reduce the number of full-time firemen.

The department currently provides both fire and EMS services to the city and Marion, Norwood and part of Eveline townships. It includes a full-time chief, three full-time firefighters and 40 paid-on-call firefighters and emergency medical technicians. The three full-time firefighters are Lyle Gennett, Bob Roloff and Joe Schwartzfisher.

"There are not quite 3,000 people in this town. There are way too many permanent firemen. If one of them (the three current full-time firefighters) is interested in becoming chief and council approves it — it wouldn't be a bad deal — we could save $60,000 a year (by not replacing them)," Campbell said.

The department made the transition from three to four full-time employees after a lengthy study conducted in October of 1991 found the increase was needed.

The number of full-time firemen needed will be discussed at a special council meeting scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. Dec. 9 at city hall.

The committee will be looking for applicants with some of the following credentials in making its candidate selections for council's review: the desire, but not requirement, that the candidate have at least five years of management and supervisory experience in the fire/EMS field, fire officer certifications, degrees in management and/or fire science, fire and EMS teacher certification, state fire inspector certification and arson management experience.

The city plans to advertise for the position in early January in local newspapers including the Charlevoix Courier, the Petoskey News-Review and the Traverse City Record-Eagle. The advertisement will also appear in the Jan. 2 issue of "Fire Ties" and will be posted on the Michigan fire chief's web site, the Michigan Municipal League web site and at Charlevoix City Hall and the fire department.

The advertisement will request applicants return a letter of interest and a resume to the city manager's office by Jan. 15.

The committee will meet with applicants around Jan. 16 and will attempt to select the top five candidates. These five will then be interviewed by a panel of three professional fire/EMS managers from the area the week of Jan. 20.

The professional interviews will narrow the field to three candidates who will be interviewed by city council the week of Jan. 27. If council is able to make a selection to replace Carver the individual will undergo a background check and physical and psychological examinations. If the candidate is still at the top of its list after the background check and examinations, council is expected to appoint a new chief the week of Feb. 3.

The city is also grappling with the idea of initiating a major transformation for its fire and ambulance departments that will impact the townships they serve.

One likely outcome is the establishment of a fire and ambulance authority.

The authority would locate individual stations in each township. In a past interview Carver has said the setup is a more cost-effective option for townships. The cost savings comes as under the authority model, the township owns the fire station and fire equipment and also realize insurance breaks.

Atheism and Christianity to be debated Dec. 8 at church

The Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix will host a live satellite simulcast, "The Great Debate: Atheism vs. Christianity," between a Christian and the atheist who sued to remove the words "under God" from the Pledge of Allegiance at 8 p.m., on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Dr. Michael Newdow, who filed the controversial lawsuit over the pledge, will face off against Christian author and speaker Cliffe Knechtle in the live satellite debate being simulcast across North America by the Church Communication Network (CCN).

Hosting the CCN simulcast will be atheist-turned-pastor Lee Strobel and Christian author-speaker Mark Mittelberg.

"We did a similar debate in Chicago 10 years ago," Strobel said. "The results were electrifying. I believe Christians and skeptics alike will flock to see this intellectual shoot-out to find out whether Christianity will emerge as being credible."

Dr. Newdow is an emergency room physician in Sacramento, Calif., and also has a law degree. He represented himself in the pledge lawsuit, which provoked widespread public criticism when it was upheld by the Ninth Circuit of the U.S. Court of Appeals last June.

Knechtle, a Christian apologist and pastor, has a master of divinity degree and is the author of the books "Give Me An Answer" and "Help Me Believe." In his ministry with InterVarsity Christian Fellowship, he has sparred with skeptics at more than 50 colleges and universities.

The debate is open to the public. The Community Reformed Church is located on the corner of Meech and US-31 North, one mile north of the bridge, in Charlevoix.

For more information, call the church at 547-9482.

Amick working on rezone for condos

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Ed Amick's request for a public hearing to discuss his rezoning application related to a piece of property on the city's north side has been delayed.

Amick, a Charlevoix resident and local Realtor, wants to re-zone a portion of his 8 acre parcel between Petoskey Avenue and Division Street from R-2, single family residential, to R-4, a residential zone for apartments and other multiple family dwelling uses. A public hearing was set in the matter for Dec. 9 before the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission.

But planning commission chairman Dennis Kusina said Amick has since withdrawn his request. Amick explained that he plans to reschedule the hearing sometime down the road.

"There are some unanswered questions on my part as well as theirs (the planning commission's) that need to be answered before the hearing. I just couldn't be prepared in time," he said.

He is looking to rezone approximately 2 acres that border Petoskey Avenue.

"I would like to build condos there," he said.

He was unsure how many he would build if the rezoning was approved and is waiting to hear the outcome of his request before formulating construction plans.

His R-4 plan includes a garden style condominium development that will have a low rise building with bungalow style condominiums stretching up 1.5 stories. This type of development is not permitted under current zoning.

"I don't want to put single family residences on Petoskey Avenue. It's mixed use all the way down the street and it would be difficult to attract buyers to single family use on such a busy street," Amick said.

The property sits directly across from the Community Reformed Church and is sandwiched by Barron and Golski law firm and an apartment complex.

However, this piece of property has had controversy in the past when a multiple family use was proposed.

On April 11, 2000 north-side residents packed the local Italian eatery Giuseppe's to discuss land use at the site. At the time, the property was owned by Warren Shadko who wanted to build a government subsidized apartment complex there. Those who attended the meeting said the project would lower property values and increase traffic by the elementary school located at 13513 Division Street.

The plan was dropped shortly thereafter and Shadko sold the property to Amick.

In April of 2001, Amick moved forward with another rezoning request which transferred the land from R-1, single family residential to its current R-2 designation. This zoning change meant homes can be built on smaller lots. The former R-1 zoning required a lot size of 12,000 square feet and R-2 requires 9,000 square feet.

At that time, members of the planning commission said the rezoning effort may be a positive step toward providing affordable housing to families getting on their feet.

Amick's plan was to section the property into residential lots, a plan commission members supported as they felt it meshed with the character of the surrounding area.

Amick said he still plans to use the remaining 6 acres for an R-2 development and has no plans at the present for starting the development.

When the property was rezoned R-2, Amick said Shadko's apartment plan that caused controversy in 2000 was not something he was interested in.

Amick said the condominium development meshes with surrounding uses and is needed in the community.

Whether or not the commission feels the R-4 change for those 2 acres bordering Petoskey Avenue meshes will be decided at the rescheduled public hearing which has not yet been set. After the hearing, the commission will discuss the request and come up with a recommendation for city council who would make the final decision.

DDA district to expand

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

> "I didn't buy a home in a commercial area, I bought a home in a neighborhood."
>
> Tim May,
> Antrim Street homeowner

Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously to amend the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority's (DDA) boundaries to include the former Charlevoix Middle School site.

At the Dec. 2 council meeting the district was expanded to include the block between State and Grant streets and Clinton and Mason streets with the exception of two residences located at 204 and 206 Clinton Street.

City manager Mike Wiesner explained that the boundary change allows the DDA to focus and expend money on the middle school property in exploring the possibility of it being used as a community center, a location for city parking or a public park area.

Third Ward Councilman Sherm Chamberlain said, "The sooner we get the boundary changed the sooner everyone can move forward and see what should be done with the property. Let's move forward."

Wiesner said the first phase of DDA involvement with that property will be a study it has agreed to pursue in conjunction with Charlevoix Public Schools and Charlevoix Public Library. The study which is expected to start in the next two weeks, will look at possible uses of the school which was built in the late 1920s.

"The study will look at the practicality of reuse of the middle school building. That's the key to the site, reuse it or demolish it," Wiesner said.

However, at the present, actual use of the site by the library, who is looking at relocating there from its current Clinton Street location, or by the city, is up in the air as it is still owned by the school district.

This concerned third ward council person Shirley Gibson, who questioned whether or not the boundary amendment would still be in effect if the city doesn't acquire part of the property and it is purchased by a private entity for a housing development. This would mean those homeowners would incur extra taxes.

City attorney Jim Young said they would be subject to DDA taxes and council would have to go back through this same boundary amendment procedure it faced with the change made at the recent meeting.

Aside from the impact on possible future developments, some of the neighborhood's residents were wary of the DDA's intentions for the area it expanded into.

Tim May, who lives at 209 Antrim Street said, "As it stands now I already have the county building pushing closer to my home. The way it's going the whole block (Mason Street) is going to be turned into a parking lot. I didn't buy a home in a commercial area, I bought a home in a neighborhood."

May added that he supports the library and community center plan for the property.

DDA Chairman Hugh Mason addressed May's concern about the authority's intentions with the expansion. He said the DDA is very aware of the residential nature of the area and its aim is to take the financial burden off city council with regard to the middle school property, not to commercialize the neighborhood.

Man injured in Dec. 1 snowmobile accident

A 35-year-old East Jordan man was injured around 7:30 p.m., Dec. 1 in a snowmobile accident on the Charlevoix/East Jordan snowmobile trail near Ellsworth Road.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department the driver of the snowmobile, Timothy Geer, was riding his snowmobile when the front end of his sled went down into the snow.

Geer believes that his snowmobile struck something buried in the snow which caused him to flip over his sled.

Geer sustained a broken right wrist, a sprained right ankle and possibly a separated shoulder.

He was taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital where he was treated for his injuries and released.

The sheriff's office said he was wearing his helmet at the time of the accident and alcohol was not a factor in this accident.

What to do for the holidays

Cookie making

Christmas cookie making gets you in the holiday spirit, but there is nothing fun about being alone. So imagine a group of best friends surrounded by baked goods and armed with icing and decorations of all shapes and colors.

Plan a cookie making party with snacks and punch and then, instead of slaving over making five dozen cookies yourself, have each person make three dozen and mix and match. Definitely put at least two people on sugar cookie duty because half the fun is decorating cookie candy canes, Santas and reindeer. All of the local grocery stores sell frosting, food coloring and fun edible cookie toppers.

Take a swim

We are surrounded by beautiful lakes and beaches, but Christmas is hardly the time to be the funny guy who takes a dip in Lake Charlevoix or goes for a tan at Lake Michigan Beach.

Instead, from 6 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 1 to 4 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays, round up the family and take advantage of open swim times at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool.

Special Christmas open swim times have been added from 3 to 5 p.m. Dec. 23, Dec. 27, Dec. 30 and Jan. 3. Kids can sing Christmas carols as they cannonball into the warm pool while parents soak in the spa just paces away from the pool. The pool is located at 11905 US-31 North in Charlevoix.

See the sights

Dale and Marilyn Boss who live at 200 Pearl Street in Charlevoix pour their hearts and souls into their Christmas display which is full of cartoon characters, lights trees and more, but many other lesser known homeowners show their holiday decorating savvy too.

So make some cocoa and pile the kids in the car after 6 p.m., when the sun is nowhere in sight, and cruise the streets of Charlevoix to discover everyone's decorating creativity.

Some houses that are usually good stops include Dale and Janet Troppman's home located at 13065 PD Campbell Court in Charlevoix and the Nesburg home at 08823 Central in Charlevoix.

Jingle all the way

Christmas often evokes images of a horse drawn sleigh traveling a snow covered road in a country setting. But with the advent of motorized vehicles with "horse power," horse drawn rides have pretty much become a thing of the past.

This year, area visitors and residents can capture that Christmas image and see Charlevoix's scenic side by sleigh or a hay ride powered by a team of two Percherons at Cedar Valley Farms. The ride accommodates up to 12 people and costs a minimum of $35. The 40 minute ride winds through the woods and back to the barn where a bonfire and hot chocolate will be waiting. To book a horse drawn outing call 547-7325.

Tap your inner lumberjack

The smell of fresh pine in the house is one of the many indicators that Christmas is here. Several retailers sell Christmas trees, but there are only a handful that have a cut your own tree option.

VanHouten's, which is located at the corner of Essex Road and US-31, just south of Atwood, offers a easy approach to playing lumberjack for a day. They provide hand saws and will even cut the tree for you for a $5 handling fee.

After bringing the tree in by way of a tractor-trailer service VanHouten's provides all the needed ingredients for warming up, cookies and hot cocoa in front of a raging wood stove fire.

To get there from downtown Charlevoix, take US-31 south and turn left on Essex Road, the VanHouten's driveway will be on your right.

Do nothing

As the winter snows fall and the cold air sets in, sometimes the best activity is doing nothing at home. The only way to improve on this is to do nothing next to a cozy fire in the fireplace.

But, this can create some hazards. To keep your day filled with peaceful relaxation and not the stress that can come from trying to vacate a burning building, Charlevoix Fire Chief Douglas Carver suggests the following safety tips for your fireplace or woodstove:

- Make sure the chimney is open. Carver said this mistake is very common.
- Clean your chimney on a regular basis with a chimney sweep. Carver said the fire department has various sizes of chimney sweeps available for residents to borrow.
- If you have a chimney fire, be sure to call the fire department. Carver said even the smallest chimney fire can be very dangerous.
- Lastly, do not use flammable liquids to start your fire. Use only matches and kindling — such as old copies of the Charlevoix Courier.

Take out some stress

Sometimes the holidays can create anxiety with all the hectic events surrounding them. One way to get out a little of this stress and take part in a fun past-time is by practicing your marksmanship at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club on US-31, near the Charlevoix Country Club.

According to Kim Jones, current vice president of the club, it is open from noon to 4 p.m. on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays this winter.

The club as five stands for skeet and trap shooting with a shotgun and rifle and pistol ranges. The cost for non members is $5 for 25 "birds," $4 a round for 25 skeet and trap targets; $3 a person for pistol shooting and $5 a person for rifle shooting.

Eye and ear protection is required. The club also has shotgun ammo for sale.

For more information, call 547-2785.

Feel the wind in your hair

The holiday season is also the perfect time to perfect your winter sports abilities and get some great exercise at Charlevoix's Mt. McSauba ski hill and the adjoining Northpoint Preserve.

Ike Boss, recreation director for the city of Charlevoix, said he is not sure when the mountain will open for the ski season yet — it all depends on the weather — but, crews at the mountain are working on the trails and blowing snow.

Boss added, Mt. McSauba will be open during the Christmas break.

When the mountain does open for the season, hours will be 5 to 9 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. The mountain will be open every day during Christmas break — except Christmas and New Year's Day — from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A lift ticket costs $7 a day. Ski rental fees for adults are $8 and kids are $6. Snowboard rental is $12.

The mountain also has snowblade rentals for $12 and snowshoe rental for $10.

In addition to the ski runs, Mt. McSauba and Northpoint Preserve, located in Northpoint Woods in north Charlevoix Township, have 80 acres to enjoy.

For more information, call 547-3267.

Create a snow friend

For those of you who enjoy the snow, but don't like skiing, snowshoeing or riding snowmobiles, the perfect outdoor holiday activity with the family could be building a snowman. There are many different ways you can decorate your snowman — each one is a unique work of art by its maker. But, the lingering question is: Will we even have enough snow to make a snowman?

According to Andy Sullivan, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service, it is very likely we will.

Sullivan said we will be getting some significant snows this week and possibly next, plus it is going to be very cold with no warm-ups on the horizon.

Shop the easy way

The holidays bring plenty of gift giving. In order to get the best gifts for your family and friends, Charlevoix is where it is at.

Instead of spending an hour or more driving to some distant shopping center that is crammed with grumpy people and then driving back — sometimes in a raging snowstorm — Charlevoix stores have everything you are looking for and a peaceful setting.

Jacqueline Merta, president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "Charlevoix epitomizes the very best of what small towns have to offer. It is a friendly, safe place to shop and eat."

She added, in addition to service, retailers give customers interaction that you cannot get at a big shopping mall.

"It is a unique way of socializing," Merta said.

As for thinking you wont find what you are looking for in a local store, Merta added, "I feel if you look for what you need to buy and really look in Charlevoix, you are going to find what you need."

HEALTH

Ten possible reasons you have a sore throat

Beverly Russell, P.A.

'Your health'

It's that time of year for snowmen, family gatherings, Christmas presents and the dreaded sore throat (pharyngitis).

There are many causes of pharyngitis and along with a feeling of ill health symptoms can include difficulty swallowing and talking.

The top 10 causes of pharyngitis are the following:

Number 10 — Pharyngitis due to Cornyebacterium diptheriae or Diphtheria. This is a rare problem in the United States. However, it can be present in children or adults who were never immunized. Diptheria was a common cause of mortality in children before the development of routine vaccinations. A thick adherent membrane appears on the nasal mucosa, tonsils or pharynx. These patients need immediate treatment by specialists and antibiotic therapy.

Number 9 — Trauma from heat, smoking, alcohol and irritants such as sharp objects. Has there been an injury or have you inhaled strong fumes or solvents? Have you been near an open flame such as a campfire and possibly been injured this way? Swelling can cause rapid closure of the airway, so you should seek treatment immediately.

Number 8 — GERD, gastroesophageal reflux disease, sounds weird, but some people with a history of gastrountertional problems such as heartburn can have reflux to the point that it causes an irritated chronic sore throat. This is a rare but significant problem and should be brought to the attention of your family physician.

Number 7 — Candida Albicans (yeast infection) or "thrush." This presents as a thin diffuse or patchy exudes on the mucous membranes of the mouth. Thrush is commonly seen in infants whose immune systems are not adequately developed or patients who have a history of recent antibiotic therapy or are immunosuppressed because of disease or chemotherapy and radiation. Diagnosis is made rather simply and there are medications available to treat it.

Number 6 — Peritonsillar Abcess, most common in older children and adults following an episode of tonsillitis. This illness often presents with gradually increasing, one-sided ear and throat pain. Difficulty swallowing, talking and opening the mouth may be present along with drooling. The affected tonsil is usually grossly enlarged and red. There may also be swollen and tender lymph nodes present in the neck. This sore throat requires a surgical referral with close monitoring and antibiotic therapy.

Number 5 — Hand, foot and mouth syndrome, usually there are oral lesions present and the sore throat is accompanied by lesions on the hands and feet. The culprit is the Coxsackie virus, usually seen during the warmer months, and it is treated symptomatically, allowing the virus to run its course.

Number 4 — Post nasal drip, have you had an upper respiratory infection that just does not want to go away? If it has been greater than two weeks, and you still have a sore throat, it could very well be from post nasal drip. As secretions from the sinuses and nose run down the back of the throat, there is an irritation that causes the sore throat. Treatments include prescription nasal sprays or allergy treatments may be all that is needed. Antibiotics may be necessary if there is sinus infection, which should in turn take care of the sore throat.

Number 3 — Infectious mononucleosis caused by the Epstein-Barr virus. There may be inflamed and swollen tonsils that have a lot of debris on them. Mono is usually accompanied by fever, fatigue and swollen lymph nodes in the neck. This is treated symptomatically, as antibiotics do not cure viral problems. It is important to get a follow-up visit to make sure there are not other associated problems such as enlarged liver or spleen. Vigorous activities and contact sports should be avoided during this time. Mono is said to be the "kissing disease" and is typically spread from close contact and respiratory droplets. Once you have had mono you cannot get it again.

Number 2 — Strep throat, due to Group A beta-hemolytic streptococcus. This is commonly seen in 15 to 40 percent of school age children, but uncommon in children under 3 years of age. Symptoms include fever greater than 101 degrees, headaches and sore throat with difficulty swallowing. The tonsils are reddened with white or yellowish debris on them. Usually there are tender enlarged lymph nodes in the neck and it is not uncommon to see a sandpaper-like rash present on the skin. Without proper antibiotics, strepococcal pharyngitis can lead to serious complications such as peritonsillar abscesses, rheumatic fever and kidney problems, however, if treatment is begun within nine days of onset of illness, these complications can be prevented.

Number 1 — Rhinovirus or parainfluenza virus. Viral pharyngitis usually begins with gradual onset, scratchiness, irritation and discomfort. Usually there are other symptoms of upper respiratory infections present such as cough, rhinorrhea (runny nose), ear pain and nasal congestion. Increase fluids, rest, gargle, use throat lozenges and pain relievers. The usual course for viral illness is 7 to 10 days so you must be patient.

Fortunately most sore throats are self-limited and require only symptomatic treatment. However, if your symptoms are severe, last more than two or three days, or you have serious underlying health problems, you should consult your family physician.

Choral groups to join area orchestra for show

The Little Traverse Choral Society and the Charlevoix Community Chorale join the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra in a presentation of Handels immortal oratorio "Messiah" at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 14 at the Charlevoix High School auditorium and 4 p.m. on Dec. 15 at the Cross in the Woods, Indian River.

Ellen Addington will conduct the collaborative effort with an excellent cast of soloists. Addington studied with Leo Sowerby and coached with Walter Taussig of the Metropolitan Opera staff. She served as music director in major churches in Detroit and Chicago. In 1980 she formed the Charlevoix Community Chorale and has presented major works annually.

The Little Traverse Choral Society is in its seventeenth year presenting challenging choral works to the northern counties of Michigan. The choir has presented Messiah Sing concerts for the region since 1986 and chose to present a concert performance with the Charlevoix Community Chorale and the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra this season.

Eleanor Hill, soprano, has performed widely throughout northern Michigan and recently was heard with her outstanding performance in the production of Andrew Lloyd Webbers Phantom of the Opera.

She lives in Levering where she enjoys the country while concentrating her energies on her family. She sings with the Little Traverse Choral Society, recently featured as a soloist with the ensemble in their November concert.

Mezzo-Soprano, Martha Hart, who has been on the artist faculty at the Bay View Music Festival for the past 10 seasons, has an international reputation for her stylistic interpretations of music from the Baroque to the contemporary.

She has performed with the symphony orchestras of Montreal, Atlanta, St. Louis, and Lansing. Hart has recorded solos with the Robert Shaw Festival Singers and is a featured soloist on the Robert Shaw Chamber Singers recording of Schubert Songs for Male Chorus.

Scott Carter, tenor, has performed a wide range of roles with the Chicago Opera Theater, including Alfredo in "La Traviata," Rodolfo in "LaBohe`me" and Tamino in the Bay View Music Festival production of Mozarts Magic Flute.

Carter earned his masters degree in music from Northwestern University.' Carter lives in Traverse City and has been featured as soloist throughout northern Michigan.

Peter Sims, baritone, recently was appointed director of music at the Harbor Springs First Presbyterian Church. Sims, a long time Bay View summer resident, was a music educator in Indianapolis for 25 years at the high school and college level.

He performed extensively as a soloist with the Indianapolis Opera Company.

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra has expanded its performance schedule in this its second season by adding the collaborative concert. The orchestra believes that such concerts are an integral element of its mission in bringing live orchestral music to northern Michigan.

Free will donations will be accepted and supporting membership for the ensembles will be available at the performances.

Art center to host youth orchestra Dec. 8

The Crooked Tree Arts Center extends an invitation to the community to listen to music played by the promising Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra at 3 p.m. on Dec 8.

The concert will be given at the Petoskey Methodist Church, 1804 E. Mitchell Street and there is no admission charge.

Karey Johnson, Dorothy Gerber Chair for Children and Music, will lead the youth orchestra in selections from Mozart, Vivaldi and Pergolisi. Over 53 area youth from Petoskey, Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Bellaire, East Jordan, Wolverine, Alanson, Pellston and Cross Village will perform. Joining the Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra will be a female choir, lead by Fran Tollas, singing Pergolisi's "Stabat Mater."

For more information about the concert or the Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra, please call the arts center for more details at 347-4337. The arts center is temporarily located downtown Petoskey, at 445 E. Mitchell Street. Visit www.crookedtree.org.

Teen Winter Adventure Camp being planned

Eleanor West and Nancy Ferguson, Camp Quality of Michigan, have been planning this year's "Teen Winter Adventure Camp."

The aim is to allow teens affected by cancer to play in the snow again and enjoy other activities such as a dog sled ride, hot chocolate and a long soak in an outdoor hot tub. All accommodations and events are free for the teens.

Camp Quality is a year-round support system for children with cancer and their families. The "Teen Winter Adventure Camp" is for teenagers between the minimum age of 13 and 18. This year's camp is to be Dec. 13, 14 and 15.

Skiing and accommodations will take place at Boyne Mountain USA, located in Boyne Falls.

There will be a hospital staff resident in camp the entire weekend to care for all medical needs. The Teen Camp is totally community funded, and offered to the children free of charge.

Parents of children with cancer are invited to call West at (231) 582-2471 or Ferguson at 547-2285 to receive a camp registration form or for further information.

Area law enforcement heads discuss crime

CRIME

Plus, in the 1970s, Lasater said he would only have one or two women in jail a year. As of Nov. 25, he had nine.

Along with increases in crime, local law enforcement has more on its plate due to the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001 in New York and Washington D.C and the anthrax mailings that fall. After the attacks, local law enforcement needed to increase security of ports, nuclear power plants, check suspicious mail and be on the lookout for anything out of the ordinary.

Halverson said, in Charlevoix, the city maintains the electricity, airport, has a port with a Coast Guard presence and is near a nuclear power plant nearby. All of these facilities need to have increased security around them.

"To some extent, law enforcement is on fast forward. We are getting continual intelligence," he said. Halverson added he has not gotten any information from the government that would make him "nervous."

But, add an increase in internet crimes, such as hacking and fraud, and a concern about viruses being used by terrorists in the mail, and Halverson said you have a real need for more training for officers.

Due to the passage of the Homeland Security Department bill, Halverson said he anticipates local training and equipment issues to be addressed.

"Homeland security is us, the police and sheriff. I always said local information is a critical piece to this," he said. "Expectations for law enforcement has risen on a number of different levels. You are going to have a police officer who can work on everything from anthrax scams to computer hacking, not to mention other responsibilities, such as unlocking cars."

Lasater also said training has been a big issue with his department. His officers have been dealing with everything from anthrax to working with the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant.

"That has put a lot of responsibilities on local law enforcement," he said.

Both Lasater and Halverson expect those responsibilities and new tactics to deal with them will continue to increase into the future.

Lasater said due to increases in building in the area he believes we will see more cases of building fraud to contend with. Plus, he said there will probably be more accidents because the area's road system has not kept up with the growth.

He also foresees an increase in crime and the locations it takes part in during the summer. In the past, Lasater said most of the crime was around Charlevoix, then it moved over to Boyne City, now he expects East Jordan will be the next discovery.

Halverson said he will be interested in the type of police officer that is needed for the future. He questions whether the public will want a "Robo-cop" type police officer and what that would do to the personable touch of the local law enforcement.

He does see a future with more cooperation between local, state and federal law enforcement.

"A police department that works in a vacuum is somewhat at risk," he said.

Area church to host Christmas musical

"Carols and Classics," a musical featuring over 50 people from 10 area churches will be performed by the Charlevoix Community Choir at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 14 and at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 15. at the Community Reformed Church.

The Community Cantina has been a Christmas tradition in Charlevoix for over 20 years. This year's presentation, "Carols and Classics," created by Tom Fettke, blends some of the most cherished Christmas classics with favorite carols which will be presented by the choir, soloists and instrumentalists. In addition, there will be an opportunity for the audience to sing along.

Under the yearly direction of Cindy Mansen, both the number of participants and the number of people attending has grown. In 1997 instrumentalists were added and in 1998 the Christmas Cantina added a second performance on Saturday night.

Chuck Britton is the set designer and stage manager for the performance and Tanya Whitley is the banner coordinator. It will be narrated by Deborah and Leah Dean.

Local soloists participating in "Carols and Classics" will be Don Heeres, tenor; Jon Eakes, tenor; Ann Hazelwood, alto; Marlene Evans, soprano; Kristen Herriman, soprano; and Sharon Batdorff, soprano. Instrumentalists will be Prudy Kurtz, violin; David Otis and Kiersten Nobach, flute; Mary Beth Kur, cello; Brenda Washburne, clarinet; York Smith, trumpet; and featuring Theda Williams on the piano. There will be refreshments served following the musical.

Strange gourd

Charlevoix resident Clayton Smith found this gourd in his garden in October along US-31 South and thought it was very strange. Out of the 12 gourds that he grew, this was the only one like it that was green with a long neck. Smith said at first he thought it was a snake and almost tried to kill it, before realizing it was a plant. Smith is planning on waiting for it to dry before he hollows it out to make a birdhouse or a dipper. (Photo by Jeremy McBain)

Pool funding issue to be back on the table

ed against the contract.

"You people are doing us a disservice. The pool is for the health and welfare of the old, young and middle aged. It's there for the people that really need it," she said.

At the Nov. 18 meeting when the first decision was made, third ward council person Shirley Gibson and second ward council representatives Karen Campbell and Bill Bellows voted against it. Carlson and fellow first ward councilman Bill Haggard voted in favor of the contract and third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain abstained because he is a member of the pool board.

Those who voted against it all said funding of pool operational expenses is not being properly approached — it needs to be on the ballot.

Mayor Gabe Campbell said, "I don't think anyone voted against the pool. I think it's a matter of funding and the people voted it down."

The vote the mayor is alluding to was for both the construction and operational expense of the facility. The building was constructed in 1997 using donated funds.

Carlson said the pool is working on its ballot options, but that doesn't help for this year.

"I don't think it's anything that will break our bank," Carlson said.

And for the future it won't likely break the taxpayers' bank. He said funding the pool's operational expenses would require .18 mill for school district voters or $9 for a homeowner whose home is valued at $100,000.

"I don't think they'll have any problem getting it passed," he said.

Danly said the pool board plans to meet Dec. 7 to discuss ballot options, but this year it needs the city's support to get that matching grant from the Frey Foundation.

"It would be a shame to lose that because we don't have the city's support," he said.

Carlson made the motion at the Dec. 2 meeting for the issue to be revisited and was seconded by Haggard. Gibson and Campbell both voted against looking at the issue a second time, but Bellows agreed to review the pool's request again.

"I haven't changed my mind, I just want to look at it more; it needs to be addressed further," he said.

Bellows plans to spend the next two weeks talking to his constituents. He said he plans to vote for what the people want.

"I'll vote the way I get the most input," he said.

Wrong information by clerk makes recall petitions invalid

RECALL

lieve justify removing Hayden and Skrzeczkoski from office, was good until Feb. 12, but signatures are invalid 90 days after they sign the petition.

On Nov. 26, after reviewing the petitions, Brannon found 87 of the signatures on Hayden's petition were from August and did not count toward the total. The first signature came on Aug. 18.

Ferguson said the problem could have been avoided — she read the rules of recall, saw the 90 day wording and checked with the clerk's office for clarification twice. She said in both instances she was told it wasn't an issue.

"I was counting on them to know their own rules," Ferguson said. "We've been told all along we have six months and then all of a sudden it's 90 days and I brought that up before I turned them in. If I knew that was the case I wouldn't have turned them in."

The law states that petitions are invalid if, "The signature was obtained before the date of determination by the board of county election commissioners or more than 90 days before the filing of the petition."

She said if the clerk's office passed along correct information about the meaning of this part of election law, she and other petitioners could have worked to get the other half before they turned them in and it was too late.

"Now instead of getting 90 signatures, we have to get the whole lot," Ferguson said.

If they had been given correct information from the beginning of the process Ferguson said they could have had the petitions in by Nov. 12 when the signatures expired.

But, Ferguson said signatures weren't in because the petitioners didn't feel any sense of urgency as they thought they had until February to submit them.

Brannon contacted a representative for Charlevoix County with the state election group and was informed the petitioners wouldn't be permitted to add to the petitions and would have to start over.

This means that petitioners who expected voters to decide whether or not to unseat Hayden and Skrzeczkoski in March will be put off.

"We think we haven't been adequately represented and we don't want that to go on longer," Ferguson said of the delay. "We will definitely continue the recall."

Starting over means the petition wording will face another clarity hearing before the Charlevoix County Election Commission, who passed it unanimously in August. After the hearing, they will have another six months to turn the petition in with all signatures in place less than 90 days before the filing date.

Ferguson picked up another petition Nov. 27 from the clerk's office and planned to have the wording back in the clerk's hands by Dec. 2.

Petitioners have agreed to help Ferguson gather the needed signatures and plan to "meet or beat" the original Feb. 12 deadline by having the signed petitions at the clerk's office on or before that Wednesday.

Skrzeczkoski said since August he has received several phone calls supporting the work he has done for the township. He added residents have pledged to campaign for him if the recall election occurs.

Hayden, who recently resigned from his position as planning commission secretary, plans to continue to fight for his township board position.

"The recall group has no idea how township government functions and all the duties of any one of the board members, nor how much time is required to complete these duties. A group of about 20 people can't get their own way by bully tactics and disrupting meetings so they are using this method (recall) to retaliate," he said of the effort.

East Park meeting planned

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and City Council will meet in an effort to finalize the master plan for future renovations to East Park.

City Manager Mike Wiesner said the joint meeting is scheduled to take place at 5:30 p.m. Dec. 16 and will respond to concerns about the bandshell and placement of the marina support facility.

Peter Pollack, of Pollack Design Associates in Ann Arbor who is handling East Park and municipal marina renovation design, will bring with him two designs — one, Plan B has already been reviewed by the public and a new Plan C will also be on display.

Plan B shows a patio at the base of Clinton Street with the marina building under it, the performance venue on the south side of the park at Antrim Street and a Chamber of Commerce welcome center kiosk on top of the roof area near its present location.

Plan C has the bandshell in its current location, the marina facility rebuilt where it currently is and the Chamber of Commerce welcome center kiosk near its present location.

Woman's body found on beach

A body, believed to be that of a missing Beaver Island resident, was found on the Lake Michigan beach in Charlevoix Township near the Cemex cement plant around 10:30 a.m., Dec. 7.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the body was discovered by a man walking his dog on the beach. It has been tentatively identified as that of Judy Ellen Bellamy, 55, of Beaver Island, who was a passenger on a plane that was reported missing over Lake Michigan Nov. 10.

Judy's husband, Melvin Bellamy, was the pilot of the small plane. Both he and the plane have not been recovered.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, the case has been referred to the Charlevoix County Medical Examiner's office, which has ordered an autopsy allowing them to make a positive identification of the body.

Lasater said he is "99 percent sure" it is Judy.

The Bellamys were flying to Beaver Island from Fon du Lac, Wis. on Nov. 10 when their plane disappeared.

A search for the plane was conducted by the United States Coast Guard and units of the Civil Air Patrol. Due to a tip from a resident of Fairport, located in the Upper Peninsula, who said they saw a plane matching the Bellamys flying just above the treeline, officials concentrated their search around Big Bay De Noc.

The search was called off later in the week.

Lasater said there has been no indication given to him by officials that a search for the plane or Melvin Bellamy would be resumed.

Fire department staff to stay at same level

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's City Council voted unanimously to retain current staffing levels at the fire department.

The upcoming hiring of a new fire chief in the city of Charlevoix rekindled the staffing debate that raged twice in the 1990s.

A fire chief selection committee made up of City Manager Mike Wiesner, mayor Gabe Campbell, city police chief Dennis Halverson, third ward council person Shirley Gibson, second ward council person Karen Campbell and first ward councilman Bill Haggard, met Nov. 26 to discuss the process the city should follow in hiring a new chief.

Current Charlevoix City Fire Chief Doug Carver, 62, will retire in late January of 2003, after 10 years in Charlevoix.

Kurchinski retires as county magistrate

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix County's administration said good-bye to long-time employee Dave Kurchinski last week as he entered retirement after over two decades of local service.

Kurchinski, 55, of Charlevoix, started his work with the county in 1981 as an officer with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and retired Dec. 6 from the post of District Court Magistrate.

"It's a nice feeling, but it's a scary feeling too. Since I was 16, I've been in the military (former Marine) or working. I've never been in a position where I didn't have something on the other side waiting," he said.

Kurchinski moved to Charlevoix in 1981 from Clearwater, Fla. with his wife, Leigh, and children David and Nicole. The family made the move after a northern Michigan vacation turned into a job interview for Kurchinski who met with Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater during his stay. He was a Florida police officer at the time.

Two weeks after returning to Clearwater, Fla. Lasater called him and said if he was serious about joining the county department there was a job waiting. The Kurchinskis loaded up their possessions and headed from sunny Florida to frigid northern Michigan.

But the cool climate didn't take the family off guard; Dave was born in Petoskey and Leigh is a New York native.

Lasater said Kurchinski's leadership shined during his six years with the county sheriff's department and he ended his career there as a sergeant.

In 1987 he moved from his familiar law enforcement position to a judicial post with the county when he was appointed district court magistrate.

Kurchinski described a magistrate as a quasi-judicial judgeship — a position similar to a judge, but with limited jurisdiction. Over the years some of Kurchinski's responsibilities have included: arraignment of defendants charged with certain misdemeanors, acceptance of guilty and no contest pleas to certain misdemeanors and imposing a sentence, issuing of arrest and search warrants, fixing bail and accepting bond and performing marriages.

He said the best part of the job was dealing with the public.

"I've met so many nice people along the way — it's been rewarding helping people who are dealing with problems in the court system ," he said.

Outside of court he has also forged strong friendships with co-workers who are hard for him to leave behind.

As he walked out of the county building last week, he headed home with no concrete plans for what he'll do next.

"I want to get out and see the world. I won't be at an office job again," he said.

His first exploration started the day he retired when he got in his car and drove to Littleton, Colo. to visit his brother Tim. He said he planned to take the quiet time on the road to listen to music and reflect on the last 55 years.

"I'll contemplate where, I've been, where I'm going and start planning the rest of my life," he said.

The future definitely holds quality time with his three grand-daughters and the newest granddaughter scheduled to arrive in January.

He said he enjoys home repair and is thinking of starting his own handyman business, Badger Enterprises.

While Kurchinski trades his magistrate responsibilities for a tool belt, the county is looking for a new magistrate who will have big shoes to fill.

Lasater, Kurchinski's former employer and close friend said, "I've known Dave since 1981 he's always been an honorable, honest and loyal employee for the county and an honorable, honest and loyal friend. It's going to be hard to replace him."

Kurchinski said the county administration is considering making the magistrate's position part-time but hasn't found his replacement.

Help residents in need during the holiday season

EDITORIAL

While putting up your Christmas lights, wrapping the presents for beneath the tree and enjoying the warmth of your families, remember there are many people out there who are in need of your help.

Charlevoix, like every other county, has many people who may not be able to put food on their tables this Christmas, pay for heat in their homes or provide toys for their children to enjoy. But, Charlevoix is a giving community and there is help available for these people and a way you can donate.

First there is the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project. This annual project makes sure over 100 families in the area have a merry Christmas by providing gifts and food for the holiday season.

To donate to the project, visit St. Mary's Catholic Church, at 1003 Bridge Street in Charlevoix, and take a tag from the giving tree. All you have to do is shop for the gift listed on the tag and return it to the church wrapped, with the tag on top.

For more information, call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515.

Or, if you would like to donate money that will pay for groceries for the families, call Caroline Batdorff at 547-2546.

Another way to help children in the area is through the annual Toys for Tots program. This program provides toys to area children who are in need. To donate, just drop off an unwrapped toy at one of the many drop boxes around Charlevoix.

For other charities you can call Paula Shuler at the Family Independence Agency, at 547-4471, for a list of what is needed in the area as far as food and toys and where you can donate.

Lastly, for those in need of heat in their homes this winter, the Charlevoix County Sheriff has a list of agencies that can help. For more information, call 547-4461 or see our story on page 16.

Thanksgiving with the family and one big dog

Edith Gilbert

'Ear to the ground'

I hope your Thanksgiving was as much fun as mine! The week flew by quickly after four generations of Gilberts drove up in two cars from Rochester, N.Y. to help celebrate Turkey Day with me.

My grandson, Curtis, brought his wife and two children (sixth generation of Charlevoix visitors) with him, as well as his constant companion, Dehlia. The dog is a huge French Mastiff, very gentle, who never barks. Dehlia jumped out of the car and ran up to the house. She clearly remembered being invited two years ago.

The first thing that everyone did when they arrived on Monday was run down to the Lake Michigan Beach and slide down the dunes.

On Tuesday we relaxed and reminisced about the many, happy summers Curtis spent in Charlevoix during his college years in the 1980s. He worked as a busboy at Parkside for two summers and another year he garnished plates in the kitchen at the Weathervane. He made many friends and I remembered that as soon as his foot crossed my threshold the phone started ringing off the hook!

On Wednesday, I suggested that Grampa Jay take the two little ones to Raven Hill Discovery Center. When they returned, much to my surprise, Curtis plugged in Jay's laptop computer and showed me pictures they had just taken with their digital camera! I saw pictures of the children petting a python, and painting the shell of a turtle! What a treat to see this in the comfort of my own living room!

On Thursday everyone naturally spent the day in the kitchen baking and basting. Curt's mother, Vicky, prepared her special stuffing for the turkey. Curt's sister, Victoria, baked a delicious pecan pie. I made the traditional sweet potatoes and marshmallow casserole and Curt's wife played on the kitchen floor with the children. Curt's dad strolled by periodically with words of encouragement.

After dinner we took group pictures — brothers, sisters, father, daughter, grandmother, grandchildren. Finally I said, "I want a picture of me and Dehlia." I sat on the couch and called the dog over, expecting her to sit on the floor next to me.

Instead, she jumped up and sat on my lap! Of course everyone burst out laughing and here is the picture to prove my story.

Column response

Editor:

I have to disagree with Edith Gilbert's article "Behind the News" in the Courier on Nov. 27. According to figures on voting by ward Nov. 5, the second ward had the smallest number of votes. The votes are as follows: First Ward, 451; Second Ward, 402; Third Ward, 410.

If the theory of the most power is followed, the First Ward is well ahead with the Second Ward last. In area the First Ward is by far the largest including all of north of the bridge and the valley.

The library is run by a board of directors, not the city council.

Seasonal home owners can vote in Charlevoix if they choose to. No one can vote in two places. It is where they claim their homestead and register to vote. There are registered voters in both the Belvedere and Chicago Club.

Community is better due to pool

Editor:

After completing my shift as a lifeguard at our Community Pool today, I was delighted to be informed that the Charlevoix City Council was re-thinking their decision not to support the pool financially this year.

Whilst I support any government entity that tries to limit government spending, I think it is time for the whole community to re-think about the pool. Despite being a former Pool Board of Director member and currently being a member of the staff, if the pool was just about swimming, I would say let those that use the services pay for them. However, the pool is not just about swimming lessons, recreational swimming, water therapy or in general health and fitness. It is about much more.

It provides real and lasting benefits to the community. "How?" you ask.

Firstly, it provides employment in the community: lifeguards, office staff, fund-raisers, swimming instructors and maintenance personnel. Staff lifeguards and instructors learn and have opportunities to practice leadership skills. These skills will stay with the youths as they grow into adults and become leaders in our or another community.

The key to teaching swimming, is getting the student to relax and trust that they will float. Everything after that is just fine tuning. Hence, building self-esteem in the student is a large part of the instructor's role. The self-esteem developed at the pool can and does affect other parts of the students life.

Similarly, competitive swim training is not just about going fast in the water. Like track and field and other school sports (all well supported by tax dollars), it develops sportsmanship and character.

Swimming is the skill that instructors use to help the student develop their potential. Some go on to become instructors and pass the gift they received on to others.

The pool, especially the $1 nights, provides the community with an affordable true family activity — time spent together without TV, all ages can participate.

Lastly, the pool provides a tourist attraction. Do parents shop while kids swim? Does swimming generate hunger in children?

Our community is a better place to live because of the pool — let's privately and publicly support them.

Charlevoix is too expensive

Editor:

I would personally like to commend William L. DuPont for his letter to the editor in the Nov. 27 issue of the Charlevoix Courier. I have been saying the same thing for years. The gas stations in Charlevoix lose my business every time I make a trip to Traverse City. If I am heading down state I don't fill up before I leave because I know I won't have to drive more than an hour to get a better price on gas.

Let us take this complaint a step further. Living in Charlevoix is a costly decision. A family of four who makes $40,000 a year is struggling to survive here. No, that is not me personally, but it is many of my friends.

They are scraping pennies together to pay their electric bill because the cost of living in general is so high. When $40,000 a year is a good living in other places and keeps food on the table adequately, why does it have to be such a burden here?

I once asked a manager at a local grocery store why I could buy a jar of Gerber baby food in Louisiana for 25 cents and it is 52 cents here. His only reply was that it is one of the more expensive Spartan stores. I could give you a very long list of the people who shop in Petoskey or go to Traverse so they won't feel the crunch as badly. Sure they pick up odds and ends here, but the bulk of their shopping is done elsewhere.

Now let's address the restaurants. Anyone who dines out around here knows that in the summer the prices at the local restaurants go up. Yet, we surrender to our plight of living here. Moms need a break in the summer months also. Don't we deserve better when we are the ones who keep these places in business during the other nine months of the year?

A few weeks ago I was talking with my chiropractor about this very issue. At the time we were discussing the cost of a home in Charlevoix. That subject alone can make you lose consciousness. The ridiculous price of housing around here puts many people in apartments who could be in houses.

And why is that? Simple. Greed. Everyone is trying to capitalize on the people from down state who want a summer home. The real estate agents and people selling put their homes on the market right before summer and when they don't sell they have to reduce the price by tens of thousands of dollars just to get someone local to look at it.

The township I live in upped my taxes a few years ago. When I failed to catch it until last year, and filed a complaint to the township, they turned me down flat. They have never seen my house, I bet, and they are trying to tell me it is comparable to houses down the road in a more upscale development. I could almost guarantee I will never get what they seem to think I can out of this house if I try to sell it.

And when is Charlevoix's government going to start putting a little more effort into keeping year-round people here? They do everything to attract the fudgies, but what are they doing to attract businesses that can pay more than minimum wage? People want a reason to stay, and you can have all the family or friends here that you want, but if you can't pay the bills you have no choice but to leave.

Charlevoix, I love you, but beauty isn't everything.

Christmas came early for a delightful woman from Bellaire this year.

From 500 raffle tickets sold this summer for a vintage car, Jane Brauburger's name was drawn Nov. 30 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

She was thrilled, but certainly not speechless. Brauburger said she expected to win.

Upon seeing the rare, English built car at the Waterfront Art Fair for the first time, she fell in love with it. Brauburger told her granddaughter that if she bought a raffle ticket she couldn't lose.

She theorized, if she didn't win the car, the money was going to a good cause. She bought a packet of five tickets for $200.

Brauburger intends to take her first trip in the bright red sports car to town for coffee with friends once the roads are dry.

The Brauburgers moved to Bellaire from Ann Arbor in 1987. She is known in the immediate area as the "Book Fairy" because of the fact that she started a reading enhancement program for children over 12 years ago.

The 1934 Singer LeMans was generously donated to the Charlevoix Area Hospital by Lowell and Sharon Blossom of Charlevoix. The raffle was the initial activity associated with Holly Daze 2002, a major fund-raising event for the hospital.

Ticket sales raised nearly $25,000 with proceeds going to furnish two new birthing rooms.

Friends and family gathered at the Brauburger home last week to share in the excitement as Jane took possession of the car. She served Christmas cookies to the guests and enlisted the services of a trumpeter to herald the car home.

Unfortunately he was unable to attend the celebration due to band practice.

New deputies being sought for county Sheriff's office

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office will be getting two new deputies soon, increasing the number of officers from 14 to 16.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, the Charlevoix County Commission gave its approval for the staffing increase about three weeks ago. Lasater already has two serious candidates for the positions and is screening them now.

The addition of two new deputies will allow Lasater to do some reorganization with his office and create a full time school officer for the county. However, neither of the two new deputies will be assigned to Beaver Island — which currently had one full time deputy stationed on it, along with a part time deputy.

The new deputies will have an approximate salary of $26,083 to start. Lasater said this does not account for benefits.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office currently has 14 full time deputies and two sworn deputies — Lasater and Undersheriff Don Schneider. Of the 14, one is assigned to Beaver Island and one is assigned to the area narcotics enforcement team, SANE.

BASES is debt free

On Nov. 15, 2002, Bay Area Substance Abuse Education Services (BASES) paid off its mortgage held by Charlevoix State Bank.

Since the beginning in 1993, BASES has had either rent or mortgage payments. Those obligations were eliminated when Scott Kelly, executive director, recently presented the payoff check to John Kurtz, President of the bank. The BASES Board of Directors decided on the move as a result of the organization's sound financial condition.

Now that the building is paid for, all donations will be used to improve the facility and for programs and activities. In January, BASES staff and students will spend a weekend at Camp Daggett developing confidence, self-esteem and cooperation on the indoor Ropes Course.

The last several years have seen increased commitment to BASES from the community as well as local and nationally recognized foundations. Significant financial support has come from Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Char-Em United Way, Oleson Foundation, The Offield Family Foundation, Rainbow Thrift Shoppe, LexaLite International, Community Church of God, First Congregational Church and Lawrence and Sandra Bergmann.

The year 2003 represents the tenth anniversary of BASES and the future looks secure as its important work with teenagers is increasingly sought by organizations around the state. To date approximately 1,500 young people have had classes at BASES.

BASES provides substance abuse education and counseling services to teenagers in Charlevoix and the surrounding area. For more information call 547-1144 or consult www.basesteencenter.org.

Sheriff warns about insurance sales tactics

Sheriff George T. Lasater advises Charlevoix County senior citizens to be wary of calls from individuals saying they have someone in the area who can come to the senior's home to explain Medicare and insurance.

Those who have received such calls say that they got the impression the caller was from either a branch of the government or connected with a local aging program. However, once the "representative" shows up at the senior's home, it is soon discovered that the individual is selling insurance and financial planning services.

Seniors who have contacted the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians and other aging programs have complained about the misrepresentations used by the individuals to gain entry into their homes and the high pressure tactics used once entry is granted.

In some instances, the individual has stayed as long as four hours or more to convince the senior to purchase their products.

If you or anyone you know has had similar experiences, please contact the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians at (800) 347-LAWS.

Commission does not support Eveline rezoning

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

At a recent public hearing, the Eveline Township Planning Commission unanimously voted against recommending the township board rezone a 156 acre parcel of land owned by Dawson and Mark "Barney" Way.

"I think they based their decision on the intent of the master plan and I think they did the right thing," Susan Parks, a member of the Eveline Township Preservation Group opposed to the rezoning, said.

The proposed land rezoning from farm/forest would accommodate a manufactured home development.

While some argue the change doesn't fit with the township's master plan, applicant Mark Way said the high density development would provide much needed affordable housing.

Chairman of the planning commission, Eric Beishlag said when the commission reviewed and applied findings of fact required of rezoning applications, it was clear the Way request didn't fit the piece of land.

"A lot of it didn't follow the area for the master plan," he said.

He explained the master plan said R-4 zoning is desirable in the Ironton and Advance areas.

"It was in the wrong area, it was in what the plan wants to be farm/forest area," he said.

Mark Way disagrees and said he and his father think the R-4 change and their development plan would be an appropriate use.

"It's a residential area and this would be a residential use. I think it would fit with the neighborhood," he said.

Beishlag said the size and type of proposed development also played a role in the decision. He said the R-4 zone could allow up to 1,200 homes on the land based on its size. While the Ways were thinking more along the lines of 200 homes, Beishlag said it is just too big.

In terms of the type of development, Beishlag said this type of use does not require individual homeowners to pay voted millage taxes which would make them exempt from the school millage and any road or other millages.

"So, it would be a burden on the township," he said.

Mark Way said he feels the commission misinterpreted the tax setup and said taxes are paid to the township by the developer for the development as opposed to levying taxes on each individual unit owner.

"I don't think they see a clear picture. The park itself pays property tax — it's not at all tax free. I don't think it would be an additional burden on the township," he said.

The request will now face review by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission and then the township board will take into account recommendations from both the township and county in making a final decision.

On Dec. 11 the township planning commission will meet and vote to approve its minutes from the Dec. 2 hearing so the county can schedule its review.

In spite of the setback at the township planning commission meeting, the Ways plan to follow the process through.

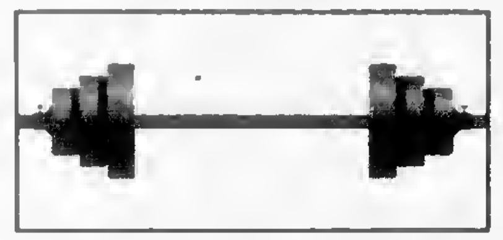
HEALTH

Twelve days of exercise for the holidays

Candy Smith
'Your health'



This time of year, the extra food and stresses that are "forced" upon us can best be offset with exercise.

No matter what eating plan you are on, it is the balance of food and the energy expenditure that keeps us the same weight. It is an imbalance in the equation that can cause us to gain or lose weight. For most of us staying 'even' this time of year is a good thing. So what activity will you do?

The 12 days of fitness I prescribe should be adjusted to suit your specific level of activity and may be stretched out over a longer period of time than just 12 consecutive days. In fact, a regimen that takes you into the new year with regular exercise planned for at least every other day would be great.

After checking with a physician to see what exercise is right for you try this schedule:

On day one, go for a walk, outside or inside on a tread mill. Wear appropriate footwear and those braving the outdoors should layer clothing. Aim for 30 minutes.

On day two, strength work for your core or middle includes crunches, oblique work for the muscles that hold your organs in place and back strengtheners. Try using a ball or the new Bosu for support and added challenge. We hope those muscles don't have to hold a bowl full of jelly, but that they could if needed,

On day three, more acrobic activity like bicycling indoors or cross country skiing outdoors to make your heart and lungs stronger. Take time to warm up and cool down at an easier pace than the main portion of your workout.

On day four, strength work to keep your lower body strong, like squats or lunges, a proper squat and lunge positions your knees behind your toes. If getting out of a chair is a problem, these can be very helpful.

On day five, continue to challenge your cardiovascular system with a class like step or aerobic dance to enjoy camaraderie of others sweating with you. How do you think the reindeer stay in shape?

On day six, do strength work for the upper body using your own body weight. Try push-ups, pull-ups or triceps dips. Simple push-ups can be done on hands and knees with elbows bending to bring your nose to the floor slightly in front of your hands. Try it while watering the tree. Pull ups require a safe sturdy bar upon which to "chin" yourself. Dips can even be done from a sturdy chair. Sit forward at the edge of the seat, hands on the chair facing forward and let your bottom dip down and then push back up using your arms.

On day seven, explore stretching, an important component of being fit and feeling good. Spend time every day stretching the areas that feel tight or the areas that got extra work that day. If you are just starting, lie on your back, bring one knee in towards your chest and gently straighten it for a hamstring stretch. Sitting for long periods can cause back, hamstrings and hip flexors to tighten. Repeat on both legs before rolling to your side. Bend knee and push hip forward to lengthen in the front upper thigh. Stretches should be held for at least 8 seconds and up to 90 seconds. Switch and enjoy. Spinal twist for the back can feel super.

On day eight, turn on holiday tunes and dance, move, jump and be glad you're alive.

On day nine, do strength work to improve muscle strength and bone density using the added resistance of dumbbells or strength machines. Don't be afraid to go where trained staff can check your posture and form. There is an appropriate weight for anyone and you can improve at any age.

On day 10, try a new type of movement, maybe Yoga or the elliptical/cross trainer. If it is new to you, keep the level gentle until you find how your body responds. Generally "surprise" causes our muscles to re-build stronger. Keep life interesting. Surprise someone with your energy. Workout time that allows your mind to de-stress can make the holidays more enjoyable.

On day 11, other area that can benefit from stretching, especially while shopping, are the calf muscles. The wall lean works well if the lean comes from your ankles, not the shoulders, bring one arm in front to hug yourself pull it in tight with the other arm and switch, and the back clasp fingers in front of you, turn them out and push away to round back then lift hands high into the air. Inhale and exhale as you stretch to relax into the position.

On day 12, do a little of all your favorite movements, warm-up, get aerobic, do some strength work (chest, back, shoulders, biceps, triceps and abdominal) and take time to stretch and relax. The best gift you can give your loved ones is a healthy you. Take care of yourself so they won't have to take care of you and you can be of help to others.

May your 12 days of fitness go on for your lifetime. Merry Fitness!

Judicial officials discuss crime trends

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

(Editor's note: This is the last in a two part series.)

Today's criminal is more aggressive and the crimes seem to be more serious in nature, according to Charlevoix circuit court judge Richard Pajtas and county prosecuting attorney Mary Beth Kur.

Pajtas said he believes the overall crime trend in Charlevoix County has increased slightly and the types of crimes have gotten more violent.

"There are probably more assualtive types of crimes than before. I think thefts go up with a bad economy, but assualtive types seem to be not a dramatic, but a steady increase in the past few years," Pajtas said. Pajtas has been a circuit court judge for Charlevoix for 18 years.

He said there are numerous reasons for this, but he believes it's partly due to the break-down of the family and a lack of discipline in the family.

"Now there are a number of single-parent families that do a good job of raising children, but they have a harder time than two-parent families," he said.

In addition to a steady increase in violent crimes, he said criminals seem to be more aggressive now and the age of the offenders seems to be going down.

Kur agrees, saying she has seen an increase in the seriousness of cases her office has dealt with in the last few years. Kur has been a Charlevoix prosecutor for 10 years.

She said she is seeing more sexual assaults, violence against children and, in 2001, two homicides in the city of Charlevoix.

"I think overall there has been an increase in the level of violence in our society," she said. "I think that as the population rises in any community, the crime rate rises."

Kur said in all the time she has been in Charlevoix, she has seen an increase in the overall case load.

Figures Pajtas supplied from the circuit court show a slight increase in the number of non-family criminal cases he has tried from 2000 to 2001. In 2000, there were 75 non-family criminal cases before the court and in 2001 there were 103. But, the five-year high was in 1997, when 113 non-family criminal cases came before the court.

Pajtas said any slight rise in crime could be related to the population increases in the area and the poor economy the nation is facing.

"With a robust economy, the crime rate goes down. When you have a bad employment situation, such as what we have now, I think that will reflect in the criminal case load in the near future," he said.

While Charlevoix cannot control economic factors and family issues, the courts can affect the amount of crimes and level of violence in its own ways.

Pajtas said one way is giving criminals a "certainty of punishment." If a criminal comes into his court and knows that he is going to be punished for his or her crime, Pajtas said that has a deterrent effect on crime in the local area.

As for the punishment, Pajtas said the county's new jail alleviates any incarceration problems. Plus, since 75 percent of the case load deals with drugs and alcohol, there are rehabilitation and probation options for those who do not need to go to jail for their crimes.

Pajtas said he also tries to move the cases through swiftly, but without hurting the offenders chances of a fair trial. By keeping the trial close to the date of the crime, Pajtas said it helps bring closure to the case for victims.

Kur said she works on prioritizing cases in her office and allow for very little tolerance with violent crime.

"We try to hold people accountable, in a way that is in the best interest for the public," she said.

Kur added a big deterrent for crime in Charlevoix is the local criminal justice system.

"We have excellent judges on the bench, aggressive, competent prosecutors and high quality police officers," she said.

Township eliminates administrative fee

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Taxpayers in Charlevoix Township will get a break this year.

The township voted in July at its annual meeting to eliminate its administration fee. The change will save a tax payer whose home is valued at $100,000 a total of $22 in winter and summer taxes or 1 percent of their total $2,200 tax bill.

Township treasurer Theda Williams said the fee, which brought in $41,119.68 in 2001, was put in place to cover expenses associated with collecting taxes including: the assessor's salary, a portion of Williams' costs and postage.

She said it costs at least $41,000 to pay costs of tax collection in the township. The cost will now be covered by the township's general fund which has a $1 million surplus.

"We felt this was one way we could not tax people because our budget is in good shape now. This is a way of passing on the savings," Williams said.

Not all townships charge the administration fee and Charlevoix Township has historically gone back and forth with it. In 1986 there was no administration fee. Then it was reinstated in 1987 at .5 percent of an homeowners annual tax bill and was increased to 1 percent in 1988, where it remained until the township canceled it this year.

Winter tax payments are due Feb. 14, 2003.

Energy assistance available this winter

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater advises all Michigan seniors, regardless of income, are protected by the Michigan Public Service Commission's "Winter Protection Plan" rules.

Winter Protection Plans prevent utility shut-offs during the winter heating season from Dec. 1 through March 30.

There are a number of resources available to assist customers, particularly seniors and those with limited incomes struggling with high energy expenses.

Utility companies offer a variety of programs to help customers with high energy bills. Programs may include year-round budget programs, help accessing other government agencies and non-profit assistance and even direct bill payment assistance.

The Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) is the state agency that regulates Michigan's utility industry. The commission can issue emergency shut-off protection orders and can help consumers locate other public and private assistance programs. Contact the commission at (800) 292-9555 or www.cis.state.mi.us/mpsc.

The Michigan Family Independence Agency (FIA) is the state agency that provides the most energy assistance to Michigan's senior and low-income utility customers. The agency provides direct crisis intervention through its "State Emergency Relief" (SER) program. The agency can also arrange "Positive Billing/Vendering" direct payment agreements with most utility companies.

The agency provides information about Michigan's Home Heating Credit (HHC) and Earned Income Credit (EIC) programs and can refer low-income families and seniors to available programs. For more information, call its Energy Assistance Hotline at (800)-292-5650.

The Michigan Veterans Trust Fund (MVTF) can provide emergency grants to eligible wartime veterans and their families for temporary basic life needs including assistance with energy costs. Contact the fund at (800) 827-1000.

Local man injured in snowmobile accident

A 28-year-old Chandler Township man was injured in a snowmobile accident around 12:30 a.m., Dec. 7 on Howard Road.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department said Dennis Lee Mousseau, Jr. was riding his snowmobile across his property on Howard Road when he hit a low area and lost control of his Polaris snowmobile, possibly rolling it — it was unknown at press time.

Mousseau suffered a broken leg and possibly internal injuries. Mousseau was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital by a personal vehicle.

The sheriff's office said alcohol and speed were contributing factors in this accident.

This accident remains under investigation.

Eastern Star has meeting

The Charlevoix Chapter 72, Order of the Eastern Star, met recently with Worthy Ethyle Marshall presiding at the meeting.

During the business meeting, it was voted to contribute to several Eastern Star programs, to send Thanksgiving and Christmas remembrances to local member shut-ins and to send a Christmas monetary donation to the clients at Masonic home in Alma.

Reports were given on the recent School of Instruction given by the Worthy Grand Matron Laurene Calloway, which was in Boyne City.

In lieu of exchanging of Christmas gifts, the chapter will be collecting non-perishable foods for the local Charlevoix Food Pantry as in the past. All members are asked to bring a sack of foods, paper supplies, toiletries and others to the next meeting for donation to the food pantry.

Also, at the December and January meetings, members are asked to bring a teddy bear or other stuffed animal, which will then be donated to the Women's Resource Center Safe Home for the children there.

The next meeting of the Chapter will be at 6:25 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 18, with a potluck supper at the Masonic building to celebrate Christmas. All members are asked to attend and all Masons are also invited to the potluck.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting by Colleen and Sam Wilcenski and Janada Chingwa.

Many ways you can give for holiday season

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

What better way to celebrate the spirit ofgiving at Christmastime than to seek out those in need in the community and make their list of wishes come true?

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project can always use more helping hands. This year the project has over 100 families on its list.

To donate gifts to the project visit St. Mary's Catholic Church located at 1003 Bridge Street in Charlevoix and grab a tag from the giving tree. Those who wish to give are asked to take a tag, shop for the gift listed on it and return the present to the church wrapped, with the tag on top.

Once the crew of Christmas project volunteers has gathered all the gifts, they then have to tackle the arduous task of labeling and packing them up.

To sign on to be a mitten wrapper, a bag labeler, a grocery packer or to help with delivery Dec. 21 call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515. To donate money which pays for the groceries call Caroline Batdorff at 547-2546 or send checks made payable to the Community Christmas Project to 4903 Marion Center Road, Charlevoix, MI, 49720.

Other needy causes in Charlevoix include the many families served by the Family Independence Agency (FIA). Donations can be made to the FIA by calling Paula Shuler at 547-4471. She will tell those who call what is needed and where to donate.

Another donation option is the local U.S. Marine Corps League's Toys for Tots program. Several area businesses have signed on to be drop off locations for unwrapped toys that will all be locally distributed.

You can find Toys for Tots drop boxes in Charlevoix at ACE Hardware located at 403 Bridge Street, K-Mart located at 06600 M-66, Glen's Market located at 111 M-66, Gilling Chiropractic Center located at 119 Antrim Street, Copy Plus in the Glen's Shopping Center, Oleson's Food Store located at the intersection of Antrim and Bridge streets, Rite Aid Pharmacy located at 195 M-66 and Harbor Industries located at 100 Harbor Drive.

Having wrapped gifts under the tree during the Christmas holiday is even better when everyone's belly is full. The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry was established to help ensure the community is fed at Christmas and throughout the year.

Crooked Tree Arts Center to have concert

The Crooked Tree Arts Center announces the program of songs for their annual Holiday Concert.

The concerts will take place at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 13 and 14 in Ross Stoakes Theater of the Crooked Tree Arts Center. Street Sounds, an a cappella quintet from San Francisco will perform a variety of tunes, including: "Ay man yana," "Dream Deferred," "Jesus, Oh what a wonderful child," "Route 66," "What you see is what you get," "Santa Clause is coming to town," "Father's House," "I can fly (Jacques song)," "This is Dedicated to the one I love," "You send me," "Mr. Postman," "My Girl," "I only have eyes for you," "Juba" and "Street Suite."

Street Sounds was founded by Louise Robinson in 1989 in San Francisco.

Robinson is a founding member of the internationally acclaimed a cappella quintet, "Sweet Honey In The Rock" and is co-author of their book "We Who Believe In Freedom."

In addition to singing, Louise has enjoyed a fulfilling career producing, directing and acting both on and off-Broadway. She has worked with such luminaries as Ruby Dee, Ossie Davis, Robert Hooks, Robert Townsend, Gregory Hines, Geoffrey Holder, Lynn Whitfield and Suzzane Douglas. Since their beginning, the group has carried their sound to many stages including Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Korea, Italy and across the United States.

"I am grateful for this opportunity to share with the world, the gift of this musical group. Our voice and celebration is yours to enjoy," Robinson about their upcoming concerts in Petoskey.

Other members include Michelle Jacques, a native of New Orleans, and an original member of Steet Sounds.

Her numerous professional credits include: winner of the 1995 Contemporary A Cappella Recording Awards for the "Best Folk/Progressive Song — Home Africa;" studio recordings for radio and television commercials; performed and recorded with Session In Reggae; featured performer in "Women in Reggae."

Steven M. Thomas is a winner of the 1995 Contemporary A Cappella Recording Awards for the "Best Folk/Progressive Song" Steven has had principle roles in "The Wiz," "Ain't Misbehavin" and "Guys and Dolls."

He was a featured dancer in "Carmen Jones" for the Oakland Opera, "The Black Filmakers Hall of Fame" award ceremony and "Dream Girls."

Rhonda Crane has worked with artists such as the O'Jays, John P. Kee and Tramine Hawkins. When not on the road, she enjoys working as a vocal background arranger and a youth instructor for the Edwin Hawkins Music and Arts National Seminar.

Bryan S. Dyer has appeared in several musicals including "Bye, Bye Birdie" and "Guys and Dolls." Dyer was performed with other a cappella groups in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Tickets are still available for both evenings and may be purchased by calling the arts center at 347-4337 or online at www.crookedtree.org.

Council decides to keep staffing at same number

CHIEF

that mayor Campbell sparked conversation of a battle he fought in March of 1995 when he was a second ward councilman. He feels in hiring a new chief it is time to cut a full-time fireman from the department to save money.

But council disagreed. First Ward Councilman and deputy mayor Norm Carlson said the city's $9,548 savings wasn't worth the negative ramifications of reducing the staff.

"You can't put a price on safety," he said.

A study conducted in 1991 by Municipal Consultants of Midland that showed major inefficiencies in the department prompted the increase in the number of full-time firemen. The city increased the staff from two to three and a full-time chief when Carver was brought on in May of 1992, to replace current Department of Public Works director John Martin.

The problems the study found included: a lack of compliance with state standards and that a policy and procedural manual, an incident command system and a training schedule didn't exist. It suggested each be established. The consultants also recommended the department require physical training, establish an inspection service and design rules to cover the role of volunteer firemen.

At that time the city responded by hiring Carver and increasing full-time staff levels.

The decision increased the city's cost, but Carver said by cutting a full-time fireman now, the cost to the community would be greater than the savings.

"After all the turmoil the city went through in the past, placing the fire chief back on shift would sooner or later result in the same problems we had in the past," he stated in a memo to Wiesner.

In his 10 years, Carver has reduced the Insurance Services Organization (ISO) insurance rating in the townships the city covers, including part of Eveline, Marion and Norwood and in the city, saving residents thousands of dollars. During that same period, fire and EMS activity has increased 35 percent, equipment has been upgraded and the department has been compliant with state and federal laws, rules and regulations.

"A four man fire department is required for the health and safety of the personnel and to keep improving and upgrading the department," he stated.

After voting to keep current staffing levels, council voted unanimously to advertise and interview candidates for a fire chief locally and outside of Charlevoix.

The department currently includes a full-time chief, three full-time firefighters, 25 paid-on-call firefighters and 12 paid-on-call emergency medical technicians. The three full-time firefighters are Lyle Gennett, Bob Roloff and Joe Schwartzfisher.

Jerry Meggison, who has been a firefighter for 33 years, said, "I would like to see the chief picked from one of the three we already have. These three shift commanders are qualified."

Council agreed that finding a local candidate is desired, but want to make sure they get the best possible candidate.

"I will give a lot more consideration to someone already in the department," former Charlevoix Township firefighter and second ward councilman Bill Bellows, said.

Applicants for the chief's position are expected to return a letter of interest and a résumé to the city manager's office by Jan. 15. Council is expected to appoint a new chief the week of Feb. 3.

Middle school gym may open for teams

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix School Board is considering opening the former middle school gym for recreation use.

The school, located off Grant Street in the city of Charlevoix, closed in August after the new high school opened and middle school students moved to the former high school off Garfield Avenue.

Now that winter recreation sports leagues are in full swing some coaches want to use the vacant gym for practices.

Dean Spencley, president of Charlevoix Recreation League Girls Basketball, along with a group of about 20 parents, approached the board at its meeting Dec. 9 and requested the gym be open this winter.

Prior to the meeting, he said the community should be able to use the gymnasium until the district decides on a use for the facility.

"We (taxpayers) are paying for the school, it's part of something we keep up. It belongs to everyone and we should be able to make arrangements and use it," he said.

In an interview before the meeting, Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Dr. John Sturock said the board isn't against the idea of opening the gym, but it hadn't been approached with a concrete use plan that addresses a number of concerns the district has.

"If there is a need, the board has never been closed," Sturock said.

Spencley suggested starting indoor soccer, badminton and basketball programs at the school.

"We could open it up for anything," he said.

Spencley said the girls basketball program, which he currently coordinates, includes students in grades 5-8 split up among eight teams. The boys fifth and sixth grade recreation league, run by Bob Jess, has three teams.

Spencley said the current middle school gym is packed every day of the week and the only day the girls have gym time is from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays, game days. Some churches have offered rental of their gyms at $12 an hour, but the league participation fee is only $15 and that includes a shirt.

"When the gym is available, why should we have to pull money out of our pockets. We could put that money into equipment for the kids," he said.

Use of the gym would offer practice time for students, which Spencley feels in the long-run will create more competitive teams. Spencley is proposing the girls' league have use of the former middle school gym for 24 hours each week so each of his teams can practice for 1.5 hours twice a week.

Spencley and his wife, Patty, will meet with Sturock in the near future to discuss a number of concerns the board has with opening the building, including: supervision, upkeep and liability.

"When we shut it down, we shut it down to minimize cost. The board didn't want to be involved with the extra cost of keeping it open," Sturock said.

Initially, one of the school's major concerns was the cost of keeping the heat on at the empty school this winter. The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority has since expressed interest in purchasing part of the site for parking and agreed to consider paying heating costs at the site while an architectural study is done to see what the building can be used for.

While this agreement may address the district's heat bill, Sturock said keeping the gym open would also require janitorial services.

Spencley's proposal suggests use of a parent supervisor who would be in charge of cleaning up and watching over those using the facility.

"They've closed down a school that can keep kids in a situation where they're being physically active. Why have the school sit there closed, not being used at all if parents are willing to take responsibility for the kids," he said. "There are people in the community who love to work with kids and could get a nice schedule going."

One question Sturock said he has with a supervisor is: Will that person have liability insurance or will accidents be the responsibility of the district?

"What happens if there is a catastrophic injury in that building, who will pay for it then? Why should is come under our liability insurance, we closed it down," Sturock said.

Spencley suggests a waiver be signed by users, taking the bite out of the liability issue.

While many feel there is a need for gym space, the need isn't new this year. City recreation director Ike Boss said the programs have the same amount of gym space they've had in the past.

The city's recreation department provides gym time at both the elementary and middle school gymnasiums for 12 volleyball teams, seven adult basketball teams, the children's basketball league and an indoor soccer league.

Boss said, in his opinion, at this time there isn't a problem with gym space, but that there will be if in two years the state decides to make boys' and girls' high school basketball seasons coincide.

At the upcoming meeting between Sturock and the Spencleys they will also look at gym time currently available to see if girls and boys basketball practice can be worked in.

Spencley hopes the board votes on his proposal before its meeting Jan. 13.

"Our season ends in March, I hope they make a decision well before the next board meeting so we can use it right away," he said.

Who: Recreation league, school board
When: Dec. 9
What does it mean: The old middle school gym may be available for recreation teams that want to use it for practice in the near future.

Park, marina to be topic of council, DDA meeting

PARK

rection of the parks. Hopefully, on the sixteenth (Dec. 16) the DDA will recommend to city council a final decision on the land master plan," Pollack said.

If council is able to come to decide the direction of the park design with input from members of the DDA, a plan will be approved at the meeting.

After a decision is made, engineering contracts will be awarded. Wiesner said he currently has a proposal on his desk from United Design Associates of Cheboygan, marina engineers, for dock work and utility engineering.

United is currently working on establishing "best base information" by taking Round Lake soil borings and is conducting toxic tests and topographic and utility surveys. Once the plans are finalized and this information is compiled, Pollack and United can move forward with establishing design plans.

Pollack will work closely with design plans to establish cost estimates for both the park and marina renovations.

Based on Pollack's figures, the state Waterways Commission will look at the feasibility of the city paying the local share of the project and decide whether it will fund any,. 50 or 75 percent of it.

Wiesner said the city has not had a marina fund in the past. This type of fund is a useful tool for Waterways in evaluating the funding capabilities of a city. In the past, marina profits have been funneled to the city's general fund.

During the 2003 boating season the city plans to establish a marina fund from which Waterways will gauge the marina's annual profit.

"I think they expect the local share of the fundable project to be able to come form the marina fund," Wiesner said.

He added that more profitable marinas tend to offer fuel sales but Charlevoix's does not. He believes this is positive and fuel sales should remain in the private sector. But this minimizes profit making possibilities and has led Wiesner to believe it is likely Waterways will be more apt to grant a higher level of funding.

As the process has progressed Charlevoix resident and Waterways commissioner John Winn has said Charlevoix getting any funding may hinge on having all the necessary permits and information in the commissioners' hands by April of 2003 which would make the project eligible for the Waterways 2005 project schedule.

Wiesner said he doesn't know if the timeline will be met and isn't interested in rushing the community.

CARDS OF THANKS 070

RECENTLY I suffered a heart attack while taking my daily walk along Ferry Ave. I was alone and there was not much traffic that day; fortunately a good Samaritan in his pick-up drove up and saw that I needed help. He quickly got me into his truck and raced to the Charlevoix emergency room where I received treatment. Then he took the time to find my wife who was running errands that morning. Thanks, Tommy Left, for all you did for us. You are special.

In Memory of my Mother Clara Parsel

Thank you all for sharing in Mother's Crossing Over to a better place. Jim, Joy and I each had children waiting there for her along with our father and step-father and many family members to help her with the transition. When I called my oldest daughter to tell her about grandma, she said, 'Mom you know she is already ram-rodding the place.' Maybe so as she was a take charge type person.

I wish that I could have been here to share in this occasion with you but as many of you know I have been quite ill for some time now. Know that I am with you in Spirit.

None of you knew the true person that was my Mother. Let me give you a reader's digest version.

When I open the door labeled 'Mother', I find two more doors. One is black and has a large lock on it. There is no key. It cannot be opened any more. That holds the bad memories. Then there is the door that is blue and slightly ajar. When you look inside you see all the good times and memories.

Mother was only 5'2" but rile her feathers about one of her children and she became an Amazon woman fast. One year she brow beat the grain agency manager to give her enough money against our grain stored there to buy her children Christmas gifts. She got it. Again the Amazon woman won out.

She was the gentlest of care givers, be you two legged or four. You see, we grew up on the farm. It was a hard life but a good life. Jim was one of Mother's most frequent patients. That boy could find more ways to get hurt.

Mother and Daddy taught us the true values of life. Hard work, honesty and loyalty.

Mother was the greatest at food. She could make something great from nothing and it would seem a feast. She could make the best pies, cakes and yeast breads you ever ate. She was the greatest at food preservation, too. Had she not, we would have gotten pretty hungry come springtime. She made everything count. She wasted nothing.

As a seamstress she was superb. Had she not been, my sister and I would not have had many clothes to wear to school. She made my first two formals for proms and I was very proud.

She was our own personal hair stylist. She gave us our Lilts and Toni's and did the cutting on our hair. Sometimes a little shorter than we wanted.

She could sing like a bird. She sang in the church choir for many years. She, my sister and I formed a trio and sang for church functions.

So see those are the memories that I have to cling to of Mother. Aren't they great?

Again, thank you and may God bless you all.

Patti Parker

The people behind the beauty

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

I was reminiscing the other day, as I am prone to do, and some of the people who lived in Charlevoix in the 1940s and 50s came to mind. At that time, most of us had no television, and we were intertwined with the lives of people who were always giving their best to help others, and make the town a happy place for everyone else.

Mrs. Ralph (Margit) Hamilton comes to mind as one of these caring people. When I was around 10 years old, she had a bicycle club for any kids who wanted to join. We would meet together, and ride different routes around town. It must have been quite a responsibility for her, but she was happy doing it.

Dale remembers Ed Radle, who lived at 403 Mason with his mother. He was around 20 at the time, and took a big group of kids on Saturdays out to the old lime kiln, which is part of Cemex cement plant today. They would have a cookout at noon, eating hot dogs and canned pork and beans which the kids brought and cooked over a fire. Then they played games and ran around the old kiln ruins, through the woods, enjoying the out-of-doors.

Leslie Everts, Carl Mitchell, William Chatfield and Art Krulik took care of the cemetery in the summer time. They had a lot of pride in it, and it was a beautiful place. They went beyond just doing a job. They made it a place to be proud of. In the winter time, they made and took care of the ice skating rink located at the Mason Street school. It extended from Mason to Clinton Street on the eastern portion of the property. They knew how to flood it and maintain the ice. This usually entailed working all through the night, when the freezing was best. Once the ice was made, they would stand holding the fire hoses and spray the ice, making the best rink around. They used the Model A Ford cemetery truck, with a homemade plow crafted by splitting an old hot water tank in two. This did a great job of plowing the snow off the ice.

We will never forget the wonderful homemade meals that Marie Blissett, Norma Cunningham, and Bertha Wagner prepared every day at the school. They made rolls from scratch, and the meals were very tasty as they were all excellent cooks. There again, they went beyond what they actually had to do.

Then there was Glenn See, the funeral director. Dale's neighbor, Mrs. George Jardine, who lived at 316 Mason Street, always said that Glenn was so tender hearted that when he had to pick someone up who had passed away, he would cry harder over the loss than the next of kin. He had a huge Saint Bernard dog, named Barry, who was the friend to every kid in town. At that time, dogs were allowed to run loose and Barry was all over, but was a gentle dog, and loved by all.

Fran Martin gave so much to everyone in the form of writing news for the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review for years. She was in a very serious automobile accident when she was a young woman, and was confined to a wheel chair for years and years. For a long time, she lived at the Charlevoix Hospital, and then, later on, at the family home. She was on the phone constantly, finding out the latest news, and also when someone wanted to know the ball game scores, or where the fire was, she was called.

She was probably the most trusted writer of the time, because she would keep confidentialities until the appropriate time to break the news. She knew everybody, and who they were related to, and kept up on everything going on, even though confined to bed a lot of the time. The community then bought her an electric self-propelled wheel chair, and she was able to be out on the street, attending functions around town. When tournament time came, she could count on Louie Edwards to load her in his van, and take her to the games.

We always felt we knew the merchants so well. It was a slower paced life then, and they would take time to talk about the latest happenings when you would go in their establishment.

One time, at a historical society meeting, the late Bob Miles asked the audience the question "Who was the most popular person in Charlevoix?" The answer was Jimmy Bogart, a local fellow who would walk downtown everyday. Everyone knew him, and the merchants would have him come in for a cup of coffee or a sandwich. Sometimes he would shovel snow from the sidewalks in front of their store, or shovel coal into their furnace. He was a fixture around town, and the late John Cross, owner of Cross Fisheries, was very generous to him, and Jimmy frequented his business, knowing he was a good friend.

One time, Johnny had a new fish tug made, and Jimmy was standing on the pier as the tug was attempting to pass Jake White's tug. They were racing down the channel, and Jimmy stood with his hands in the air, all excited, hollering for Johnny to win.

For a long time, Jimmy rode with the ball team on their bus to the out of town games. He also rode in the police chief's car in every Venetian street parade. One time, Jimmy missed the school bus going to a game in Rogers City. He got a ride to Indian River, and then, hitched another ride to the game from a Charlevoix fan. He was loved by many, and was missed when he passed away.

There were many more wonderful people that we fondly remembered, but that's another story.

MDOT IMPROVES SAFETY

on US-31 South of Charlevoix. The Michigan Department of Transportation resurfaced 1.5 miles of US-31 and constructed passing relief lanes at the Charlevoix/Antrim county lines. Work was completed in November 2002. The widening project will improve safety and traffic flow in the area allowing motorists a safe place to pass slower moving traffic. According to MDOT spokesperson Bob Felt, "Safety is a top priority for us. A little inconvenience now will definitely be worthwhile down the road."

For more information on other road projects, please visit MDOT's Web site at: www.michigan.gov/mdot or call their North Region office toll-free at 888-304-MDOT(6368).

This will not be an easy year for the Charlevoix High School varsity basketball team.

After years of trouncing the competition on the court, the team is facing a new season with younger players and a lot of injuries to deal with. And, added to this, the Rayders have some real competition this year with four teams returning all of their starters from last year in the league.

"I think it will be a great league race," coach Keith Haske said.

He added, while the team has some difficulties to work through, they are still looking pretty good in practices and scrimmages.

Currently, Donovan Swanson is out with a bad knee; Spencer Bryan has a turned ankle; Andrew Wright has a broken foot and Nate Teuscher is nursing an injury from football. But, they are all expected to be back by early January.

While these injuries take some of their best players off the court at the beginning of the season, it is also taking away their height, leaving 6 foot, 6 inch forward Scott Friske to make up for it.

"He is going to have to carry us on the inside," Haske said.

He added Friske has really put a lot of time in during the off season for this year and has a great all-around game.

"He is an outstanding player. He should score a lot of points," he said.

Haske added Friske is one of the better players he has coached in his career, along with Scott Parrish from last year's team.

As for the rest of the team, Haske said they look pretty good.

"I think we are well balanced and good inside. I think we are quick enough, quicker than last year," Haske said.

Overall, Haske has six players from last year back, with a total of 15 on the team. Due to the injuries, he has brought up two sophomores.

There are six seniors: Teuscher, Travis Smith, Bryan, Todd Carey, Swanson and new to the basketball court, David Shearer.

Haske said Teuscher will be the starting point guard when he is back, adding he is the "heart and soul of the team." He added, "Bryan will help out inside, Swanson brings his toughness and great speed and Carey works very hard and is tough."

Shearer, known for his skills on the golf course, is starting to come along and should do nicely, Haske said.

Volleyball team has high expectations

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While it has only four returning players out of 11, the girls' varsity volleyball team is planning for a successful year.

"They are all hard workers and don't complain. With that quality, the sky is the limit," coach Liz Grunch said.

She said the new players have some really good skills, especially spiking. They are Theresa Martin, Andrea Ruhlman and Kari Way.

"I expect a lot out of them this year. I think if they make that switch (to varsity style playing) they will be very successful," Grunch said.

Plus, Grunch will be returning some fantastic players, including last year's star Natashia Kleiber.

"She can do anything. She is a great passer and spiker and can read the offense when she is in defense. She can get a lot of balls up that normally they can't," Grunch said.

Other returnees are Rebecca Kanine, Shayna Drost and Erin Burns. Kanine is the star setter from last year, Drost is a defensive specialist and Burns is a utility player.

While the team has a lot going for it, Grunch said they have some work ahead of them. As of Monday, they only had about a week of practice and still needed to work on putting their drills together and team unity.

Additionally, the team has a high goal of winning the conference and district.

"We are very capable of doing that," Grunch said. Charlevoix was third in the conference last year.

To do this, the lady Rayders will need to beat a tough Harbor Springs team, which finished in second last year. They will also be looking out for Traverse City St. Francis.

Grunch pointed out it is hard to gauge Traverse City St. Francis as it had a rough start to the season last year, but came on strong at the end.

The team's first tournament will be Dec. 14 in Roscommon, where it will defend last year's title.

SKIING

Combined teams have experience

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With combined girls' and boys' teams the Charlevoix/East Jordan ski teams should be quite a force on the mountains this year.

"I am going to expect high. We have a lot of athletes with a lot of experience," coach Sue Miller said. "I think the kids will do well."

Last fall, the decision was made to combine the Charlevoix and East Jordan boys' and girls' teams to increase participation numbers on the mountains.

To make things fair, the boys' team hails from Charlevoix, while the girls' team hails from East Jordan. This is due to more boys from Charlevoix taking part in the ski team and more girls from East Jordan taking part.

There are 10 boys on the Charlevoix/East Jordan team, with four of them from East Jordan, and there are nine girls on the East Jordan/Charlevoix team, with four of them from Charlevoix.

Adding to the experience they already bring to the hills, Miller pointed out that the early winter will allow them to get more time on the mountain practicing.

She said the teams will be out practicing by Dec. 16, but some of the racers have already started training on their own.

Miller said she has so many talented skiers on the team and has not had a chance to fully evaluate them on the mountain yet, so she does not want to praise any one racer.

"There are a lot of consistent skiers on the girls' and boys' teams, with strong backgrounds," she said.

Both teams will need all their talent when they face challenges from some of the toughest teams in the state in their quest for the championship.

Miller said the boys' team will need to look out for Boyne City and Harbor Springs, while the girls' will be battling Boyne City, Harbor Springs and Houghton.

Meets start in early January.

Wrestling team has a lot of potential

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School wrestling team may be young, but they have a lot of potential.

According to new coach Craig Golovich, there are 15 students on the team, but only two seniors and one sophomore. The rest are freshmen.

But, Golovich — who headed a wrestling program for kindergarten through eighth grade students in Charlevoix for 6 to 7 years — has have many of the students and already knows their skills.

"They are all pretty darn good. They are tough and have style," he said.

He added, if he can keep the team together, by the time these freshmen are juniors, Charlevoix should have a pretty strong program again. Now, though, their youth is hurting them.

Golovich said in many instances, he has freshmen going up against juniors and seniors. Those juniors and seniors have more strength and more knowledge of the mat.

Plus, the grappling Rayders are used to the 1 minute periods of middle school teams, not the 2 minutes periods of high school teams.

But, the students are coming along.

"They look a lot better now than three weeks ago," Golovich said. "This last week, I can see they are really coming on."

In practice, the students learn more wrestling moves, work 2 to 2-and-a-half hours a night and run 3 miles a day.

While the team is young, Golovich does have two returnees, seniors Chris Lahr and Danny Possert. Lahr wrestles at 160 pounds, while Possert wrestles at 103 pounds.

He added the team is in need of wrestlers for three open spots, including the 215 and 275 weight classes.

"It is hard getting these big guys to wrestle," he said.

As for strong opponents, there are many. Golovich said Petoskey is always the number one team and Gaylord is very strong. He added Mancelona is tough this year and composed of almost all juniors.

Pool request nixed

Recall talk circulating among pool supporters

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

In spite of a strong effort on the part of patrons, board members and staff of the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, Charlevoix's City Council again voted to deny its request for funding to help pay for "Dollar Nights," a decision that may prompt a recall of some council members.

D.J. Way, a second ward resident, said, "I'm livid, people are aghast at what happened, that council would be so blind they wouldn't realize what they are doing to the pool."

Way was Charlevoix City Council Member Karen Campbell's opponent in the November general election.

Way said after the council meeting Dec. 16, when the pool's request for the city to enter a contract that would have cost the city $6,974 to subsidize dollar swim nights at the facility was denied again by a vote of 3-2, recall discussion flourished. Over 40 people who attended the meeting to support the pool filed out of council chambers mumbling and shouting comments of disapproval.

On Dec. 2, after fielding backlash from community members about the initial denial of the request voted on Nov. 18, council voted to put the issue back on the table at its Dec. 16 meeting. But time didn't change the opinion of the three council members, who believe funding for the pool should come from a ballot proposal.

"There are a lot of people who aren't against the pool, but are against paying money for it," second ward council person Karen Campbell said.

Those who voted against it Nov. 18 and again Dec. 16 are: third ward council person Shirley Gibson and second ward council representatives Karen Campbell and Bill Bellows.

Gibson said, "Until the voters have a chance to change their minds, I'm sticking to what they said in the past."

The vote she spoke of took place in 1991 and asked voters in the school district to support construction and maintenance at the facility.

First ward councilmen Norm Carlson and Bill Haggard again voted in favor of the contract and third ward councilman Sherm Chamberlain abstained because he is a member of the pool board.

"I'm very much in favor of supporting the pool. I don't think it's that much to ask especially when you are looking at a matching fund. They aren't asking for much for what they are giving in return," Carlson said.

He lauded the pool's efforts to teach Charlevoix area children to swim and its ability to produce top-

Plan for East Park picked by council

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix's City Council voted unanimously on a plan for renovations to East Park.

Park renovation planning was back on the table at a special joint meeting of Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and City Council Dec. 16.

Council ultimately selected the same plan for the park project it favored at a joint meeting it had with the DDA Sept. 25. But the issue was back on the table because since September, some Charlevoix residents have come forward with concerns about the approved layout.

The concerns addressed possible obstructed views and demolition of the current bandshell. But no one with those worries was at Monday's

DDA to fund $32,000 study of former middle school site

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Who: Downtown Development Authority
When: Dec. 16
What does it mean: If the study is favorable to plans, the old school site could become a new library, community center and parking lot.

An architectural study at the former Charlevoix Middle School will soon be underway.

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) unanimously voted to enter into a professional contract with Engberg Anderson Design Partnership, consultants for the Charlevoix Public Library, to pursue a study at the school. The DDA agreed to pay up to $32,500 to the corporation which will look at potential reuse of the building located off Grant Street in the city of Charlevoix.

"That's money well spent," DDA chairman Hugh Mason said. "It needs a lot of work, but structurally, I think there is a lot of building there."

This is the first major DDA expenditure in the area of the school since Dec. 2 when its boundaries were expanded to include it.

The study can begin any time now that the contract has been approved and is expected to be complete 10 to 12 weeks after it starts.

The consulting group, which is based in Milwaukee, Wis., specializes in libraries, cultural, medical and corporate buildings and multiunit housing and urban planning.

The two possibilities for reuse that will be closely explored will explore whether the school is a viable location for a library or a community center. The city is interested in the property for possible parking and a community center and the library is looking at the vacant land for a new facility or reusing the old school for a new library building.

Connie Saltonstall, co-chair of the library's building committee said the library needs 20,000 square feet of space and the part of the building that was built in 1927, which they are considering for the new library, is 24,400 square feet.

In planning for new uses the study will operate under the assumption that the 1956 east wing addition to the school will be demolished.

At the school the group will prepare base drawings, do an evaluation of the building, plan for new uses and estimate costs of implementing those uses.

The group has contracted with AAI, an architectural firm based in Traverse City, to conduct a structural survey which will investigate how the building is framed and with what material and the status of the foundation. The structural survey will also take into account the intended uses for the school to ensure floor and roof loading capacities would allow for it.

The exterior of the building will also be studied including the roof. The group will identify all areas in need of repair and associated costs.

The group will also update the environmental report done by the school district in 1992.

The school was closed this summer after the new Charlevoix High School opened in Marion Township and middle school students moved to the former high school off Garfield Avenue.

In August the property went on the market. The school district received an offer to purchase the property from statewide real estate developer Stuart Kaufman, a resident of Charlevoix and Birmingham who planned to build single family residences at the site.

Kaufman's offer caught the attention of the city and the library, who started actively pursuing the property for their needs.

Recently, the school board agreed to take the property off the market for six months while the city and library pursued this architectural study. In exchange for the six month hold, the DDA and library agreed to split the cost of heating the building with each agreeing to pay no more than $10,000 for their share.

In a memo to members of the DDA City Manager Mike Wiesner wrote, "Hopefully, this estimated $20,000 will get us through the winter."

Body confirmed to be missing island woman

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office confirmed last week that a body found Dec. 7 on the Lake Michigan beach near the Cemex cement plant was Judy Ellen Bellamy, 55, of Beaver Island.

Bellamy was a passenger on a small airplane that went missing on Nov. 10. Her husband — who is also the airplane's pilot — Melvin Bellamy, 55, of Beaver Island, is still missing along with the craft.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, the body was identified through the use of dental records during the course of an autopsy.

Lasater said the United States Coast Guard cannot use the location Judy's body was found to pinpoint the possible location of the aircraft, that officials have assumed crashed in Lake Michigan, due to various factors.

However, last week Lasater asked the U.S. Coast Guard to have a helicopter search the beach between Fisherman's Island south of Charlevoix to Nine Mile Point, near the Charlevoix County and Emmett County border for Melvin's body or wreckage from the plane. He also had members of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Auxiliary unit walk the beach from Fisherman's Island to Nine Mile Point.

Nothing was found in either of these searches.

Judy's body was found Dec. 7 on the beach just south of the Cemex cement plant by a local man walking his dog. Judy and Melvin were flying from Fon du Lac, Wis. to Beaver Island when they went missing Nov. 10.

A search was conducted by the United States Coast Guard and units of the Civil Air Patrol, concentrating on the area around Big Bay De Noc in the Upper Peninsula, but was called off later in the week.

The editor finally shows his political colors

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

There is kind of a great mystery surrounding journalists.

This mystery is shrouded in the veil of objectivity. But, the public knows we are human and is curious about the mystery under the veil.

Like all mysteries, those who want to know the truth sometimes make it up. They claim they know the answer and try to pull off the objective veil to show the world they are right.

But, most of the time they are wrong.

When it comes to editors who write editorials, the mystery deepens. The curious public wants to know and tries to find clues in the opinion columns that that editor writes. But, those who claim to have pieced the puzzle together are also usually mistaken.

This mystery is one that I have been questioned about since becoming a journalist in college. The mystery is what political party do I lean toward — am I a conservative Republican or a liberal Democrat?

It makes me laugh when I hear of someone claiming to know what I am. I laugh even harder when I hear of someone claiming that all of the media belong to one group or the other. They call us the "liberal media" or the "conservative press."

Personally, the situation is even more humorous when someone calls me a "liberal" or a "conservative," because chances are that recently someone called me the exact opposite. While making me laugh, when a Republican calls me liberal and a Democrat calls me conservative, it lets me know that I am doing my job as a journalist and showing both sides of the stories.

I was thinking about all of this the other day as I was celebrating my third anniversary as the editor of the Charlevoix Courier. I came to the conclusion that after all this time writing opinion pieces, perhaps my readers deserve to know what I am politically.

So, with this column, I am about to do something that journalists rarely do....I am going to come out of the political closet.

Ladies and gentlemen, my political party preference is: a Green Republicrat!

Now you may ask, "What is a Green Republicrat?" A Green Republicrat is a new political party created by me — that takes the best of the other major political parties and tosses out all the unfavorable items.

For example, a Green Republicrat thinks saving the environment from dangers such as global warming through the use and development of nonfossil fuels is vital to the future of our world: The party also thinks that many social programs that provide job training and housing assistance to the needy are beneficial to the county, but also believes the government should keep its nose out of the public's private affairs and support lower taxes.

Basically while the other political parties strive to prove how left-wing or right-wing they are, a Green Republicrat likes the middle.

And, unlike these other political parties, a Green Republicrat does not concern himself with trying to please campaign contributors by pushing favorable bills. A Green Republicrat is not afraid to inform a contributor that their political plans are "bad for the American public."

This new political party also takes issue with many of the actions the two major political parties are involved in lately. Examples would be the increasing government intrusion into our private lives in the name of safety, as is being pushed by many Republicans, and the insistence that the second amendment be eliminated or watered down, as is being pushed by many Democrats.

Basically, a Green Republicrat is a staunch advocate of the Constitution and a party that gives power to the people.

So far the party has a grand total of one member — me. But, I think as partisan politics increase in the coming years — as they will — and the major political parties continue to support special interest groups over the people, the new Green Republicrat party will become a popular choice.

Now that I have ended the political mystery surrounding me, I am confident that I have done the right thing. Perhaps my courage to come out, will inspire others to do the same. And, just perhaps, they too will be Green Republicrats.

Are we the ruler of orchids or are they the rulers of us?

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Few groups of plants have so fired the imaginations and stimulated the activities of humans as have the orchids. Since Victorian times and up to the present, hundreds of people have risked life and limb to find, collect and ultimately cultivate orchids from all over the world.

Orchids have almost always been connected in some way to sexual activity, from use as aphrodisiacs to prom corsages. The name orchid derives from the Greek word for testicle.

Ed Voss' Michigan flora lists 54 kinds of orchids found in Michigan, which is about one-fourth of the total number found in all of North America. The actual number of different kinds varies depending on just who is identifying them.

Regardless of how many, most of the descriptions make extensive use of words like "beguiling," "spectacular," "unique," "remarkable," "showy," bizarre" and above all "rare."

Interesting and varied as Michigan orchids may be, they pale in comparison to their tropical relatives. There are East Asian orchid plants that weigh a ton and produce 10,000 blooms in a season. There are orchids with tiny, intricate flowers on plants small enough to grow and bloom in a thimble.

New tropical species are being discovered frequently and the total number exceeds 25,000. In addition, more than 75,000 named hybrids have been produced by human activities. Some unusual hybrids have sold for more than $30,000.

Are orchids only available to the very rich or the very adventurous? No. Flowering orchid plants can be purchased for less than $10 and will, with a little light, humidity and care, bloom repeatedly in your Michigan living room.

More and more types of orchids are becoming available for home growing as more and more growers produce thousands of plants. I have a 3-year-old Dendrobium orchid that blooms for four to five months of the year and produces more than 100, 2 inch blooms in a 6 inch diameter pot.

Recall is wrong

Editor:

I have not read the actual wording of the (Eveline Township) recall petition, however the newspaper keeps referring to the statement that an ordinance was not legally adopted by the township board. This would seem to be a question that can only be answered in court by legal action.

The recall is a political action. Regardless of the outcome, win or lose, the recall will never answer the question on the ordinance.

Why a recall? The answer may be, that in court it is the complainant that bares the cost. With a recall it is the township that has to pay for an election.

Orchids find a way to travel the world

Beautiful and remarkable as many orchid flowers may seem to us, their function is, of course, to attract insects and produce seeds for the next generation of plants. That many are attractive to us means only that we share the same standards of beauty as do the bees, wasps or moths, who pollinate most of the world's orchids. A few orchid flowers even resemble the insects that pollinate them.

Some orchid flowers so closely mimic female wasps that the male wasps are terribly confused. They attempt to mate with the orchid flower and in the process, pollinate it. No other plant so thoroughly uses insects without giving them much in return.

Orchids have not only trained insects to do nearly unspeakable things, they appear to be in the process of training us humans to disperse them widely and propagate them almost endlessly.

The fastest spreading orchid in Michigan is originally from Europe. Are we cultivating the orchids or are they cultivating us?

Orchids are certainly not as smart as we are, but they have been at their remarkable activities for more than 50 million years and we have at most a few million years of evolutionary history. They may be outwitting us and are presently using us to spread them more and more widely across the earth.

Plants rule!

Keep old Rayder

Editor:

After reading the Nov. 27 Courier, I have never been so shocked and disappointed to see a most grotesque, bullish and strong armed character designed to represent our Charlevoix High School athletics.

The size and scale alone when mounted in our new gym, will overpower its ugly appearance and perhaps frighten our young fans. The existing Rayder logo, designed by the writer about 68 years ago, still has the character of a true Charlevoix athlete; the square jaw for determination, he is a warrior with a dagger in his mouth, he has been wounded in battle with a scarred left eye and he is not a bad looking guy.

The proposed design shows all muscle which represents power with a strangle hold on the Varsity "C." Other acceptable characteristics of our athletes are missing.

Why not enhance our present logo and put the $5,000 to a better use. Please, do not let the new design represent our true Charlevoix athletes!

Use old middle school

Editor:

It should now be apparent to most Charlevoix taxpayers that years ago we (with good intentions) built a new library that turned out to be in its lifetime, inferior compared to the Carnegie Library that was built in 1909. We then demolished a sound, impressive historical building that could have been utilized for other purposes by the citizens of Charlevoix.

We are now confronted with a very similar situation regarding the reuse of the Charlevoix Middle School as a library and community center. This option makes good sense in that:

1) It saves the taxpayers and fundraisers a lot of money compared to building a new library, at a yet unknown appropriate building site.

2) The modifications and renovations necessary to convert the middle school to a library and future community center can be phased, therefore minimizing or eliminating borrowing costs associated with building a new library.

3) The modifications and renovations could be accomplished sooner than building new.

4) A historic building will be saved for future generations.

Support pool

Editor:

Have you been to the Charlevoix pool lately? Who said the pool is not used? Who said we don't need a pool? Who said the pool does not help people? Who said pool therapy is not the best? Who said the children don't get excited to have fun, fellowship and exercise at the pool?

Think again — come out and visit, jump right in and find out how much the water does for your muscles and deep breathing.

Our pool is for all ages and families. You'll change your mind and realize every penny and dollar that is put there is very much helping a life.

Don't knock it — support it!

Recycle

Editor:

The Charlevoix County Recycling Committee is happy to announce the addition of a new commercial cardboard compactor. It is located at the transfer station at the end of Nicholls Street in East Jordan and is open Tuesdays and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Business owners, schools and industry are reminded that commercial cardboard may not be dropped off at the county road commission recycling center in Boyne City or at the sheriff's department recycling center in Charlevoix. These centers are for residential use only.

Businesses and other non-residential cardboard providers are encouraged to take their cardboard to the East Jordan location at no charge. Businesses unwilling to transport to East Jordan should contact Top Rank, Waste Management or another independent waste hauler to set up a program for their businesses.

Please note that after Jan. 1, 2003 any business found using the Boyne or Charlevoix residential cardboard locations for their cardboard will be charged the waste hauler fee to have the cardboard container emptied.

We appreciate your support in this program and encourage you to utilize the East Jordan location for all your cardboard recycling.

Group gives out information on end-of-life issues

The Charlevoix Emmet Community Coalition for End-of-Life Issues has recently distributed resource guides at local senior centers, libraries and hospitals.

These guides offer information on advanced care planning, caregiver issues, assisted living and nursing facilities, organ donation and links to other resources.

The coalition's main goal is to provide information to the community regarding end-of-life choices and activities on a state and national level that affects the elderly in their final phase of life.

It is very important to have the conversation with your loved ones about your wishes regarding what care you want and don't want. These conversations are very difficult to have, but often they provide you with a sense of control and give your family the gift of knowing what to do if a crisis or life threatening illness occurs.

The coalition is funded through grants from the Oncology Nursing Society Foundation and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

For more information on the guides and where they are located contact the coalitions co-chairs, Lori Schiller, Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at 487-7222 or Fran Hilal, Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency Hospice at 547-7653.

Area foundation celebrates 10 years in annual report

It's been 10 years since the Charlevoix County Community Foundation was officially launched, and the organization is marking the milestone with release of a special report titled "Make Something Happen."

Established by a group of local civic leaders who wanted to create a source of charitable capital to serve this area, the community foundation has become a significant benefactor of many worthy programs and projects.

Starting with a little more than $100,000 in seed money and a donated office, the foundation now manages 136 separate funds and has assets totaling $7.2 million. Most importantly, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has made grants adding up to more than $3.5 million since it began — touching the lives of nearly every resident in the county in some way.

Over the years, community foundation grants have helped build playgrounds and improve parks, expanded recreational opportunities for kids and adults, enriched educational programs, supported civic initiatives, sponsored concerts and classes in the visual and performing arts, and more.

Donors to the foundation can earmark their gift for a specific cause, make an open-ended contribution, or set up a fund to serve their personal philanthropic interests. Gifts are professionally invested to become part of a permanent endowment, and each year, the investment income is used to make grants in the area.

This year alone, the organization distributed $708,346 in grants and scholarships, targeting a cross section of programs.

Among 2002 grant recipients: The Beaver Island Rural Health Center, Raven Hill Discovery Center, the Charlevoix Historical Society, Camp Daggett, BASES Teen Center, Challenge Mountain, the Jordan River Arts Council, Boyne City Little League and several school-based programs.

"Few communities can match the generosity and goodwill of Charlevoix County people," said Larry Mattox, who serves as chairman of the foundation.

Mattox said it is unusual for a community foundation to grow so quickly and make a charitable impact during its first years.

"Think about how much good $700,000 can do for a small county of just 23,000 in a single year. This is a real tribute to the hundreds of donors who have made a lasting investment in the community they love," he said.

As it has in past years, the foundation's report focuses on the benefits of local philanthropy by showcasing local people. Pictured in the report are a number of familiar faces from all around Charlevoix County, children and adults alike.

Bob Tambellini, foundation president who has served the organization since its outset, says that local connection is the most important characteristic of the community foundation.

"This foundation was created to help area people fulfill their charitable ideals right here, close to home," he said. "It's a way for all of us to connect to the causes we care about, give something back to the place that matters and leave a legacy for those who follow — in short, to "make something happen."

For more information about the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, or a copy of its 2002 report, call the foundation (231) 536-2440, or write the organization at PO Box 718, East Jordan, MI, 49727.

Michigan State Police offer winter driving tips

With winter weather now upon us, the Michigan State Police is advising the public that they can now access a Winter Travel Advisory through the department's web site or through a new toll-free number.

According to Capt. Dan Smith, commanding officer of the Special Operations Division, "The information in this web site advisory is provided by law enforcement and public safety personnel working throughout Michigan. The Winter Travel Advisory operates from late November or early December through March 30 and is updated twice a day or as information concerning travel conditions is received."

Smith said, "This site is one-stop shopping for motorists looking for road and weather information."

By going to www.michigan.gov/msp and looking under "Inside the MSP," the public may access the Winter Travel Advisory with a complete statewide map of current road conditions. By selecting a specific county, the site will provide detailed road conditions for that area.

The public is also encouraged to visit the weather and travel related links on the MSP website. This will provide links and telephone numbers to the Weather Travel Hotline, Intellicast Weather Service, AAA Snow Reports and The Weather Channel. Motorists may also call the Michigan State Police Travel Hotline at (800) 381-8477 for information.

Active winter weather and hazardous traveling conditions also create the greatest demand for police and EMS services. Therefore, the public is asked not to tie-up telephone lines and dispatch personnel by calling a police department and requesting weather or travel information.

The public is also reminded that traveling too fast for conditions is the primary cause of traffic crashes during winter weather.

Old middle school gym opened for youth teams

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Who: Superintendant John Sturock, parents
When: Last week
What does it mean: The city's youth recreation basketball league teams will be allowed to use the old middle school gym for practice.

Charlevoix's youth basketball teams will now have a place to practice.

Last week, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Dr. John Sturock agreed to open the former Charlevoix Middle School gym for use by the city's youth recreation basketball leagues.

"Practice time was the issue and this makes that time. This will help build strong teams for the future. The earlier they start the better off they will be," Patti Spencley, secretary of the Charlevoix Youth Basketball Association, said.

The school has been closed since August when the new high school was built and middle school students were transferred to the former high school off Garfield Avenue.

"Obviously there was a need there and the (school) board's first priority is to serve the kids," Sturock said. "We are in a unique situation having the gym available and it worked out this year."

Patti and her husband Dean Spencley, president of the Charlevoix Youth Basketball Association, approached the school board at its meeting Dec. 9 and requested the gym be open for youth basketball practice.

At the meeting, the Spencleys gave the board a list of practice hours needed for the girls' and boys' recreation leagues and the AAU basketball team. Combined, the three groups required about 30 hours of time.

"There was just no way we could squeeze it in any other place, it is just too much time," Patti said.

The board did not act on the request at the meeting, but the next day the Spencleys met with Sturock.

"He (Sturock) was so cooperative," Patti said.

Sturock had a schedule ready when they walked in.

The gym will be open to those youth teams from 3:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturdays as needed through March when league basketball is over.

The Charlevoix Middle School also had a big turnout for its boys basketball program this year and one of the teams will also be using the old gym to practice.

The Spencleys are looking for volunteer help to clean and maintain the gym, which addresses the school board's concern that custodial costs would fall in its lap. Sturock said other related use costs aren't a big worry.

"We are heating the building anyway and there will be little use of the lights, so the electricity shouldn't be any big cost," he said.

One of the board's other concerns was liability and Sturock said this issue was somewhat addressed by the league's liability insurance carried through the city's recreation department.

"While it doesn't absolve us of any kind of liability, it shouldn't be a problem," Sturock said.

While practice space problems for the youth basketball program have been solved this year, next year the gym may not be available — the site is for sale. Sturock suggested that youth basketball league coordinators have their building use requests in by September to ensure gym scheduling accounts for enough practice and game time for the students.

Accident injures two East Jordan teenagers

A 17-year-old East Jordan boy and a 15-year-old East Jordan girl were injured in a two vehicle accident around 5 p.m., Dec. 5 on South Ranney Road near Metz Road in Charlevoix County's South Arm Township.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the crash involved and Ellsworth Farmers Exchange propane delivery truck and a 1990 Subaru Legacy.

The driver of the Subaru was traveling south on Ranney Road, when he crossed the center line and collided broadside on the driver's side with the propane truck, the sheriff's office said. The driver of the propane truck attempted to go to the shoulder of the road to avoid the collision, however, due to winter road conditions the driver of the Subaru slid sideways colliding with the truck in his lane.

The driver of the propane truck, Arthur Nelson, 55, of East Jordan received minor abrasions and refused medical treatment at the scene. The driver of the Subaru, 17-year-old Travis Hilliker, also of East Jordan, received more serious injuries and was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital, then to Northern Michigan Hospital via East Jordan Ambulance Service for treatment of his injuries.

Hilliker's passenger, a 15-year-old girl from the East Jordan area, was also transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital via East Jordan Ambulance Service for treatment of her injuries. All persons involved in the crash were wearing seat belts.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by East Jordan Ambulance and East Jordan Fire Department.

Winter road conditions and speed are believed to be factors in the crash, which remains under investigation.

The Charlevoix Courier office will be closed on Wednesday, January 1, 2003.

The deadline for advertising and news copy for the January 1, 2003 Courier will be 5 p.m. Thursday, December 26.

Hawkins opens second office

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Jackie Hawkins, of East Jordan, is proof that senior citizens can start new, successful businesses, as she unveils her new cellular telephone business in Charlevoix.

Hawkins, a 32 year resident of northern Michigan, has been the owner of a Tri-Com Cellular office in East Jordan since December of 2000. Now, she has expanded her business into Charlevoix, with a new Tri-Com office that opened Nov. 15 on M-66, next to the Michigan Secretary of State's office.

"When I became a senior citizen, I opened my business with $2,500. I now have two locations, with hundreds of customers. I am proof that it is never too late to challenge yourself and start a new business," she said.

Hawkins said she missed working with people when she retired after being an insurance agent and claims manager for 14 years.

"You can only clean your house so much," she said. Hawkins has a husband, Jerry, and three children; Steve, Mike and Lynne.

Hawkins said she came to Charlevoix after Chuck Center decided to give up his ALLTEL business in May 2002 and the company asked her if she wanted take it over. Tri-Com Cellular is an ALLTEL cellular phone dealer.

"I felt it was time to expand into the area and here I am," she said.

In addition to dealing with ALLTEL, Tri-Com Cellular sells Nokia, Motorola, Audiovox and Kyocera cellular telephones and supplies.

Hawkins said her strength is that she provides a service and a product that has become a necessity as well as a convenience. Plus, she said she treats customers with the respect that they deserve.

Tri-Com Cellular is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday or by appointment. Hawkins can be contacted by calling 547-4498 or by faxing 547-9252.

Township meets on Cemex issues

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

At a recent Charlevoix Township meeting, air quality concerns related to Cemex, Inc., the local cement manufacturer, were addressed.

In November of 2001, some of Charlevoix Township's Boulder Park Association residents approached the township board with a laundry list of concerns including: air pollution, water pollution, solid waste disposal and the mining operation.

Since then, the township has hired mining inspector Murray Gillis of Houghton Lake, to review its mining ordinance.

Over the past three months Gillis has coordinated three meetings, the first looked at mining operations and the township's ordinance, the second looked at water quality and disposal practices at the plant and on Dec. 9 air quality concerns were addressed.

"We are looking for how we can get through this with them having their plant and us having our neighborhood," Boulder Park resident Karla Sherman said.

Dave Thorley, environmental engineer with the Air Quality Division of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) was there to answer questions. He is in charge of monitoring the site to make sure it meets state regulations.

"My goal is to get them compliant," he said.

Since Feb. 6, 2001 the MDEQ has cited the company for over 17 air related violations.

Bill Sherman, a Boulder Park resident said residents living near the industrial site share Thorley's goal.

"They are our neighbors, these are the rules and we want them to live by the rules....period," he said.

Thorley said the problems at the site stem from two sources — combustion in the kilns where clinker, the primary ingredient in cement production is created, and dust at multiple locations around the Cemex site being reintroduced into the air.

In a previous interview, Thorley said that in 2001 combustion at Cemex led to the emission of 3,520 tons of nitrogen oxide, 3,897 tons of carbon monoxide and 4,175 tons of sulfur dioxide, while 271 tons of particulate matter were accounted for in dust emissions.

Those who attended the meeting discussed pollution sources, with the main source being stacks that extend from areas where combustion takes place, and inquired about ways the company could reduce sulfur dioxide, particulate and nitrogen oxide emis-

Recall group wants to be reimbursed costs

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

The Eveline Township Preservation Group wants the Charlevoix County Commission to reimburse it $1,287.50 for costs incurred while it mounted a recall campaign against township clerk Don Hayden and supervisor Dan Skrzeczkoski that was recently ruled invalid.

The group claims the petitions which were ruled invalid Nov. 25 would have been valid had Nancy Ferguson, a petitioner, been given correct information by Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon.

Ferguson asked Brannon and a clerk's office employee about a 90 day stipulation in the state election law wording. Both times she was assured the petitioners had six months to collect 138 signatures.

Then on Nov. 25 Brannon called Ferguson and said any signatures over 90 days old were invalid dropping the total number of signatures below the amount needed to call for a recall election.

Brannon has accepted fault in this incident.

"I went to the expert is this area and asked for a clarification. I think you have to be able to rely on Jane's authority here, she made a mistake and I accept that but I'm asking for reimbursement to the environmental preservation group because of that," Ferguson said.

Hayden attended the commission meeting Dec. 11 and told the commission not to consider the group's request. He said after the August petition wording clarity hearing he was provided with a copy of the petition and a copy of the state's recall laws. He said after reading over it the 90 day rule was clear.

"I don't think they have a valid request for reimbursement. I interpreted the 90 days from the material and they should have had the same material," Hayden said. "This group continues to make mistakes and always wants to blame someone else. They continue to read only what they want to read and do."

The county commission will consider the reimbursement request once the new commissioners are sworn in. According to the clerk's office the new officers will be sworn in before Jan. 1, 2003.

Based on comments made by District 6 Commissioner Shirley Roloff at the regular meeting Dec. 11 it is likely she will support the group's request.

"They came in for current advice and they didn't get it. It was a mistake but if you are buying a car and you get a lemon, you go back after the people who sold you the car. We should be just as honest as anyone else out there. We should pay for our mistakes," Roloff said.

Roloff said her fellow commissioners were "chickens" for leaving the decision to the new board. But District 4 Commissioner Victor Patrick disagreed with her.

"Other departments have made mistakes before. If we set this precedent it could come back to haunt us later on," he said. "I don't want to strap the new board with this kind of precedent."

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur said while the commissioners can by law reimburse the requested expenses, it could open a can of worms.

"Any time an official gives erroneous information or incorrect information you could be setting precedent for how that is dealt with," she said.

The preservation group calculated its cost of circulating the petition based on time spent by nine petitioners, fuel costs associated with circulating petitions and copy costs.

Fran Themm, a member of the preservation group, said if the county won't reimburse the group's costs it should allow the petitioners to have the petitions back so they don't have to start from scratch.

He said, "Do something to satisfy it or make those petitions good."

However, Brannon has spoke with state elections inspectors who have informed her that allowing the petitions to be added to would be illegal.

Themm said they now face two problems, getting people to volunteer in the effort a second time and fewer signatures because of those who live elsewhere in the winter.

In spite of the delay in making a decision about the reimbursement request the group is moving forward with mounting another recall campaign aimed at Hayden and Skrzeczkoski. Petition wording was approved Dec. 13 by the county election commission. The group now has six months to gather 168 signatures. It has 90 days to get all of the signatures once the first signature is in place.

The number of signatures required is based on a percentage of the number of voters from the township that voted in the last governor's election and more Eveline Township residents came out in November than had four years ago so petitioners will have 30 more signatures to get.

Ferguson said the preservation group is a loosely organized group of people trying to preserve the rural nature of Eveline Township. The group has been involved in a couple of issues including actively opposing wind turbine generators being located in the township.

"My personal feeling is commercial wind turbine generators don't belong in northwest Michigan," Ferguson said.

Committee exploring options for chapel

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

A city committee is working to decide the fate of the Brookside Chapel, a concrete block building with a black pitched roof that sits in Brookside Cemetery facing Glen's Market.

The city plans to hire an architect to work with street superintendent John Martin to establish costs of restoring the chapel for storage of cremation remains or to be used as a chapel.

"We'll see if there is a way to do that without breaking the bank," city mayor Gabe Campbell said. "We need to keep as many old buildings as we can, but if it turns out we can't afford it, it will be up to council."

The building's block structure is deteriorating, letting water into the basement and its roof is rotting.

Problems with the chapel prompted demolition discussion in February of this year. At that time, city street department superintendent John Martin said he saw no reason to keep the building and the city budgeted $10,000 in the 2002-2003 budget period for its demolition.

But representatives of the Charlevoix Historical Society and some Charlevoix residents stepped forward and said they believe the chapel has historical value and should be preserved.

After a city council meeting at the chapel last winter, it was decided that preservation options would be explored.

Campbell recently created a committee to address the chapel issue before February of 2003 when the city will begin establishing its 2003-2004 budget. The committee includes: Martin, Campbell, City Manager Mike Wiesner, first ward councilman Norm Carlson, second ward councilman Bill Bellows and Charlevoix residents Mary Adams and John Haggard.

One possible use the committee explored at its Dec. 11 meeting is converting the chapel to a storage site for cremated remains. A similar project which included renovation of an old building for remains storage was undertaken in Ann Arbor.

Martin estimated that the chapel could accommodate 2,500 of these storage blocks, each weighing about 65 pounds. He also found larger modular units that weighed around 15 pounds each.

The city's cost for the stationary units would be about $500 and $300 for the modular units. If the city went with the cheaper modular units it would cost around $600,000 plus costs of modifying the building to pursue this type of use.

Carlson said, "Cost wise, it could be hard to sell this."

The Ann Arbor facility that provides a similar service charges over $2,000 per space.

"People squawk about $600 for a burial site. They might get $2,800 in Ann Arbor for a little cubical, but we're never going to get that here," Campbell said.

Martin said one possible saving would be to demolish the chapel and to rebuild a site specifically for this type of use.

Another question raised at the committee meeting was is there a demand for this type of use.

Martin said in 2001 the cemetery performed 68 burials, 25 percent of which were cremation remains. This year it has performed 63 burials, 17 percent of which were cremation remains.

Lots in the cemetery cost $575 for residents and $875 for non-residents. The city currently allows four cremation remains burials per grave site at a cost of $175 for residents and $275 for non-residents, per cremation burial.

While burial of cremation remains in a plot may be cheaper, it may not always be an option at Brookside Cemetery.

"Ultimately we will run out of cemetery space at some point," Martin said.

A survey the city conducted three years ago found Brookside Cemetery has about 40 years left before it reaches capacity and St. Mary's Cemetery has 100 years of use remaining.

City officials do not know when the chapel was built. Over the years it has been used for winter body storage for spring burial, a use that was discontinued almost three years ago. Funerals also used to take place there, but according to Martin haven't been performed there in about 40 years.

The city of Charlevoix is trying to determine the fate of this chapel located in the Brookside Cemetery. Studies are underway on a use for the building. (File photo)

Air quality issues being studied at Cemex

CEMEX

sions.

"In an ideal world, yes there are ways to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions, particulate emissions and nox (nitrogen oxide) emissions," Thorley said.

However, he explained that scrubbers that are used to reduce sulfur dioxide, a known precursor to acid rain, are massive and are expensive to operate and install. He said regulations look at the company's price per ton of emissions being controlled and if the price is too high the state doesn't require the change be made.

The same holds true for controlling particulate matter, which is known to cause respiratory problems. To control the emission would require extra large electrostatic precipitators in the bag houses and the implementation is cost prohibitive so it's not required.

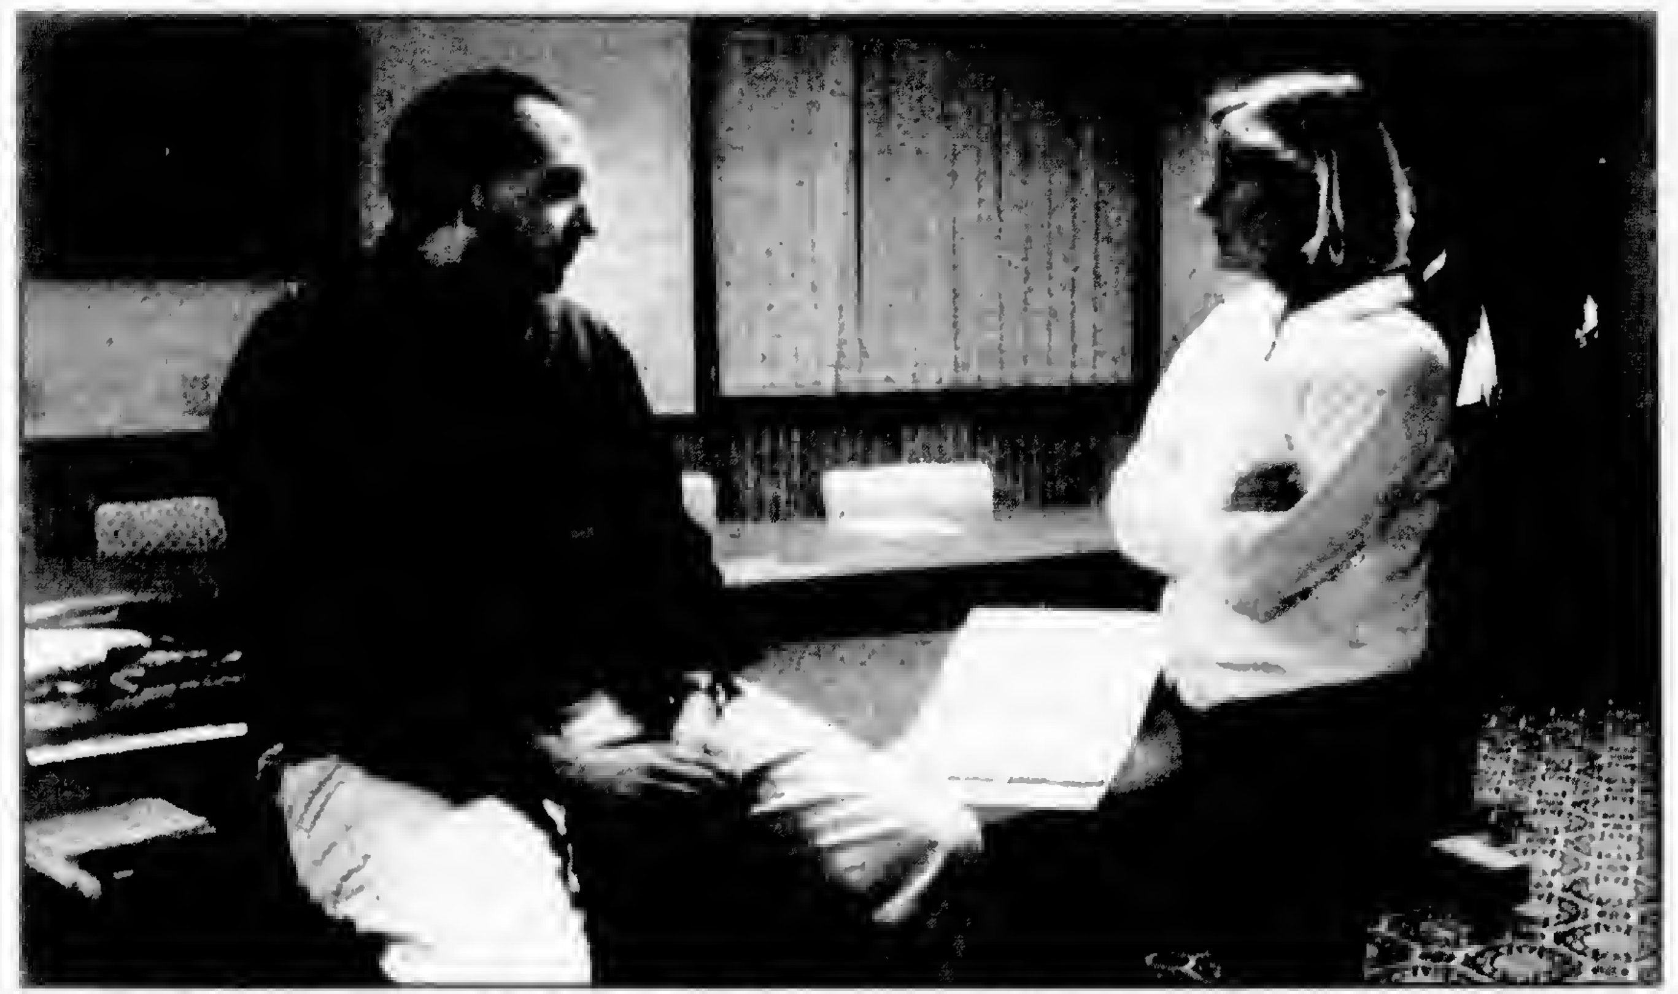
Thorley did say that new legislation will require the company to reduce its nitrogen oxide emissions by 20 percent in the next year. He said this is possible through fine tuning of the burner.

In a written statement, Michele Buckler, the environmental manager for Cemex, Inc., said, "Cemex is constantly working to improve the efficiency of our operations. Most recently, we have undertaken a number of projects at the Charlevoix plant to address concerns of the MDEQ. For example, we installed a sprinkler system on our haul roads, which keeps roads wet to reduce dust emissions. We also purchased an additional water truck for the purpose of watering the haul roads, thereby further reducing emissions. In addition, we have undertaken a major improvement in our clinker cooler system which has reduced particulate matter emissions by 150 tons per year. Finally we have undertaken several projects to address concerns cited by the MDEQ in our north and south conditioning towers."

Thorley said the state has also made attempts to address repeated violations of a consent order and consent judgment the company entered into in May of 1994 with the state. In October of 2001 the MDEQ tried to close the violations by reaching another consent order with the company, but the company opted not to go that route.

"We offered a consent order so the state has hard dates that say when they will comply with the rules and regulations. It closes the violations," Thorley said. "They made it clear they weren't interested in that."

The case is currently in the hands of the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5, based in Chicago, Ill. And now Thorley said the company no longer has the option of entering a consent order with the state.



Dave Thorley, an environmental engineer with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality discusses air issues with Karla Sherman. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Bill Omohundro, a spokesman for the Region 5 of the EPA, said, "We have put the company on notice that we have detected violations. They now have the opportunity to bring forth information that might have a bearing on the case."

Omohundro neither confirmed or denied the EPA's attempts to get Cemex to enter a consent order.

"To resolve the case the EPA could issue a complaint order, assess administrative penalties or bring a suit against the company," he said.

Buckler wrote, "While there is no consent agreement currently on the table, we are undergoing discussions with both the EPA and the MDEQ, which will likely lead to one in the near future."

In the meantime, Thorley urged residents with complaints about air emission issues they believe are a result of Cemex to call him at (989) 705-3409.

HEALTH

Remember to stop and eat the cookies

Erik Larson

'Your health'

'Tis the season of work parties, school concerts, religious ceremonies, traveling to be with family members, gift buying, gift wrapping, gift giving and cookies, cookies and more cookies.

It seems like the sugar-sweetened flour treats are falling about like snowflakes everywhere this year. Little iced snowmen and pecan cups represent simple gifts from the heart. But, as I rapidly move through my work and life this month, I notice that many of us seem to have very little time to savor the sharing and caring that the cookies represent. I am actually amazed by the planning ability of those folks who find the time to even bake the little things and wrap them up in colored plastic wrap.

It is a cliché to talk about how fast the every day pace of life has become, but the clichéd pace of our work and lives is even more evident in December. It feels as if we sometimes try to force fun and reverence into our schedules this time of year. Now, I am all for fun and reverence. I am also all for getting together with loved ones to share gifts of love and gratitude. It is also so important that many of us gather in our various houses of worship to reflect within an atmosphere of music and silence upon what is ultimately valuable to us. But what concerns me is the impulse to simply move through these special holiday events like we were checking off items on a to-do-list.

It takes a true concerted effort to stop this time of year and remember why we try to force so much togetherness and celebration into our holiday in the first place. We try to force the celebrations and gift giving in because we know it is important to create time in our lives to stop to reflect upon all that has been given to us and to give back in return.

It is important to make time to sing along with the old carols that cause us to remember past holidays. It is important to reflect upon what gift a loved one would actually cherish. It is important to take the time to hear the holiday wish list and prayers of young children. It is even important to stop long enough to truly taste the butter and sugar in that iced snowman cookie.

So how can we truly be present at these important events on our calendars this season—present enough to taste the cookies and share the love?

When I teach time management skills to people in the workplace, what I really am teaching is priority management. Time is a constant. It is unmanageable. Our priorities on the other hand, we have some real control over. But priorities have a tendency to be slowly lost in the shuffle of papers at work. In this same way, holiday priorities also suffer from the tendency to be lost in the shuffle of commitments and external pressures to be here or there or to buy this or that.

In the workplace, I coach folks to really think about the essential tasks of their work day in and day out and then create a hierarchical list from them. The items at the top of this list are what they must center their workday around if they want to be productive and less stressed. If their main task is customer service issues, but they find themselves trying to figure out how to rewire the computer network all day or answering phone calls about policies and procedures for procuring pencils then they have clearly jumped off their priority list. Giving attention to a non-priority task creates additional stress to already stressful workplaces, simple as that.

Similarly, giving undo attention to all of the external demands placed on us by well-meaning friends, families, community members and a materialistic culture creates additional stress to a holiday season that is supposed to be about anything but stress.

So here is my holiday homework for you: Sometime today, I encourage you to put on your favorite Christmas music, heat up your favorite winter beverage, grab a pencil and paper and make a list of your holiday priorities.

Make a short-list of what you really value about this time of year. Is it the gift giving, hugging your loved ones, singing carols, praying in church or temple or watching children shriek with glee? Once you identify your value priorities then make an even shorter-list of the events, experiences and exaltations you really want to share and do with others this year. You and I can't stop the calendar days from being crossed out, but we can make an effort to be present enough to celebrate the true presents given to us this holiday season.

Now, my priorities are calling and I must be off to buy some store bought snowmen cookies and wrap them in green plastic wrap for Santa. Happy and meaningful holidays To you all.

Area arts center hosting travel watercolor art show

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is currently hosting the Michigan Watercolor Society fifty-fifth Annual Travel Show.

This exhibition features 35 works by Michigan watercolor artists and runs through Jan. 10, 2003. The arts center is the only venue north of Big Rapids that will exhibit this annual show.

The Michigan Water Color Society (MWCS) was founded by a group of 10 painters who began meeting at the Detroit Institute of Arts in 1946. For the past 50 years, the organization has worked to promote a stronger awareness and interest in Michigan watercolor paintings.

Its traveling shows have exhibited all over Michigan and throughout the midwest. A generation or two later, the Michigan Water Color Society is going strong with a membership of more than 400 people from all over the state. It's a group of artists as diverse as the many faces of Michigan residents, with work in watercolor as their common thread.

When asked about his view of the show, juror Warren Taylor of Midland, Texas said, "I look to see originality and a fresh spark of something unique and individual. One of the issues that seems to concern me more as time goes on, are the number of entrants that seem to be shadowing someone else in their work."

The Crooked Tree Arts Center's temporary exhibition space is located at 445 E. Mitchell Street in downtown Petoskey. For more information regarding this show, please call (231) 347-4337 or visit www.crookedtree.org.

Basketball team opens season with win

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

After a few opening night jitters, the Charlevoix Rayders closed out their first game in the new Charlevoix High School in grand style with an 83-51 win over Benzie Central.

"We were getting the ball where we wanted it early," coach Keith Haske said. "We just weren't finishing. We missed a lot of easy shots and had some poor turnovers."

The Rayders, featuring a younger and smaller lineup than last year's 23-1 team, never trailed throughout the contest. On the night, Charlevoix had ten three-point baskets.

"Benzie sat back in a zone all night and gave us some good looks so we shot it (the three-pointers)," Haske said.

Bryce Daly opened the scoring a minute and a half into the contest and the first seven Charlevoix baskets were scored by seven different players, including three-pointers by David Shearer, Cody Crain and Travis Smith.

Charlevoix led 19-10 at the end of the first stanza. The Rayders opened quickly in the second quarter on two free throws by Scott Friske and a putback by Todd Carey. The Huskies were game, however, and outscored the Rayders the rest of the half, 14-13 to trail only 36-24 at the break.

Friske scored eight in the second period and 10 in the half.

The Rayders came out in the second half looking like a different team.

The pressing defense that has become the Charlevoix trademark under Haske finally took its toll on Benzie. Charlevoix led 37-26 less than a minute into the half and went on to outscore the Huskies, 24-4 for the rest of the period, including a 16-0 run.

Friske keyed the surge hitting a three-pointer to start the run and another far beyond the arc at the buzzer to conclude the period. He totaled 14 points in the quarter.

"I was very pleased with our play in the third quarter," Haske observed. "We shot the ball well and really pressured the ball well on defense."

Benzie was no closer than 26 points in the final period.

On the night, Friske led all scorers with 24 points. He also pulled down 10 rebounds. Daly finished with 11 points, five rebounds, five assists and six steals.

Crain tallied 10 points and dished out seven assists. Shearer and Ben Bergman each scored eight points. Ryan DeYoung scored six points, grabbed six boards and handed out four assists.

Crain, Shearer, Bergman and DeYoung were all playing their first varsity game as was John DeMartino.

Daly was called up late last year for the tournament. Haske liked the play of the youngsters.

"I was really impressed with the young kids," he said. "I thought they did a good job for us."

The Rayders traveled to Suttons Bay on Dec. 17, but results were unavailable at press time.

Charlevoix opens its defense of the Lake Michigan Conference championship at Harbor Springs on Friday, Dec. 20.

Plan may mean a new bandshell will be built meeting. Instead the room was filled with people who supported council's approval of Plan B.

PARK

Prior to making its decision, council voted to clarify the minutes from the meeting Sept. 25 to show it had accepted the marina layout, but would have flexibility in planning for the park. The minutes showed it had accepted park Plan B.

"I definitely didn't mean to try and get both things approved all at once," Norm Carlson, first ward councilman who made the motion to accept the marina plan in September, said.

Council members agreed that Plan B may be the best plan but more discussion was needed.

Peter Pollack, principal designer with Pollack Design Associates of Ann Arbor, the city's park renovation designer presented two plans for discussion at the meeting this week, Plan B and Plan C.

He explained that the obstructed view concern related to the marina support facility and harbormaster's office in Plan B is addressed by its underground construction. It is currently depicted as an underground building with glass walls located at the foot of Clinton Street. A walkout seating area and fish pond are shown at the facility at dock level.

DDA member Jeffery Porter requested that in refining design of this area, less pavement and more grass area be planned for.

A short series of stairs will walk up from Clinton to a viewing deck on the roof of the building.

Plan C, which was turned down, showed the marina support facility and harbormaster's office at its current location between Mason and Antrim streets.

DDA member John Taylor said the harbormaster's location in Plan C wasn't appropriate and city harbormaster Hal Evans agreed.

"The harbormaster needs to be more centrally located," Taylor said.

At the south end of the property where Antrim and Bridge streets meet is the approved location for the new performance venue.

Pollack said the park has seen major changes since the current bandshell was built in 1991, including removal of the Parkside and Wharfside buildings. He said the approved location will open up the park for festival and fair events while simultaneously providing concert space.

Belvedere Avenue resident RJ Button said it would be a travesty for the city to have spent millions of dollars to purchase and tear down the two buildings to create open space and to leave the bandshell sitting in the middle of the park.

Pollack said in keeping the current bandshell more than green space problems would be created. In planning, it would be difficult to address topography issues and with both plans B and C including grassing over the portion of Mason Street from Bridge Street to Round Lake, access would be a problem.

Pollack met with four members of the city band before the meeting and three of the four preferred the new venue. More meetings with the band will be scheduled to fine tune a design to meet its needs.

A Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce 300 square foot kiosk is also included in the plans and may be in the area of the performance venue, near its current location. However inclusion of this building in the final plan has not been approved.

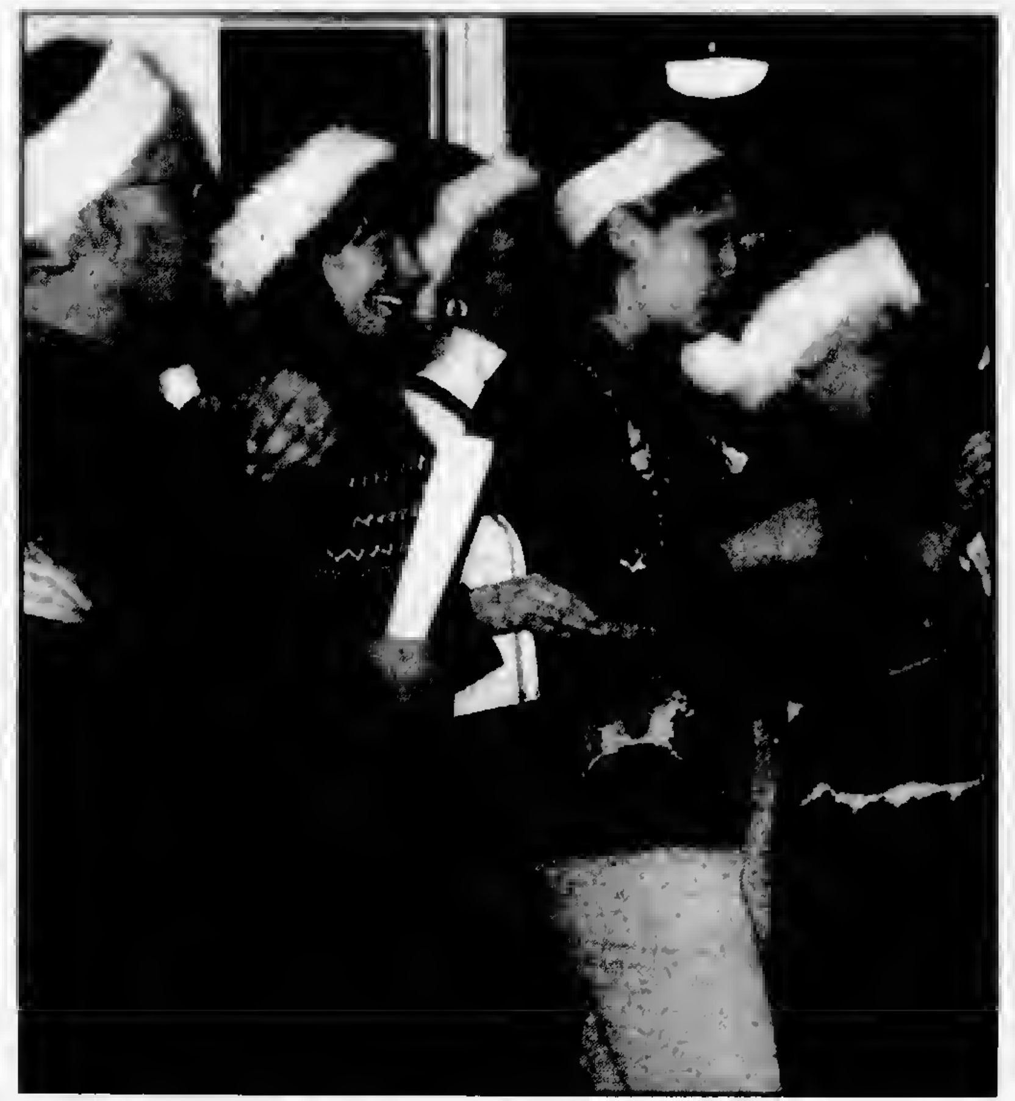
Concerns that will still be addressed include: the impact of Plan B on the Ward Brothers Charter Boats, Inc. a marine support facility located off of Round Lake including affects of noise from the performance venue and navigation in the Antrim Street parking area and saving the spruce tree near the Submariner's Memorial in East Park.

The concept of a skating rink in the park will also be more closely explored.

Pollack will now get to work on more detailed design to establish cost estimates in preparing to apply for permits with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and for funding with the state Waterways Commission.

The city is trying to have permits and cost estimates ready by April of 2003 for review by the Waterways Commission, to be included in its 2005 funding cycle. Waterways may fund between 50 and 75 percent of the marina project and marina related land facilities.

If funding is approved city officials have estimated construction on the marina bulkhead will start in the spring of 2005.



Caroling teachers

Teachers, support staff, administrators and board members from Charlevoix public schools brought a little holiday cheer to area senior citizens by Christmas caroling at both Boulder Park Terrace and Pine River Place recently. Thank You...

I'd like to say Thank You to my Mother for all her help during my stay in the Hospital. Thanks mom. Also, my two brothers, my Aunts and Uncles, my many, many friends, (some who came by twice a day), my co-workers, and my sister for the phone call. Thanks all of you for the many cards, gifts, flowers, prayers and just being there.

I'd also like to thank the doctors, Dr. Lame and Dr. Hagelburg, nurses, support staff, housekeeping and the student nurses who took great care of me and made my surgery and 6 day stay in the Charlevoix Area Hospital bearable. The Nursing staff was just wonderful. Charlevoix should be proud of its Hospital, it is top notch and going to get better after the addition and remodeling. A big Thank You all at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and my Family and Friends.

Sincerely, Thomas G. Meggison

New Year's Eve party planned

The Charlevoix Historical Society invites the public to its annual New Year's Eve Party, proceeds of which will support the continuing restoration and renovation of the Harsha House Museum.

The evening begins with an exclusive showing of an art film at the Charlevoix Cinema starting promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Following the show, everyone will head to the festive historic Depot for dinner, hors d'oeuvres, desserts, dancing and a champagne toast to the New Year at midnight.

Anyone wishing to brush up on swing or ballroom dancing is invited to mini-sessions with instructor Marie Volovsek throughout the evening.

Tickets to the New Year's Eve Party are $100, which includes a $75 donation, and are available at the Charlevoix Historical Society. Call 547-0348 for more information.

Council votes down funding for area pool notch lifeguards.

Carlson made the motion at the Dec. 2 meeting for the issue to be revisited and was seconded by Haggard. Gibson and Karen Campbell both voted against looking at the issue a second time, but Bellows agreed to review the pool's request again.

Bellows, who supported Carlson's motion to revisit the pool issue, said he hadn't changed his mind and planned to take two weeks to talk to his constituents and then would vote for what the people want, based on input he gathered.

At the meeting he said he had a large response which was helpful in making his decision to turn the pool down.

The pool board met Dec. 7 to discuss ballot options for the future, but this year it needed the city's support to receive a $25,000 matching grant from the Frey Foundation. The grant requires the match come from government entities.

This means the pool could lose $25,000. Pool director Al Gooch said now the board will have to appeal to other government entities in its quest to continue offering the low cost swim program and may have to consider eliminating it. Dollar Nights, which offer discounted recreational swim time for families, began Jan. 2, 2002 and takes place from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the pool.

The board is looking at asking other townships and the city of Petoskey, where a large percentage of users come from, for funding.

If all else fails, Gooch will approach the Frey Foundation and ask for a lesser match, but there are no guarantees.

This is the second year the foundation has offered this challenge grant. Last year the pool successfully raised the $25,000. Those who entered a contract with the pool included the city and Charlevoix and Hayes townships which together accounted for $15,000 of the government match. The Grand Traverse Tribe of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians and the Char-Em Intermediate School District (ISD) funded the additional $10,000. The money from the ISD came in funds it paid to rent the facility for swim lessons for area students.

Hayes and Charlevoix townships agreed again this year to support Dollar Nights.

This denial of funding has some worried about Charlevoix's future. Way said he thinks this is the tip of the iceberg.

"What else is going to happen? City council meetings from now on are going to be a free for all. They need to realize they can't do this to the city. City Council meetings were quiet for a long time because people trusted council. They don't anymore," he said.

Age cannot stop Johnston's fun

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Locals

Charlevoix resident Rosalynde Johnston, will celebrate her one hundredth birthday Dec. 26 and will enter her second century of life with more spunk than many people have in their 20s.

She is a master fly-fisherwoman who goes to the gym three times a week. But even more amazing than her energy and skill on a river is the vast amount of knowledge she carries with her everywhere she goes. In her first 100 years on earth Johnston has seen and experienced many things — from the invention of the safety pin to the breakout of the Internet craze.

When asked about changes in the world around her since 1902 Johnston said, "I can't begin to tell you."

To help quantify the huge amount of history she has lived through, Johnston pulled out a thick book that reviews historic events and people from 1900 to 2000.

"It's just amazing the things that have happened. It (the book) goes back to when the safety pin was invented, the paper clip, Linberg, all the people. My life has been full," she said.

And her life is full. You wouldn't expect to go to the home of a 100-year-old woman and find she has to close a book she is reading to answer the door or is willing to sit and talk for hours about the century that has passed before her eyes as she sips cold water from a sports bottle.

"I'm really independent," she said.

In fact with the exception of a cook and a cleaning lady, she does everything on her own. But if you see her out and about she does accept help at crosswalks and restaurants and takes a ride to Southside Gym on Marion Center Road three times a week, where she works out on a stationary bike and does arm and leg exercises.

Piece of the past gets a new home

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The cornerstone of the old Carnegie Library has a new home outside the present location of the Charlevoix Public Library on Clinton Street.

The stone was moved from its old home next to the Charlevoix State Bank near the intersection of State and Clinton streets, to its new home outside the library on Monday by city street superintendent John Martin. The word "Carnegie" is engraved on the cornerstone, along with the numbers "1909."

Valerie Meyerson, Charlevoix Public Library librarian, said the library is keeping the stone for "historic" purposes and "to save a little piece of that (the old Carnegie Library) old building."

She said the cornerstone's previous location was near an area that is snow-plowed in the winter. A plow had struck the stone in the past, causing some damage, and the decision was made to move it to the current library location to keep it safe.

The cornerstone was part of the old Carnegie Library which sat near the intersection of State and Clinton streets — where the Charlevoix State Bank is now. It was built in 1909 with money donated by American industrialist Andrew Carnegie, who built many libraries like it across the United States.

The building was demolished in August 1968 to make way for the Charlevoix State Bank building. A new library building was built on Clinton Street.

According to Charlevoix Historical Society co-director David Miles, the Carnegie Library was demolished because the library needed more room and it was very difficult to heat in the winter and keep cool in the summer.

Miles said he remembers visiting the old library's children's section — which was located in the basement — during the winter and it being very cold in that room.

In addition to being part of the old library, the cornerstone housed a time-capsule from 1909.

This capsule was opened during a ceremony commemorating the demolition of the old library in August 1968. Its contents were given to the Charlevoix Public Library for display in its new building.

According to a Charlevoix Courier story from that time, the following items were found in the capsule:

- A letter from Andrew Carnegie pertaining to the donation of $10,000 for the building.
- Plans of the building.
- Copies of the Charlevoix Sentinel and Charlevoix Courier.
- A list of city officials.
- A list of county and township officials.
- A copy of the program for Residents united for a great future

EDITORIAL

This has been a hectic year for the community as it travels on its path to a future that is being shaped by the events that take place today.

The year 2002 has had its share of sad moments and joyous ones for Charlevoix residents. It has been one of change, as all of the years past, for good and bad. It has been one filled with controversy as we decide the future of East Park, the marina, the old middle school and the direction the city is taking.

But, all years, if not days, have some form of controversy in Charlevoix. Controversy is a sign of good health for a city. If the people are not debating the issues, then the citizens do not care. When the citizens do not care, the city is dying.

But, Charlevoix is a vibrant city that has a great future in front of it. And to make things even more exciting, the city has many issues that it is deciding on. Issues that will determine what it will be in 10 years or 20 years.

Sure we argue and sure we complain, but all of the citizens of Charlevoix are united behind one basic ideal: A prosperous future for this community and its future inhabitants.

As we come to the closing of another year in northern Michigan, think of how united this community is in creating something good for generations to come. While we all have different ways of achieving that goal, we all want what is best for the community and that is something that we can all be proud of.

While we are closing out another year, the dedicated people of this community are ensuring that Charlevoix residents have many more years in the town they love and call home.

Letters to the editor

Calls for recall

Editor:

What have we gotten ourselves into? After the Charlevoix's City Council meeting on Monday, Dec. 16, I feel we are in for a long year of no votes and slashing of funding that makes Charlevoix a great place to live. I listened as 21 concerned citizens, the very young to the very old, got up to speak in favor of funding the pool with $6,974.00 dollars of money they earned and paid to the city in the form of property taxes. Only one person stood up to speak against the funding. One hour later, our wonderful, city minded council voted to castrate the pool by not providing the $6,974.00 dollars. This is not the only problem. Without the funding from the city, the pool will lose a much-needed $25,000.00 matching grant from the Frey Foundation.

I think it is time a recall petition be made, before this council, mainly, Gibson, Bellows, Campbell, and her husband, the newly elected mayor, destroy this city and we lose the flavor of Charlevoix. R.J. Button said it best, "This council has no interest in listening to its citizens." If we, the voting public, act quickly and get the negative council members and mayor out of our city hall, we can save our city from, not only embarrassment, but from certain financial hardships.

People come to this city because of what it is, a positive place to work and live. This negative, downtrodden, cut everything in sight, attitude has got to change. What will be slashed next? Fireworks, petunias, apple festival, art and craft shows. I say to you, "Yes!" The negative members of this city council will cut it if it costs more than a dime. If saving money is so important to them, why not give back the $1,200 dollars per year we pay Gibson, Bellows and the Campbells. It is an honor to serve Charlevoix, not a job.

This city is in a great financial position because of the last mayor and his council support. The city manager has also had a big hand in building this city to what it is today. He needs to be commended along with councilmen Chamberlain, Carlson and Haggard.

Let's act now. It is time to get them out. Anybody want to give Nancy Ferguson a house in the city?

D.J. Way
Charlevoix

(Editor's note: D.J. Way ran against council member Karen Campbell in the November general election. Additionally, according to the Charlevoix County Clerk's office, state law prohibits a recall election of an elected official in the first six months of office or last six months of office. This means Karen Campbell and Gabe Campbell cannot be recalled.)

Responds to recall call

Editor:

I just read D.J. Way's letter in the Dec. 18 issue of the Petoskey News-Review.

I would like to ask where the correlation is between the council voting "No" on the pool issue because they did not want to overturn the voter's decision on that — which was a definite no — and fireworks, petunias, Applefest and arts and crafts shows? Could Way perhaps offer an explanation?

He also agrees with Mr. R. J. Button's complaint about the sidewalk on Belvedere Street. That sidewalk was approved by the entire council, former Mayor Alvin Russell and the city staff.

Are Way's complaints "sour grapes" or just the results of a vivid imagination?

I have two words for D.J. Way: Merry Christmas!

Council voted correctly

Editor:

As a citizen of the city of Charlevoix and an attendee at the most recent city council meeting, I have some observations, that I would like to share.

It was not made clear that the offer of a contract to the city of Charlevoix, was an attempt to circumvent a state law that says no government agency may give money to any non-profit without prior voter approval. There was important misinformation about whether or not there was already money approved for the pool — there is not.

A pillar of the community, who was particularly visible and vocal in his support of the pool, turns out to have been trying to hedge his side-bet on the out come. Not the pool committee's fault, I don't think they knew or would have approved of his reason for support.

Most importantly, I heard and read comments, that a large community presence at city council meetings was a bad thing. I couldn't disagree more strongly. The active participation of more of the community should be welcomed, and rather than an indicator of something being wrong, it should be construed as both healthy and helpful for the community at large.

A lot of people indicated that they were going to become more involved in city council. I hope that is true and not just whining because they didn't get what they wanted.

See you at the meetings.

Council was wrong

Editor:

I attended the Charlevoix City Council meeting last Monday regarding the city spending $6,900 so that the community pool could receive $25,000 from the Frey Foundation. It was obvious to me that the council members who voted not to spend this money (Bellows, Gibson and Campbell) had made up their minds prior to the public input.

Having canvassed door to door to obtain signatures in support of the request, I am well aware that the majority of citizens were able to understand that this issue was different than the 1991 voter rejection of the over two million dollar ballot proposal which linked building the pool and school funding.

Council members certainly know that too, but some still hid behind that vote. In my opinion, it is their responsibility to inform the public of the facts rather than perpetuate the misunderstanding of this issue.

Information, however, was something the council amazingly seemed to lack. When asked how much money the city spends on the ice skating rink, approximately $25,000, golf course or Mt. McSauba, in excess of $40,000 last year, they stated they did not know. When asked why they would not fund this small request of the pool which is a year-round benefit to the community and school children, but do subsidize Mt. McSauba, the response was "the pool isn't in the city" — neither is Mt. McSauba.

I believe that residents should watch the actions of this Council very carefully. Even if the pool is not important to you, other issues will come up that are of concern to you. The Council should be responsive to the public and also use the facts at their disposal to make decisions that are best for the community at large. I am fearful that we have the proverbial foxes in charge of the henhouse.

Pool should be supported

Editor:

I feel that I must write you in regard to the Charlevoix City Council's vote on the Charlevoix Community Pool funding.

First of all, I would like to state that I respect the commitment of citizens willing to serve on a public body in the interest of the betterment of our community. I hold no ill will toward council members. However, on this vote, I feel the members of the council who voted no, used poor judgment.

Shirley Gibson stated that she was voting no based upon the vote held in 1991 by the citizens of Charlevoix to build and maintain a swimming pool. That vote was 11 years ago and this vote by the council was based upon a one-year commitment of $6,974. In turn for this amount of money the citizens of Charlevoix would be able to benefit from a matching grant from the Frey Foundation of $25,000. Furthermore, there is no new tax money in this equation; the money would come from the existing fund equity of the city.

For their share of the contribution, the council would have ensured continued support for the operation of the pool for the next year. In exchange, parents, children and other citizens would enjoy swimming at the pool for three nights a week at a cost of $1 per night.

Do we not have a moral obligation to the children of Charlevoix? This council should have honored the commitment of the previous council in regard to the Frey Foundation.

Campbell explains vote

Editor:

There has been so much controversy over the pool situation and over the vote that I feel compelled to explain my "no" vote to those who are interested.

First, the money that is being asked for for the pool is not mine, nor any other councilperson's. It belongs to the hard-working taxpayers of this community, a community that many will tell you is already expensive to live in. Rents and home prices are high, gasoline is high, fuel costs terrible in the winter and groceries expensive. This is not my opinion, alone. It is the opinion of a great many of my constituents. To ask these taxpayers to fund the pool, which, incidentally, is not in the city of Charlevoix, not even in neighboring Charlevoix Township, but in Hayes Township, is like piling burden upon burden.

In your own family budget situation, I do not think anyone thinks it a good idea to also pay the neighbor's utility bills or his winter fuel bill. The pool situation is parallel to that. It is located in Hayes Township and, as such, Hayes Township residents should be asked to fund it. A non-resident fee for use of the pool could be worked out.

Secondly, I, personally, do not think it a smart idea to force an opposing viewpoint on taxpayers, who have already spoken out twice and said "no" to funding the pool. The vote was somewhere around 1,100 nays to 700 yeas. Those votes should stand. So many people stood in opposition to our new high school and said that the vote, which carried the day, was only 100 more yeas than the nays. But in our democracy, we believe in majority rule. I would say 1,100-700 represents a majority of no votes.

The argument that the pool is fun for kids and families is a frivolous one. It is fun to go to Disneyland, too, but if the money in the family runs out, or is needed for bills, Disneyland is a luxury the family cannot afford. The city cannot afford the luxury of the pool either.

If memory serves me correctly, the city said at the beginning of the drive to build a pool that it was not interested in giving funds to it. At that time, many people predicted that if the pool were built, the pool committee would find it an expensive site to maintain and would return to the city with their hands out. Now we find out that is true. However, in my ward, phone calls from voters indicate they do not want to support the pool and they do want me to stand firm.

I would suggest the pool supporters look at other options for their funding.

Pool should not get tax money

Editor:

Three cheers for three council members and the mayor. They have sound convictions and have acted on them with courage while under considerable pressure.

From the beginning, the taxpayers refused to fund the construction of a community pool or to pay for its operating costs and maintenance. As a result, the pool exists as a private entity and is not a responsibility of the city of Charlevoix.

City taxes are collected to pay for city services and it is the duty of those who represent a majority of taxpayers to ensure that all necessary expenditures are to that purpose. It is also their obligation to balance the budget while keeping tax rates as low as possible. After all, what good is a pool to senior citizens on fixed incomes who are taxed out of their homes due to inflated property valuations.

No one — including the mayor or any council member — has denied that the pool is a valuable community asset providing numerous benefits that are worthy of support. But that does not justify support from the public treasury. If so, what other worthy causes will follow? Let us recall the old story of the camel getting his nose into the tent. We need only to examine our history to see what happened to federal spending and taxes after our Constitution was subverted to begin allocating public funds to worthy causes. Fiscal discipline gave way to largesse as the doors of the treasury were thrown open to favored groups and individuals.

There is a solution to the pool problem. It is called creative fund-raising. Let those who cry for ever increasing pool services find ways to pay for their demands. Thus it was intended in the beginning, and everyone knew it. If council members are recalled for doing their duty and protecting the poorest taxpayers, so be it. But then, who will be willing to serve in their place and to what ends?

Anniversary

Charles and Donna Cross

Charles W. (Bill) and Donna Cross commemorated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at a surprise celebration held in their honor on Thanksgiving Day in Alpena.

The candlelight Thanksgiving feast featured lamb, goose, traditional turkey, stuffing, cranberries, pumpkin pie and wedding cake in a setting trimmed with fall-colored leaves and pumpkins.

The highlight of the evening was the re-creation of Bill and Donna's wedding ceremony hosted by David Glomski (Alpena) held in a simulated cathedral setting.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a beaded veil and carried a nosegay of cascading golden rosebuds and fall leaves. She was attended by her granddaughters Dana and Holly Glomski of Hubbard Lake.

The groom was adorned with a gold-trimmed navy sailor hat and gold sailor tie. He was attended by his brother, Ralph Cross Jr. of Charlevoix, who was also the best man in the original wedding.

The father of the bride, Richard J. Farmer of Charlevoix, 91, escorted his daughter down the aisle to Pachebel's "Canon in D."

Special guests included the bride's brother and his wife, Dan and Janice Farmer of Charlevoix, childhood friend Kirk Osoinach of Cross Village and Don and Myra Cross of Lachine. About 55 friends and family participated in the evening's festivities, reminiscing and toasting.

QM2 Charles W. Cross, on leave from the U.S. Navy Ship "Diamondhead," and the former Donna L. Farmer were married on Nov. 26 1952 by the Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop at the Charlevoix Methodist Church with a reception at the bride's family Robinson Street home.

The couple have three daughters: Kitty Glomski and Jeff of Hubbard Lake, Virginia Marzean and Mike of Columbia, S.C., and Gayle Gilbertson and Barry of Grand Rapids and four granddaughters: Dana and Holly Glomski and Andrea and Corrine Gilbertson.

Cedar Ridge awaiting OK for final closure

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Waste Management's Cedar Ridge Landfill located off Saunders Road in Eveline Township is waiting on final approval from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) to close for good.

"Overall they did a good job closing it. This will probably end the landfill chapter in the (Charlevoix) county. It will be in post closure mode soon," John Ozoga III, lead-worker environmental engineer with the waste management division of the MDEQ, said.

Ozoga received final construction closure documents for the Ironton site Dec. 9 and expects to approve them in early January, right on schedule.

The MDEQ would like to see substantial grass grown over the cap which is in place, but because it is late in the year, the department will be flexible. However, in the spring Ozoga will be back at the site to look for washed out areas that will require re-seeding.

"Then the site will be pretty much dormant, everything will be pretty much taken care of," he said.

Once in post-closure mode, Waste Management will have site maintenance duties including: quarterly sampling of monitoring wells, monitoring of fluid inside the fill to ensure it is properly pumped, erosion control, monitoring odor issues and water testing to make sure nothing has broken through the liner system.

"The site is still clean and it has never had a groundwater problem," he said.

Odor issues associated with the landfill that have been a problem for residents in the past should be fine now. Ozoga said gas from the fill is fed to gas flares that burn off the methane, but if there are issues to call him at (989) 705-3403.

The transfer station at the site is also currently closed, but Ozoga said Waste Management could reopen it. At a transfer station, garbage is brought in and compacted a second time and then it's hauled to a landfill.

"Haulers are taking garbage a long way from Charlevoix now, they (transfer stations) minimize trips," Ozoga said.

He said most of Charlevoix's trash is currently being transported to Waste Management's landfill in Waters, a town located in Crawford County. There are no properties in the MDEQ's 22 county Cadillac dis-

Elementary students donate over $1,000

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix Elementary School students raised over $1,145 to send two local children to Camp Quality this summer.

The K-Kids Club of Charlevoix Elementary School, a branch of Charlevoix Kiwanis, steered the project they titled "Coins for Camp." The group of 52 students got to work Nov. 4 setting out 22 piggy bank's, one in each classroom at the school, with a goal of sending one child to the camp.

"This was a good thing for us to do because it's a good thing to do for other kids, especially sick kids who can't do some of the things other kids can do," K-Kid Connor Klooster, 10, said.

Camp Quality was formed in 1988 to provide support for children with cancer and their families at no cost. According to Eleanor West, director of Camp Quality, approximately 60 children with cancer attend their summer camp program and around 15 teens attend winter and spring camps.

> "This was a good thing for us to do because it's a good thing to do for other kids, especially sick kids who can't do some of the things other kids can do."
> Connor Klooster, Elementary student

"We formed to bring children and families up and above all the things they are going through. We try and help in whatever way we can," she said.

Because the programs are offered at no cost, West said help from projects like Coins for Camp is vital to the camp's existence.

The elementary students' initial goal of raising $500 blossomed into an opportunity

‘Stomach Flu’ strikes Charlevoix area

There have been numerous cases of Epidemic Viral Gastroenteritis investigated by the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency over the past several days.

Gastroenteritis, or stomach flu, is a viral illness that causes low-grade fever, nausea, vomiting, stomach cramps and diarrhea that generally lasts 24 to 72 hours. There are hundreds of different viruses that can cause a similar illness, but the particular strain that has been identified by the department in the current outbreak is Norwalk Virus.

Norwalk Virus is actually a group of viruses that are the most common cause of epidemics of diarrheal disease. It was also the virus implicated in the recent outbreaks on the cruise ships in Florida and there have been many similar reports across the state of Michigan recently.

Although often referred to as “the stomach flu,” it is unrelated to the influenza virus and the flu vaccine offers no protection against this illness.

The virus is spread when hands, surfaces or foods are contaminated with fecal material containing the virus and then that person ingests the virus. This can be done by eating contaminated foods or by placing your hands near your mouth. Only humans carry the virus, so you cannot get the disease from animals.

With holiday gatherings upon us, there are some ways you can help prevent getting ill or spreading the illness to others. The best way to prevent getting ill is to wash your hands, repeatedly.

People should always wash their hands thoroughly before working with ready-to-eat foods and after using the bathroom, using a handkerchief, touching any soiled surface, handling raw food — especially poultry and meat — eating, smoking and touching or scratching any area of the body, including ears, mouth, nose or hair.

Washing up before handling any foods is especially important to prevent spreading the disease to others. Other important measures are thorough cleaning of counter tops, preparing and storing food properly and minimizing handling foods with bare hands by using serving utensils.

If you do become ill, there are some simple measures you can take.

The illness is generally self-limited and requires no specific medications. Alike in all viruses, antibiotics are not effective. Drinking plenty of clear liquids to prevent dehydration is the most important measure. The illness generally subsides in a day or two.

If you or a family members cannot hold down anything, are showing signs of dehydration — such as dry mouth, decreased urine output, sunken eyes and skin and rapid heart rate — or are having severe stomach pain, then you should contact your physician.

If you are ill, you should practice meticulous hand washing and avoid serving food to others to prevent the spread of the disease.

Charlevoix vets to have new parade ride

By JULIE WITTHOEFT
Staff Writer

Charlevoix veterans will have a new ride during next year's parades that may remind them of their days in the service.

Charlie Butcher, commander of Charlevoix's American Legion Post 226 and senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153, bought a new truck in October from a man in York, Penn.

Charlie Butcher

“I bought the truck because those who can't march in the parades anymore were overflowing my convertible,” Butcher said.

The truck is a 2.5 ton 1941 GMC cargo and troop carrier that was used in the 1944 invasion of Normandy. Butcher served with the Army and Air Force from 1944 to 1951.

“This was exactly what I wanted, it's a duplicate of the one we had on our flight line in World War II,” he said.

Butcher explained that at the end of World War II all surplus equipment used by the armed forces was placed in depots across Europe. Then, in 1948 when NATO was formed, the United States parceled off the equipment to France, Belgium, Holland and Norway.

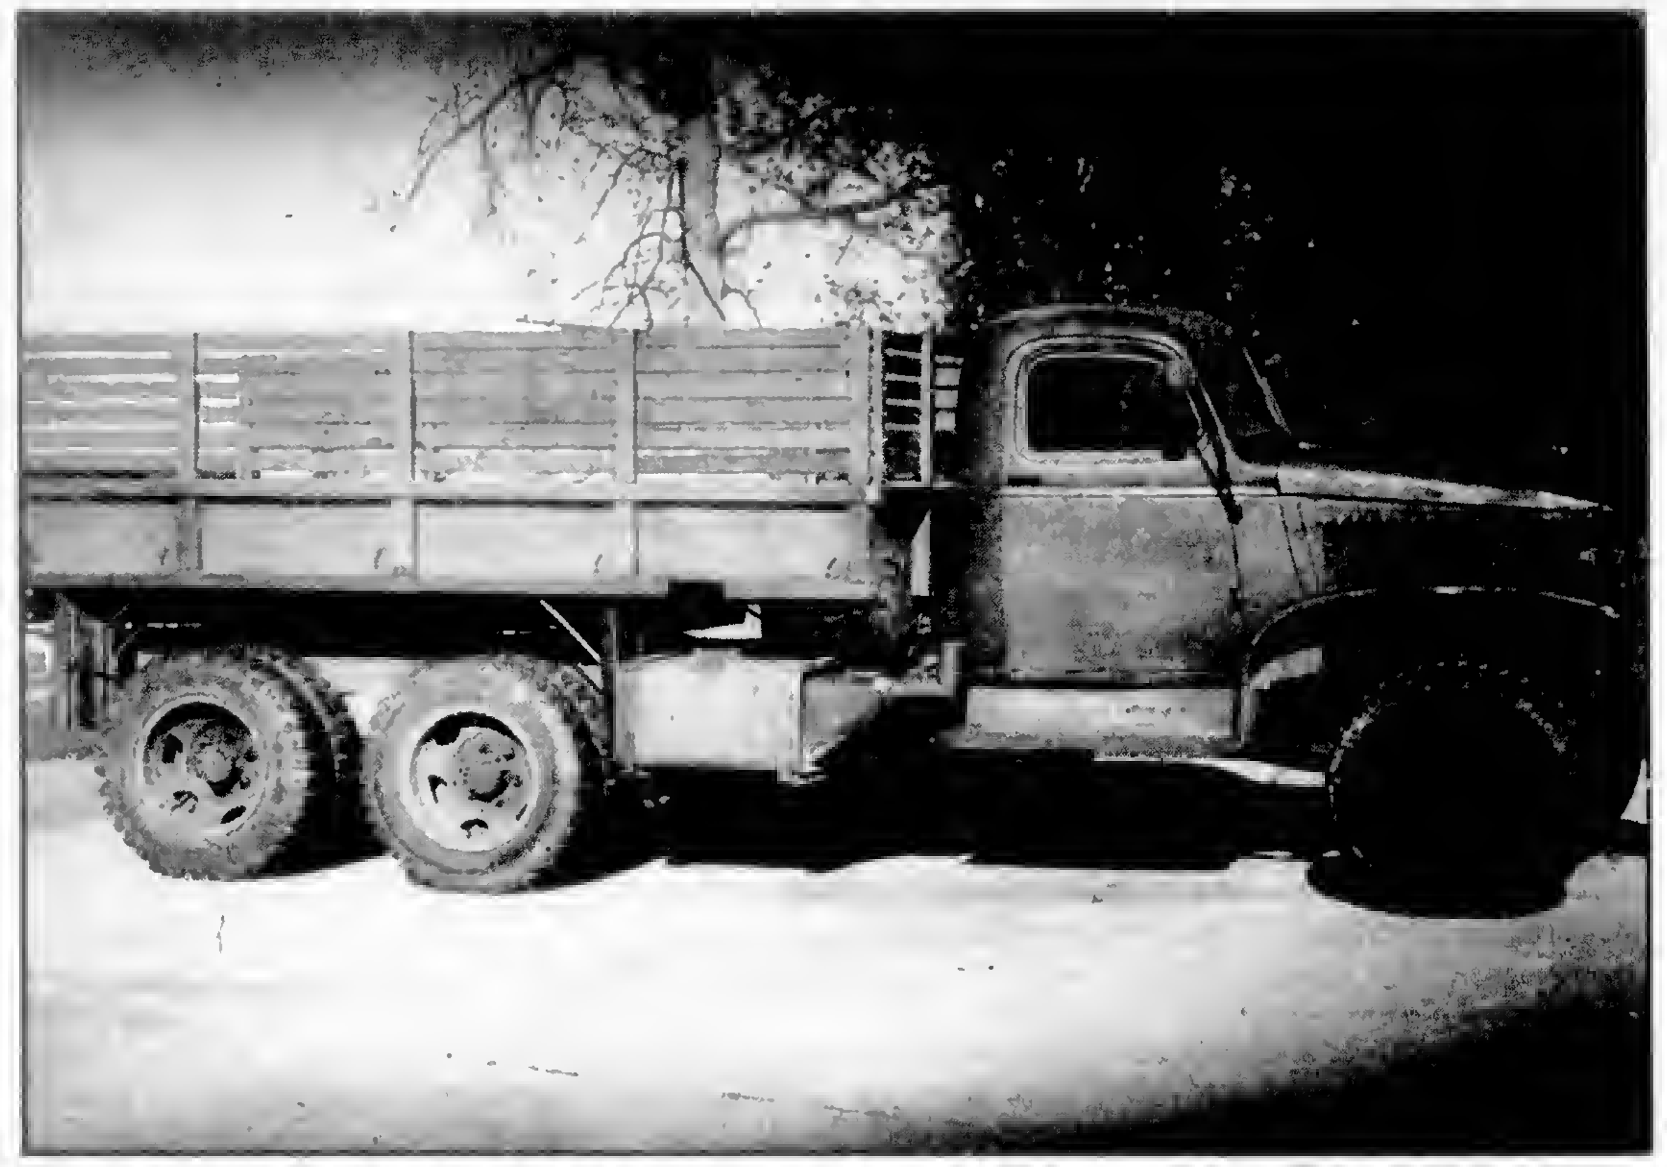
“Charlie's antique SUV” was transported to Holland, where it was used by the Dutch Army until 1997 when it was replaced.

The truck was sold to a Dutch citizen who stored it in a garage and didn't do anything with it. It was then purchased by an associate of the man Butcher bought it from in Pennsylvania, who brought it back to the United States in September, where he did some reconditioning of the vehicle.

Butcher's daughter, Kathryn Everhart, a computer engineer from Lainsburg, found it for sale on the Internet and told her father about the treasure she discovered.

Butcher jumped at the chance to have a piece of World War II history right here in Charlevoix and bought the vehicle.

It arrived in Charlevoix in November and was so heavy that Butcher had the carrier take it over to the Cemex cement plant, on Bells Bay Road, where workers used a crane to get it on a flatbed trailer.



This World War II troop transport truck will be used to carry veterans in annual parades next summer. (Courtesy photo)

“Thanks to the expert help of Cemex personnel and management we were able to unload the truck. When I told them what it would be used for, they were all for helping me,” he said.

This winter, Butcher will work to remove a few rust spots and then repaint the truck before he affixes World War II decals on it.

The new chariot which will transport American Legion, VFW and Marine Corps League Northern Detachment members will make its debut in the Memorial Day parade, May 26, 2003.

Charlevoix chamber has budget increases

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While income and expenses increase each year, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is working on staying within its budget once again.

According to chamber president Jacqueline Merta this year she has about $294,700 in income, but has proposed a budget around $304,000. However, this budget is in the process of being cut.

In 2002, the chamber had $294,700 in income and $298,000 in expenses. In 2001, it had $277,000 in income and $277,000 in expenses.

Merta said the chamber can have slightly higher expenses than income because it has left-over money in the bank.

"You don't drain your account," she said.

Income from membership for 2001 and 2002 stayed the same at $117,000. Merta said this is the biggest source of income for the group.

Part of the increase in expenses comes from an increase in capital improvements at the chamber, which is up to $12,000, Merta said. The capital improvements pay for new computers and office supplies.

Money the chamber is spending for rent also increased from 2001 to 2002, as Merta and a few assistants moved to a new location above Citizen's Bank on State Street this year. Combined with its location on Bridge Street near Veteran's Park, the chamber spent $8,400 in rent for both locations in 2002.

A total of $9,000 was spent on downtown marketing by the chamber in 2002. All of this was used as the chamber's portion of the downtown coordinator's salary.

The city of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority also fund this position and give the chamber $20,000.

Merta said in addition to the $9,000 the chamber contributes to this position, it also pays for office space, postage and other supplies for the downtown coordinator.

As for decreases in costs, Merta said postage has gone down for the chamber from $16,000 in 2001 to $12,000 in 2002. She said this is probably due to more people visiting the chamber's web site at www.charlevoix.org.

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is a private non-profit organization that promotes business in the Charlevoix area.

Official Notice

The Charlevoix City Council adopted the following ordinance at a Public Hearing held on Monday, December 16, 2002.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 683 of 2002

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SUBSECTIONS 5.256(3) THROUGH (5) OF THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE AND TO ADD NEW SUBSECTIONS 5.256(6) THROUGH (8) TO THE CHARLEVOIX CITY CODE RELATING TO THE STANDARDS, CONDITIONS, AND REHEARINGS FOR ZONING VARIANCES
THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 1. Amendment of Subsections 5.256(3) – (5).

Subsections 5.256(3) – (5) of the Charlevoix City Code are hereby amended to read in their entirety as follows:

(3) Variances. The Board shall have the power to authorize upon an appeal specific variances from the requirements of this Chapter when the applicant establishes all of the following general standards and all of the applicable special findings.

(4) Variance General Standards.

(a) The need for the requested variance is due to unique circumstances or physical conditions of the property involved, such as narrowness, shallowness, shape, water, or topography and is not due to the applicant's personal or economic situation.

(b) The need for the requested variance is not the result of action taken by the property owner or previous property owners that was in violation of zoning regulations in effect at the time the action was taken (self-created).

(c) The requested variance is the minimum variance necessary to grant substantial relief to the applicant while at the same time minimizing any adverse impacts to other property owners in the general neighborhood or zoning district.

(5) Special Findings.

(a) Dimensional Variances. To obtain a variance from the dimensional requirements of this Ordinance (area setback, frontage, height, bulk, density, or other dimensional requirements), the applicant must establish that strict compliance with regulations governing area, setback, frontage, height, bulk, density or other dimensional requirements will unreasonably prevent the property owner from using the property for a permitted purpose, or will render conformity with those regulations unnecessarily burdensome.

(b) Use Variances. To obtain a variance from the use regulations of this Ordinance, the applicant must establish both of the following:

1. The building, structure, or land cannot be reasonably used for any of the uses permitted by right or by special use permit in the zoning district in which it is located.
2. The proposed use will not alter the essential character of the neighborhood.

Section 2. Amendment of Section 5.256.

Section 5.256 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to add new subsections (6), (7), and (8) which shall read in their entirety as follows:

(6) Conditions of approval.

(a) The Board may attach reasonable conditions with the approval of a variance. These conditions may include those necessary to insure that public services and facilities affected by a proposed land use or activity will be capable of accommodating increased service and facility loads caused by the land use or activty, to protect the natural environment and conserve natural resources and energy, to insure compatibility with adjacent uses of land, and to promote the use of land in a socially and economically desirable manner. Any conditions imposed, however, shall meet all of the following requirements:

1. Be designed to protect natural resources, the health, safety, and welfare and the social and economic well being of those who will use the land use or activity under consideration, residents and landowners immediately adjacent to the proposed land use or activity, and the community as a whole.
2. Be related to the valid exercise of the police power, and purposes which are affected by the proposed use or activity.
3. Be necessary to meet the intent and purpose of the zoning ordinance, be related to the standards established in the ordinance for the land use or activity under consideration, and be necessary to insure compliance with those standards.

(b) The breach of any condition shall be deemed a violation of this Chapter and shall invalidate the permit granted.

(7) Expiration of Variances. Each variance granted under the provisions of this Chapter shall become null and void six (6) months after the variance is authorized, unless construction or occupancy allowed by such variance or permit has commenced and is being carried to completion. However, the zoning board of appeals may grant a six (6) month extension upon the submission of a letter by the applicant providing reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time, and provided further, that an additional six (6) month approval extension may be granted by the zoning board of appeals upon the personal presentation by the applicant of reasonable evidence as to why the project cannot be commenced within the allowed time.

(8) Rehearing. After a variance has been denied in whole or in part by the Board, then no application shall be resubmitted for a period of one (1) year from the date of the last denial; provided, however, that a denied variance may be reconsidered by the Board when, in the opinion of the Zoning Administrator, newly discovered evidence or changed conditions warrant such reconsideration or when the city attorney by a written opinion states that in the attorney's professional opinion the decision made by the Board or the procedure used in the matter was clearly erroneous.

Section 3. Effective Date.

This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after enactment.

Watch out for drunk drivers over holidays

During the holidays, there are many social occasions in which alcohol is served and all too often, people drive after they have too much to drink.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater reminds the community that the rate of alcohol-impaired drivers increases during this time of year and is the single greatest factor in the large number of motor vehicle injuries and fatalities which occur.

Although alcohol related traffic deaths have decreased significantly, drunk driving still remains the nation's most frequently committed violent crime, according to Lasater.

Concerned with highway safety, Lasater reminds drivers to exercise extreme caution when traveling this holiday season.

"The holidays are a festive time, but too much good 'cheer' causes problems," he said. "Over the past few years we've made great strides in discouraging the consumption of alcohol and driving. This has taken the form of stricter enforcement, tougher laws and most importantly, consumer education. It is crucial that individuals know their personal limitations and realize that while alcohol consumption is their own decision, once they get behind the wheel, it becomes a public matter."

Alcohol-related accidents can strike at any time. However, there are some things that drivers can do to reduce their chances of being injured and more easily recognize a potentially dangerous situation.

Warning signs of an intoxicated driver include: Traveling 10 mph below the posted speed limit, sudden stops for no apparent reason, traveling too close to other vehicles, braking erratically, inconsistent use of turn signals, driving without headlights on and drifting in a straight line at a slight angle to the roadway.

To protect yourself, Lasater suggests the following:

- Call your local law enforcement agency and report the driver by taking note of the driver's exact location and being prepared to give an accurate description of the car including make, model, color and most importantly their license plate number.
- Always wear your seatbelt, if you spot a driver you suspect has been drinking do not follow him/her too closely, do not disregard traffic signals in an attempt to keep sight of the driver, don't get so involved with what the drunk driver is doing that it causes you to compromise your own safety.
- If the driver stops do not attempt to detain him/her.

Why tear down bandshell, but not support pool?

Editor:

So let's go back to 1991 and tear the bandshell down. What was the cost to the taxpayers of Charlevoix for the bandshell in 1991? I didn't see that in print. What would be the approximate cost of a new bandshell? I didn't see that in print. If I recall, the pool cost nothing — zip — zing — zero — to the taxpayers.

It is amazing that there are people that were totally against the pool, yet now are so glad that the pool is here and use it regularly. Let's hear from all those people that can find entertainment for a family of five for $5 for an entire evening anywhere else.

Pool therapy, alternative sports activities and recreation for all ages, that is what the pool provides and more. I hear the pool can be rented for parties at $85 (with one lifeguard) — what do you pay for a party hall for gathering? What a great facility.

I do not live in the city. I am unable to vote in city elections. I do pay city taxes. Not only did the council vote down a small amount from the existing budget for support of the pool, but they also cost the pool $25,000 from a matching grant. Maybe this issue could be part of the section on 20/20 called "GIVE ME A BREAK!"

New Rayder grotesque

Editor:

Why is it, every once in awhile, the newcomers to Charlevoix come up with a change that they think tour community needs? This time it is a grotesque version of the Rayder emblem.

The natives of Charlevoix have played sports proudly for many years under the present Rayder emblem and we feel that any changes, especially the aberration that is being proposed, is not necessary. The only thing that this new emblem lacks is a tattoo saying, "Mom."

If the newcomers want a change in the Rayder emblem, good, put the proposed emblem on their sweat shirts and caps and the natives will know who the newcomers are.

Please leave the present Rayder emblem alone. We do not need a change.

Concert was great

Editor:

Sitting through the Charlevoix High Christmas concert on Tuesday was sheer torture.

We were instructed that the concert would be performed in college style which meant no clapping in between selections. The musician went from one piece to the next without announcements or applause.

It was torture not being able to clap after the full band opened with "Joy to. the World." It was torture not being able .to clap after duets, trios, solos, quartets and entire sections. It was torture not being able to clap after the jazz band.

Halfway through I lost it. I had to clap. I clapped as hard as I could, I was so proud of the sophisticated notes I was hearing; but I made sure my hands stayed away from each other so I wouldn't make noise.

I couldn't take the torture so I faux clapped through the rest of the concert until the audience was allowed to cheer after "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Bravo high school musicians and director Jayne Bennett. Thanks for the torture.

Holiday lights contest winners

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's eighteenth annual Residential Lighting Display Contest judging took place Dec. 18.

As the judges drove around the area, chauffeured by Dale Boss in the petunia truck, they were impressed by how many beautiful light displays they saw around town.

According to contest committee co-chair Marell Staffel it was a difficult decision, but three winners were chosen from the entries. They each will receive flowerpots filled with gifts from area merchants.

They are the following families listed in random order: Dennis and Diane Priess on Meadow Lane, the Reeds on Green Street and Richard and Allison Joseph on C & O Club Drive.

Honorable mentions go to: Sharon and Lowell Blossom on Thistledown, Mary Ann and Paul Stephan on Dixon, Bruce Henley on Fairway Drive, Louis and Rita Orlowski on McSauba Road, Richard and Kathy Stangis on Pleasant Street, William Bellinger on North Forest Drive, Roger and Annette Nesberg on Central and Don and Laura Wells on West Upright.

The judges, along with Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, would like to thank all of the residents of the Charlevoix area who decorated their homes this year to make Charlevoix so beautiful.

"We encourage everyone to take an evening to see some of these wonderful decorated homes," Staffel said.

The State of Michigan is acting as the Foreclosing Governmental Unit in proceedings to foreclose on this property for unpaid property taxes.

A Show Cause Hearing is scheduled for , January 20, 2003-February 6, 2003 at 608 S Washington, Lansing MI 48933.
Any person with an interest in the property forfeited to the county treasurer may appear at the show cause hearing and redeem that property or show cause why absolute title to that property should not vest in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

A Judicial Foreclosure Hearing is scheduled for 2:15 PM, 02/14/03 at the 33rd Circuit Court, 301 State St, Charlevoix MI 49720.
At this hearing the Foreclosing Governmental Unit shall ask that the court enter a judgment foreclosing the property as requested in the petition for foreclosure. A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on the State of Michigan, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 02-142919-CZ.

If you are a person with an interest in property being foreclosed:

PLEASE NOTE :

The following list represents parties that appear to have title, lien, or other apparent rights to the parcels being foreclosed by the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

This notice is required to be given by law, even if the party no longer claims or desires an interest if it appears they hold any undischarged, apparent, or potential title or lien right to the property.

Listing of a party does NOT necessarily indicate that they are the owner of a parcel, or that they are liable for the property taxes.

This list is NOT an offering of property for sale. These parcels are NOT being sold, auctioned, or otherwise made available by virtue of this notice.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction in July, September, and November of 2003. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

The amount due listed indicates the balance which was due as of forfeiture on March 1, 2002. The current amount required to redeem must be obtained from the Charlevoix County Treasurer, as additional penalties, fees, and interest have accrued since forfeiture.

Sheriff's office gives tips for ice safety

Each year, there are recreational ice-related accidents and fatalities on ice-covered bodies of water often the cause of poor judgment or poor decision-making based upon inadequate information.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office wants to remind everyone that no ice is safe. Anyone who decides to go out onto a frozen body of water must make a personal decision to do so, realizing that there is a degree of risk associated with this choice.

The sheriff's office said ice seldom freezes at a uniform rate. What constitutes a safe depth of ice is difficult to apply in all cases. While three-inches of ice on a farm pond may pose little danger, that same three inches on a moving stream or lake with springs, stumps and currents could be very dangerous.

On the Great Lakes, one step from 3-foot ice may lead to nothing more than skim ice on the next step.

The sheriff's office said, for these reasons, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources does not advocate the use of relative ice thickness guides. It is crucial that anglers, and others considering recreating on the ice, take individual responsibility in evaluating the quality and soundness of the ice on the particular body of water in question.

While attempting to apply ice thickness guides to all ice-covered waters is not recommended, some of the following safety precautions may prove useful:

- Wear a personal flotation device and don't fish alone.
- Leave information about your plans with someone: where you intend to fish and when you plan to return.
- "Know Before You Go." Know the conditions of the ice before venturing out, taking into consideration recent possible effects changes in the weather have had on the ice.
- Children should always be supervised on the ice.
- Use an ice spud bar or an auger to test the ice ahead of you.
- Before venturing out onto the ice, check with local sources, such as bait and tackle shops, for the most up-to-date information.
- Avoid ice formed over flowing water near shore, around inlets and outlets of streams, or on lakes with springs.
- Avoid aeration devices such as warm water bubblers used near marinas.
- Early winter freezes and thaws, occurring now in the Upper Peninsula and in the northern Lower Peninsula, render ice unsafe for any type of traffic, especially in December and early-January. Temperature fluctuations typically occurring in March and April will again make for uncertain ice.
- Be suspicious of gray, dark or porous spots in the ice as these may be soft areas. Ice is generally strongest where it is hard and blue.
- Heavy snow cover insulates ice and prevents it from freezing as evenly and as quickly as it would if the snow weren't there. Snow cover is also deceptive and makes evaluating the ice cover difficult.
- Be especially wary of river ice, as it can be highly variable in thickness due to the erosive action of the underlying river current. One can be standing on ice 8-inches thick on a river and just a few feet away, the ice may be only 2-inches thick.
- Carry a couple of large nails and a length of light nylon rope. If you should go through the ice, the nails could help provide a "grip" on the slippery surface and aid in getting out.
- Should you break through the ice, try not to panic. Remember to turn toward the direction you came from — toward the ice that supported you. Use the nails or your hands to gain a hold on the unbroken surface of the ice, and advance by kicking your feet.
- Once you are out of the water and are lying on the ice, don't stand. Roll away from the point where you broke through until you are on solid ice.
- If you do see someone fall through the ice, do not run toward them. Carefully extend a rope, ladder, pole or line to the victim.

Making it a point to have good information about the quality of the ice before venturing out, assuming personal responsibility, exercising caution and having safety gear available will not make a recreational outing on the ice risk free, but it will certainly help to reduce the risk.

Sheriff's office arrests man for assault, resisting

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office has arrested an Antrim County man for multiple counts of assaulting and resisting deputies.

The sheriff's office was assisting Charlevoix police officers during a reported assault around 11 p.m., on Dec. 13 at the Sleep Inn on US-31.

Deputies located the man hiding among a display of Christmas trees at a nearby business. The man was identified as James Alan Adair II, 24, of Alden.

Adair was arrested by the city police officers for disorderly and assault and battery of another man at the Sleep Inn. He was transported to the Charlevoix County Jail where he allegedly fought with and assaulted a deputy sheriff and two corrections officers.

Adair has been charged by the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office with assaulting an officer causing injury, which is a four year felony, and two counts of resist/obstruct/assault corrections officers, which is a two year misdemeanor. These charges are in addition to the original offense charges filed by the Charlevoix City Police.

The deputy and corrections officers sought treatment at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Adair has a previous conviction in 2000 in Gaylord for assaulting a bailiff in district court. He has posted a surety bond and is awaiting additional court appearances.

Gift shop increases space and inventory

Along with new renovations to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, its gift shop is also getting a needed facelift.

According to Dee Vincent, of the gift shop, there have been many changes in the little store inside the hospital. Most noticeable is the addition of "slot" walls and glass cabinets that enable workers to display more merchandise.

Along with more merchandise, the store has more storage space allowing for more items it can offer. This has also tripled its space for candy.

In addition to the space improvements, the gift shop is now able to accept credit cards, thus allowing workers the ability to take orders over the phone to be delivered to patients at the hospital.

The shop has also expanded its hours to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

To meet the needs of an expanded shop and renovated hospital, the shop and hospital are in need of volunteers of all ages. For more information call the hospital at 547-4024.

A majority of the money the gift shop brings in goes back to the hospital. Other portions of it is used for health care scholarships to area students.

to fund the Camp Daggett outing for two sick kids.

After just five days the coin drive had accumulated almost $300. Kids were emptying their own piggy banks, sacrificing allowances and searching their couches for stray change.

The kids knew the project had taken on a life of its own when the office of school counselor and K-Kid leader Gayle Gennett started to look like a huge piggy bank.

The fundraiser sparked a competition between classes and in the second week totals reached $465. All that change wasn't easy to manage and K-Kid Lynzic Gotshall, 9, who helped count the coins every Friday, said manual counting soon became a job for a calculator.

Shelly Novotny's multi-age classroom ended the three week fund-raiser having collected the most spare change, $105. Gennett planned a pizza party for the three classes who raised the most money to celebrate their hard work.

After the pizza parties were over it was time to figure out how to convert all that change to dollars in order to make a donation to the camp. Charlevoix's Citizens Bank agreed to run the coins through a sorting machine and a check was presented to West on behalf of the K-Kids group and Charlevoix Elementary School at the school's annual Christmas concert Dec. 19.

The K-Kids group plans to keep in touch with the campers.

City ponders solution to water pressure problem

WATER

for a good water supply on the north side and in its search it installed a test well at the golf course. This well was later converted to a sprinkler system.

"Now there is a problem with that well being able to produce as much water," Wiesner said.

Its inability to produce enough water prompted the city to start looking for solutions. Wiesner said some options being considered include: fixing that well, building a new one or constructing a pond that would be shared with Mount McSauba, which is also facing a water issue.

Wiesner explained that each year Nub's Nob sells the city its "gently used," "state-of-the-art" snow guns. But the guns require more water than is currently available using the 4 inch water line that runs down Michigan Avenue.

"To fully utilize the guns and to make more snow in the future we need more water," he said.

One possible solution is construction of a pond on a 10 acre parcel the city owns on the north side of the golf course that connects to Mount McSauba Road.

"One option is building a pond, but that might be impractical," Wiesner said.

At a recent council meeting, first ward councilman Bill Haggard questioned whether the pond would raise safety concerns and if it was worth the effort.

Haggard asked that the study being conducted by City Engineer Don Swem include a look at using lake water. But at this time, use of a lake water intake appears to be an unlikely outcome.

"I don't think the lake intake is practical," Wiesner said.

He explained that the distance from the lake to the facilities coupled with zebra mussel problems on intake valves make it less feasible.

Swem's report is expected to be ready for city review next week. Wiesner said the city hopes to target a solution this year, but implementation would not likely occur in 2003.

The golf course cost the city's general fund $42,892 during the 2001-2002 budget period and Mount McSauba cost the fund $54,961 during that same time period.

Girls' volleyball team opens season

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders volleyball team opened their season with a strong performance, finishing second in the Roscommon tournament.

In pool play, Charlevoix defeated Benzie Central, 15-9, 15-5; defeated Houghton Lake, 15-4, 15-8; and tied Lake City 15-10, 10-15.

The Rayders then defeated Mason County Eastern, 15-12, 15-12 in the semifinals before falling to Lake City in the finals, 15-7, 5-15, 11-15.

"The girls played really hard," coach Liz Grunch said. "We have a really young team and I don't think they're used to these tournaments and the long days that go with them. We got a little tired at the end."

For the day, Natashia Kleiber had 31 kills, Kari Way had 28 and Becca Kanine passed out 100 assists.

Grunch lauded the play of the team's four "big hitters," Kleiber, Way, Andrea Ruhlman and Theresa Martin. Leaders on defense were Kleiber, Way and Shayna Drost.

The future looks bright for the squad according to coach Grunch.

"This team should be a real force down the road," she said. "Although they are young, they have a lot of talent, great attitudes and are willing to work hard."

Charlevoix lost its conference opener with Harbor Springs, 12-15, 7-15.

"We had a lot of young mistakes," Grunch explained. "When the girls get on a roll, they are unstoppable. We just need more consistency on the court."

The Rayders travel to Alma College for a tournament on Dec. 27.

Crooked Tree to have Jeff Haas Trio concert

The Jeff Haas Trio featuring bassist Chuck Hall and drummer Alex Trajano and special guests multi-instrumentalist Rob Smith, saxophonist/flautist Laurie Sears and vibraphonist Jim Cooper will perform two concerts at the Crooked Tree Arts Center in downtown Petoskey at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 10 and 11, 2003.

This is a presentation of the Crooked Tree Arts Center's Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series.

Haas and Friends will perform two evenings of jazz classics including tunes by Gershwin, Cole Porter, Thelonious Monk and selections from Miles Davis' landmark recording, Kind of Blue as well as debuting two new Haas originals.

"This is a departure from our past performances at Crooked Tree where we have focused almost exclusively on my original music," Haas said. "Although we will feature some of my tunes including two that we have yet to perform in concert, we will also perform several classic tunes from some of the greatest recordings since the late 1950s like Miles Davis' Kind of Blue and John Coltrane's My Favorite Things. If you love jazz, I know you will enjoy these hip arrangements of classic tunes from the jazz cannon. If you are new to jazz or thinking about checking it out, the user-friendliness of this music and the passion and joy with which these musicians perform it will turn you on to the art form of jazz."

Jeff Haas was recently admitted to the Kennedy Center Artist Registry making him eligible for the Kennedy Center commission/performance program. He recently received a Creative Artists Grant from ArtServe Michigan for the creation of a double quartet — a commissioned composition based in both the jazz and classical traditions.

The composition, scored for jazz quartet and string quartet, is already scheduled for seven performances in major midwestern and East Coast venues in the fall of 2003 original composition which will be scored for jazz ensemble and orchestra.

Chuck Hall has performed with a variety of jazz musicians from Michigan's finest to jazz legends Dizzy Gillespie, Johnny Griffin and Freddie Hubbard.

His resonant sound, dexterity and technique have provided a strong foundation for the Jeff Haas Trio since 1992.

Tickets are on sale now and going fast, as this show is traditionally a sell-out concert. The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located in downtown Petoskey. For more information and tickets, call the arts center box office at 347-4337 or visit www.crookedtree.org to purchase on-line.

The arts center box office will be closed Dec. 24 through Dec. 29 and Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. Ticket prices are $20 adults and $8 students for members, $25 adults and $10 students for non-members, $50 patron seating.

Rosalynde Johnston shows off some of her fly-fishing equipment. While she may be 100 years old, the Charlevoix woman still likes to get out into the streams. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

At 100, local lady still as active as ever

JOHNSTON

> "I have a good life. I could never ask for anything better."
> Rosalynde Johnston, Charlevoix resident

Her secret fountain of youth isn't a lifelong love of broccoli or steady diet of vitamin supplements. In fact, she says there is no real secret.

In an invitation to her upcoming birthday party she credits her longevity to her wonderful parents, good friends and impeccable health.

"It's just been a good life that's all. That's why I'm here," she said.

She was born Dec. 26, 1902 to Anna Baylor Johnston and Pressley Johnston in Webster Groves, Mo., and spent her childhood on a farm in St. Elmo, Ill. with ponies and horses.

"I had a marvelous childhood," she said.

She never married and has no children of her own, but took care of plenty of kids in Detroit, where she taught gym after earning her degree in physical education from Boston University in 1925. In her 40 years with the Detroit school system she was also a truant officer.

After retiring from education in 1965 she moved to a Grayling estate shouldering the Au Sable River.

"fly-fishing brought me there," she said of Grayling. "My hobby all my life is fishing — fly-fishing. It's fascinating."

She started fishing in the 1920s and spent vacation time traveling the country with her bamboo pole, reeling in trout. Her most esteemed catch during the 80 plus years she has spent on numerous rivers was a four pound brown trout she reeled in while fishing Wyoming's Madison River.

But this brown trout could be topped by future catches. Just this past summer she was back on the Au Sable with a guide. She said her failing eye sight made quickly setting the hook difficult, but she felt right at home.

"I didn't get a fish, but I sure had a good time," she said.

She relocated to Charlevoix from Grayling in 1995 to be with her sister and best friend, Annabelle Webb, who died in 1997 at the age of 97. The two lived at Webb's home off Park Avenue near the hospital where they raised butterflies.

During her stay in town, she has explored a new favorite river, the Jordan.

"It's one of the prettiest small rivers I have ever seen," she said.

While the broad world that once offered Johnston endless travel opportunities to some of America's best fly-fishing destinations has narrowed to life in a spacious condominium in town, she is content and even enjoys winter.

"I have a good life. I could never ask for anything better," she said.

Locals is a monthly series on the people of Charlevoix.

No new landfills to be constructed in area

LANDFILL

trict proposing new landfill construction.

This longer hauling distance for Charlevoix refuse begs the question whether local haulers Waste Management and Top Rank Disposal have had to increase service prices.

Tom Rankl, owner of Top Rank, said the longer distance has had no impact on prices the company charges. However he did have to increase prices this year for the first time in three years because of increased fuel costs and high insurance premiums.

However, the transfer station Rankl built in Charlevoix during the summer of 2001 gave the company negotiation flexibility with landfills it hauls to, allowing it to keep costs down and prices as low as possible.

Waste Management representatives did not return calls by press time pertaining to costs associated with the longer hauling distance.

The Cedar Ridge site operated for four decades. It stopped accepting garbage in April, but was still taking foundry sand from the East Jordan Iron Works until late August. The sand was used as part of the plastic and clay cap.

Eveline Township residents and administrators are happy to see the end of operations at the site.

Township supervisor Dan Skrzeczkoski said, "It's been a very controversial issue for many years. I have been looking forward to this date for a long time."

Benefits he sees to the closing include: reduced odor problems and the elimination of incidents where trash blows off site.

Food drive

The Spirit of Christmas Food Drive at Charlevoix Middle School was Dec. 2 through Dec. 19. Students dropped off canned goods at the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry inside the First Congregational Church on State Street. They collected over 14,000 canned goods. Charles Shaw and Adam Ulrich share the load of this heavy box of canned goods. (Photo by Julie Witthoeft)

Meyerson said the items were in storage and are being prepared for display.

She added the library will probably create a new time capsule if a new library is built. Currently, a committee is considering options on whether to expand the library in its current location or build a new building in a new location, the site of the old middle school is under high consideration.

Meyerson added the library board has not approved a plan to create a new time capsule.
